ROHIBITION THE SUPREME QUESTION

e G. O. P. Nominee Would Greatly Improve Enforcement if Elected, Solve Farm Problem, and Satisfy Him With Latin-American Policy.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Re- ning here yesterday after a ntry-wide speaking tour in be- lf of Herbert Hoover, Senator illiam E. Borah told newspaper n that he completely disagreed h Hoover on some of the major es of the campaign, and was porting him for the presidency the reason that he believed pro- ition the paramount issue to be ided by the election.

Smith's Hopes Brighter, British Writers Think

Washington Correspondent of London Times Modifies Former View That Hoover Was Sure to Win.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The election of Herbert Hoover is not so sure. The magnificent reception accorded Gov. Smith in New England may mean "an explosion upward of the common man through the crust of Republican complacency."

This report, made today by the Washington correspondent of the London Times, who has hitherto regarded Republican victory as a certainty, has aroused considerable comment. Volume is added to the changed tune of London opinion by the principal news story of the Daily Mail, which gives Gov. Smith better than a fighting chance.

"There is uneasiness in the Republican camp," writes the London Times observer in Washington, "for the chances of election of Gov. Smith have perceptibly improved in the past two weeks and are still improving.

"Those who accompanied this astonishing man into New England have nothing but prodigies to recount. Those who remained in New York tell of reports from the Western States so encouraging that they hesitate to believe them.

"There are many rumblings, as it were, which may portend an explosion upward of the common man through the crust of Republican complacency.

Denials Too Vehement.

"For the first time, perhaps, the prediction of Mr. Hoover's success must be made with qualification. Mistakes have been made on the Republican side, say the wiseacres. There was too eager denial on the behalf of the story that Mr. Hoover had once danced with a Negress, for it could do him little good with the white folk of the South and may hurt him with the colored voters of the North and Middle West.

"It was foolish to rush into print with the denial of the rumor that Mr. Hoover had once voted in England through the use of the heavy machinery of a National Committee declaration and a State Department letter. They leave the impression that there must have been something in the tale after all.

"Finally, the New York speech with its picture of State Socialism as a sort of refracted bolshevism gave the irrepressible Gov. Smith an opening which he used gleefully and with tremendous effect."

As Daily Mail Sees It.

The Daily Mail features the improvement of Gov. Smith's chances under the heading, "Gov. Smith's fighting chance; Wall Street lowers its odds."

"The Democrats, although facing heavy odds," the Mail dispatch reads, "are fighting strenuously for an eleventh-hour victory. Their hopes have risen upward like rockets after the triumphant welcome in Boston this week to Gov. Al Smith.

"In fact, the Massachusetts enthusiasm for Smith has become the high light of the election, causing even confident Republicans to entertain uneasy feelings of possible defeat. Hitherto all talk has been the other way, in favor of Hoover."

WALGREEN CO. BUYS $54,000 PLANE FOR EXECUTIVES' USE

Craft Will Be Used for Trips to 30 Cities Where Drug Chain Operates.

An all-metal Sikorsky amphibian plane was delivered last week to the Walgreen Drug Co. at Chicago for use by executives of the concern for travel between the 30 cities, including St. Louis, in which there are Walgreen stores.

The plane, which can land on and take off from both land and water, cost $54,000. It is powered with two 410-horsepower Wasp motors and has a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour. The cabin has a capacity of nine passengers and two pilots and the cruising range is 800 miles.

The plane was flown from the Sikorsky plant on Long Island and probably will be seen here shortly.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. John L. Degge of Norfolk will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on election day with Mrs. Degge voting for Gov. Smith, while her husband says he will vote for Herbert Hoover.

Mrs. Degge was born the day James Buchanan was elected President, which she takes as a Democratic omen. The wedding was to have taken place Nov. 4, 1876, the day Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President, but was postponed two days because the bridegroom was a judge of election in Norfolk that day.

WAITRESS KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE HITS POLE

Another Girl Seriously Injured In Crash of Speeding Car at Thirteenth and Tyler Streets

Miss Alice Stone, 20 years old, a waitress, of 2120 Blair avenue, was killed, and Miss Opal Elder, of the same address, was seriously injured last midnight when both were flung from the running board of an automobile as it rounded the turn at Thirteenth and Tyler streets, traveling at high speed, and crashed into a telephone pole.

Miss Elder suffered a fractured skull, a fractured pelvis and a fractured right leg. She was taken to City Hospital. Miss Stone, crushed against the pole, was instantly killed.

The two young women were riding on the running board of a roadster in which theer were four other passengers. They had been to a party and, police said, had been drinking. The machine was traveling north. When the car ran into the pole the driver jumped out and fled. Wilmer White, also of the Blair avenue address and Curt Kimrey, of 2001 North Broadway, passengers in the car, received minor cuts and bruises. Mrs. Sybil Griesing, sister of Miss Stone, and the driver of the car, who is being sought by police, were reported unhurt.

GIVES FILENE 2 TO 1 AGAINST SMITH IN MASSACHUSETTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Putting up $2000 to be given to the Salvation Army in the event that Gov. Smith carries Massachusetts, Edward J. Frost, vice president of the William Filene's Sons Co. today accepted the challenge to Republican supporters issued yesterday by E. A. Filene, head of the company, and went his chief one better.

Filene, one of Gov. Smith's most recent supporters in the Boston business world, yesterday extolled the qualities of the Democratic presidential candidate which caused him to leave the Republican fold, characterized him as "a 1928 Abraham Lincoln," and offered to put up $100 0against a similar sum from any Hoover supporter, the money to be given to the Salvation Army, to back his contention that Massachusetts would go Democratic next month.

VOTE DENIED PRINCETON MEN

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 27.—Princeton students lost their fight for the right to vote at the general election under instructions given out today by the Mercer County Election Board.

Members of the district boards at Princeton, who were summoned into conference with the board, ordered to carry out the State law which requires a year's residence in New Jersey and five months of uninterrupted residence in the county. County board members said the five months' provision bars most of the students from voting.

ZEPPELIN READY FOR START HOME, 'POSSIBLY' TODAY

German Airship Awaits Favorable Weather Which May Delay Flight Day or Two.

PASSENGERS GET WORD TO STAND BY

Dirigible Will Follow the Northern Great Circle Route If Conditions Are Right.

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 27.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin will be ready to begin its return flight to Germany tomorrow, but a combination of favorable circumstances will be necessary for an actual takeoff before Monday or even Tuesday.

Zero hour for the ground crew was set for 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, but that is merely a stand ready order and means that the ship will not leave until then. It may not, on the other hand, leave until a day or more after that.

Once the ship is fully fueled and gassed, it is necessary to a have also local conditions which permit taking the ship out of hte hangar. Cross-hangar winds may delay the departure one day or more, just as those winds delayed and at last caused abandonment of a projected Midwest inland flight.

Passengers were told today to stand by at their homes and hotels tomorrow "on the possibility" that the Zeppelin might leave in the late afternoon.

They were told to limit their baggage to 50 pounds each and to provide themselves with flying coats and other warm clothing.

Unless weather causes a change in plans, the dirigible will follow the Northern great circle route home rather than the longer Southern course taken in coming over to avoid storms.

Three of the United States Navy's lighter-than-air craft experts will be on the Graf Zeppelin when it sails for Germany. They are: Commander Maurice R. Pierce, executive officer of the Lakehurst Naval Air Station; Lieut. Charles Edward Bauch of Dorcester, Mass., a survivor of the Shenandoah disaster, and the oldest lighter-than-air craft man in the Navy in point of service; and Lieut. Thomas G. W. Settle of Washington, one of the board who helped design and draw up plans for the Navy's two new $6,500,000 cubic feet airships. It was announced at the Bureau of Aeronautics at Washington that these men were being sent to observe the performance of the airship on its Eastward flight.

Passengers who have signed for the return trip to Germany include five Americans.

The Graf Zeppelin expects to make another trip to the United States this year, within a month, if possible, officers said. On that trip it may make its promised tour of the Midwest.

Briton Flying From California to Take Passage on Zeppelin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Richard J. Burke of California was speeding across the skies today in the hope of using his $3000 ticket on the dirigible Graf Zeppelin. Burke, son of a California woman and an Irish nobleman, whose wife is a sister of the first wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt, applied to make the trip with more than 50 others, and he was one selected.

Approval of his application was made on Thursday and at that time he was already flying his Ryan monoplane from the West coast to the East. A telegram was sent him informing him of his selection, but it missed him. Vanderbilt, however, saw his name among the list of paying passengers and early this morning reached him in the neighborhood of Flagstaff, Ariz.

Burke, an inventor of aircraft devices and a war-time member of the Royal Flying Corps, received the news with elation, but there was some doubt of his ability to reach Lakehurst in time, should favoring weather permit a takeoff on the Atlantic flight tomorrow. His place was held for him, but a substitute was told to stand ready in case he did not arrive in time. Burke lives at Big Bear Lake, Cal. He is a British subject and has estates both in Ireland and France.

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—The Soviet air officials announce that the government's aerial lines have had no accidents during 1927 and 1928. One Russian company is working on six new lines totaling about 5000 miles. Another organization operates a service extending into Persia and covering 2500 miles.

WOMAN WHO WAS SOLD AS A SLAVE BY BEECHER DIES

Mrs. Rose Ward Hunt Was 'Pinkey', Auctioned in Pulpit in 1860.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Rose Ward Hunt, who as the tiny slave girl known as "Pinkey" was "sold for freedom" in 1860 by Henry Ward Beecher in the pulpit of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, is dead here at the age of 77. Mrs. Hunt will be buried Monday afternoon from St. Luke's Episcopal Church. The former slave girl, whose name was a by-word during the Civil War, passed away after a short illness.

After having shunned publicity for more than a half century, Mrs. Hunt in the spring of 1927 consented to throw aside the secrecy in which she had shielded her identity. This step was taken at the suggestion of Rev. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, who was president of Howard University while she was a student there many years ago.

Dr. Durkee had accepted a call to the Plymouth Church and, looking forward to the eightieth anniversary celebration of that institution, persuaded Mrs. Hunt to permit him to make known her identity as a feature of that service. May 15, 1927, as the guest of Dr. Durkee, the former slave girl occupied a seat on the same rostrum on which she sat on that earlier day when Beecher by his eloquence obtained the money needed to purchase her freedom.

FARGO, Ga., Oct. 27.—A granite shaft weighing more than three tons was unveiled today near the head waters of the Suwanee River as a memorial to Stephen Collins Foster, whose lilting melody "Suwanee River" made the stream famous in song in many sections of the world.

FIGHT ON PROHIBITION 'NO SHAM BATTLE,' SAYS SMITH IN PHILADELPHIA

SENATOR NORRIS URGES ELECTION OF GOV. SMITH ON POWER ISSUE

Praises Democratic Nominee—Assails Hoover for Stand on 'Most Important Question.'

SPEECH AT OMAHA FIRST SINCE SHIFT

Nebraskan Attacks G. O. P. for Failure Under Secretary Mellon to Enforce Prohibition Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 27.—George W. Norris, Republican United States Senator from Nebraska, declared himself for Alfred E. Smith here tonight in his first speech since his recent announcement that he favored the Democratic nominee. He spoke at a meeting under the auspices of the Progressive League for Alfred E. Smith, a non-partisan body of which Frank P. Walsh is chairman.

Senator Norris praised Gov. Smith's stand on water power, farm relief and foreign relations, predicted that he would keep his promise to enforce the Volstead act, and closed with a strong plea against permitting religious prejudice to influence the choice of a candidate.

Between 4000 and 5000 persons, about half of them Republicans, heard the address, in the City Auditorium. The big stage, seating more than 500, was reserved for Republicans, and was filled. Hundreds of farmers from out in the State many from 300 to 400 miles away, were in the audience.

Norris' audience applauded him to such an extent that he finally was forced to ask that no more demonstrations be made, as he wanted to devote every minute of the radio time to his speech. The crowd yelled, "more" when Norris had finished the part of his talk dealing with agriculture, and applauded each mention of Smith's name and each blow at Hoover.

As vigorously as he praised Gov. Smith, Senator Norris assailed Herbert Hoover for his record on water power and his silence in the fact of official corruption, declared that Hoover's proposals for farm relief were ineffective and inadequate, and asserted as to prohibition that "there never has been a fair and honest attempt to enforce it."

Praises View on Farm Bill.

Asserting that Gov. Smith had come out "courageously and frankly" in indorsement of the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, Senator Norris said:

"I want to say to you, particularly to my Republican brethren who have stood for the McNary-Haugen bill, who have advocated its passage all over the country, and who went to Kansas City and demanded to be heard but were turned down, if you still believe what you have been advocating, you haven't a leg to stand on unless you come out in this great contest and support Gov. Smith."

Discussing the oil scandals, Senator Norris condemned the Republican candidate for his praise of the last seven years of Republican administration.

"I cannot forget," he said, "that the men who opposed any investigation, the men who defended Daugherty, the men who defended Fall, who defended Sinclair, who defended Forbes, who defended Miller, are, in the main, the very men who are managing and backing the candidacy of Mr. Hoover.

Assails Silence of Hoover.

"During all the weary grind, when the Committee of the Senate was trying to get the truth about the bribery of public officials, Herbert Hoover sat in the Cabinet of the President. He was in daily touch with the very conspirators who defrauded the Government. I do not charge him with any personal knowledge or in any way participating in the benefits of the crime and debauchery, but, from the beginning to the end he has remained as silent as a sphinx and

CANDIDATE FOR GANG LEADERSHIP IS SLAIN

Italian Hops Merchant Assassinated While Walking With 6-Year-Old Son in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Shotguns today eliminated one of the candidates for the post held by Tony Lombardo, head of the powerful Italian society, Unione Siciliana, who was assassinated on a "loop" corner a few weeks ago.

Peter Rizzuto, 43 years old, merchant in malt, hops and brewery accessories, stepped out of his office, near "Death Corner," in "Little Italy," with his 6-year-old son, and was shot by two men with sawed-off shotguns, who fired from a distance of 10 feet. The assassins threw away their guns and fled. Rizzuto died on the way to a hospital.

Police pieced together fragments of a feud which led to Rizzuto's death, after arresting several of his friends, relatives and business associates.

Lombardo, head of the Italian Society and allied with the Capone gang, was opposed by the powerful North Side Aiello brothers. After Lombardo's assassination, the police said the Aiello brothers groomed Rizzuto, friendly to both factions, for the post.

Aspiration to head the Unione Siciliana has been dangerous for several years, police said. "Samoots" Amatuma, who longed to fill Mike Merlo's shoes after Merlo's death four years ago, was shot to death while sitting in a barber shop. Tony Genna, member of the now extinct Genna gang, was "bumped off" on the street. Lombardo placed himself at the head of the organization, only to meet death in a crowded street. Today Rizzuto, the police declared, was "put on the spot" by one of two opposing factions of the Italian organization.

MRS. NORRIS WON'T FOLLOW HUSBAND INTO SMITH CAMP

Senator's Wife Says She Is Dry; Will Vote for Neither Hoover Nor New Yorker.

By the Associated Press.

McCOOK, Neb., Oct. 27.—Mrs. George W. Norris, wife of Nebraska's senior senator, will not follow her husband into the Smith camp, she said while visiting at her home before going to Omaha to be present at the meeting where the Senator spoke tonight.

"I am not following George in this," Mrs. Norris said. "I am not going to vote for Gov. Smith, even if he does, and I am not going to vote for Hoover either. I have always been a dry. I am dry yet, dry as a powder horn. They haven't convinced me that Hoover are any drier than Smith and I am going to let somebody else decide between them."

MISREPRESENTED BY HOOVER, HE SAYS

Denies He Seeks to Shift Authority for Making Tariff—'Boos' Follow the Mention of Opponents.

THE stenographic report of Gov. Smith's speech in Philadelphia last night, is on page 4.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Living up to advance notices, Philadelphia tonight gave Al Smith a frenzied greeting, both in its streets and later at a huge meeting in the Arena. A throng far greater than the seating capacity of the hall heard the candidate repeat his views on prohibition and the tariff and assail Herbert Hoover for "misrepresentation" of the Democratic tariff position.

Delirious applause—the noisiest of the day—interrupted Smith in his promise, if elected, to "take to the people" the question of prohibition.

Police Arrangements Inadequate.

As at Boston and some of the other cities that Smith has visited, the police arrangements proved utterly inadequate to cope with the thousands that fought to get into the building.

They were just as inadequate on the inside. The crowd swarmed over the press seats and even made it difficult for Smith's personal party to find places on the platform. As if the candidate needed constant protection from his admirers, half a dozen policemen stood near him as he spoke.

Thuggish and ignorant police cloesd the door in the face of half a dozen members of Smith's party, though they were armed with every conceivable kind of credentials. Mounted police rode recklessly on the sidewalks outside the building, forcing the crowds to the walls. The whole spectacle was one of utter police incompetence and brutality.

The delirium in the streets was similar to that at Boston, though the crowds were more scattered because of the longer distance of the parade through the city.

At the hall itself the tumult reached the Boston standard. The place was filled to the utmost limit long before the candidate arrived. All the references to him by the preliminary speakers were madly cheered. When Smith appeared on the platform at about a quarter to eight, the throng let out a roar of welcome.

17-Minute Demonstration.

Thousands of American flags were waved. Feet beat upon the floors in a rhythmical stamping. "The Sidewalks of New York was sung. Then more cheers and more stamping. Bedlam is a mild word for it. The noise lasted till quelled by Smith at the end of 17 minutes.

When the chairman, in introducing Smith, referred to Philadelphia as a "Republican City," the crowd cut into his sentence with a great chorus of "boos."

There were cries of "atta boy, Al," and "go after 'em, Al," as Smith got under way. The interruptions became so noisy that Smith asked the "gallery orators" to wait till he had finished. They were not contributing anything, he told them, to the success of the meeting. The reprimand held the enthusiasts in check for only a few minutes.

Smith bore down hard on his prohibition and tariff proposals, both of which have special interest for the voters of this State.

He attacked vigorously the

BORAH SLATED TO TAKE PLACE OF KELLOGG IF HOOVER WINS

Speculation Begins on Makeup of Cabinet—Mellon, New and Jardine Expected to Stay.

WILBUR SCHEDULED FOR U. S. JUDGESHIP

Dwight F. Davis May Go to Berlin — Pershing and MacNider Mentioned as Possible Successors.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct 24.—Speculation is already concerning itself with the probable makeup of Herbert Hoover's cabinet if he is elected President. All that is being said is of course pure speculation, for Hoover has given no public indication of what he intends to do in the case of any of the 10 Cabinet officers.

Chief interest attaches to the State Department, it is generally assumed that Secretary Kellogg, by his own desire as well as that of the incoming President, will be superseded. Kellogg's health is none too good, and there is reason to believe that he would have retired some months ago if he could have done so without appearing to retreat before the storm of criticism aroused by his Latin-American policies. Since then, he has negotiated the outlawry-of-war treaty, and unless this is upset by the Senate, he will be able to step down next March with a much praised achievement to his credit.

Borah Slated for Cabinet.

It is being widely said in Washington that Senator Borah, who has become the ace among Republican campaigners, is slated to be Kellogg's successor. The suggestion is the most interesting yet advanced by the unofficial cabinet makers. There may be something in it. Borah has always displayed a keen interest in overseas affairs, and he is now the head of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate. He might welcome the opportunity that the Secretaryship would give him to promote one of his favorite projects—the recognition of Russia.

From Borah's career, it is equally reasonable to infer that he would rather remain a free agent. He has been accustomed to "riding alone." He has harnessed himself, it is true, to the Hoover campaign chariot, but that he would go further and harness himself to an administration is difficult to believe. Borah has shown himself, however, such an unpredictable person that the possibility of his being offered and accepting the State portfolio cannot be wholly dismissed. Certain it is that he is now engaged in putting Hoover very deeply in his political debt.

Another who is frequently mentioned as a likely Hoover appointment to the Secretaryship of State is Dwight Morrow, who has proved his diplomatic ability as Ambassador to Mexico. The idea of Morrow as the director of our foreign relations squares neatly with Hoover's trade-expansion policies. Alanson B. Houghton of New York, Ambassador to Great Britain, is spoken of as a possibility, on the assumption that he will be beaten in his race for the United States Senate.

Three Scheduled to Stay.

One of the theories of the wiseacres is that three members of the Coolidge Cabinet are due to be retained, at least for a time—Secretaries Mellon of the Treasury Department, Wilbur of the Navy and New of the Postoffice. If this prediction is fulfilled, the appointment in each instance can be explained to disappointed aspirants, if any explanation need to be given, on the ground that the incumbent is kept in office in order to allow him to carry on an unfinished important job. Mellon has the matter of public debt retirement on hand, and in addition the settlement of the French debt to the United States. Wilbur is working on a naval expansion program and New on the development of air mail routes.

Mellon likes the sunshine of high political office, and it is altogether probable that he will be kept in the administration in some capacity if the Hoover ticket wins. One rumor has it that he will be made Ambassador to Great Britain. The notion back of this is that Hoover would be glad to have Mellon in London to deal with the financial problems that bulk so large in modern diplomacy.

Wilbur, it is believed, would be kept by Hoover until an acceptable Federal Judgeship could be found for him. He was the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of California when appointed to the Cabinet. His retention at the head of the Navy would enable Hoover to recognize California in his appointments without having to choose between rival Republican factions in his adopted State.

Wilbur is the brother of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, the President of Stanford University, who is a warm friend and supporter of Hoover. the most distinguished alumnus of the university Dr. Wilbur himself is thought to be on Hoover's list for eventual political recognition of some sort.

The Postmaster Generalship is the office commonly reserved for the chairman of the winning National Committee or some other high political strategist. In the case of Dr. Work, however, it is not likely that this precept would hold good. Work has already been Postmaster-General, as well as Secretary of the Interior, the post from which he retired last July to direct the Hoover campaign. It is believed that he will be content to carry on in his present job. Even if he should receive some other political plum, it would probably not be a Cabinet post, for he made himself extremely vulnerable by his action last February, while head of the Interior Department, in renewing Harry Sinclair's Salt Creek oil contract. Work would be a distinct Cabinet liability.

The case of Dwight Davis of St. Louis has aroused considerable gossip. In the absence of any compelling reason why he should be retained as Secretary of War, the prevailing belief is that Hoover, if elected, will move him to some other post. That Hoover thinks well of the St. Louisan is indicated by the fact that he indorsed him in 1923 for appointment as Assistant Secretary of War, the position from which President Coolidge, after keeping him a long time on the anxious seat, promoted him to the Secretaryship after the death of John W. Weeks.

Davis May Go to Berlin.

The impression around Republican headquarters is that Davis will be given a diplomatic post. There has been some mention of his name in connection with Berlin, the idea being that a vacancy may be created there even before March 4 by the shifting of Ambassador Schurman to London in the event that Ambassador Houghton is elected Senator.

Gossip has not picked anybody as having the inside track for appointment as Secretary of War, but among those regarded as possibilities are Gen. Pershing and Hanford MacNidor of Iowa, former assistant Secretary of War and former commander of the American Legion.

As to the Treasury, if Mellon goes out, the man most frequently mentioned for the post is the present Undersecretary, Ogden Mills of New York. Mills was one of the earliest of the Hoover supporters and is now taking an active part in his campaign.

Col. William J. Donovan of New York, assistant to the Attorney-General, figures in all cabinet speculation as a likely appointee to take the place of his present chief. Donovan is a Catholic, has a fine war record, and was among the first boomers of Hoover for the presidential nomination.

West Likely to Lose Out.

The most that can be said of the Interior portfolio at this time is that it is virtually certain not to go to the incumbent, Roy O. West, whom President Coolidge named to succeed Work. The chances are, indeed, that the present recess appointment of West will not be confirmed by the Senate. West's Insull connections are against him.

With regard to the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor, one guess at this time is as good as another. Secretary Jardine is in tune with Hoover's views on farm relief, and may be retained. There is some talk about Dante Pierce, prominent Iowa farm paper publisher, who has gone to bat vigorously for Hoover.

Secretary Whiting, who was complimented with the title of Secretary of Commerce as Hoover's successor, is a purely personal choice on the part of President Coolidge and will doubtless be supplanted. Among the possibilities for the job are Dr. Julius Klein, now the director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee, formerly Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who was one of the most active of the Hoover boosters in the preconvention campaign.

Secretary Davis of the Department of Labor will be able, after March 4, it is generally understood, to give his whole time to the Loyal Order of Moose, of which he is the director-general. Hoover is said to want a "positive" man at the head of the Labor Department, one who will closely co-ordinate its work with that of the Department of Commerce.

Many Aspire to Posts.

One thing is certain—there will be no lack of aspirants to Cabinet and other high positions in the ranks of those who have hitched their wagons to the Hoover star. Bascom Slemp of Virginia, former Congressman and former secretary to President Coolidge, who lent his expert hand to the rounding up of Southern delegates for Hoover; Irvine Lenroot, the former Wisconsin Senator who was his counsel in the delegate contests at Kansas City; James W. Good of Iowa and Chicago, his pre-convention manager; Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt; former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, director of Hoover publicity before and after the nomination—these are among the many who may feel they are entitled to reward for political services.

Mr. Hoover often uses the word "grief" as synonymous with any form of mental disturbance. There is plenty of "grief" ahead of him if and when he is called upon to pass around the offices at a President's disposal.

There is "grief" in store, too, for a lot of the aspirants, and probably more of it than is common on occasions of this kind. For some of Hoover's appointments, it is generally agreed, would bring entirely new names into the political picture. The only thing that could occasion genuine surprise in Washington would be for Hoover to spring no surprises.

30 REBELS REPORTED KILLED IN SERIES OF FIGHTS IN MEXICO

Four-Hour Battle Between Federals and Insurgents Near Leon Described by Reporter.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—More than 30 rebels are reported to have been kiled in a series of engagements with the Federals in the last few days.

La Prensa's correspondent at Leon, State of Guanajuato, describes a four-hour battle between 300 rebels and a force of Federals near that place, in which the rebel chief, Cecilio Cervantes, and 13 other rebels and one Federal were killed.

A Guadalajara dispatch to La Prensa says that two alleged rebels, one of them a priest, were captured and executed at San Cayetano. Two rebels were also captured and executed at Hostotlan; three were killed at Jitotlan de los Delores, and four other rebels in an engagemnt at La Cal.

A dispatch to Excelsior from Aguas Callentes says that a band of rebels, which Sept. 18 attacked a passenger train proceeding from Ciudad Juarez to Mexico City, was caught near the scene of the train attack by Federals, who killed several of them and hanged their bodies to telegraph posts along the railroad. Other killings are reported from various places.

HOOVER SAYS HE'LL CALL CONGRESS FOR FARM RELIEF

G. O. P. Nominee Hopes Situation Will Be Remedied at December Session, If He Is Elected, However.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Herbert Hoover will call an extra session of Congress, if necessary, to deal with agricultural relief legislation in the event the Republican party retains control of the government.

The presidential candidate in a formal statement today said that agricultural aid was the most urgent economic problem before the country and that its solution should not be delayed for a whole year. This delay would be inevitable, he thinks, if such legislation should not be enacted at the coming session and the new Congress did not meet until a year from next December.

"The question of a special session of Congress after March 4, in event of the return of the Republican party, has been under discussion for some time," Hoover's statement said. "There are a number of questions, particularly agricultural relief, which urgently require solution and should not be delayed for a whole year. It is our most urgent economic problem.

"I should hope it can be dealt with at the regular session this fall, and thus a special session be avoided. If, however, that cannot be accomplished, I would, if elected, not allow the matter to drift and would of necessity call an extra session so as to secure early constructive acton."

Hoover's statement followed one by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, issued after a luncheon conference with the nominee yesterday, in which the Senator declared strongly in favor of an extra session if Congress at the coming session did not satisfactorily conclude relief legislation.

Both outlined a three-fold program which coincides with that laid down by Hoover in his acceptance speech on Aug. 11. Its elements are tariff increases on farm products, legislation for better marketing facilities and the creation of a farm board with Federal financial aid and authority to handle the surplus crops.

Both Hoover and Borah desire to have this relief program in operation so that it will apply to the marketing of the 1929 crops. While they are hopeful that the present Congress can act at the coming session of three months' duration, there is doubt that a whole program could be completed since Congress will be faced with the necessity of enacting all of the appropriation bills for the next fiscal year, a rather large task in itself.

The declaration in favor of an extra session was the second statement the nominee has issued on the subject in the last week. His first came in response to Gov. Adam McMullen of Nebraska who said yesterday that he had discussed the matter of an extra session with Hoover and predicted that one would be called if he were elected. The candidate's reply in his statement was that while the question had been considered no decision had been reached.

Curtis Willing to Help Get Congress to Act at Winter Session.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Agreeing with Herbert Hoover on the urgency of farm relief legislation, Senator Curtis, vice presidential nominee, said today that as Republcan leader of the Senate, he was willing to put through some farm legislation at the short session. He made no prediction, however, on the prospects for such action then, nor did he comment on the proposal of his running mate to call an extra session if necessary to deal with the farm problem.

Senator Curtis, supported the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill but voted to uphold President Coolidge's veto of it. He was silent on the form of a new farm relief measure.

BOMB EXPLODES IN GARAGE AT HOME OF CHICAGO JUDGE

Frame Building Wrecked But Apartment Where Candidate Resides Not Damaged.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Dynamite was exploded tonight in a garage at the rear of the apartment building where Judge William J. Lindsay, Democratic candidate for State's Attorney of Cook County, resides.

The explosive wrecked the frame garage, and shook the neighborhood. It did not damage the apartment building, however.

Judge Lindsay and his family for the last few weeks have been living in a hotel, and were not in their apartment when the explosion occurred. Lindsay is opposing Judge John A. Swanson, Republican, whose home was bombed two weeks before the April primaries.

A nonunion painter recently had been employed by the owner of the building and garage and, police declared, union officers had protested. A tenant of the building, police also learned, recently had been sued for rent.

Borah Tells Where He Differs With Smith and Hoove

power to, and the government and the consumers would still be at the mercy of the power trust. I don't believe it would work out his way.

Press—Then your complaint against Smith's program is that it does not go far enough?

Senator Borah—That's right.

Thinks Hoover Mistaken.

Press—But your candidate, Mr. Hoover, declares that it goes too far and brands it as "state socialism."

Senator Borah — Well, Mr. Hoover is mistaken, in my opinion and if water power were the only issue in this campaign I couldn't support either Hoover or Smith.

Press—But isn't Gov. Smith's position a great deal closer to your own than Hoover's?

Senator Borah—Yes, but I am not sure that the partial government operation which Smith advocates would not be worse than none at all.

At this point the Senator interjected the statement that Hoover had declared for Government operation of the projected plant at Boulder Dam, so that in this instance Hoover and Smith stood together. The reporters were unable to recall such a declaration by Hoover, and Borah, on second thought, said that Senator Hiram Johnson of California had told him that Hoover favored Government operation at Boulder Dam.

Press—What do you understand is Mr. Hoover's position toward the operation of Muscle Shoals?

Recalls a Prediction.

Senator Borah—I don't know what his position is. Furthermore, it doesn't matter. I am supporting him because of his stand on prohibition, which I regard as the most important issue in this campaign. I said two years ago that prohibition would be in this campaign, and everybody, including all the newspapers, laughed at me. Well, it's in the campaign.

Press—The Post-Dispatch said it would be in the campaign, Senator.

Senator Borah—Well, the Post-Dispatch was talking from the other side of the fence, but it was right on that point.

Press—You are for prohibition in its present form?

Senator Borah—I'm for the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead Act in their present form, but I'm not for the present condition of enforcement.

Press—Do you believe there would be better enforcement under Hoover?

Senator Borah—I'm sure of it.

Press—Since enforcement for the last eight years has been under Secretary Mellon, and since Secretary Mellon appears certain to remain in the Cabinet if Hoover is elected, what reason have you to believe that he would enforce the prohibition laws any differently during the next four years than he has during the last eight?

"Drastic Change" in Enforcement.

Senator Borah—Don't ask me what reason I have for believing it—you can take my word for it that there will be a drastic change. I know what I'm talking about.

Press—Have you discussed that question with Mr. Hoover?

Senator Borah—I certainly have.

Press—You believe the law can be effectively enforced?

Senator Borah—I haven't the slightest doubt about it.

Press—And you think it would be effectively enforced under Hoover.

Senator Borah—I know it would. You can take my word for that.

Press—Are you in favor of spending any more money on enforcement?

Senator Borah—It would be necessary. What is chiefly needed is a change in the enforcement organization, and the co-operation of the States—particularly of the State of New York.

Press—But how do you expect to obtain the co-operation of New York or any other large State as long as the overwhelming weight of public sentiment in those States is against prohhibition?

Senator Borah—I think the end can be accomplished through changes in the Federal enforcement organization.

Explains Support of Hoover.

Press—Senator, after Mr. Hoover's New York speech, in which he repudiated almost every principle for which you and the other Progressive Senators have been fighting for the last 10 years, how do you continue to reconcile your support of him, especially after Senator Norris has come out for Gov. Smith?

Senator Borah—You don't seem to realize that I regard one issue as being of paramount importance in this campaign. I started out two years ago to make prohibition the main issue. I went to Kansas City to fight for a satisfactory plank in the Republican platform—and I got it. After all I have done, how could I possibly consider any other question of equal importance?

Press—Some of us who have seen you battling against this administration's Latin-American policy, in Nicaragua and elsewhere, for the last three years, thought that you might consider that question as important as any. You certainly have devoted more time and energy to it in the Senate than to any other question. Have you not?

Senator Borah—And I am not losing sight of its importance now, either.

Latin-American Policy.

Press—Have you any reason to believe that Mr. Hoover's attitude on that subject will be satisfactory to you, if he is elected?

Senator Borah—I have—and very good reason.

Press—Despite the fact that, in his speech of acceptance, he gave his complete indorsement to policies which you have consistently opposed?

Senator Borah—You gentlemen ought to realize that I have discussed these matters with Mr. Hoover more than once. I discussed some of them with him long before the convention, including this one.

Press—And you have an understanding on what his Latin-American policy will be if he is elected?

Senator Borah—I do not say that I have an agreement with him, but I say that I have a very thorough understanding of what his policy will be, and I am confident it will be entirely satisfactory to me.

Press—Why doesn't he state his attitude publicly, so that the public can share your confidence in his intentions?

Senator Borah—You will have to ask Mr. Hoover that question.

Quizzed as to Lockwood.

When Senator Wheeler of Montana was indicted in 1924, a committee of the Senate, headed by Borah, was named to investigate. The committee learned that the indictment had resulted from the activities of Blair Coan, who had been sent to Montana by George B. Lockwood, Secretary of the Republican National Committee to "get something on" Senators Wheeler and Walsh, in reprisal for their activity in investigating the oil leases and the Department of Justice under Attorney General Harry Daugherty.

Press—Did you know that George Lockwood has just been made Assistant Director of Publicity of the National Committee?

Senator Borah—I hadn't heard of that.

Press—In view of your knowledge of his part in the Wheeler case do you approve of the appointment?

Senator Borah—They have a lot of people around there that I don't approve of, and they do a lot of things I don't approve of. I have no connection with those people; I have nothing to do with the committee and it has nothing to do with me.

Press—Who pays for the special car in which you are touring the country?

"Taking Orders From Nobody."

Senator Borah—The committee does, I suppose. I can't very well pay my own expenses. But it doesn't give me any instructions. I want to repeat again, that I am making this campaign in my own way. I'm taking orders from nobody. I haven't compromised on any stand that I ever took in the Senate. I am taking the same stand on all the issues that I have always taken. I challenge anyone to point to one inconsistency or compromise.

Press—But, Senator, you aren't campaigning for the election of the issues; you are campaigning for the election of Mr. Hoover—how do you hope to succeed with those issues by electing a man who is opposed to you on most of them?

Senator Borah—He is not opposed to me on the question which I regard as the controlling this campaign—prohibition.

No Apologies for Atta

The Senator's attention called to the speech made in the Senate in 1919, charging that Hoov permitted the meat pa make "extortionate and onable profits," under the ministration, and charging over, that Hoover's plan lieving Europe was a sche cocted by himself and the to relieve packers of their stocks, thus enabling th maintain high prices in this try.

Senator Borah—If you that speech carefully, you that I did not question Mr. er's personal honesty or in the slightest degree.

Press (quoting from the No, you said he was honest, but that "his viewp such that he permits these to, in effect, fix their own and arrange their own affairs such an extent that it is a an individual dealing with

Senator Borah: Exactly. I his viewpoint was such that lowed these people to make which I considered extortion

Press: And you added that man with such a viewpoint be entrusted with the expen of $100,000,000 which he was ing for European relief.

Senator Borah: I said that, I have no apologies to make

Press: Further on in the charging that Hoover had his subordinates from among ing company officials, and they used their official powers to independent packing comp you said: "No man who has perverted views of decency to be entrusted with unli power to deal with $100,000, The context is not entirely and Gov. Smith, in his speech Chicago, asked you to whom referred when you made that ment?

Senator Borah: I suppose I ferred to Hoover—he was the who was asking for the power handle the money.

"Men's Opinions Change."

Press: Do you think his point has changed sufficiently 1919 to warrant you in entrust the office of President to him

Senator Borah: Well, let's frank. How many men can to have the test of absolute sistency applied to their words a period of nine years? Men newspapers who were prai Hoover in 1919 are attacking now, and many of those who attacking him in 1919 are sup

HOOVER'S STATEMENT OF HIS POSITION AS TO MUSCLE SHOALS

THE following written statement was given out by Mr. Hoover on Oct. 9:

"Some discussion has arisen in connection with Muscle Shoals.

"I stated at Elizabethton that I did not favor any 'general extension of the Federal Government into the operation of business in competition with its citizens.'

"I further stated that 'there are local instances where the Government must enter the business field as a byproduct of some great major purpose, such as improvement in navigation, flood control, scientific research or national defense, but they do not vitiate the general policy to which we should adhere.'

"A news item from Knoxville specifically states: 'Asked concerning the reference in his speech as to the desirability of Government ownership in certain instances, Mr. Hoover said: 'You may say that means Muscle Shoals.'

"In this statement I was correctly quoted.

"There is no question of Government ownership about Muscle Shoals as the Government already owns both the power and the nitrate plants. The major purposes which were advanced for its construction were navigation, scientific research and national defense. The Republican administration has recommended that it be dedicated to agriculture for research purposes and development of fertilizers in addition to its national defense reserve. After these purposes are satisfied there is a by-product of superfluous power. That by-product should be disposed of on such terms and conditions as will safeguard and protect all public interest.

RISONERS FLED IN UTO, SHERIFF THINKS

ger Gangster Was Held for Price Murders, Companion Awaited New Trial for Holdup Killing.

No trace has been found of reddie Wooten and Mike Kurant, escaped from the Madisen unty Jail at Edwardsville early terday by sawing steel bars.

Wooten, an ex-convict, member the late Charlie Birger's gang, awaiting trial for the murder State Highway Patrolman Lory ice and Mrs. Price and for the 1924 robbery of the Bond County State Bank at Pocahontas, Ill.

Kurant, a coal miner, had been ntenced to death on his plea of ilty of the murder of Paul ide of Alton, in a holdup, but Thursday the Illinois Supreme urt granted him a new trial on ground he had not been informed of his constitutional rights had pleaded guilty under a apprehension.

The escape was discovered at 5 clock. The prisoners had sawed one of the steel bars which extended from the floor to the ceiling tside their section of cells. Then ey had [illegible] back adjoining bars, ng the broken bar as a lever, had squeezed through the ning thus made. This permitted m to reach a window where they ed one bar, bent back two ers, squeezed through and pped five feet to the ground side the jail.

Sheriff Hermann thinks an accomplice was waiting in an automobile to take them away. They e dressed in overalls, blue shirts slippers. The jail faces the rthouse square in the business rict of Edwardsville.

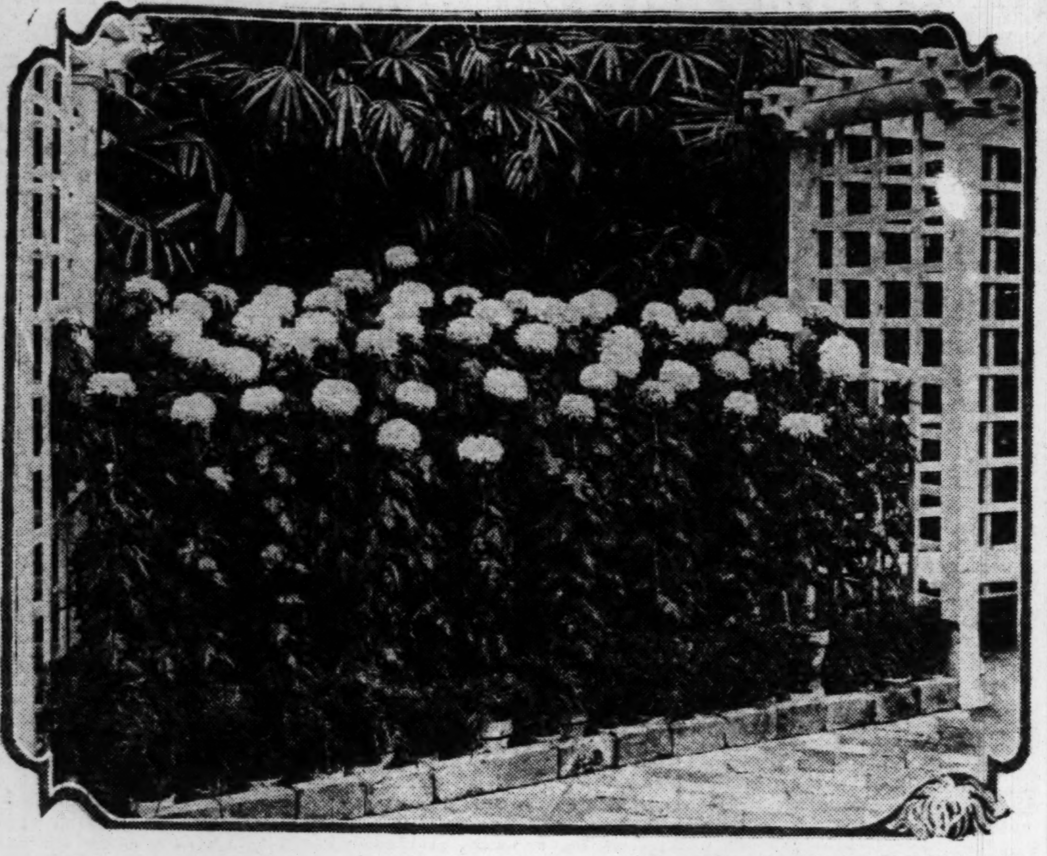
Gorgeous 'Mums at the Botanical Gardens



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

A BANK of tall single chrysanthemums, white and delicate pink, in the annual display opening at Shaw's Gardens today. Many other beautiful varieties are in bloom in the Floral House.

Chrysanthemum Exhibit At Shaw's Garden Opens

First Section, on Display Today, Includes Hundreds of Early Fall Blooms in Floral House.

The annual Chrysanthemum Show, which in the last 24 years has attracted as many as 2,950 visitors an hour to Shaw's Garden, opens today in the Floral Display House as the most ambitious the garden has undertaken.

Every year, with thousands of rare and handsome "mums" flourishing in the garden's greenhouses, the show has grown. This year it is so large that it has been divided into three sections, of which the first, opening day, comprises hundreds of early chrysanthemums. The second will be an exhibition by the commercial growers and dealers, Nov. 9 to 11. This will be the first time for florists to exhibit chrysanthemums at Shaw's Garden, and they will support them with all the season's flowers.

High Point of Exhibit.

The high point of the show will come Nov. 13, when late "mums" will be displayed by the thousands in their native Oriental setting. Paul A. Kohl, floriculturist of the garden, has been at work on the design for this show for weeks, and it is hinted that it will be something not previously approached in St. Louis. This display will remain until at least the end of November.

A novel and artistic touch for the exhibition opening today is provided by tiny "lawns" of delicately green grass, planted only two weeks ago in the garden hothouses. About each lawn is a tasteful "hedge" of green potted plants, setting off superb bush chrysanthemums, each bearing a score or more of blossoms, at the corners.

Among the "lawns" and skirting the pool below the entrance balcony are beds of the bush varieties, profuse of blossoms in every color but blue. There are the white, purple, Butler's and a half dozen other kinds of Caprice, the feathery white Doty, the "Kitty Riches," the pastel pink with a yellow center very like the cosmos, and dozens of others. Unobtrusive among the foliage but easy to read are placards from which the visitor may learn at a glance the names of those varieties he admires.

"Single" Varieties Are "Kings."

Daintiness and softness of shade distinguish these small bush chrysanthemums. Towering over them, literally and figuratively, the lordly "single" varieties stand along the sides, proclaiming themselves the "kings of flowers," with a dazzling snowdrift of white, a splash of scarlet, a sunburst of gold.

Not all the colors of these great flowers—inches across and on stems sometimes six feet tall—are so assertive, nor are the less flamboyant any the less impressive, possibly the most striking effect of the show is a bank of creamy, soft pink, almost mauve, Lady Hopetown and waxen white Coconto against the heavy green foliage at the north end of the display.

These catch the eye even before the superb yellow marigold and Nagirroc, or, possibly the most outstanding individuals among the flowers, the "Mrs. Lloyd George" and the woodmason, with tousled petals showing scarlet and bronze together.

VARE IN WHEEL CHAIR REGISTERS IN PHILADELPHIA

Leaves Summer Home First Time Since He Was Stricken With Paralysis.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican organization leader, drove from his summer home in Atlantic City, N. J., today to register for the November election. It was the first time he had left his home since he was stricken with paralysis in August.

Vare was accompanied by his wife and his physician and upon arriving at City Hall, where the registration commission sat today for the last time before the election, he was placed in a wheel chair and taken to the registration offices.

"You newspaper men," he called, "just say that I enjoyed the automobile ride from Atlantic City and am going back the same way. As for politics, I am heartily in accord with the Philadelphia speech of Senator Moses. I am confident Hoover and Curtis will be elected by an overwhelmig majority. The country knows it needs Hoover in the White House as the successor to Coolidge and I feely it will send him there triumphantly."

Vare said he would drive to Philadelphia on election day to vote.

HUGHES AND LINDBERGH RECEIVE ROOSEVELT MEDAL

Dr. F. M. Chapman, Ornithologist, Also Gets Same Award for Distinguished Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Charles Evans Hughes and Dr. Frank M. Chapman, ornithologist, tonight received the Roosevelt medal offered annually for distinguished service in American public life. A third medal awarded Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was received by Col. Henry Breckinridge as the flyer's representative.

James A. Garfield, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, made the presentations in the brown stone house in Twentieth street where Theodore Roosevelt was born 70 years ago. The ceremony followed a city-wide celebration of the late President's birthday and of Navy day.

Before the presentation, which followed a dinner of the association in Roosevelt House, Herman Hagedorn, director of the association, read a citation for each candidate.

Hughes was described as "a public investigator, clear-minded and relentless; a Governor upright and brave; a brilliant judge and a statesman who has won the admiration of the world."

Col. Lindbergh was cited as "an emissary of good will on whose presence the fears and hatreds of men withdraw abashed, confronting the spirit of youth itself."

Dr. Chapman's citation said he was "a writer and lecturer of persuasive charm who has taught a nation to know the mysterious familiars of its daily life."

FORMER MISSIONARY CHARGED WITH CAUSING GIRL'S DEATH

Warrant Accuses Physician of Performing Illegal Operation on Telephone Operator.

By the Associated Press.

KINSLEY, Kan., Oct. 27.—Dr. D. C. Munford, physician of Belpre, Kan., and former missionary worker in China, today was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Imogene Ratliff, telephone operator, whose body was found in a creek near Larned, Kan., Tuesday.

The complaint was sworn to by the girl's father, R. H. Ratliff of Larned. Munford was brought here and his bail set at $10,000. The warrant charged the physician with performing an illegal operation on the young woman.

Munford, who occasionally has filled the pulpit in the Methodist church at Belpre, denied the charge. Testimony was given at a coroner's inquest at Larned indicating Miss Ratliff died on the operating table in Dr. Munford's office in Belpre and that her body later was thrown into the creek.

In many products, absolute uniformity is one point of merit—but not in men's clothing. If men did not care for individuality in their clothes we might as well all wear overalls and jumpers and save a lot of money. And the only way to achieve this individuality is to have clothes made to individual measure, from personally selected fabrics in style to fit the ideas, as well as the body, of the wearer.

When made-to-measure is made in volume, the price is no more, and frequently is less than that asked for ready-to-wear.

We invite you to test this out with a suit of PARNELL WOOLENS at $65.

BOSTON POLICEMAN STOPS ANTI-NAVY DAY PARADE

Twenty College Students With Placards, Barred From Common, Disperse.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Orders from a district police Captain and action by a solitary officer today abruptly halted what was announced to be an anti-Navy day parade of 20 Harvard, Wellesley and Radcliffe student members of the Fellowship of Youth for Peace on the Tremont street mall of Boston Common today.

While hundreds of shoppers looked on curiously, the paraders started down the Mall, bearing placards such as "War is Hell (Sherman) Why Go There?" "Nix on the Navy in Nicaragua." "Why Navy Day?" "No Army, No Navy, No War." "Sink the Navy Bill." "Peace pays, war doesn't."

Police Captain Goodwin met the paraders and warned them of a city ordinance prohibiting the display of placards on the common, whereupon the paraders moved across Tremont street. Later they recrossed the street and endeavored to pursuade Patrolman Nelson that the mall was a sidewalk and not part of the Common. Nelson disagreed so emphatically that the parade dispersed.

KILLED BY GANG AND BODY DUMPED IN FRENCH VILLAGE

This Is Police Theory of Murder of Sam Abchal, 21, Who Has Record of 74 Arrests in St. Louis.

A gang affair, is the police theory of the murder of Sam Abchal, 21 years old, who had a record of 74 arrests in St. Louis. His body with a bullet in the head, was found beside a road in French Village, East St. Louis, at 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

When found the body was still warm. The wound was powderburned. Apparently death had occurred only a short time before from a shot fired at close range.

Police think also that Abchal was slain elsewhere and his body dumped in French Village, as it is customary for gangsters when they kill to haul their vicim off remote places to divert suspicion from themselves and their associates.

Although not known to be affiliated with any organized gang, Abchal was watched by police as a highwayman, a circumstance which accounted for the numerous arrests. In March, 1926, he was identified by Frank Norris, 303 North Third street, as one of several men who held up and robbed his place of business, but there is no police record of what was done with the case.

On May 13 his left great toe was amputated at City Hospital because of a gunshot wound, which Abchal said was accidentally inflicted while cleaning a pistol. This aided in his identification at 2 p. m. yesterday by Lieut. Carroll of the St. Louis Police Department.

Abchal lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Awaad Abchal, Syrians, at 1212A Morrison avenue. His mother said he was a tailor by trade and that she saw him last at 4 p. m. Friday at home when he carried some coal in for her.

Keys of a Chrysler automobile were found in his pocket. His mother said he owned a Chrysler, but did not keep it at home. Also in his pocket was a pari mutuel ticket on a dog in the last race at Madison Kennel Club greyhound races Friday night, indicating he had been at the track, which is only a few miles from French Village.

It is supposed Abchal's body was dumped in French Village after 6:30 a. m., as Caspar Sickman of French Village, passed the spot at that time and did not see it. An hour later Mrs. Arthur Holman of Caseyville and Bunkum roads, returning from driving her husband to work, sow the body and notifiel police.

RED CROSS LAST YEAR SPENT $16,544,258 FOR RELIEF

Most of This Used in Continuing Work in Flooded Regions; 66 Major Disasters.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — The American Red Cross reported today that it had spent a total of $16,544,258 in relief work in 66 major disasters in the fiscal year ending last June 30.

The greater part of this sum was spent in continuing relief work in the Mississippi Valley and in New England, following the 1927 floods. The West Indies hurricane disaster, which occurred in September of this year, was not included in the report.

No public appeal for relief funds was made by the Red Cross during the year for any of the disasters covered, and aside from the expenditure of the balance of the Mississippi Valley fund and $742,173 given by the public for New England relief, all was paid out of resources of the organization.

The fund asked for West Indies and Florida relief was oversubscribed, John Bartone Payne, National chairman said, and now totals over $5,458,000. Red Cross relief workers estimated that they were giving assistance to 11,500 families in Florida alone as a result of the hurricane. James L. Fieser, acting chairman, said the emergency stage had been passed in Porto Rico, and Henry L. Baker, national disaster relief director and several others of the Red Cross personnel in the Islands, had sailed for home.

Wreaths sent by scouts from all parts of the country were laid on the grave by Daniel Carter Beard, famous woodsman and friend of Roosevelt, and a selected group of Eagle Scouts.

TWO HOLDUP MURDERS ADMITTED BY STUDENT

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 27.—A pair of blood-stained trousers in a dry cleaning establishment furnished the clew on which two Oglethorpe University students, both with prominent local connections, were arrested today, charged with a long series of holdups, and the killing of two men for "a thrill."

George Harsh, 19-year-old sophomore, was taken into custody on the university campus this afternoon and shortly afterward, police said, confessed the holdups and killings and implicated James R. (Dick) Galogly, 18, of Atlanta, a freshman, who was arrested at Athens, Ga., where he was watching the Georgia-Tulane football game.

The series of holdups, during which E. H. Meek, a grocery clerk, and Willard Smith, a druggist, were killed, and L. V. Ellis, manager of a chain store, was wounded, began early this month, shortly after Roy Dickerson, notorious Alabama convict, escaped from Kilby prison at Montgomery. For a time police attributed the crimes to him and one of his companions.

Harsh, according to A. Lamar Poole, acting chief of police, said that in each instance he committed the holdups while Galogly remained outside in an automobile to cover his retreat. Harsh, shaken under questioning, detailed to officers how he and Galogly made almost night excursions to rob neighborhood groceries and drug stores "for a thrill."

TWO CHILDREN ON HALLOWEEN PARTY KILLED BY AUTO

Their Sunday School Teacher Says They Were Off Highway When Struck.

By the Associated Press.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—Two girls clad in gay costumes were injured fatally and another was hurt slightly when an automobile ran into a group of merrymakers returning from a Sunday school class Halloween party near here last night. According to the Sunday school teacher, the party was walking along the highway from a point outside the city. Harry Gray of Johnstown, was arrested as the driver of the automobile.

TEXT OF GOV. SMITH'S SPEECH DELIVERED AT PHILADELPHI

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—The stenographic report of Gov. Smith's speech in the Philadelphia Arena tonight follows:

"Mr. Chairman—interruption—now, Gentlemen, the gallery oratory can come down here after I get finished. (Laughter.) We are here on serious business. (Applause.)

"The chairman said something about Republican Philadelphia. (Boos.) I was unable to distinguish it (applause), and as I came through the streets and highways of the City of Brotherly Love there was an exhibition of it for me that I shall never forget. (Applause.) "The Sidewalks of New York" sounds very natural in Philadelphia, because we are all the same kind of people in this country, no matter where we live. (Applause.) We are all battling for the common cause, and "The Sidewalks of New York" is all right. (Applause.)

"We will begin tonight by disposing of some of the false and misleading statements that have been made in the course of the campaign so far, that are calculated, to my way of thinking, of not only beclouding the issues but attempting to mislead the American people.

Dry Issue Vital to Americans.

"No. 1.—Former Gov. Hughes of New York, speaking in the State of Missouri on the question of the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act, said that we have a sham battle over prohibition. A sham battle? What does Gov. Hughes mean by that? Does he mean to say that the American people are not taking seriously the matter of the prohibition issue? Why, he could not make a greater mistake, because it is close to the heart, as well as the conscience of every American who is interested in the future welfare of his country. (Applause.)

"However, in the same speech, this followed:

"'I do not deny that the election of Gov. Smith would not greatly intensify the demand for a change.'

"If Gov. Hughes believes that my election would intensify a demand for a change, by what peculiar processes of reasoning does he arrive at the conclusion that this is a sham battle? (Applause.)

Fight Against Corruption.

"I will assure the distinguished Republican representative that this is no sham battle. This is a real fight; and it is not a fight upon the merits or the demerits of the Eighteenth Amendment or the sustaining legislation; it is a fight against bribery, corruption, lawlessness, intemperance and disregard and disrespect for all law. (Applause.)

"And the American people do not fight sham battles when these questions are at issue. (Applause).

"The leading men in the business world, prominent members of the clergy in various denominations, men and women of intelligence, are clearly and flatly on the record as being opposed, and bitterly so, to the existing conditions. (Applause).

"Let us call a prominent American witness. Let us ask a leader of thought. Let us ask a moulder of public opinion what he thinks about it. And I would ask that from no less a personage than the former president of Yale University, President Hadley. Let us see what he says about it:

"'The object of the Eighteenth Amendment was to stop drunkenness and promote public order. This object has not been attained. The amendment and its enforcing statute, the Volstead act, have not only failed to secure either of these results, but have failed so conspicuously as to produce disrespect for law among private citizens and public officials alike. For the last five years it has been the paramount duty of the party in power to recognize this situation and deal with it intelligently. This obligation it has failed to meet.' (Applause).

"Are we passing through any condition that we have no reasonable right to expect? Not if we were willing to listen to the predictions that were made by leaders of thought and men with a knowledge of human weakness, as forcibly expressed by men in the past.

What Taft Said in 1918.

"Let us see what President Taft said about it back in 1918. The Chief Justice of our United States Supreme Court spoke about the evil effect of the Eighteenth Amendment when he said this:

"'I am opposed to national prohibition. I am opposed to it because I think it is a mixing of the National Government in a matter that should be one of local settlement.

"'I am opposed to the presence of laws on the statute books that cannot be enforced and as such demoralize the enforcement of all laws.

"'I am not in favor of a national amendment which should force 12 or 15 great States into a sumptuary system which the public opinion and the real practices of the people of those States would not support.'

"To my way of thinking he seems to have pretty squarely hit the nail on the head when he said:

"'The regulation of sale and use of intoxicating liquors should be retained by the States. They can experiment and improve. They have the full power and the Federal Government has helped them by making it a Federal offense to import liquor into their borders if they forbid it. If the power of regulation is irrevocably committed to the general government, the next generation will live deeply to regret it.' (Applause.)

"Where in all American history can you find a prophecy so thoroughly and so well carried out as is contained in the language of the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court? Exactly what he predicted 10 years ago is what is taking place in America today. (Applause.)

"No greater student of American history ever lived in our time than Woodrow Wilson. (Applause). He had the foresight and he had the vision to be able to accurately predict what the American people might expect. Listen to what he said:

"'You cannot regulate the morals and habits of a great cosmopolitan people by placing unreasonable restrictions upon their liberty and freedom. All such attempts can only end in failure and disappointment. In the last analysis, in these matters that seek to regulate personal habits and customs, public opinion is the great regulator.' (Applause.)

"All of this is a matter of history and, for that matter, is a matter of common knowledge to the men who are keeping any track of the trend of American governmental affairs.

"Gov. Hughes must know all this. (Boos.) I am satisfied that he does. And that makes it difficult for me to understand by what peculiar reasoning he seems to think that talk in a great national campaign about a subject of nation-wide interest resolves itself into a sham battle. (Applause.)

"I would like to ask Gov. Hughes a simple question, and his reply to be yes or no. Is he satisfied with the condition that exists today? (Applause.)

"Let us see whether or not the Republican candidate has any idea about it. (Boos.) Let us see if he is not himself something of a prophet as to what might happen.

Hoover's Prophecy in 1918.

"In 1918, while he was at the head of the Food Administration Bureau, suggestions were made to stop the brewing of beer for the conservation of the grain supply. Wait until I tell you what he said about 10 years ago. (Laughter and applause.) Here is what he said:

"'If we stop brewing, the saloons of the country will still be open, but confined practically to a whisky and gin basis. Any true advocate of temperance and of national efficiency in these times will shrink from this situation, for the national danger in it is greater than the use of some four million bushels of grain monthly in the breweries.'

"He further said: 'It is mighty difficult to get drunk on two and three-quarters per cent beer. It will be easy enough if we force a substitution of distilled drinks for it.'

"Now, that it is exactly the condition that national prohibition has brought about. While it is true that we have no saloons, he knows, as Gov. Hughes knows, as Senator Borah knows, and everyone else who knows anything about the matter, that liquor is being illegally manufactured, illegally transported, and illegally sold in every State of this Union. (Prolonged applause.)

To various cries from the crowd: "Gentlemen, you are not making any contribution to the success of this meeting; just keep quiet; and after I have finished you can go as far as you like and I will stay here to hear you. (Applause.)

"Everybody knows that this is the fact, and the American people with their good, sound, common sense and their unquestioned judgment cannot afford to play the ostrich and stick their heads in the sand and think that everything is all right—it cannot be done.

"Do I make that statement, and am I compelled to accept the full responsibility for it? No. You can get that from the sworn testimony before a Senate committee in Washington, testimony of officials of the Government that were charged with the responsibility, and paid for it, by the American people for the enforcement of prohibition. (Applause.) Still, Mr. Hoover seems to think that it is a noble experiment. (Laughter.)

No Need for Dry Law Inquiry.

"What he intends to do with it is to appoint a commission to investigate. Why, there is no need to do that. He can send for the Senate files in Washington and he will get so many volumes of testimony that four men could not carry them into his office. (Laughter.)

"All he has to do is to read the testimony of Chester P. Mills and Gen. Andrews and read what they say about it. And they were in the pay of the Federal Government for its enforcement. Mr. Hoover (Boos) knows all about it from his own lips. I spell out that he must know it from testimony that he gave before a Senate Committee on another subject.

"While the Senate Committee was endeavoring to prepare a plan for the reorganization of the Federal Government, Mr. Hoover, appearing before them, was asked a question I shall read the question and shall read to you his answer and you can make up your own minds as to whether or not you think he understands the corrupting influence of attempts at enforcement.

"Here is what the Senator said to him. They were talking, mind you, about the consolidation of the different activities of the Federal Government and the merging together of different bureaus. The chairman said, talking to Mr. Hoover:

"'Mr. Secretary of the Treasury stated that in his judgment, the Coast Guard and the Life Saving Service were necessary now in the enforcement of prohibition?'

Says Hoover Feared Temptations.

"Here is what Secretary Hoover said back to him:

"'That I would agree with, in the matter of the Coast Guard, but not the Lifesaving Service. I think it would be a great misfortune if the lifesaving men were brought into prohibition enforcement. The same thing has been suggested with regard to the lighthouse service. I cannot conceive anything that would corrupt the fine traditions and personnel of those groups of men more than by having them plunged into police duty of that character.' (Applause.)

"Now, bear in mind, the forces that he was talking about were men that were under his control. He was perfectly satisfied to let the Coast Guard enforce prohibition, because they were under Andrew Mellon (laughter), but no-, he did not want his men to have anything to do with it. He was afraid they would be corrupted. He was afraid that the fine personnel and the marvelous morale of the forces under him would be forced to yield to temptation. 'The noble experiment is all right but keep it away from my men.' He was willing to wish it on the Secretary of the Treasury and let him worry about it, but not for the men over whom he had control.

Assails Republicans' Gossip.

"Well, what is the Republican gossip, and what Republican gossip led Secretary Hughes to the statement that it was a sham battle? The Republican gossip is: 'Smith can't do anything about it.' That is quietly whispered around. When a Republican says: 'I think Smith is right on this question; I am sure that he has the nerve and the sense to be able to tackle it.' The other fellow says: 'He can't do anything about it.' (Laughter and applause.) Where did I hear that before—'Smith can't do anything about it?'

"Why, I have been listening to it every two years in the State of New York since 1918, and it is perhaps interesting to know how it arose in the State. We have a peculiar provision in the Constitution of New York State which makes the Assembly Republican by law. (Laughter). It does not make very much difference how the people vote, they must have the Republican Assembly.

"In 1922, I carried the State by a plurality of 387,000 (applause), and waked up the morning after election to read the pleasing news in the morning papers that I had a Republican Assembly on my hands. (Laughter.)

"Now, the Republican organization in the State of New York, and this is a matter of history which must have reached into Philadelphia, I am certain that it has, during all these eight years, had stood silently but firmly against every practical, forward-looking measure of reform that had been suggested in that State.

Progressive Accomplishments.

"There is no question about it. The record on it is clear; reorganization of the Government, the executive budget, provision for the elimination of grade crossings on railroad tracks, a system of parks and parkways looking to the comfort and the health and the wellbeing of the generations to come, the upbuilding and rehabilitation of the State's worn-out plants, her hospitals and schools, all of which had become the victims for over a quarter of a century of Republican neglect. Every one of these things was frying on the pan while I was running, and the word used to pass around. 'There is no use voting for Smith. There is nothing he can do about it. The Assembly will stop him.' (Laughter.)

"How was it finally and eventually accomplished? I did not stay in the Executive Mansion in Albany and rest up and have a good time for myself. I went around the State of New York and I talked about these matters before the people, and in a little while I grew to be an expert in talking about them. I could imagine I had an audience before me by looking at two pie plates. (Laughter.)

Appeal to People Successful.

"I went before the people of the State of New York, and, finally and eventually, even over the protest of a reluctant and vigorous Republican Legislature, every one of these progressive reforms has been accomplished in the State of New York, and it was all done in spite of the subtle, clever and underground whispering propaganda that 'there is nothing that Smith can do about it.'

"Now, don't worry. And I would not like to have former Gov. Hughes do any worrying (Laughter and applause.) I shall take care of that situation. (Applause.)

"He is the last man in the world, the very last, who ought to suggest executive helplessness. (Laughter and applause.) He was the Governor of New York himself and the Legislature was of his own party and it was against him (laughter and applause); and what he accomplished he accomplished by direct appeal to the people, and he never admitted that he was in a sham battle. (Applause.)

"He speaks about the reorganization of the government having a Republican birth and a Republican origin in the constitutional convention of 1915. That is true. I have admitted it from every public platform in the State of New York and I have never, in my public career, refused to give full measure of credit to every Republican that was of any assistance to me in doing this job (Applause).

"But what the distinguished former Secretary of State omits to say is that from 1913 to 1919, the Republican proposal was as dead as a door nail while his party was in control of the Legislature; and he further omits to say that it took me from 1920 to 1927 to wring it away from the unwilling hands of the members of his party (Applause). Prior to my time, there was a prejudice in the State of New York against a third term for any man. They said that the office of the Governor of the great State of New York was too great for any man to hold for more than two terms. Just because his party and its leadership in Albany was so stupid, I was compelled to take the job for four terms (Applause).

Whispers and Whispering Campaign

"Suppose that that kind of an argument were to have any weight or were to prevail at all in the minds of the American people, what progress could you ever expect? All you would have to do would be to whisper around that the candidate cannot do anything. It would not make any difference to which party he belonged; the principle involved is the same. You would have an absolute standstill, an absolute stalling of all the machinery of progressive government by simply telling everybody, 'Don't vote for him, because he cannot make good.' (Applause.)

"That is a part of Gov. Hughes argument and it is a large part of the whispering campaign in the whispering part of this country designed to take away from the Democratic victory the only relief for the problems that are pressing for solution. (Applause.)

"Of course, this is not all as serious as it seems. Every now and then you hear something humorous, and if we did not get a little bit of humor out of the campaign, because it is such terrible, hard, grinding, uphill, deadening work, no one could be engaged in it for any length of time and be able to preserve his reason and his physique. So, therefore, we must get something once in a while that makes a little humorous contribution.

Ridicules Dry Law Enforcement.

"Gov. Hughes said that my election might impede attempts at enforcement. (Laughter.) As though there had ever been any attempt at enforcement. (Laughter.) The situation could not be worse. (Applause) and Gov. Hughes knows that just as well as I know it. The only thing that annoys me is whether or not he is satisfied with it. (Laughter and applause.)

"That raises another question. If a man espousing leadership is helpless, his following must be helpless, even though they may be a majority of all the people in the country. (Applause.) And if we are prepared to admit the helplessness of the American people to cure this situation then we must in the next breath be prepared to say that democratic, representative government is not what we claim it to be. (Applause.)

"This is no sham battle, Governor. If I am elected President, I shall take this matter to the American people. (Long, continued applause.) I shall lay the facts before them in a clear, calm, deliberate way; and I shall suggest a remedy.

"I shall suggest the remedy that I set forth in my speech of acceptance, predicated upon the Jeffersonian Democratic theory of the rights of the sovereign states. (Applause.) And I disagree entirely with Mr. Hoover and with Mr. Hughes and with all the Republican orators. I believe that under constructive, forward-looking leadership, the American people themselves are fully competent to make the proper disposition of this question. (Applause.) So much for that. (Laughter.)

Misstatement About Tariff.

"Now we come to another question. While we are correcting misstatements and false information, let me take up a statement of candidate Hoover himself, made in Boston, in relation to the tariff.

"At Louisville, I spoke at length on the tariff. After my speech this is what the Republican candidate had to say:

"'The tariff is a most valuable arm of the Government. It can be strengthened and made more useful in several ways.'

"In this we are in accord. This is what I suggested (laughter and applause). And I suggested it after I pointed out to the people in Louisville that the Republican administration had palsied that arm of the Government and rendered it useless and had thrown the tariff back into the realm of politics. After that he said:

"'But the American people will never consent to delegating authority over the tariff to any commission, whether nonpartisan or bipartisan. Our people have a right to express themselves at the ballot box upon so vital a question as this. There is only one commission to which delegation of that authority can be made. That is the great commission of their own choosing, the Congress of the United States and the President.'

"What is the idea of all that? (Laughter). Why all that statement about it? I never suggested that the power of Congress be handed over a commission. There is nothing in the Democratic platform that suggests anything like that. What I suggested, and what he approves, is the original theory of President Roosevelt and President Taft—and read what President Taft said about the manner and method of making tariff schedules without the information before Congress as to what they are based on. Why, he said even the members of Congress themselves do not know what is in the tariff bill. What about the 120,000,000 people in the United States if a Congressman himself does not know anything about it? (Laughter.)

Would Rehabilitate Tariff Body.

"I ask that the tariff commission be rehabilitated and be strengthened, that the right type of people be appointed to it in order to be able to lay before Congress and the people of the United States the underlying facts that sustain the reason for every change in a tariff schedule. (Applause.)

"Now, Mr. Hoover knows just as well as I do that the power of making tariffs could not be transferred from Congress to a commission without an amendment to the Federal Constitution, and there was no reason for that statement at Boston, unless it was intended to mislead the people as to what my belief about the tariff is (Applause).

"Mr. Hughes, in his speech, said that you could not take the tariff out of politics—it could not be done. Does Gov. Hughes want the people to believe that he is satisfied to allow the tariff to be the football of partisan politics? Is he satisfied with the log-rolling, compromising, the back-scratching policies that are carried out in Washington when a tariff bill is being written? Does he agree with President Taft that the members of Congress themselves do not know what is in a tariff bill? But he wants that condition continued because, as he says, it is impossible to take it out of politics (Applause)

Would Separate Politics and Tariff.

"My answer to Gov. Hughes is: 'Give the people of this country the facts and they will take it out themselves (Applause).

"My distinguished predecessor in the office of Governor of New York did not make a very good point when he said that. He spoke a little bit too quickly. Only today I was shown a copy of the Journal of Commerce, which said that the National Business Association, in convention assembled passed a resolution declaring that it was their belief that politics ought to be eliminated from tariff-making in the interest of the business of this country. Mr. Hughes found fault with me because I referred to the reactionary leaders of the Republican party as Bourbons. Why, I do not have to prove that. He proves it for me. A reactionary and a Bourbon is a fellow who takes a position that nothing can be done—'You cannot take the tariff out of politics. You cannot do anything about prohibition. It is a sham battle.' (Applause.)

"Or, as the candidate himself said, it is Socialistic. (Laughter.)

"In his Chicago speech, Gov. Hughes, speaking about the principle I enunciated in Louisville with regard to the tariff, said: 'The Democrats to take Smith's tariff plan, will have to eat more crow than the Democratic stomach can stand.'

"My distinguished predecessor had no license for that statement because the great crow-eating party of the country is his own. (Laughter and applause.)

"Let us see if the Republican party ever changed its attitude, and I confess that the Democratic party did, upon the question of tariff, because, under Woodrow Wilson, and during the war there is a new standard of American living and American wages, and the Democratic party would be the last in the world that would do anything to interfere with the standard of living of the American workingman. (Applause.)

"What a delicious pot of crow the Governor is compelled to witness his party eating on the Federal Reserve Bank System (applause). When that bill was pending in Washington during the administration of President Wilson, it was violently and bitterly assailed by the Republican senators. As a matter of fact, only three of them voted for it. Only one east of the Mississippi River voted in favor of the Federal Reserve System. The argument made against it was just exactly what we hear today about the progressive measures suggested by the Democratic party. It was said on the floor of the Senate that the Government was going into business, and that it was sojourning into the territory of Socialism. (Applause.)

Borah and the Federal Reserve.

"Wait until I read what Senator Borah said about it:

"The wisdom of the matter I do not discuss, but it is just as Socialistic to assemble the banking powers and turn them over to the Government as it would be the railroads.

"There is the old argument again at Socialism. When a constructive, forward-looking and progressive measure is suggested, the fact that it has upon it the Democratic label stamps it as either something that cannot be done, should not be done, putting the Government in business or something that trends to state Socialism. (Applause.)

"The Secretary of the Treasury Mellon (boos) speaking recently about the Federal Reserve system, said:

"'In the few years of their existence, the Federal Reserve banks have demonstrated beyond any doubt their value to the country. During these years the country has come safely through a great war, not only without a panic but with a minimum of strain upon its financial structure. The credit for this achievement is due in large measure to the steadying influence exerted by the Federal Reserve system.'

"Governor, do not speak about the Democrats eating any crow until you and your party have thoroughly digested the plate. (Laughter and applause.)

"Now, Gov. Hughes attempted to make another point which I am entirely unwilling to let him get away with. (Laughter and applause.) He tried to make the point that if I was elected the members of my party in Congress would be unwilling to follow my leadership in relation to the tariff and akin to other compaigns, said:

"'Smith can do nothing about it.'

"That is following the same trend and following up to the same thought and carrying out the same idea.

"Well, I am going to relieve the Governor's mind of any worry on that score and I will tell him why.

Pledges of Democratic Support.

"A telegram over my signature was sent to every member of Congress in both houses and to every candidate for Congress in both houses and 80 per cent of them have answered, the other 20 per cent being away on campaign tours and here is what they have said:

"We stand solidly behind Gov. Smith in his Louisville speech when he said, 'I definitely pledge that the only change I will consider in the tariff will be specific revisions in specific schedules, each considered on its own merits on the basis of investigation by an impartial tariff commission and a careful hearing before Congress of all concerned. That no revision of any specific schedule will have approval of the Democratic party which in any way interferes with American standards of living and level of wages. In other words, I say, to the American working man that the Democratic party will not do a single thing that will take from his weekly pay envelope a five-cent piece. To the American farmer, I say that the Democratic party will do everything in its power to put back in to his pocket all that belongs there. And we further say that nothing will be done that will embarrass or interfere in any way with the legitimate progress of business, big or small. With this prescription honestly put forth with a clear cut and definite promise to make it effective, I assert with confidence that neither labor nor industry, nor agriculture, nor business has anything to fear from Democratic success at the polls in November and we hereby pledge our co-operation in carrying out the principles and policies therein set forth.

"Just let that definitely and finally put to sleep all the fear that Gov. Hughes or any other Republican spokesman may have about the Democratic attitude to the tariff and there is no reason why they should themselves, by their utterances, disturb business by predicting calamity in the event of Democratic victory. (Applause.)

Discusses Government Finances.

"Let us take another subject. Out in Missouri I was talking about Government finances. I painted for the people of Missouri and for the people of the United States the false picture that the Republican party over the last four years has been attempting to put into the public mind. The purpose and object of that false picture was to lead the American people to believe that the present administration at Washington, by careful management and by great economies, reduced the cost of the Government.

"Well, Gov. Hughes found fault with me. He said that I ridiculed some of the petty economies that were suggested in the report of the Director of the Budget. The Governor is wrong. I praised them. I spoke in high terms of these economies. I said they had my full approval and that it was not doing any more or less than I insisted be done in the State of New York during all the years of my governorship.

"But what I did ridicule was the attempt on the part of the Republican party, by the exposition of these minor economies, to put this false picture into the minds of the American people, that by careful administration and prudent management they were able to cut down the cost of the Government, when everybody knows that the cost of the Government this year was higher than it was in the first year of Coolidge's administration. (Applause.)

"Secretary Mellon says it is only $29,000,000 higher. Of course, that in itself is an admission that it is higher, although over the radio one night he said it had been reduced. But how do you suppose that he arrived at this figure? Why, he lifts the whole Postoffice Department out of the public appropriations. (Laughter.) If he were to leave it in, where it belongs, because it is part of the Government, the difference would not be $29,000,000, it would be $200,000,000. (Applause.)

"Secretary Davis of the War Department, as soon as he read my Missouri speech, rushed out to the defense of the G. O. P. right away. He said that some of the things he asked for he received, and he was going to get the rest of them from the next Congress. He testified in Washington that it would require $100,000,000 to provide proper housing for the soldiers of our army. He also testified that the present housing was a disgrace to the American people. Well, did he get the $100,000,000? He did not. And it is no answer to a statement of fact that you expect the next Congress or some subsequent Congress to take care of the matter.

What Happened to Magruder?

"What happened to Admiral Magruder here in Philadelphia? (Applause.) He went down to testify before the Senate Committee, after he had written an article for the Saturday Evening Post. He now finds himself on the waiting list. You know, the greatest sin that a prominent Government official can commit today is to tell the truth about this economy situation. Whether he be attached to the Army or to the Navy, no matter how many years of long, faithful service it required for him to reach his exalted position, he is on the waiting list, if he talks about it.

"In conclusion, I have an interesting little story to tell you. It is the story of how, in my opinion, you could bring about real economy in the Government of this country, and with it an infinitely greater degree of efficiency, and that is by a reorganization and a bringing together of all the scattered activities of the Government.

"This is a matter of supreme importance to every citizen, high or low, because after all, we are all taxpayers, the cost of Government falls upon everybody's shoulders. You may not actually pay the money directly, but you pay it indirectly; you pay it either in rent or in the cost of the necessaries of life. Nobody escapes taxes. (Applause.)

G. O. P. Promises of 1920.

"Let us take a little look at the Republican platform of 1920. In that year we were promised as follows:

"'We advocate a thorough investigation of the present organization of the Federal departments and bureaus with a view to securing consolidation, a more businesslike distribution of functions, the elimination of duplication, delays and overlapping of work, and the establishment of an up-to-date and efficient administrative organization.'

"That is fine, that is the Republican platform of 1920 and it is very expressive.

"Will Hays, a former chairman of the National Committee and the then Postmaster General, in November of 1921, was making a speech before the Fifth Avenue Association in New York, and he picked up this question of the reorganization of the Government and he described its situation today. He referred to it as an enormous oyster shell, to which during the course of 132 years great barnacles had cemented themselves in the setting-up of some 40 odd agencies outside of the Cabinet itself, employing over 50,000 people, and responsible apparently to nobody; and he put a little humorous touch to it.

Wild Life of the Polar Bears.

"He told how Mr. Hoover, being Secretary of Commerce, it is his duty to conserve the wild life of the polar bears in the Arctic Region and he explained that grizzly bears, because they are located in our national parks, come under the Secretary of the Interior and brown bears, because they are found in our forest reservations, come under the Secretary of Agriculture, although it is somewhat difficult to realize just what an agriculturist has to do with a bear. (Laughter.)

"Then he told the interesting story of a man who went to Washington to sell road dressing to the Government. He had to visit seven different departments because the matter of road building came under seven different men, although the roads are all identical.

"Then he talked about the 300 life-saving stations that are under the Secretary of the Treasury when right alongside are the lighthouses, which are all under the Secretary of Commerce. Then he spoke about the half-dozen agencies that give information about navigation; charts for the American section of the Great Lakes come from the Water Survey Department; the Canadian section is charted by the Navy; charts of the Atlantic and Pacific Coast and the territorial waters of our island possessions come from the Department of Commerce, while storm warnings go out from the Department of Agriculture, although the nautical almanac is prepared by the Naval Observatory. (Laughter.)

"He summed it all up when he said that no living man could tell what might be accomplished in the way of greater efficiency, greater understanding and greater economy by a co-ordination of all these scattered activities under the proper head and the proper direction.

"Well, what happened—it was a great speech. He delivered it with a great deal of eloquence and a great deal of force. The platform plank was perfect and held out to the American people a great promise, but all during Harding's administration not a single thing happened.

"We come back to 1924 and the Republican party is back at its old tricks again. 'As long as we did not make good the last one, let us promise it again.' So in 1924, they promised it all over again and at that time referred to it as a plan already prepared. Well, what happened to it? Just two consolidations were made: The Bureau of Mines and the Patent Office were transferred from the Department of Interior to the Department of Commerce and the rest of the great plan about which the great and eloquent speech was made was dropped in the waste basket. (Applause.)

Control Under False Pretense.

And that brings us down to 1928. And I went all over the Republican platform. I studied it very carefully. That is my business. (Laughter and applause.) I took it line by line. There is not a single word in it about reorganization of the government. This year we have not even got the promise. (Applause.) I think I have fairly made out a case here tonight along the line that the Republican party is seeking to continue its control of this government under false pretenses. (Loud applause.)

"It is seeking to keep that control by misstating and misrepresenting the Democratic attitude and misstating, by the same token and misrepresenting its own attitude on a great many of the big questions. But, however, the American people will make the decision on the sixth of November (Applause.) I am satisfied that they are all ready to bring the Government into harmony with the progress that we see all around in all of our business and other enterprises today.

"And I say to the people of Philadelphia, with all the confidence that I possibly can, that I anticipate the restoration and the return of the Democratic party to power in this country on the sixth of November."

FIGHT ON DRY LAW ' SHAM BATTLE', SMITH SAYS AT PHILADEL

Hughes well knew, he said the fight was real. If Hughes not think it was real, he why did he say that "the of Gov. Smith would greatly tensify the demand for a ch in the prohibition laws? He that he was unable to follow reasoning of Mr. Hughes.

"Not a Sham Battle."

Smith vigorously Hughes' statement that "we sham battle over prohibition," would like to know, whether Hughes himself was fied with the results of tion. He did not see by what ess of reasoning Hughes conclude that the putting of a "constructive policy" a sham attack. As in his kee speech, he called to his an array of civic leaders who spoken against the Amendment. One of his " es" was Hoover, whom he as having said in 1918, when Administrator, that the of brewing would put the on a whisky and gin basis.

Smith said the argument elected he "could do nothing prohibition" was of a piece the stock argument used him in his New York It has been repeatedly said, that he could put constructive measures into against the opposition of a publican Legislature. Yet reforms, he continued, had accomplished, and the Repu had then taken the credit them.

Senator Norris said in part:

It has sent its secret emissaries to influence and control women's clubs. It has undertaken to bribe the minister in the pulpit, and, with its sinister, stealthy tread, it has even entered our public schools and tried to poison the minds of our children. It has secretly controlled college professors and high school teachers, and has systematically undertaken to build up a sentiment in its favor by the control of the press.

"And where did it get the money to carry on this wonderful campaign of deception? The power trust has but one source of income, and that is the contributions made from one end of the country to the other by those who use electricity in some form. The manufacturer who makes the things we eat and wear must increase the cost of his product to cover the exorbitant power rates which he must pay. The washwoman who has an electric washing machine or an electric iron has made her contribution to this fund. The man who reads his evening paper by the electric light has added his mite.

"In other words, the people of the country, in every activity of life, rich or poor, have contributed in pennies to a fund that in the aggregate amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars, and this fund has been used to deceive the very people who have thus been compelled to make the contribution."

In support of his charges Senator Norris recited at length testimony and correspondence placed before the Federal Trade Commission. After quoting from an article circulated by a propaganda agency in which public ownership was opposed on the ground that it would take the utility business into politics, he declared:

"And yet the evidence before the Federal Trade Commission disclosed beyond the shadow of a doubt that the electric trust is in politics clear up to its neck. Moreover, it is dirty politics, unfair politics, wicked politics, contaminated with corruption and deceit. This trust is in politics from the White House down to the school district. It foregets nothing. It overlooks nothing."

Norris quoted testimony showing more than 70,000 copies of a "catechism" which he termed false and misleading had been used in the public schools through utility company influence.

"Our public-school system is dear and sacred to the heart of every patriotic citizen," he continued, "and the man or woman who undertakes to undermine that system by secret and false propaganda is an enemy to our country. He is striking at the very foundation stone of democratic government and such conduct cannot be upheld or overlooked by any real patriot.

Blow at U. S. Government.

"I have given you only a few samples of the work of this gigantic octopus which is secretly undermining our society, our civilization and our Government, because if the activities thus disclosed are carried to their logical conclusion it seems that this trust is greater than the Government and that it will eventually control the Government. I, myself, cannot understand how any man who loves human liberty, who loves his country, can stand idly by and remain silent while this attempt to overthrow our Government and destroy our liberty is going on.

"These disclosures were all public and were all known when the recent Republican National convention met, and yet that platform contains not one single word in condemnation. The Democratic convention was in its platform likewise as silent as the grave on this subject. When Mr. Hoover made his speech of acceptance he was likewise silent and nowhere did he utter one single word of complaint or condemnation of the shocking disclosures that were then public.

"It remained for Gov. Smith, with a voice that reverberated from ocean to ocean and from lake to gulf, to denounce the activities of this giant trust and to condemn, in the most courageous way, the activities of this great monopoly. For his courageous stand on this, the most important issue now confronting the American people, he is entitled to the warmest praise and commendation regardless of politics or of party.

"The importance of the question transcends any party consideration. Never before in the history of our country has there been such a startling disclosure of a mammoth attack upon the very foundation cornerstone that sustains our governmental fabric. Never in history has there been anything that will compare with it, and regardless of politics, regardless of everything else involved in this campaign, it seems to me the people of the country must rise in defense of our liberties, in defense of our common country, and they must do it soon before we are helpless within the clutches and the control of this giant monopoly.

"Gov. Smith's attitude on this question places him side by side with that great father of national conservation, Theodore Roosevelt. Have we so soon forgotten Roosevelt, the doctrines which he advocated and the policies for which he stood? He has many times called attention to the dangers which would beset us if we permitted monopoly to control the water powers of this Nation."

After quoting Roosevelt's messages and speeches, Senator Norris said: "Now let us turn to Gov. Smith and see how remarkably similar his utterances are to those of Roosevelt."

Quotes from Smith Message.

Senator Norris quoted from an official message to the New York Legislature of Jan. 5, 1927, in which Gov. Smith urged "the one basic principle that the State must itself retain ownership and control of water power at its source if the people and not private interests are to be the real beneficiaries by its development."

He praised the plan for State development submitted by Gov. Smith to the Legislature, saying it was very similar to the plan for Muscle Shoals in the bill vetoed by President Coolidge.

"These views," said Senator Norris, "correspond to the best progressive thought of the day. They are certainly in complete accord with the views so often expressed by President Roosevelt, and in all candor and fairness I want to say to those who have sympathized with and given support to the little group of Progressives in Congress, in their terrible struggle to preserve for all the people the great water power resources of the Nation, that it seems to me we are led, on this question at least, logically and inevitably to the support of Gov. Smith.

Says Power Is a Birthright.

"Every river and stream that flows down the mountainside through the meadows to the sea is capable of relieving the drudgery of the home and the farm. It is a birthright belonging to all of us, and the trustees of the people, even in Washington or any State legislature, who give it away to private corporations for their private gain are untrue to the trust imposed in them.

"And when a gigantic monopoly has undertaken to poison the minds of our children, to influence our Legislatures, to control our churches and our commercial and social organizations in favor of turning this property over to a private monopoly, it is high time that those in authority should speak out.

"Herbert Hoover has remained silent. He has uttered no word of protest during all the time this has been going on, and during most of that time he has held a position of power and influence. Any man in such a position does not do his duty when he remains silent. It is common knowledge, known by all, and by no one better than the Power Trust, that Mr. Hoover is opposed to governmental, State or municipal ownership of these God-given elements of human happiness.

Only One Way of Escape.

"It is known by all men that this great combination of wealth is so powerful that it has control of the political machines of both of the great political parties, and that at the present time there is presented to the American people only one avenue of escape from the clutches of this trust.

"That avenue is courageously and ably held open to us by Gov. Smith, the Democratic candidate for President. Shall we be so partisan that we will place our party above our country and refuse to follow the leader—the only leader—who affords us any escape from the control of the trust?

"No class of our citizens is more interested in this question than the women of America. We are living in the dawn of an electric age. All the drudgery of the home can be handled by this unseen and little understood element of human happiness. At the door of every home there is a new servant, knocking and asking for admission. This servant will do all the washing and ironing, the lighting and cleaning of the homes of America at a nominal cost if she is given the opportunity. In order to get the benefits of electricity it must be cheaper. We must take the private profit out of the business. We must make it as common in every home as water. There is no reason why the United States should not have as cheap electricity as Ontario.

Benefits in Fighting Trust.

"If we would drive the electric trust out of politics, if we would stop the expenditure of unconscionable millions used to deceive the American people and to debauch our public officials, we would be able to get the benefits which would accrue from a sane, honest and fair development of our power and its distribution to the homes of America.

"All these things are happening and going on across the line in Ontario, where power magnates do not control, where there is no electric trust, where the people get the benefits of their own property without paying tribute to millionaire corporations that are using the people's money to deceive the hand which feeds them.

"For eight years there has been a constant fight in Congress between the power trust and the people as to who should get the benefit of the great governmental development at Muscle Shoals. The administration of which Mr. Hoover was a part has been, from the beginning, on the side of the trust In the last session, Congress presented to President Coolidge a bill which finally settled this question in behalf of the people, and he refused to sign it.

Compares Attitude on Shoals.

"Sitting by the side of him was Herbert Hoover, who was importuned on all sides by the progressive element of the country to use his influence with his chief in favor of this legislation. But he refused because he, himself, was opposed to it. So it is safe to say that if Mr. Hoover had been President he would have vetoed this bill. It is likewise safe to say that if Gov. Smith had been President he would have signed it. This places fairly and squarely before the American people the attitude of these two men on this important question."

Norris then launched into a discussion of farm relief. Admittedly, he declared, agriculture is in distress. He defined the causes as exorbitant freight rates, excessive cost of distribution, and the farmer's failure to get the benefit of the protective tariff because his surplus must be sold abroad and its price determines the price of the entire crop.

"Mr. Hoover, after more than seven years of inaction, comes forward with three remedies," he said. "His first remedy is to give the farmer more tariff, when it is common knowledge that a tariff on any farm product of which a surplus is produced has no effect whatever upon the farmer's price. We have a tariff now of 42 cents upon wheat. It would be just the same if we had a tariff of $42, so long as we produce a surplus of wheat.

Long Time to Build Canal.

"Second, Mr. Hoover would help agriculture by building the St. Lawrence Canal. No one is opposed to that. If we were able to start tomorrow, all of us would be dead and forgotten before the project would be completed. So, as a practical proposition for the relief of agriculture, neither the St. Lawrence nor the other project of an all-American canal offers relief within the life of the present generation.

"The third method of relief proposed by Mr. Hoover is to lessen the cost of the distribution of farm products by giving assistance to co-operative organizations. This is another remedy which no one, so far as I know, objects to, but this will not relieve the freight rate. This will not give the farmer the benefit of the protective tariff.

"Soon after the war the Senate Committee on Agriculture reported a bill to the Senate which undertook to relieve the agricultural situation by providing for lower freight rates and the lessening of the cost of distribution of farm products as they traveled from the producer to the consumer.

Favors Lower Freight Rates.

"Senator Brookhart, who is a student of farm problems and for whom I have a great respect, has publicly proclaimed on the stump and, from the floor of the Senate that this was the best farm bill that had ever been presented to Congress. It was, in modified form, twice reported from the Senate Committee on Agriculture. It was twice beaten by the combined efforts of the millionaire middlemen and the political bosses.

"One of the greatest influences that brought about the defeat of that legislation was the powerful influence and voice of Herbert Hoover. The record shows that he appeared before the committee and opposed the bill. He was an important element in an administration that brought all the power it could muster to bring about the defeat of this measure, and thus any effort to give the farmer lower freight rates and to lessen the cost of distribution of farm products was defeated and Mr. Hoover cannot shirk his part in bringing about such defeat."

Senator Norris recited the history of the McNary-Haugen bill, twice passed by Congress and twice vetoed by the President.

Two Attitudes on Farm Bill.

"Everybody knows that Mr. Hoover, from the beginning, was always opposed to this bill," he said. "Now, what is the position of Gov. Smith? In his Omaha speech he came out courageously and frankly in the indorsement of the principle involved in the McNary-Haugen bill. The only reservation was as to the machinery necessary to carry it out. He would undertake, if possible, to improve it, and as one who supported that measure and as one who helped to frame it, I bid him Godspeed in making any improvement as to the machinery that must be enacted into law to carry out the principle.

"I stand ready to favor anything that will simplify this machinery, and I want to say to you, particularly to my Republican brethren who have stood for the McNary-Haugen bill, who have advocated its passage all over the country, and who went to Kansas City and demanded to be heard but were turned down—I want to say to them, as I look at it, if you still believe what you have been advocating, you haven't a leg to stand on unless you come out in this great contest and support Gov. Smith.

"I am tired of promises. The farmer represents the fundamental industry of all industries. From his toil and sweat comes the food that supplies the world, but we cannot always continue to operate under a system that, by a protective tariff, puts everybody except the farmer upon a higher and an artificial scale of living. I am wondering now if the Republican farmers of the great Middle West are going to permit the poison of partisanship to blind their judgment and to control their actions and their votes.

Disagrees on Prohibition.

"I do not agree with Gov. Smith in his prohibition program. I am not in favor of the repeal or the modification of the eighteenth amendment, and I shall oppose the repeal of the Volstead act at least until prohibition has been fairly and honestly tested.

"But Gov. Smith's ideas on prohibition are not of vital importance in this campaign. He cannot repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment. He cannot repeal the Volstead act or change it. Such action must come from Congress, and I know—and I think the country knows—that the Congress of the United States is bitterly opposed to such a proposition.

"I make the charge here and now that there has never been a fair and honest attempt to enforce the prohibition law. The present administration and the head of its enforcement bureau are to blame for the dissatisfaction that is quite general over the country with existing conditions regarding prohibition. I get letters from all quarters of the country, written by men who are prohibitionists, who say frankly that the enforcement officers are in league with the bootleggers and that the conditions in their various communities are simply intolerable.

Wants Dry Law Enforced.

"What we have a right to demand is that this law shall be fairly and honestly enforced, and I believe that if this is done we would get general satisfaction with the law. But, at least until it is done, until the law has been fairly and honestly tested, I am opposed to its repeal.

"Gov. Smith would probably have voted against the eighteenth amendment and against the Volstead act, had he been in Congress. But Gov. Smith has stated before the American people, in language which cannot be misunderstood, that while he favors a modification of both the amendment and the law, if he is elected President he will enforce the law as it now stands. This is something that has never yet been done. believe he will keep his promise. His record as Governor of New York shows him to be a man sufficiently courageous to do this and that he has always done it in the past.

"I read an article by a leading woman in the West, who announced that although a Democrat she would not support Gov. Smith. She said we should have a man enforcing the law who was in sympathy with the law, and that she feared Gov. Smith would not, therefore, properly enforce it. I wondered when I read this article if this woman fully realized the fact that the head enforcement officer of our prohibition law is a man who has made many millions out of the distilling of whisky. No one has ever claimed for a moment that Mr. Mellon believes in or ever did believe in either the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act, and there are now unnumbered graves all over this country filled with men who died from drinking too much Mellon whisky.

"Mr. Hoover looks over the last seven years of Republican administration with a great deal of delight and satisfaction. When I think of the oil scandals and the debauchery and the crime which existed in high places, even among the associates of Mr. Hoover in the Cabinet, I think of those same seven years with a sense of humiliation and shame.

"Almost from top to bottom the administration was honeycombed with fraud and corruption, and I cannot forget that the men who opposed any investigation, the men who defended Daugherty, the men who defended Fall, who defended Sinclair, who defended Forbes, who defended Miller, are, in the main, the very men who are managing and backing the candidacy of Mr. Hoover.

"During all the weary grind, when the committee of the Senate was trying to get the truth about the bribery of public officials, Herbert Hoover sat in the Cabinet. He was in daily touch with the very conspirators who defrauded the Government. Of course, I do not charge him with any personal knowledge or in any way participating in the benefits of crime and debauchery. But from the beginning to the end he has remained as silent as a sphinx and has never condemned any of the men high in official position who were guilty of these crimes.

Doubts Duty to Hide Crime.

"Is it the duty of a Republican to cover up crime and evil when he finds it existing in his own party? Does party loyalty have such a binding obligation that we must place the welfare of our party above our country? Again I want to call your attention to the attitude of the immortal Roosevelt on such questions. He said that if he made any difference in prosecuting Republican rascals and Democratic rascals, he prosecuted the Republican rascals a little harder.

"Every public official knows that it is his duty to expose wrong and evil regardless of where he finds it, and the man who will remain silent, especially if he occupies a high position of trust, is, in my judgment, derelict in his duty when he does not raise his voice in condemnation of political debauchery even though it strikes at the very head of his party. Mr. Hoover, measured by this test, fails to come up to the proper level.

"The charge is made against Gov. Smith that he is a member of the Tammany organization in New York. I have no more use for Tammany than I have for any other political machine, and I do not believe it is to the credit of Gov. Smith that in his early political life he associated closely with the Tammany organization, but I do think it is to his credit that he has risen above its domination and its influence.

Says Smith Is Above Tammany.

"His record, since he has been Governor, shows that Tammany has not controlled his appointments of office. Whatever influence this organization might have had, Gov. Smith, by his outspoken and courageous method in official action, has risen way above and beyond the domination and the control of that organization.

"But who is it who is crying out against him on account of Tammany? In the main, it is the same group of leading alleged statesmen who have opposed, at every step, the investigation of the crime and debauchery which has been going on in high places.

"Let us not forget that at Kansas City, in the Republican convention, at the psychological moment, in was Vare of Pennsylvania who put Herbert Hoover across, Vare, the head of the Republican machine in Philadelphia. And that machine is now turning heaven and earth to secure votes for Herbert Hoover. If you will compare the Vare machine in Pennsylvania with the Tammany machine in New York, as it has existed for the last sev-

$884,344 SO FAR SUBSCRIBED FOR COMMUNITY FUND

Still About $1,000,000 Behind $1,900,000 Goal at the End of the First Five Days.

Still about $1,000,000 behind the $1,900,000 goal, subscriptions to the seventh annual Community Fund last night totaled approximately $900,000. The last official tabulation, at noon yesterday, showed $884,344 subscribed during the first five days of the campaign, which will continue through Oct. 31.

The 4000 volunteer workers planned to spend the week-end in mapping out an intensive campaign during the three remaining days. Although the amount contributed so far averages slightly less than that subscribed at the corresponding point in last year's campaign, leaders are confident of success.

At yesterday's luncheon rally of workers at Hotel Statler, Boy Scouts who had distributed Community Fund [illegible] from door to door were guests of the campaign organization. A team headed by Milton F. Napier won first honors when reports were made, having oversubscribed its quota, with 103 per cent.

An appeal for funds was broadcast from an airplane yesterday afternoon by R. Fullerton Place, chairman of the fund Publicity Committee.

At the rally luncheons tomorrow and Tuesday, the presidents of various luncheon clubs and women's organizations will be guests. A final report rally will be held at Hotel Chase Wednesday night.

BORAH TELLS WHERE HE DIFFERS WITH SMITH AND HOOVER

ing him now—including myself. Men's opinions change. Few of us can stand to have a rigid test of consistency applied to our words over so long a period.

Press—How about Senator Norris? In order to stand by his progressive convictions, he felt compelled to support Smith, and he came out for him, although Norris is dry and Smith is wet.

Senator Borah—Well, Norris doesn't think prohibition is the most important issue, and I do. However, Smith doesn't meet Norris' views on water power, either, because Norris believes in Government distribution—just as I do.

Press—But Norris took the position that Smith at least came half way, while Hoover denounced any advance in that direction as "State Socialism!"

Senator Borah—He has a right to his opinion.

Still for the Norris Bill.

Press—How do you stand with Hoover on farm relief?

Senator Borah—I'm still for the Norris bill.

Press—But Norris abandoned his bill years ago and voted for the McNary-Haughen bill.

Senator Borah—Well, I didn't vote for it. I voted against it and I am still against it. I am confident Hoover will work out a satisfactory system of voluntary co-operation between the Government and the farm organizations. For the Government to compel the farmers to submit to Government marketing of their crops would be State socialism of the worst sort. On that point I agree with Hoover.

Press—The farm leaders have contended, and Smith contends, that any system is bound to fail unless all the farmers are brought into it, because those that would hold out, to evade the charges, would wreck the whole scheme. They ask whether it is State Socialism for the Federal Reserve Board to fix the price of money—as it virtually does.

Crossed Views on State Socialism.

Senator Borah—I cannot believe that even Gov. Smith would fail to see the difference between Government control of a bank, which is a public utility, and Government control of an individual farmer's crop, which is about as private as anything could be.

Press—But isn't it a fact that the Federal Reserve Board fixes the price of the money which that very farmer borrows to produce his crop? It is asked, therefore, whether that isn't as Socialistic as fixing the price which he gets for his crop?

Senator Borah—I think not, but I suppose we could argue until doomsday about it.

Here the interview ended.

The interview had opened when Borah returned to his office from a luncheon engagement with Hoover. The Senator joined in the general laughter when a young reporter asked him if he and the nominee had discussed the political situation. He said his future speaking itinerary was not certain, but that he would return to the stump after a few days' rest.

NORRIS ADVOCATES ELECTION OF SMITH ON POWER ISSUE

Links Hoover and Vare.

"Mr. Vare was refused admission to the Senate. The disclosures of corruption were publicly known before the election. Herbert Hoover knew about it. He knew of the crime and the debauchery in Pennsylvania where, under this man, the worst political machine that had ever been put together was controlling the State. He sat idly by while the administration lent its powerful influence to secure the election of Mr. Vare. And he has been the beneficiary of the activities of this corrupt machine in the very nomination he now has."

Norris scored the Republican candidate for remaining silent on what he termed the administration's "indefensible and illegal war down in Nicaragua," and by contrast praised Gov. Smith's condemnation of it.

"In no uncertain terms he has condemned this injustice," he said. "In courageous language he has promised that any administration of his shall not leave behind it such a blot of dishonor."

"The cry goes out that Gov. Smith is a Catholic, and that we must not elect a Catholic to the White House. What is the greatest fear that these anti-Catholics have? If you ask them and they give any reply, 99 out of 100 will say that the Catholics are opposed to our public school system.

"Let us see what the record shows about these two candidates in the defense of our public schools. When the power trust was stealing into our schools, when it was contaminating the minds of our children with poisoned propaganda when it was bribing teachers and preachers and professors, what did Hoover do? Again he was following the Hoover policies by remaining absolutely silent.

"But how about the Catholic, Gov. Smith? We find him using his power and his influence in condemnation of this unholy attempt at monopoly. He comes to the defense of our public schools and denounces in patriotic language the attempt of the power trust to get control of them. He has come the whole length.

"He stands today before the American people as a candidate for President, defending our public schools against this attack, while his opponent is so silent that he cannot even be heard in a whispering campaign. Gov. Smith stands today before the American people, the greatest defender in the Nation of our public school system.

"Look at the record of Gov. Smith while he has been Governor. Look over the appointments he has made to office and you must be convinced that religion has been by him kept entirely separate and apart from his official actions. He has carried out, in spirit and in letter, the Constitution of the United States.

Norris Opposes Intolerance.

"We are treading on dangerous ground when we object to a man holding office because of his religion. There are men in all religious denominations who are unreasonable—men who would like to force their particular religious upon the state. But, thank God, Gov. Smith is not one of them. He is not only opposed to it himself, but he stands out fearlessly and courageously and condemns any attempt that will interfere with the efficiency of our public school system. Under his leadership, in the State of New York, the greatest development took place in the public schools of that State that has ever occurred."

Senator Norris quoted Lincoln and Jefferson in denunciation of religious prejudice.

"If these religious objectors have their way," he continued, "what will be the end? If we put a ban on Catholics, who will be the next to feel the rebuke of this intolerant spirit? The next, I presume, will be the Jews. Then will come the Lutherans, and so on, until everybody except a few religious cranks will be prohibited from holding public office. Such conduct is contrary to the expressed provision of the Constitution. It is contrary to the teachings of the lowly Nazarene who taught to humanity the lesson of brotherly love.

"Write my name as one who loves his fellow man. That is a doctrine under which the Catholic, the Jew and the Gentile, and all believers of any faith, can unite and go forward in our political world to bring about the maximum amount of happiness for our people. That is the doctrine that ought to actuate every citizen when he goes into his booth with no one but God to watch him, where, if he follows that doctrine, he will permit the still, small voice within his breast which never yet has led human being astray, to control his official action, because, in the end and in the highest sense, religion and politics ought to be broad enough and big enough so that we could all unite under the banner of Abou Ben Adhem and exclaim: 'Write my name as one who loves his fellow men.'"

CHANGES OF POLITICAL FRONT, SURVEY SHOWS

Fewer Doubtful States Indicated by New York World Correspondent.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The New York World publishes today the sixth and last of its series of bi-weekly political surveys obtained from its correspondents in the principal cities of the 48 states in response to queries as to conditions of their respective communities.

"Whereas the survey of two weeks ago found the doubtful states decidedly on the increase," says the World, "the present reports show that in many quarters the situation is crystallizing in favor of one of the two major candidates for the presidency, but that no accurate forecast of what will happen Nov. 6 can yet be made.

"Generally speaking, it would seem that the last fortnight has witnessed changes of political front almost kaleidoscopic. This, it is apparent, has been due to the increased activity manifested in the campaign by the leaders of both major parties and, perhaps more than that, to the personal activities of the Presidential aspirants.

Changes in the West.

"Democrats, who hoped Gov. Smith's swing around the country would result in an overnight stampede of voters to his cause, are doomed to disappointment, if the correspondents who furnished these dispatches to the World are right in their contentions. Colorado and Montana, two of the states in which Smith spoke and which were at one time named as doubtful states, are, according to the correspondents in the respective states, now in the Hoover column.

"Minnesota, Oklahoma, Massachusetts, Missouri and Wisconsin, in which he spoke, are still in the doubtful column, but in each of these states heavy Republican drives are reported under way. Nebraska, another point in which the New York executive spoke, is listed in the doubtful column not because of his visit there, but because of the declaration of that State's favorite Senator, Norris, in Gov. Smith's favor.

Neck-and-Neck Race Likely.

"In many aspects, this survey, compared with others recently published, would give an impartial observer good reason for the belief that the final result may be a neck-and-neck race between the two candidates for the favor of the doubtful states which are left. Should this be true, the election results should be in early on Nov. 7, the day after voting day, because virtually all of the doubtful states are in Eastern or Middle Western territory.

MIDDLETOWN BANK CLOSED

Twenty-seventh Missouri Depository Failure This Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 27.—The Farmers' Bank of Middletown, Montgomery County, was closed today by the Board of Directors and the State Finance Department requested to take charge. The closing was attributed to slow and uncollectible loans. It was the twenty-seventh State bank to close this year.

The last report showed the bank had total resources of $90,752; loans of $70,493; deposits of $84,452, and bills payable of $9800. The capital stock was $15,000 and the surplus $1500.

POPE PIUS X PROPOSED AS SAINT OF CHURCH

Preliminary Steps Completed for Beatification of Late Pontiff.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 27.—The project to beatify the late Pope Pius X, the first step in the Catholic Church's process of proclaiming one of its members a saint, is nearing completion.

The inquiries instituted at Treviso, Venice and Montoro, where Giuseppe Sarto, "the children's Pope," exercised his ministry before being elected Supreme Pontiff, have been brought to an end. The findings have been submitted to Rome. A similar process, ordered by the present Pope, Pius XI, and undertaken by his vicar-general, Cardinal Pompili, will soon be finished. The next step will be Pius XI's formal introduction of a "causa" for beatification before the College of Cardinals.

The inquiries thus far conducted arrive at the unanimous conclusion that the Pope who died at the outbreak of the World War was in all respects a most saintly man, of infinite sweetness of character, self-denying to a fault and animated throughout his life as priest, Bishop and Pontiff by the desire he expressed in his first encyclical, "to restore all things in Christ." The ecclesiastical authorities conducting the investigation say they have been touched by the amount of unsolicited testimony that has poured in on them from all over the world.

Pius X resposes in a crypt of St. Peter's cathedral in Rome, and before his grave there pass daily throngs of Catholics, kneeling to pray for his intercession or thank him for bounty in the past. In fact, it may be said that to the Romans, and his former charges, the Venetians, he has already assumed all the attributes of a saint, and the progress of his beatification is expected to be expedited in consequence.

CHILDREN COMPETE IN HORSE SHOW MATINEE

Galleries Applaud When Roy L. Davis' Big Black Win Cups and Blue Ribbon.

Youngsters in their 'teens and one young man just out of kindergarten were among the competing riders at yesterday's Fall Horse Show matinee in the gaily decorated Missouri Stables arena, 5200 Berthold avenue. The show, which began Tuesday night, closes this afternoon with another matinee.

Six-year-old Jimmy Gorham, son of Harry Gorham, owner of several mounts from Morris, Ill., drove a spanking black Shetland pony in the children's class, and carried off the trophy. Clad in a minute pair of green trousers and a miniature white sweater, young Gorham looked dangerously frail back of the spirited pony, yet he handled the animal dexterously, and once—when his charge tossed his head—was heard to exclaim—"Doggone it!"

Otis W. Brown, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Brown, also proved that advanced years are not essential to expert horsemanship. A slight, freckled lad, Otis took the riding trophy for boys under 16 years, drove his Shetland pony to a fourth in the Children's class, and, paired with Miss Marcella Berkley, led a drill team of 24 boys and girls on horseback, as the commands came from Art Mueller, riding master at the Missouri stables. After the drill young Brown rode back into the ring on Topsy, his saddle pony, and took the red ribbon in the contest for mounts under 14-2.

Dappled Gray Proves Surprise.

Rolla Reid, a low built dappled gray with sturdy legs, proved a surprise in the jumpers events, carrying off the trophy and $500 stake. The horse is owned by Gorham. Rolla Reid's legs caused more than one Virginia thoroughbred to turn up its nose, but the horse went over the hurdles as if it had wings. Another Gorham mount took second place red ribbon. August A. Busch Jr.'s Dansant, ridden by the owner, was third, and Spring Leaf, another horse owned by Busch, was fourth.

Mueller, riding Sky Pilot, a powerful hunter owned by Mrs. C. H. Langenberg, was thrown over a hurdle when the horse gathered himself for a leap and refused the jump. Slightly bruised, he mounted again, and the horse finished his jumps. Mueller later rode Lady Lightfoot, Arthur C. Hilmer's jumper, in the same event.

Glint O'Gold, the sensational bay mare owned by Miss Martha Nicolaus, and that took the $1000 stake Friday night in the three-gaited class, was also a trophy winner yesterday among the three-gaiters. My Delight, owned by W. T. Treadway and ridden by Dr. William C. Gadsby, took second ribbon; Ethel King, ridden by Miss Norma Engle, being third, and Al Greis, owned and ridden by Dr. John R. Caulk, fourth.

The galleries applauded feelingly when Black Dutchess and Lou Minter, both from the Bel-Air stables, were put through their paces by Roy L. Davis, the owner, and Miss Audrey L. Pugh. The horses—both big blacks—trotted, cantered, walked, paced and stepped in unison, easily taking the two cups and blue ribbon.

The Other Winners.

Other winners were Princess, Miss Gabriele von Schilling, trophy in the Hunter Hack event, for walk, trot and canter, then over two jumps; King Larigo, Heyl Pony Farms, Washington, Ill., trophy for Shetland Model; for the Shetland Unicorn event (ponies harness in threes) trophy to the Heyl Pony Farms; Clara Bow, owned by Lon Blades of Halliday, Mo., trophy in the five-gaited junior class and stake of $500; Dude, Earl M. Dixon of New Boston, Ill., trophy in the saddle pony class under 14-2, Hackney Pony trophy, taken by the Heyl Pony Farm.

REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS TO QUIT WORK ON NOV. 3

Only Accounting and Speakers' Bureau Will Continue, Says Dr. Work.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON Oct. 27.—The approaching windup of the Republican campaign was foreshadowed here today in a notice posted in the National Committee's offices by Chairman Work saying that employes, with the exception of the accounting and speakers' bureaus, would terminate their duties on Nov. 3.

"The headquarters in Washington with its branches in New York and Chicago," it read, "will be closed by the evening of Nov. 3."

Dr. Work added that on Nov. 6 "We will win that for which we have been so actively striving and will have gained the gratitude of the nation for services rendered in its interests."

A third call for contributions to the Republican city campaign list was received yesterday by voters on the mailing list of the City Committee, which has set $75,000 as its goal.

As has been told in the Post-Dispatch, a substantial portion of the fund, probably about $25,000, is being raised among 6000 employes on the city payroll.

20 OVERCOME BY ESCAPING POISON GAS

Chlorine Fumes Affect Many in Birmingham, Ala., but None Seriously.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 27.—A high pressure chlorine gas tank blew off its valve on the ground floor of the Jefferson County Court House here today, sending 20 persons to hospitals for treatment and affecting 40 others before rescue squads of city firemen and Bureau of Mines workers could reach them. All those treated at the hospitals were discharged within a few hours. No one was seriously affected.

The gas spread from the ground floor into the County Jail which is connected with the Court House.

Firemen equipped with makeshift gas masks went through the lower floors carrying out persons trapped in their offices while other squads reached the upper floors by extension ladders from fire trucks.

As P. M. Wallace, a Negro porter, picked up the tank of chlorine gas in the office of L. H. Salter, sanitary engineer, the valve blew off. In a few minutes poisonous gas had climbed the elevator shafts and stairways and invaded the offices and court rooms above. The upper floors were soon crowded with a scrambling crowd fighting to get out of the building. Elevator Operator J. W. Moore carried several loads of passengers to safety before he was overcome and sent to a hospital.

Jailer Michael Milligan was among the first to be overcome but revived on reaching the open air and led a rescue party back into the jail where doctors treated those prisoners who had been affected by the gas in their cells. Milligan set all the electric fans in the jail in motion and cleared the building of gas.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VANDALIA, Mo., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Charles B. Faris of St. Louis, in a political speech to a large audience in Vandalia this afternoon, condemned the W. C. T. U. for its activities in the campaign, and also for its support of Heber Nations when he was on trial in the Federal Court under the Volstead law. She said the W. C. T. U. was inconsistent in its views and was always supporting the Republican candidate. She assailed Henry S. Caufield, Republican nominee for the governorship.

STEINWAY : WEBER : STECK

Pre-eminently Established As The World's Finest Pianos

This is well worth knowing when you begin looking for a piano

IN EUROPE there are just as many musicians, and music loving homes, as there are in America. Each has a piano preference. But of all pianos , just three have found their way into the hearts of the world , beyond the boundaries of a few cities , a few states , beyond the boundary of one country. The demand for them is international. A demand so insistent that they must be produced internationally. There are three of them , and only three.

The STEINWAY made in America and Germany
The WEBER made in America and England
The STECK made in America, England, France, Germany and Australia

All three are in this store , for your choosing. The world's best loved pianos! The story of the immortal Steinway is for another time. This one concerns the Weber and the Steck , a mere glimpse to give you some idea of their world leadership. A glimpse into Buckingham Palace. You'll see the Weber. In the Vatican , Weber. Mussolini's Palace , Weber. The Elysee Palace in Paris , Weber. The Swedish court , Weber. In the music room of the Belgian queen , of the Spanish queen , and many more , all Weber! With all the world to choose from , Royalty chooses an American Piano , the Weber , , , Must your own piano selection be more moderate in price? Then we submit the Steck. It enters more American homes and homes in more corners of the globe than any other piano name of medium price. Steinway , Weber , Steck , the world's finest pianos twenty years ago , and years before that , but twenty years ago because it was then that the Aeolian Company of Missouri first opened its doors , and these were the makes with which it began business. In not a single iota have the Steinway, Weber and Steck departed from fidelity to high principles , and in like manner has the Aeolian Company of Missouri kept faith with its expanding clientele, so creating a business in St. Louis widely known for dependability and stability. The world's finest and best loved pianos await your pleasure in this store. They are just as easy to own as any other , and your pride is considerably deeper in your ownership.

HOOVER HEARS AND SEES SELF IN TALKING MOVIE

Republican Nominee Spends Much of Day at Home Working on His St. Louis Speech.

G. O. P. ORATORS ON AIR THIS WEEK

Hughes, Mellon, Work, Kellogg and Borah to Make Addresses in Closing Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee spent much of today at his home working on his St. Louis speech in which, on next Friday night, he will express his views on farm relief.

During the morning he visited a downtown theater to see and hear himself in action in a talking motion picture of his New York speech last week.

As the campaign went into its last stage, the Republican National Committee completed arrangements for a closing oratorical bombardment of the country over the radio by a group of the party's outstanding spokesmen.

In addition to Hoover's speech at St. Louis, Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, Senator Borah, Secretary Mellon, Secretary Kellogg and Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will go into action in the final drive for a continuation of the Republican regime.

Secretary Mellon and Dr. Work will open the week with 15-minute speeches over a national hookup at 8 o'clock Monday night and Secretary Kellogg will speak on Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock. On the following night Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York will address the country at the same hour.

Hughes will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally in Brooklyn on Thursday night, and will go on the air at a 9 o'clock.

The hour for the speech of the candidate at St. Louis has not yet been fixed, but on the following night Senator Borah will close his radio campaign with a 90-minute speech at Utica, N. Y.

The congratulations of Irving Bacheller, Hamlin Garland and Lawrence Abbott, New York authors and critics, upon "the dignity and spirit" of Hoover's New York speech were conveyed to him today.

"For these qualities and for its philosophical tone and insight we rank it with the now famous Cooper Union speech of Lincoln," they said.

SAYS FARMERS MUST WORK OUT THEIR OWN SALVATION

C. S. Barrett, Retiring National Union Leader, Declares Only Reasonable Profit Is Wanted.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANT[illegible]a., Oct. 27—Charles S. Barrett announced here today that he will retire as head of the National Farmers' Union at the time of the national convention in Denver, Nov. 20, after 22 years of service. Barrett will remain as chairman of the National Board of Farm Organizations.

"After 22 years as witness," said Barrett, "I still hold that it is up to the farmers to work out their own salvation rather than turn their job over to others. One of the big issues today, which has been for some time past and will continue to be, is the farm problem. Nearly everybody is giving time and thought to it.

"Farmers do not ask for any special favors. They simply insist that they should realize a reasonable profit from the products of their toil and, when these profits are deposited in their pockets, that they shall not have their pockets picked by discriminatory legislation. About all the average farmer wants is just a plain square deal."

Barrett's home is at Union City, Ga.

TO DEMAND APOLOGY FROM CURTIS FOR IOWA FARMERS

A. J. Livingston Challenges Nominee to Explain "Too Damn Dumb" Remark.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 27.—A. J. Livingston of Spencer, Clay County, farmer at whom was directed Senator Charles Curtis' now famous retort, "You are too damn dumb to understand," delivered at Spencer, Ia., Sept. 19, will be on hand in Des Moines when the Senator comes back to Iowa for a return engagement, to demand an apology from the Republican vice presidential nominee, he said today.

The apology to be asked is not a personal one, Livingston said, but one asked for Iowa farmers who he believes were insulted.

Livingston already has paved the way for his request for an apology by a letter he has sent Senator Curtis suggesting that the nominee divide with him the allotted speaking time when the Senator appears here Nov. 1, "for a discussion of important questions, before the people at this time."

"I suppose you think we are a still too damn dumb to understand. Let me know by return mail if you accept my challenge," the letter stated.

Lindbergh Not Likely to Vote.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—Charles A. Lindbergh will not go to St. Louis to vote on election day, it was learned today. The American-to-Paris flyer, who is now on a hunting trip in Northern Mexico, is due to arrive here by plane Nov. 6, election day in America, to visit American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. Lindbergh recently indorsed the candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

Cermak Claims $500,000 votes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Anton J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, laid claim today to 500,000 labor votes after a delegation representing several labor organizations had visited him and pledged their support. The delegetion represented the Cook County Wage Earners' League, the Chicago Building Trades Council, the Shet Metal Workers' International Association, the Chicago Teamsters District Coupncil, the Chicago Flat Janitors' Union, the Painters' District Council, the Electrical Workers' Union, the Bricklayers' and Stone Masons' Union and the Moving Picture Operators' Union.

OVERCHARGED BILL 'COMPROMISED' BY STATE PENAL BODY

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 27.—A "compromise settlement" of approximately $8600 in alleged overcharges on supplies sold by the Lee Jordan Lumber Co. of Jefferson City to the State Penitentiary, which were purchased by the prison without competitive bids, has been made by the State Penal Board, it was learned today, but the board refused to make public the details of the settlement—"at least not until after the election."

Access to the records and an explanation of the "compromise" were refused when requested by the correspondent. A. H. Harrison, director of Penal Institutions and chairman of the board, after referring the request to the board, said the request could not be complied with until after the election on Nov. 6.

"The board discussed the matter and felt the transaction should not be made public at least until after the election, and possibly not then," Director Harrison said. "All we can say is that there was a compromise settlement between the Jordan company and the board."

Aftermath of Enloe Regime.

The accounts settled involved purchases made by the State Penal Board when it was headed by Dr. Cortez F. Enloe of Jefferson City, who retired from the board in September, 1927, in a belated reorganization that followed a State Senate investigation of the prison management earlier in the year. None of the purchases was made by the board as it is now constituted.

The board also decided to postpone until after the election the issuance of a statement on the financial condition of the prison, which had been requested.

When the present board took charge in September, 1927, the prison had $1,001,647 in bills it could not pay, as a heritage from the former board. The financial condition has been improved somewhat since that time through economies and the change of management, it was said, but board members have admitted the prison will have to ask the Legislature for a larger deficiency appropriation.

Lee Jordan, head of the lumber company, also declined to discuss the settlement, which was completed recently. "We made a compromise," Jordan said. "The prison was short on money and I was long on money, so we settled it. Nothing was to be said about it, and I can't tell the details."

Overcharges Audited Twice.

Two audits of the alleged overcharges were made, one by the State Auditor in the course of a general audit of the prison, and the other by R. A. Louks, until recently an auditor for the penitentiary.

State Auditor Thompson's official report made a direct charge that an over charge of $8,598.63 was made in bills totaling $11,164.46 for material sold the prison by the Jordan Lumber Co. for repair of a building. The auditor's report declared an investigation had been made of the fair market price of the materials delivered, and the fair price was $2,565.83.

The audit by Loucks extended over a longer period. Access to this report, more than 60 pages in length, was denied. It was learned, however, that Loucks' audit covered approximately $59,000 in bills for supplies purchased by the prison from the Jordan company and that his report alleged overcharges of nearly $17,000. This total included the $8598 in alleged overcharges found by the State Auditor.

It also was learned that in the settlement there was a question as to whether it should take into consideration a part of the alleged overcharges reported by Loucks, that arose in about $30,000 of the bills that already had been paid, or should apply only to the $8598 alleged excess charges in the rest of the account that remained unpaid when the new board took charge.

The settlement was on the latter basis, involving the amount found by the State Auditor, it was said, as the old bills already had been paid by the old board. The amount deducted was not disclosed.

The State Auditor's report on the overcharges deal only with material purchased to repair a building in Jefferson City, not owned by the prison, which the former Board proposed to use for a wood products factory. The building was some distance from the prison, and the report stated it could "not be used advantageously and economically," by the prison.

"Unheard-of Prices Shown.

"Competitive prices on the material to repair this building were neither asked for nor received, and analyzing of the same shows unheard-of prices for much of the material which was ordered," the report stated.

In the analysis of the bills the report stated 157 barrels of roofing cement were billed at $35 a barrel, totaling $5495. The report stated 121 barrels were delivered, and that the type of cement delivered could be purchased at $35 a ton at the time, and that the fair price of the quantity delivered was $847.

Another item billed, the report stated, was 1883 squares of a patented roofing, at $2.75 a square, totaling $5202.95. The report stated 1686 squares were delivered and that the market quotation at the time for the particular roofing was 70 cents a square. The fair price of the roofing delivered was placed at $1180.20.

The other differences between the $11,164.46 as billed to the prison, and the $2565.83 which the auditors said their investigation showed to be the fair market price, were minor ones on items of lumber, nails, glass, hardware, and an adjustment for a small quantity of paint delivered but not billed.

MERCHANT SHOOTS AT ALLEGED EXTORTIONERS

Joseph Cusumano Meets Two at Rendezvous and Drives Them Off.

Two masked men jumped from an automobile at Twenty-second and O'Fallon streets Friday night and with drawn revolvers advanced on Joseph Cusumano, 37 years old, an Italian fruit merchant of 1425 North Tenth street. "Don't move!" one of them cried, but Consumano ignored the command, whipped out a revolver and fired two shots at the men.

With an Italian oath the masked men fled to their machine and drove rapidly away. Cusumano walked to Carr Street Police Station and laid his revolver on the counter. The two men, he declared, were extortionists.

For three weeks, he related, he had received anonymous letters and telephone calls threatening death to himself and his family unless he surrendered $15,000. Once he was ordered to go to Calvary avenue, between Bellefontaine and Calvary cemeteries, and place the money under a roc"

He ignored the instructions and threats until Friday afternoon, when a man telephoned him "a last warning," instructing him to get the money, walk south on Tenth street to O'Fallon street and west to Twenty-second street.

Cusumano complied in everything except that, instead of money he carried his revolver, fully loaded. Alone he tramped to the designated spot, lingering for a minute or two. He was turning to go home when the two men leaped at him.

Cusumano said he had no idea who the men might be and declared he could not identify them because of their masks. He was released under bond, booked as "suspected of affray," although witnesses confirmed his account of the shooting.

Gallstone Troubles Explained

Kansas City Doctor Gives Good Advice to Sufferers From Gallstones of the Liver

Gallstone sufferers, especially those whose suffering has about driven them to an operation, will welcome the joyous news that a large percentage of cases of this painful, health destroying disease may now be successfully treated without surgery.

To Dr. E. E. Paddock, a Kansas City physician, who for 30 years has specialized in the treatment of diseases of the gall bladder, gall ducts and the liver, belongs the credit for a remarkable home medical treatment that sufferers the country over declare has brought relief and has made hundreds of operations unnecessary.

According to Dr. Paddock, surgery is resorted to in many cases where medical treatment would be effective. It is Dr. Paddock's claim the knife should be used only in emergency cases, and that surgery removes only the effect—the cause remaining—unless medical treatment is taken to correct the trouble. Dr. Paddock is a strong advocate of the use of medicines to escape the necessity and danger of an operation. His book fully explains his method of treatment and offers convincing evidence of its efficiency.

Anyone who is afflicted or who is suspicious of any catarrhal inflammation and infection of the gall bladder or gall ducts associated with gallstones of the liver, should send for Dr. Paddock's booklet, "The Liver and Gall Bladder." A copy will be sent free and postpaid to any who request it. In this booklet the Doctor tells the story of his long experience in treating catarrhal conditions associated with gallstones of the liver with medicine. He explains the symptoms by which the disease may be recognized before it reaches an acute stage —and why these symptoms, unheeded, may cause indescribable suffering and ill health. Just fill in and mail the coupon below and the booklet will be sent free and without any obligation whatsoever. Send for it today.

GARY'S OPPOSITION TO ROAD BONDS AMAZES BRITTON

Points Out That Ex-Chairman of Board Declared He Would Support Any Plan Approved.

ASSERTS PAINTER HAS OWN SCHEME

All but Two of 15 Who Have Served on Commission Favor $75,000,000 Issue.

Of 15 men who have served as members of the State Highway Commission since it was created in 1917, only two are opposing the $75,000,000 State road bond issue, proposition No. 3 on the November constitutional ballot, and most of the others are supporting it actively, Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, said in a speech over radio station KWK Friday night in support of the proposition.

The opponents are Theodore Gary, former chairman of the Commission, who is the leader of the small group fighting the bond proposal, and S. S. Connett, former vice chairman of the Commission. The names of Gary and Connett were among those signed to an advertisement attacking the issue which Gary published in newspapers recently. One of the other names signed was that of State Senator J. G. Morgan of Unionville, who, however, has repudiated his connection with the group, as he is supporting the bond issue. Another signer was State Senator W. R. Painter of Carrollton. Of him. Britton said:

"Senator Painter is a sincere friend of good roads, but he now has a plan of his own, to increase the State gasoline tax from 2 to 4 cents a gallon instead of having a bond issue."

Piepmeier Works for Gary.

"Three of the men named," Britton continued, "have been conspicuous for their opposition to all proposals designed to carry forward the construction of a connected State highway system. It is not surprising to find them in opposition to proposition No. 3; they are consistent; but it is most surprising to find Mr. Gary in their company. One of the men named, the former Chief Highway Engineer (B. H. Piepmeier) is now in Mr. Gary's employ and it is natural that he should support his employer's views.

"When the bond issue was first proposed, Mr. Gary disagreed, but stated several times he would support anything the State Highway Commission approved. When the Governor's Compromise Committee submitted the $75,000,000 proposal, all of the contending forces, relying on Mr. Gary's statements, yielded their individual views, but in spite of the fact that the State Highway Commission unanimously approved the proposition, Mr. Gary continued to fight it."

Referring to the heading of Gary's recent advertisement, "Authorities on Good Roads Laws (meaning those signing the statement) Oppose Proposition No. 3," Britton said:

"While Mr. Gary made a wonderful record as chairman of the State Highway Commission, to which we have always paid tribute, he had nothing whatever to do with the framing or adoption of the $60,000,000 bond issue in 1920 or the passage of the Centennial road law. Both were in existence at the time he was appointed head of the commission. The old proposition, No. 5, was framed and prepared in 1924 while he was in Europe. The necessary laws and financing were prepared for Mr. Gary by substantially the same group of men who are sponsoring Proposition No. 3. He is not and never before pretended to be a road law authority."

Outstate for Police Pension.

A canvass of every county in Missouri by the Police Pension Committee, which is supporting Proposition No. 2, the St. Louis police pension initiative act, shows that no opposition to the measure has been encountered in the rural communities, the committee announced. While a State-wide vote is necessary, the act affects St. Louis only. Residents of the remainder of the State have been told in the campaign that the pension system would not concern them financially and would cost St. Louis only $150,000 a year, to be given by the city in addition to $80,000 annual assessments against the policemen.

Felix E. Gunter, chairman of the committee, pointed out that the St. Louis police force has a definite limit in size and that many aged members ought to be retired, but the Police Board dislikes to retire them in the absence of an adequate pension system. Younger men, he added, would make a more efficient force, better able to cope with young criminals. Proper provision would become possible under the act for the families of policemen slain in the performance of duty, Gunter went on, instead of private charity which often has been necessary in the past. Various organizations throughout the State have been sending in a constant stream of indorsements of the proposition, and Gunter expressed the belief that it will be carried.

A one-reel movie, "An Every Day Hero," with a cast composed of St. Louis policemen, supporting the pension act, will be shown this week in all theaters of the Skouras Bros. and of the St. Louis Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association.

Claude B. Ricketts, a Republican nominee for State Representative, addressing the South Side Kiwanis Club at Bevo Mill Friday, asked support for proposition No. 1, which would raise the pay of legislators to an equitable scale and would provide for the State's fiscal year to start July 1 instead of June 1.

He explained the necessity of the change in the fiscal year. Appropriations by the Legislature now expire Dec. 31 of each even-numbered year, immediately after which the Legislature meets, but there is some delay before appropriations are passed for the ensuing biennium, and the State's departments are hampered in their operation in the meantime. The change would overcome this unbusiness-like conditions, Ricketts pointed out.

WIFE DIES OF WOUND INFLICTED BY HUSBAND

Before Dying Denies His Charge That She Had Tried to Poison Him.

Mrs. Anna Nockunas, 40 years old, who was shot in the abdomen Sept. 13 by her husband, Pete Nockunas, 51, after he had accused her of attempting to poison him, died Friday night at the City Hospital.

Nockunas was arrested at their home, 2610 DeKalb street, immediately after the shooting and has been in the city jail ever since.

Their 14-year-old daughter, Nettie, said Nockunas was obsessed with the idea that his wife was trying to poison him and frequently upbraided her. On the evening of Sept. 13, the girl said, they were at the dinner table when Nockunas suddenly left the room and returned with his revolver. "Take this," he exclaimed, and fired a shot at his wife, according to the daughter.

Before her death, Mrs. Nockunas told police there was no basis for her husband's suspicions. He complained that he was being poisoned, she said, whenever he ate something that disagreed with him.

GERMANS CO-OPERATE IN REPARATIONS PLAN

Cabinet Paves Way for Appointment of Experts to Meet in December.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—The German Cabinet yesterday paved the way for appointment of the commission of experts, which, it is hoped, will find a way to bring about a final settlement of the reparations problem. The Cabinet decided to participate with other Governments in the selection of the commission, and it was predicted in Government circles that the preliminaries would be cleared easily so that the commission itself could begin its labor early in December at the latest.

The place at which the Commission is to meet, its program and its personnel will all be worked out through consultation of the Governments concerned. Germany, it was said, will insist that the Commission shall be composed of independent, practical, economic experts whose proved ability and experience will entitle them to pass judgment on Germany's capacity to pay. The Commission, Germany thinks, should decide also on the best methods for arriving at a settlement of the reparations and other war debts of this country.

$600,000 Will Contest Dismissed.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 27.—A suit brought by two brothers and a sister to set aside the will of the late U. S. LOCUST STREET MAN HAD SEVERE RHEUMATISM FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

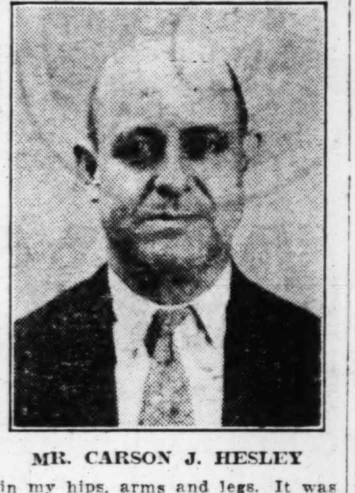
Joints Creaked and Snapped—Gives Credit to Weldona Tablets for Recovery

"For eighteen years I suffered with arthritis or chronic rheumatism of the joints" said Mr. Carson J. Hesley who resides at 2602 Locust street, St. Louis. Mr. Hesley continued: "I seemed to have rheumatism in every part of my body, but the worst trouble seemed to be in my hips, arms and legs. It was impossible for me to raise my arms to my head because of the pain and stiffness in my shoulders, it was also difficult for me to find a comfortable position at night. My joints would creak and snap and I would have to have help in getting up from a chair because of the stiffness in my knee joints. I think I have had rheumatism about as severe as anyone could have it.



MR. CARSON J. HESLEY

"I read about the good work Weldona tablets were doing for people right here in St. Louis and decided to give it a trial, despite the fact that I had all kinds of treatments without relief. I am glad to say that in a short time the pain and stiffness left my shoulders so that I could get my hands to my head, can now shave and dress myself, sleep on either side and the pain has left me. The creaking and snapping has left my joints and I feel like a new man.

"I cannot say enough in praise for Weldona tablets and would be glad to have anyone interested to call, or write me in reference to my recovery."

One thousand dollars reward to anyone proving that testimonials are not genuine.

Weldona is absolutely harmless and it will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ. It is not just a pain-killer but will get you rid of your rheumatism entirely, and it contains no dope or any harmful ingredients.

The Weldonna representative who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out absolutely free of charge the 24-page, fully illustrated books entitled "Germs of Rheumatism" to all who call or write for them. 5 MINUTES FROM ANYWHERE

NO MORE will it be necessary for you, Mr. and Mrs. Motorist, to mill around the downtown when business or pleasure calls and your automobile waits, for today, after four years of effort, we are able to present to you our conception of the finest, most modern, motor terminals, served by a personnel to whom courtesy is inborn and not merely practiced.

Four years of definite work to this objective, during which time we have been serving thousands of motorists and during which time this organization has forged steadily forward, until today it has an investment in service to you of over TWO MILLION DOLLARS, enables us to state with authority that no finer service exists in any city in this country.

That the motoring public has appreciated our efforts is attested by the fact that we handle more cars per property than any other similar institution—that we are the largest re-sellers of gasoline in Saint Louis—that we are the largest re-sellers of lubricating oils in the city—that we are the largest producers of thoroughly cleaned cars in the city.

Hand in hand with our intense desire to deserve and conserve the interests of the motoring public has come our ability to deliver that service at rates absolutely unheard of in this or any other city—for you can park your car with us at no cost under our A. M. T. Parking Plan, whereby 10% of the amount of your purchase while parked is credited on your parking charge. To those who need no supplies, a charge of only 15 cents for the first hour and 5 cents for each additional hour is made. No car owner today can afford not to use downtown A. M. T. Service.

Through our monthly rental system, tenants of each garage have interchangeable service at all garages, and the same is true of our coupon book system which enables the casual parker to limit his daily expenditure.

And withal, no tipping is permitted and our personnel guarantee you against it.

Drive downtown today with confidence—determine your objective and select that A. M. T. Garage nearest. You will revive the pleasure of motor shopping again, and the time saved will create a new idea of the possibilities of business via motor car. BY ALL MEANS—while you are parked—leave your order for such maintenance service as you may require—it's so easy that it's enticing, as thousands of motorists have found out in the last few years.

1. Jefferson-Plaza

The newest and most modern garage in Saint Louis — exhibiting entirely new features of garage construction.

Handling over 600 cars at one time, it is designed to appeal primarily to the most fastidious shopper, and is so located that those who approach from the West over Locust, Olive or Washington can drive into a doorway 100 feet wide.

No occasion to drive into the congested district. See this truly beautiful garage.

2. Broad-Wal

The pioneer of the A. M. T. Chain, where nearly 300 business men have regular yearly space—and the tenancy list reads like "Who's Who in Saint Louis." A garage which has earned for itself an enviable reputation from coast to coast.

3. Seven-Wal

The largest of the Chain—convenient to that vast Saint Louis from the South and East—where more than 22% of the cars are from Illinois—and the metropolitan City meets its East Side neighbors.

Moving ten cars a minute with a waiting time for delivery of barely a minute or two, this garage can and does handle at one time more cars than one can see looking in all four directions from the corner of Eighth and Olive. Especially convenient for downtown shoppers, and those with business in the great business section adjoining. Also the parking place for more theater-goers than any other spot in the City.

4. Sev-Mor

Will begin to park cars on November 1. Built after the style of Jefferson-Plaza, especially designed to meet the requirements of that vast group of shoppers to whom Seventh Street and Washington Avenue represent the entire range of shopping possibilities. A block from Stix, Baer & Fuller—four to Famous-Barr—four to Nugents—with the shows, hotels and other great stores most convenient.

HIGHER POST-ELECTION RATES, LONDON VIEW

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Placing coming developments in their probable order of occurrence, the presidential election in the United States is regarded as the supreme event of the near future. Rightly or wrongly, many in England's financial circles are looking for a possible break in Wall street after the election, basing their view on the belief that the Federal Reserve banks may then take special action to make money really scarce if the boom still continues.

The same quarters, which have banking affiliations rather than interest in the stock exchange, consider such action would be justified, even if they were temporarily affected. Their argument is that stringent measures might have the desired effect over a period of a few weeks when money rates would become easier, and they would recover quickly. This is, of course, merely a view in London and is without complete knowledge of facts on the spot. At all events, cautious operators are inclined to hold their hands until the American election is out of the way.

Following closely after the election in the United States interest is likely to center in the progress of German reparations negotiations. These matters are being watched keenly, both from political and financial standpoints.

Politically, it is considered that a definite settlement would do much to clear the general atmosphere and in that sense constitute a bull point. It is not believed, however, that the United States would favor any plan for mobilization of German assets in the shape of big loan flotations in America. The great acquisition of foreign loans in the United States has already taxed, not so much its resources as the New York money market.

Another cause of anxiety, however, lies in the belief that whatever form the German reparations agreement may take, German prosperity must for sometime depend on her power to continue to borrow huge amounts abroad, hence countries like America and England, when taking a long view of the monetary outlook, have to bear in mind such outstanding factors as Germany's continued borrowing and the Bank of France's great holdings of dollar and sterling credits.

Considerations like these prevent any confident expectation of sufficient monetary ease in England to warrant hopes that the Government can carry through really profitable big debt conversion schemes. Broadly speaking, the present outlook favors continuance of present conditions in the markets for some time. Those conditions comprise steadiness in investment stocks and activity in industrials, confined to a few groups that are stimulated by special development schemes, like that of the Mond Nickel deal, the tobacco bonuses and so on.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review, says:

"Action enough to deserve attention was furnished in only two documents in the foreign exchange market during the past week. The most important was the continued heavy buying of Japanese exchange by local banking institutions on which yen cables rose a cent to the yen at 47.60.

"Spanish exchange which had been without substantial demand for a long time, had one of its weakest periods in the first few days, when peseta cables dropped 10 points to 16.06, making a new low for the year. A still greater decline occurred in the London market, but after that movement in London, Government support appeared in this market, causing a rally to 16.16. This improvement was not maintained, the market for pesetas again becoming extremely thin.

"Sterling held close to $4.85 for cables all through the week. For a time, there was a good demand slightly above that level which may have been due to arrangements for the further engagement of $1,000,000 gold for shipment from London. In the past few days, the market for sterling eased off again with a supply at $4.84 15-16 and extensive inquiries just below that level. Continentals were irregular. French showed strength for a time, but eased off yesterday. Belgium, Dutch and German held strong, moving up in the last half of the week, and Norwegians also showed a firm tone.

"Silver exchanges displayed strength in the past few days following an advance in the price for metal. Canadian ranged from 1-32 to 3-64 discount. Some of the South American rates showed strength but movement in those documents were narrow."

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Foreign exchange quotations were as follows:

WEEKS' METAL MARKET REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Reflecting improved demand from both domestic and foreign consumers, prices in the local copper market advanced to the basis of 15¾ cents and 16 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley. Fabricators found that their previous contracts for delivery were not sufficient to meet the larger demand for finished products and were forced to re-enter the market for filling-in purposes, with the result that business for the week was of fairly large proportions. Producers have sold their output mostly through to the first of the year, and metal is relatively difficult to obtain with a continued good inquiry at the quoted prices.

New business in steel showed a slight falling off during the past week as consumers are believed to be well covered for immediate requirements and the strength in prices seemed to check fresh buying to some extent. The mills were busy on old business, however, and maintained a high average of production, while prices were firm.

Pig iron was firmer in the Pennsylvania district and a fairly good inquiry was reported for delivery during the first quarter of next year.

Tin was quiet and dealers and consumers were apparently content to await developments. London was easy.

Lead was in good demand, with cable, battery, ammunition and mixed metal manufacturers reported among the principal buyers.

A moderate improvement for zinc was noted in some quarters. Prices averaged steady. Galvanizers reported a better outlook for business during November.

Antimony was steady, with the trade very moderate. Offerings from China were at a little easier level.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER AT WEEK END SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The cotton market today was steadier with a very noticeable falling off in the volume of selling pressure compared with that of Thursday and Friday. Spinners continued to fix prices and there was a fairly active demand from speculative shorts which sent the December position up to 19.37c, an advance of 25 points from the previous close. The general market closed steady at net advances of 19 to 25 points.

The market opened steady at 3 to 7 points advanced and continued to work slowly but steadily upward throughout the day. It was the prevailing impression in the trade that the technical position of the market had been materially strengthened by the heavy liquidation which had taken place in the past few days and shorts were nervous over the smaller offerings and inclined to cover for over the week-end. The volume of Southern Selling was also much smaller than of late although it was said that the basis in the South continued weak at recent levels.

Evidences of a very substantial trade demand under the market or around the 19-cent level were believed to have contributed materially to the better feeling which prevailed in the market, especially as mill buying seemed to increase as the market advanced and there was said to be some good orders executed on a scale up.

The appearance of an area of high barometer in the American and Canadian Northwest, where temperatures were lower, give rise to some apprehension of the possibility of another cold wave descending into the Western cotton belt by early next week.

Trade accounts relative to the textile industry were considered favorable and giving promise of a further improvement, and, on the whole, there seems to be a feeling of more confidence in the market.

Private cables from Liverpool said that local and Bombay liquidation had taken place in that market with more or less hedging but that mills and the continent were buyers and there was an increased cloth inquiry from India and China. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was reported to amount to 168,000 bales compared with 156,579 last year and 256,-592 two years ago.

WHEAT TURNS STRONG AT CLOSE OF WEEK

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 27.—Wheat futures turned strong in the late trade, closing 4 cents higher. The late buying was credited to report of lack of moisture in Argentina and to political developments with possibility mentioned of special session of Congress to deal with farm relief legislation.

In the local cash grain market Saturday soft wheat prices advanced 3c to 5c, the action of futures bringing buyers into the cash market. Good to choice qualities of No. 2 red sold at $1.43 to $1.45 and good qualities of No. 3 red brought $1.33 to $1.35. Off grades also brought materially better prices though meeting limited demand. Hard wheat was up 3c to 4c, mill buyers and elevators showing fair interest. The hard wheat market was pretty well cleaned up except for some low grades. Track sales of No. 2 hard were modern basis Chicago December price to 1½c discount. Corn demand was limited, old corn selling steady to 3c lower, new about steady to 1c under Friday's late levels. Elevator interests took about 20 cars, but market otherwise narrow. Oats were steady to 1c higher, upturn in futures stimulating demand. Improved shipping demand also noted.

Opening unchanged to a shade higher wheat showed fractional net gains early. Liverpool closed ⅝d higher on October and March and ¼d on December. Winnipeg was up ⅛c to ¼c early.

The upturn at Liverpool was credited with influencing domestic wheat trend early, while unfavorable weather was called early factor in corn trade.

Corn opened a shade lower and ranged between that basis and unchanged early.

December wheat opened at $1.13⅝, May wheat $1.21½, December corn 81c and May corn 85⅛c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 186,-200 bushels, compared with 196,000 a week ago and 84,000 a year ago, included 77 cars local and 56 through. Corn receipts, which were 135,800 bushels, compared with 75,600 a week ago and 49,000 a year ago, included 88 cars local and 9 through. JUMP OF NEARLY 5 CENTS IN WHEAT AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Jumping up nearly 5c a bushel, the wheat market today responded excitedly to a sudden tremendous rush of buying. Drouth complaints that came without previous warning from the Argentine wheat belt aroused traders, and besides talk spread a possibility of a call for a special session of Congress after March 4 to consider farm relief.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, [illegible] to 4⅛c net higher, with corn ⅜c to ½c up, oats at ⅛c advance and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 17c.

By far the heaviest buying orders in the wheat pit came from Eastern sources. The most of these orders reached Chicago in the final hour of trading, but from the outset the market had shown a decided upward trend. It was not, however, until advices were received telling of lack of moisture of Argentina that prices went skyward in earnest. Especially in Southern Argentina the dearth of rain of late was reported to be unusual, but the absence of precipitation was also stated to be affecting the northern parts of Argentine wheat territory. Under such circumstances, and with the Liverpool market displaying more firmness than had been looked for, wheat demand here broadened out to proportions not witnessed before in a long while.

When the stampede to buy had reached a climax, Chicago wheat prices were up more than 7c a bushel above quotations here at the beginning of this week. Lively profit-taking brought about a reaction, but most of the gains were held at the finish. Supplementing the bullish influence of drouth reports from Argentina and of extra session talk were assertions that the next Canadian official crop estimate would be likely to show a material curtailment owing to frost damage having been underestimated. It was also contended that the United States wheat visible supply is nearing its highest point, and will soon show a gradual reduction.

Corn and oats sympathized with the action of wheat. Unsettled weather over the corn belt and further export business in corn here also conducive to an upturn of prices for corn future deliveries. The cash corn trading basis, however, was 2c lower as compared with December, arrivals of corn in Chicago today having been increased to 238 cars.

Provisions were easier early, but rallied when grain went higher all around.

IRREGULAR STOCK RISE DURING WEEK

Trade in Enormous Volume—Brokers' Loans Reach New High Total — Associated Press Average of 20 Industrials at New Peak as Week Closes.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

Saturday	227.25	145.18
Friday	223.19	144.78
Week ago	224.22	145.75
Year ago	166.43	140.19
High, 1928	227.25	157.03
Low, 1928	173.84	138.36

Total sales of stocks today, 1,784,600 shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—An irregulary higher movement of stock prices, with trading in enormous volume, featured by a sudden final hour break on Friday, and as rapid a recovery in early trading Saturday; a general lowering of money rates and then a temporary flurry in call loans; establishment of a new high total by brokers' loans and a mixed movement in commodity prices shared speculative interest in this week's markets.

Despite the fact this has been a presidential year, stock prices have been moving almost steadily upward and both rail and industrial averages now stand close to their record high levels. The average of 20 leading industrials, compiled by the Associated Press, has more than doubled in the last four years, standing today at 227.25, a new high, as against 223.19 yesterday and 103.00 on Nov. 1, 1924. The average of 20 leading rails has increased from 91.17 in 1924 to 145.18 today.

Favorable Earnings.

The rise in stock prices this week was favorably influenced by the long list of excellent third-quarter earnings reports, the relaxation in money rates and the high rate of production in the country's leading industries. The ease in money reflects the passing of the peak of fall commercial demands and the fresh imports of gold. Barring the usual month-end stiffenings and perhaps occasional flurries in the call rate, relatively easy credit conditions are looked for until the end of the year. Holiday demands, however, may bring about a moderate stiffening.

A "bear" raid in the last hour of trading on Friday gave the market its only sharp upset during the week, and a number of issues, particularly high-priced motors and chemicals, fell 4 to 14 points. The break was intensified by heavy week-end profit taking and "selling on the good news" of highly favorable earnings statements published by such corporations as General Motors and Du Pont.

Oils and Coppers Up.

Revival of activity and strength in the oil and copper shares, which have laged far behind the other major groups in the "bull" campaign of the last four years, was one of the week's features. Recent formation of an oil export association under the terms of the Webb act, coupled with the "gentlemen's agreements" being discussed for the restriction of crude oil output, were mentioned during the week. Atlantic Refining made the most spectacular gain in that group. It followed the excellent third quarter report of the company.

Purchase of a block of Sinclair treasury stcok by Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago and his asociates was reported. The stock sold at the year's best price. The Cutten interests already own large blocks of American, Texas Corporation, Mexican Seaboard and Tidewater-Associated, according to report. Maryland, Sun and Superior Oils, Skelly, Phillips and Independent Oil and Gas also moved into new high ground.

Motors Do Not Follow.

Motors failed to make much progress despite high current production and earnings. General Motors made a new top and then fell back on profit taking. Chrysler, Hudson, Studebaker and several others also developed reactionary tendencies. Some observers saw signs of distribution in the automotive group. Steel shares had intervals of strength but the rallies failed to hold, although U. S. Steel common set another new high record during the week.

Merchandising issues showed strength. There was a further rise in export copper prices and higher dividends on a few companies. Nearly all of the copper shares sold at the year's best prices.

Rails gathered strength as the week progressed. There were a series of excellent Septemhber earnings statements. St. Louis Southwestern, Rock Island and Union Pacific were among the leaders.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The demand for flannels for immediate shipment is active and blankets are again moving more freely. Cotton goods held steady. Some sizable print cloth contracts were made by printers. Voiles, shirtings and some curtain materials were bought more freely. Raw silk was easier. Silk prints are active. Burlaps are unchanged. More business is reported in men's wear and coatings for immediate delivery.

SHARES SOLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Total sales for the week on the New York Stock Exchange were 23,211,300 shares, compared with 23,896,200 last week. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 698,399,000 shares, compared with 462,709,600 a year ago.

The week's trade reviews pointed to continued steady progr basic industries, and bankers ments were reassuring as to money prospects and a return to 6 per cent call money was widely predicted after the month-end settlements. A factor in the buying wa a statement credited to a prominent bull operator that prices good stocks had been too low ra ther than too high.

Commission house advice to buy good stocks on all recessions probably had an influence in th morning's upturn. Althou throughout the general list gains were moderate and there was sprinkling of declines caused week-end liquidation, the Associated Press average of 20 leading industrials was carried up more tha 4 points to 227.25, a new high record. Total sales for the day's short session exceeded 1,700,000 shares and the ticker again was unable keep abreast on transactions.

Western Union Up.

General Motors made brisk recovery, selling up about 5 points less than 2 points from the year high. U. S. Steel rallied about points, but was carried below best level toward the close. Du Pont regained about half of yesterday's loss. Chrysler's respo was less spirited, although it rallied about 2 points.

Merchandising shares genera were strong. Best & Co. climb nearly 5 points to a new peak, Montgomery Ward made an ex treme gain of nearly 8 points. Macy & Co. forged ahead abou points to within a fraction of the year's high, and Sears Roebuck stepped up about 2 points.

Rally in Coppers.

Coppers rallied under the leadership of American Smelting, which advanced 7 points, almost touchi its record price. Cerro de Pas mounted 2½ and Greene Canan 4⅜ points. Allied Chemical clim nearly 8 and Commercial Solven nearly 5 points. American International, International Harvest Union Carbide and Westinghou went ahead about 5 points ea Westin selling at a new pe at 114½.

Rails participated in the upward trend, St. Louis Southwestern making an extreme gain of about points, taking it into the neighborhood of its high record. Oils we quiet, although Sun moved up points. A few fo the amusement shares were in demand, Shub Theater gaining 3 and Wa Brothers "A" 2 points.

PRICES REBOUND IN MODERATE CURB TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Prices recovered much of the ground lost yesterday in moderate trading on the Curb Market today. Automotive, mining and food shares especially showed renewed strength, and a number of issues were lifted to new high-price levels, with gains in the general list ranging as high as 44 points or more. McCord Radiator climbed nearly 4 points to a new peak at 31⅞, closely followed by Marmon, Durant, Evans Auto Loading and Hart Parr & Sparks, Withington, the latter finishing nearly 10 points net higher. Safe-T-Stat, Stutz and Wire Wheel were heavy. Newmont, with a gain 4¼ points and Noranda up a point, were prominent among the mining issues. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting was under pressure.

Steel Co. of Canada was among stocks in the general list to make substantial gains, the issue soaring 44¾ points on small turnover to a new top at 210. Van Camp preferred, St. Regis Paper and Hercules Powder also established new peaks, while Rainbow Luminous A, Columbia Graphaphone, Follansbee Brothers, Grigsby Grunow, Wesson Oil, Jackson Shaft, National Rubber Machinery, DeForest, Fox Theaters A, Royal Baking Powder, Curtis Publishing, Huylers of Delaware and others made wide advances.

Utilities recovered some lost ground, but gains in this group were rather limited, but generally were strong.

BOND TREND HIGHER IN LIGHT TRADING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Prices resumed the upward trend in quiet trading on the bond market today. There was some week-end profit-taking, but recessions were small and the general list had a steady undertone.

Steels were active among the industrials, Republic Iron & Steel 5½s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s showing fractional improvement. Andes Copper 7s, which improved fractionally, were most active among the coppers. International Cement 5s, Pressed Steel Car 5s, Liggett & Myers Tobacco 5s and American Smelting 5s were in demand at prices a point or so above yesterday's closing. Amusement shares were inclined to heaviness. Pathe Exchange 7s with warrants selling off a point and Paramount-Famous-Lasky 6s yielding fractionally. Utilities were heavy. Rails improved toward the end of the half-day session. New Haven 6s, Frisco 4½s, and a few others encountered profit-taking, but Erie 5s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, New York Railways 6s, Southern Pacific 4s and Great Northern 7s were in demand.

The foreign list was irregular. Ilseder Steel 7s and Montecatini 7s made small gains, but the Fiat issues, strong feature of the week, declined about a point. U. S. Government obligations improved in light trading, with demand chiefly for the Liberty.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $3,621,000; previous days' sales $9,462,000; week ago, $5,031,000; year ago $5,055,000. Total transactions from Jan. 1 to date were $2,479,603,000, compared with $2,756,514,000 a year ago and $2,431,679,000 two years ago.

MOVE TO OBTAIN REVISION OF RAIL RATES IN MISSOURI

Public Service Board Petitions I. C. C. for Investigation of Class and Commodity Tariffs.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 27.—A general investigation of all interstate freight rates on class and commodity shipments, that now are in effect on all railroads in Missouri, to correct discriminations between the several rate zones into which the State is divided, is sought in a petition filed today by the Missouri Public Service Commission with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington.

The Federal commission is asked in the petition to reopen the decisions in earlier cases affecting Missouri rates, to permit revision of the tariffs.

The purpose of the investigation, Chairman Almon Ing of the Missouri Commission said, was to eliminate the sectional rate structures in Missouri, with different rate schedules that result in discriminations between sections, and to provide instead a railroad rate structure that will be equally fair to all sections of the State.

The State commission has no authority over interstate rates of railroads, and therefore is filing the petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which controls such rates. Once a new schedule of interstate rates is obtained, the Missouri commission can take steps to eliminate any discriminations between sections of the State in interstate rates.

20 Sets of Rates.

Missouri is divided into five different sections or zones for interstate class rate purposes, with different rates in each zone, and is divided into four zones for commodity rates, with different tariffs in each zone. These different zones have resulted from several rate proceedings.

An analysis of the rate schedules by the railroad rate experts of the State commission shows that the present interstate freight rates in Southeast Missouri are unreasonable and discriminate against shippers in that part of the State, the petition sets forth.

Similar discriminations exist in the interstate rates in Southwest Missouri the petition asserts.

The conditions complained of originated with a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in December, 1919, which sought to correct discriminations alleged by shippers of Memphis, Tenn., and other complainants.

Proposed Increases Held Up.

Several railroads recently petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for extension of the higher interstate rate schedules into other sections of Missouri. The State commission yesterday suspended for investigation several proposed tariffs for proportionate interstate rate increases. The increases suspended applied to all shipments between points in that part of Southwest Missouri lying south of a line extending from Kansas City through Springfield. The increased rates also would apply to any shipments between points within that area, and points in the rest of the State.

In the petition filed with the Interstate Commerce Commision, the State commission says: "Missouri is a densely settled State, is highly developed industrially and agriculturally; the same agricultural commodities are produced in and shipped from all sections of the State, and commerce and transportation conditions in the several sections of the State are not sufficiently dissimilar to warrant different levels of freight rates."

TO ARBITRATE MILK PRICE CONTROVERSY AT CHICAGO

Mrs. W. E. Fribley Heads Committee to Settle Dispute Between Farmers and Dealers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Steps to prevent a possible "milk strike" because of differences between producers and distributers were taken yesterday at a meeting of interested parties, including city officials.

Farmers supplying Chicago with milk receive 5 cents a quart, but are seeking 5½ cents a quart. The retail price for milk is 14 cents a quart.. D. N. Geyer of the Pure Milk Association, which includes 7200 farmers shipping milk to Chicago, declared members of that organization would refuse to sell to Chicago produce if their demands are not arbitrated.

Mrs. W. E. Fribley, chairman of the American Home Department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, was appointed chairman of an arbitration committee to investigate the situation. The committee is to meet Tuesday.

ST. LOUIS U. UPSETS CREIGHTON, WINNING 16-6

UP IN LAST STRIDE TO OVERTAKE DISPLAY

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27.—Coming from last place and closing with a great burst of speed on the extreme outside, Mike Hall wore down the pace-makers and getting up in the final strides was winner over Display in the running of the $25,000 added Washington Handicap, this afternoon. There were 12 starters, Gaffsman being withdrawn.

In the early running J. Fred A., Royal Stranger and Victorian went to the front and made the pace. Mike Hall was last and Display a head in front of him. McDermott was sitting still on Mike Hall and never made a move until after they had gone six furlongs. At the turn out of the back stretch he went to the outside and moving up with a rush entering the home stretch, was in a contending position. Inside the furlong pole Display had taken the lead but in the final drive weakened and Mike Hall, outgaming him at the end, was up in the last couple of strides to win by a head. Sir Harry was third beaten two lengths and a half for the place and then came Victorian.

The pace was very fast from the break. The fractional time being :23; :46 3-5; 1:12; 1:37 3-5 and the mile and quarter in 2:03 3-5. The net value of the stake to the winner was $27,150.

The Loma stable's Twink came back after his clever victory a few days back to win the Spaulding Jenkins Handicap, a dash of a mile for 2-year-olds. Ridden by J. Burke and leading his field from the break Twink raced into a commanding lead on the back stretch and setting a rapid pace, was never headed. The race was marred by rough riding in which Dr. Freeland was the principal sufferer. Going to the first turn Garner cut across in front of him with Marine and in the stretch run Dr. Freeland was repeatedly bumped by Friar Cliff. The net value of the stake to the winner was $12,750.

CARNEGIE TECH USES FORWARD PASS TO DEFEAT PITT 6 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 27.—A 27-yard forward pass by Captain Howard Harpster paved the way for a 6 to 0 victory by Carnegie Tech over the University of Pittsburg before 50,000 fans in the rain here today. Prior to this toss the Plaid had been on the defense most of the time, while the under-dog Panther was fighting every minute.

The long pass was perfectly executed and landed in the arms of Rosenczweig. The toss placed the ball on the 2-yard line and Karcis hit right tackle for a yard but failed to gain on a second try, then Harpster went through center for the single touchdown of the fray.

Bears Weaken in Fourth Quarter and Lose to Butler, 13-7

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 27.—For more than three quarters Washington University had the upper hand against Butler University, here this afternoon and then weakened before a ferocious Butler attack to lose 13 to 7. The game which had been played under leaden skies ended in twilight. Rain kept the gridiron slippery and cut attendance at the big bowl to less than 5,000.

The Washington line was superior to Butler most of the game and Butler scoring was accomplished only by the most determined off-tackle smashing and audacious passing.

In the first period Washington had the edge on a crossfire punting exchanges until Hornsby kicked straight up in the air. Several line plays and a pass took the ball to Washington 17-yard line where Scheid, who played a fine game at center intercepted a pass for Washington. Hinchman, Butler sophomore star, fumbled and line plays by Rawdon and Hornsby and another punting duel took the ball deep in Butler territory as the quarter ended.

Whittler Scores Touchdown.

Two long passes Duncan to Glazer and Duncan to Hornsby put the ball on the Butler 10-yard line, Rawdon and Hornsby smashed the line and Whittler scored a touchdown and place kick for the seven points. Butler had the ball on its 30-yard line when the half ended. Butler fared [illegible] with punts in the third period and then a 25-yard run by Hinchmann took the ball to the Washington 25-yard line. Twice Butler line maneuvers failed and twice Fromuth passed unsuccessfully over the goal.

A fumble and pass pushed the ball to Butler's 31-yard line where Hornsby was ejected for roughing. Shortly after Fromuth ran 85 yards for a touchdown, but a Butler man was penalized for holding.

Fromuth fumbled and Washington battered its way to the Butler 18-yard line as the third quarter ended. Washington made first down and then netted five yards on three plays. Puett, Butler, center, knocked down a Washington pass. Butler sent in a new line. Line plunges by Hinchmann and Royce and a long pass, Fromuth to Royce, put the ball in the middle of the field. Washington was penalized for roughing and then Hinchman raced to the Washington 19-yard line. Royce and Hinchman went 15 more and Hinchman

WALTER HAGEN WINS UNOFFICIAL CHAMPIONSHIP

By Gerald Holland.

The victory of Walter Hagen over Johnny Farrell, 5 and 4, in the final of five matches for the unofficial championship of the golf world at the St. Louis Country Club yesterday left most of the 1200 persons in the gallery distinctly disappointed. A few were rather saddened by Johnny's defeat. The whole business left a dozen or so cold.

The five matches between Hagn and Farrell turned out unfortunately for the principals. Farrell lost the first two matches but won the third and in the fourth, Eastern newspapers reported the gallery as displeased with the result on the ground that Hagen deliberately eased up at the finish to insure a fifth match and added profit.

Farrell Off Form.

Hagen didn't let up yesterday. There was, of course, no reason to, even if the gallery were right about that fourth match. The St. Louis gallery was disappointed in Farrell, obviously its favorite from the start because he was wild at the tee, off in his putting and never up on

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—A sorrel-thatched will-o'-the-wisp in an Army uniform, Christian Keener Cagle of Merryville, La., flitted through the whole blue brigade today, leading Army to a sensational victory over Yale by a score of 18 to 6.

While a vast, colorful crowd of 76,000 spectators sat thrilled in the big bowl, Christian Keener, otherwise known as Red, galloped up and down the field, shaking off tacklers and outsprinting others as he scored two touchdowns with one of the greatest exhibitions of open field running anywhere this season. Cagle, on separate dashes of 52 and 73 yards, personally accounted for 12 points that exactly spelled the margin of the Army's clean-cut triumph over the hitherto undefeated Blue eleven.

It was a stunning victory for this burly cadet eleven, which outplayed and outgeneraled Yale, besides putting up a stonewall defense that repeatedly blocked the Blue thrusts, but the thrills of this battle centered chiefly around the

LINTZENICH GETS EVEN FOR INJURY AT OMAHA, SCORING 2 TOUCHDOWNS

By Jack Alexander.

Of the contests on local football fields in recent years into which football-hungry fans have strained their eyes to read the long-awaited improvement, the 16 to 6 victory of St. Louis University over Creighton yesterday at Sportsman's Park was one of the most encouraging.

Football reporters have too often been tricked by a great single-handed performance into sounding the trumpet heralding the New Era to sink their life savings in stadium bonds at this late date, but the display of Heartly Anderson's Billikens in overpowering Creighton, outrushing it 167 yards to 130 and rubbing its face into the dirt up to the last minute, was enough to cause the old hope to surge through hardening arteries. For Creighton had been the favorite to win by two or three touchdowns.

Lintzenich Scores Twice

It is true that Joe Lintzenich, the St. Louis fullback, played one of the best games of his career and it was a great moment when Joe was carried off in the last quarter, his deflated bellows wrenching for ozone, after he had crushed the enemy by pushing over his second touchdown, but his vehicle of attack was a manifestly more efficient machine than St. Louis U. has put on the gridiron for many seasons. Joe dominated the Billiken scene, like a Wilson of Army or a Caldwell of Yale, but he sparked an outfit that was fast, strong on interference and deceptive in its every offensive movement.

"Rockne" was written in every shift and charge of the Billikens and 7000 spectators have the Wizard of South Bend to thank for a very interesting afternoon, for Creighton also derives its manner from Rockne, via Chet Wynne, and it is a manner that has done as much for the spectators as the forward pass.

Another thing that made it interesting was the fact that the suspense was maintained until Lintzenich's second touchdown, which came late in the last period. One never knew when the elusive Johnny Scott of Creighton would break loose and run the length of the field until Joe intercepted a pass on the visitors' 25-yard line and, aided by one plunge by Eaton, forced the ball across the goal line, crushing all resistance.

Scott was Creighton's outstanding star, and had not Capt. Mailliard charged ahead of the snapback in trying to block a St. Louis punt in the first quarter, Scott's spectacular and ridiculously easy 70-yard runback of the kick would not have been called back for a five-yard penalty, and the "break" might have turned the verdict the other way. Fumbles, the same plague that cheated Creighton out of a victory over Oklahoma, also played a big part in the Bluejay defeat yesterday.

Rombaugh fumbled twice before the first period was five minutes old, both times in St. Louis territory and when Lintzenich punted the second time, Scott received on his 30-yard line and, with excellent interference, swept from the left side of the field for a touchdown, but was called back for Mailliard's offense.

Scott's Safety Gives Billikens First Score and Lintzenich Adds a Touchdown

After an exchange of punts, Scott handed the Billikens two points on a safety, when he caught Lintzenich's kick on his one-yard line and was thrown across the goal line by Cornell, and as soon as he put the ball into play by a free kick the Billikens opened the drive for their first touchdown. Parilla shot a pass to Dirnberger for 14 yards and Charley Eaton sprinted around end for 25 yards, but the play was called back for offside. A 15-yard Creighton penalty helped and Lintzenich and Eaton, on line plays, gained the remainder of the distance to the goal, Lintzenich kicking the extra point, to make the score 9 to 0.

Creighton was not to be denied in the second quarter, and despite a leaping catch of a Creighton pass by Lintzenich and a 26-yard return, the Bluejays took the ball on their 40-yard line and smashed their way the distance to the St. Louis goal, aided by penalties and a short forward pass, Scott to Bertoglio, which scored the touchdown, making the score at the half St. Louis 9, Creighton 6.

The third quarter saw both teams doing great defensive work, each holding the other for downs once. Three fumbles also helped to check offensive operations. A fumble by Gazelle after the kickoff gave Creighton a chance to score, but the Billikens held for downs on their seven-yard line. Later a Billiken attempt to rush the ball on fourth down in their own territory resulted in Creighton receiving the ball on downs.

Repeated penalties set back Creighton's efforts to advance the ball in the last period and some nice gains by Eaton, plus the work of Billiken linemen in throwing Scott for a big loss and Lintzenich's long kicks forced play into Creighton territory. It was when the Creighton quarter tried to pass his way out that Lintzenich again intercepted with a leaping effort and subsequently plunged to a touchdown.

Joe was apparently badly injured after his second score, and when he was carried bodily off the field, it was feared that his knee injury received in last year's Creighton contest had been reopened, but it was said in the dressing room after the game that Joe's knee was intact and

SHAPIRO STAR OF WEST END TEAM'S VICTORY; SAVAGE SCORES TWO TOUCHDOWNS FOR 1927 CHAMPIONS

By Davison Obear.

Roosevelt and Soldan won easy victories over Central and Cleveland in games which opened the 1928 Interscholastic League football season at the Public School Stadium yesterday afternoon. In the first contest of a double-header, Roosevelt downed Central 20 to 0. Soldan won the second game from Cleveland, 19 to 0. Over 5000 high school students witnessed the games.

Coach Carlson's Rough Riders maintained the advantage over Central during all but a few minutes of play in the third quarter. Following an exchange of kicks in the opening period, Roosevelt on straight football carried the ball to the Central 20-yard line. Savage circled end for the first touchdown and kicked the goal for an extra point.

Central showed better defense in the second quarter, holding the South Siders for downs on several occasions. Coach Friedli's men had the ball on their own 30-yard line when the half ended. There was no score in this period.

Central Gets Moving.

The Central coach apparently told his men a few things between halves, as the Midcity eleven showed much improvement in the third quarter. End runs and forward passes gave Central the ball on the Roosevelt 14-yard line. It was the only time Central got within scoring distance, but Roosevelt velt held and Chapman kicked to center field. The Roosevelt backs carried the ball to their opponents' 30-yard line as the third period ended.

Line plunges and a forward pass, Savage to Barnes, brought the ball to Central's half-yard line. Barnes went over for the second score of the game. A place kick by Savage was blocked. Roosevelt kicked to Central, who failed to gain. Long runs by Roosevelt backs carried the ball to Central's 26-yard line. Central held but fumbled a punt, giving Roosevelt the ball. Aided by splendid interference, Savage raced around end for another touchdown and made a perfect place kick, giving Roosevelt a 20 to 0 victory.

One Cook Was Too Many for Cleveland.

Soldan High, aided by brilliant runs by Dav Cook, quarterback, and Shapiro, the big fullback, won from Cleveland. In the first two periods Soldan outplayed Cleveland but Coach Bert Fenenga's outfit put up a great fight in the third and fourth quarters.

Play was in Cleveland territory during most of the opening period. A forward pass, Shacklin to A. Bray, was good for 21 yards and put the ball on Cleveland's six-yard line. After several short gains Shapiro plunged through tackle for a touchdown. His kick was blocked.

At the start of the second quarter Soldan advanced to the Cleveland 7-yard line, but a penalty for holding gave Cleveland the ball. Cleveland kicked out of danger. Cook received a lateral pass from Buchele and raced to the Cleveland 19-yard line. Several Soldan passes failed and Cleveland took the ball on downs. Cornell kicked to the Cleveland 34-yard line. A long forward pass by Cook was caught by Shapiro, who carried it across for another touchdown. Cook's kick, was wide. The first half ended, Soldan leading, 12 to 0.

Fenenga's Varied Offensive.

Cleveland caused a big surprise in the third period. Coach Fenenga's players, with a new series of plays, started a march down toward the Soldan goal line. Forward passes and cross bucks were very effective against Soldan. Cleveland advanced to the seven-yard line, but Soldan's defense was too good. Cleveland again advanced to within six yards of the Soldan goal line, but could not push the ball over.

Cook punted out of danger to Jansen, who was downed on his own 30-yard line. Cleveland failed to gain and kicked out of bounds on its own 35-yard line. Dave Cook made his most brilliant run of the game, going thrugh a broken field for 39 yards for a touchdown. He kicked goal. An exchange of kicks followed. Cleveland then advanced to Soldan's 26-yard line but failed to gain as the game ended.

Washington punted out in the middle of the field and Hinchman and Royce fought their way to Washington's 25-yard line. Hinchman broke away 25 yards for his second touchdown and Roylce place kicked.

It was Butler's third victory in three starts on its new campus and the best scoringq punch the Blue has shown since 1925.

HARVARD HANDS DARTMOUTH JOLT, WINNING 19 TO 7

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27.—A Harvard line which displayed a tremendous amount of unsuspected power, aid Capt. Arthur French and Wave Guarnaccia, the Crimson halfbacks, to defeat the great Dartmouth football team, 19 to 7, here today in a game which should go down in gridiron history as the most surprising upset of the season.

Dartmouth, with its great halfback, Al Marsters, and an aerial attack that was considered invincible was expected to defeat Harvard by at least three touchdowns, but the game was not three minutes old before the Crimson had ended a 56-yard march for its first touchdown.

A 56-Yard March.

This march started after French intercepted a Dartmouth pass on Harvard's 44-yard line. It took 10 plays to advance the ball to Dartmouth's 13-yard line, from where French, aided by exceptionally efficient interference, dashed around his own left end and crossed the goal line.

The second Harvard score came in the second period after an exchange of punts resulted in a 15-yard gain. Huguley, Crimson fullback, intercepted a Dartmouth pass in midfield. Guarnaccia completed two long laterals to French and Barvard stood on Dartmouth's 15-yard mark. Guarnaccia started an off tackle smash on the right side of the Green line, broke through and scored the touchdown.

Dartmouth's Score.

The lone Dartmouth score was the result of a34-yard march in the fourth period. Capt. Bob Black and Reece, who replaced Marsters, broke through the Harvard line for two first downs and then Breithut completed a pass to Stokes, Swarthout's substitute, for the touchdown.

had a first down on Dartmouth's three-yard line. Guarnaccia tore through the Gren line for the touchdown, but one of his mates was caught holding and the ball was taken back to the 18-yard line. French tossed another lateral to Guarnaccia and he circled right end and raced accross the goal line again.

Harvard made 16 first downs to Dartmouth's nine. The Crimson backs gained 220 yards by rushing against 91 for Dartmouth. The Green completed but 11 of its 23 forwards for a total yardage of 76, Harvard's eight laterals, only one of which failed, were worth 68 yards.

Hagen Defeats Farrell For Unofficial Title

his opponent throughout the match.

"I'm over-golfed," Farrell said after the match, "from too many exhibitions after winning the open. I've lost the rhythm of my swing. I wouldn't mind losing if I had been playing my usual game but it's tough to get beat when you're not hitting the shots."

That's just the way the gallery felt about it. It wanted to see Farrell, the frail, tired-looking American Open champion, fighting Hagen, looking, as one of the followers of the match put it, "like a fullback," down the stretch against the proverbial "Hagen finish." Instead it saw Farrell hooking his drives, missing or rimming his putts, and failing to take advantage of the rare opportunities that the holder of the British Open title offered.

Farrell Starts Poorly.

Farrell started unsteadily. He halved the first three holes with Hagen conceding him short putts on the first and the second. On the fourth, Hagen won his first hole when Farrell missed a four-foot putt. Farrell ran 12 feet over an approach putt at the fifth green and rimmed the return to lose again. He had hooked his drive, but made up with a nice pitch.

Farrell hooked his drive again on the sixth, but a fine second put him in position to halve. He had another slight hook on the eighth, ran over the pin on his first putt and rimmed another return, leaving Hagen 3 up. "Pressing," a caddy commented.

Hagen's drive took a curve on the ninth, but the ball fell safely near the edge of a creek. Farrell's tee shot was in good position. Both reached the green in three with Hagen making a fine recovery on his second from the poor lie. Hagen ran over on his putt to take a five and Farrell missed a chance when he rimmed another short one.

Four Up at the Turn.

They made the turn with Hagen four up. Three holes were halved and Farrell won the thirteenth when Hagen rimmed a putt for a 6. The fourteenth was halved after fine approach putts by both golfers. On the fifteenth, Farrell found plenty of trouble, with a hooked drive and a trapped second.

Hagen was trapped on the sixteenth and Farrell was down in 3 to take it but the hook came back on the seventeenth and he was again four down. They finished the morning round that way, both taking fours on the eighteenth.

Hagen made a fine recovery when his second shot dropped in a bush on the first hole of the afternoon round. From an exceptionally bad lie he laid the ball up to the pin but missed a short putt that would have halved the hole. He regained his 4-up advantage when Farrell missed a putt of the length that Hagen had been conceding at the start of the match.

Trapped on the next two holes Hagen lost them both. He exploded out of the first but was short. It took him two strokes to get out of the second. Farrell found a trap on the seventh but came out nicely to halve the short hole in threes.

Hagen in the Water.

Hagen hooked into a creek on the eighth, a dogleg, and despite a fine second, the penalty stroke was enough to beat him. Farrell dropped his drive from the ninth tee on a creek bank and came out to another bad lie at the foot of a tree. It cost him six strokes and he made the final turn as he had made the preceding one, four down.

The next four holes were halved uneventfully. On the fourteenth, the deciding hole, Farrell sliced to the rough. His second was in a bad lie on the bank of a trap guarding the green. He chipped short and missed a 10 footer for a four. Hagen played the hole well and should have had a birdie 3. He overran his first putt by three feet, but on the return the ball dropped into the hole to give Hagen the match and the unofficial title.

Altogether it was a sorry exhibition by Johnny Farrell, who has been called one of the finest stylists in the game. He had only one effective shot against Hagen, the short iron. That's what too much train riding, and too much golf can do to the iron nerve and fine play that Farrell displayed at Olympia Fields a few months ago. And now, he and Hagen will tour the northwest. They play again tomorrow at Joplin.

MARQUETTE HELD TO 6-6 TIE BY HOLY CROSS

By the Associated Press.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 27.—The Marquette University "Golden Avalanche" swept down on Holy Cross College today and within a few minutes it looked as if it would overwhelm the Purple crusaders, but the latter set up such a stiff line that the Westerners were held to a 6-to-0 tie before a crowd of 10,000.

Graswick to Box Hoke in Feature

One of the best amateur lightweight duels of the season is promised next Friday night at the Knights of Columbus gymnasium in East St. Louis when Jake Graswick, clever East Sider, pairs with Norman Hoke, hard-hitting Missouri Pacific A. C. veteran, in the feature attraction.

George Weilmuenster and Eddie Barth, officials of the Knights of Columbus, have two other specials arranged for the coming card. They have signed Jimmy Faucett, also a Missouri Pacific lightweight, to meet Nathan Crystal, Knights of Columbus, while Edward Hennessy, East St. Louis star, draws Johnny Busch of the Tower A. individual exploits of Christian Keener Cagle.

An Outstanding Star.

The red-headed flash from Louisiana, who bears the all-American stamp if any ball-carrier does in the East thus far, was a marked man from the start. The ballyhoo gave the Blue plenty of advance warning. Every man on the Yale team had a chance to bring down Cagle at some time in his two spectacular dashes, but they all failed as he twisted, straight-armed and side-stepped in bewildering fashion.

After romping 52 yards in the first period for the first Army touchdown on an end run, Cagle fumbled on his own 22-yard line, a miscue that was turned into Yale's only touchdown by "Firpo" Greene, big left guard. So Red the Rover had something to atone for when, early in the next period, he picked a hole through tackle, cut back across the field and completed a 73-yard gallop to Army's second touchdown. Hoben and Becker, of the Eli secondary defense, were the last in Cagle's path as he cut swiftly across the field and down the side lines. He shook off Hoben, but was thrown off his feet by Decker's lunge. The Cadet star's momentum carried him past his rival, however, and he picked himself up sufficiently to scramble the remaining few yards to the goal line.

Allan Scores One.

Yale had hardly recovered from the shock of this play when one of the flock of Eli passes was plucked out of the air by Allan, Cagle's running mate, who dashed 47 yards to the third and final Army tally aided by brilliant interference.

The free-scoring melee of the first half was turned into a scoreless affair in the second half, where the Army's defense demonstrated itself as capable as its offense. Throughout the last two periods Yale, with Garvey, Loud and Ellis alternating on the attack, drove desperately at Army's big forward line besides filling the air with passes.

Three times the stout Cadet defense took the ball on downs close to its own goal. In the closing seconds of the game West Point made its final stand, twice throwing back the Blue brigade as the last whistle blew with the Elis only one yard from the goal line.

Army Stops Garvey.

Yale outrushed and outpassed West Point, but it didn't mean a thing so long as the Blue failed to check Cagle. Yale adherents had expected Garvey to rival Cagle's exploits, but the Eli star seldom got loose.

Departing from its usual tactics, Yale filled the air with passes in the second half. The Elis threw 29 altogether, but completed only 11 and had three intercepted. Army completed three out of nine heaves. In first downs, Yale registered 10 to only six for West Point.

Soccer Players Enjoined From Quitting League

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The anticipated legal battle growing out of the Eastern Soccer war took form yesterday when the New York Nationals, U. S. champions, and Brooklyn Wanderers, members of the recently outlawed American Soccer League, obtained temporary injunctions against four former Vienna Hakoah stars, who jumped the outlaw clubs to become members of the U. S. F. A.—sanctioned Eastern Soccer League.

The injunctions granted by Justice Norman S. Dike, in Kings County Supreme Court, naming Josef Eisenhoffer, Leo Drucker and Deszoe Grosg, who hauled stakes from the Broklyn club and by Justice Nathan Bijur in New York County Supreme Court, naming Sigmund Wortmann, who quit C. A. Stoneham's Nationals rather than play outlaw football, were set aside for two days, however, on application of the New York Hakoah club's attorneys to enable the four players to participate in league matches yesterday in Philadelphia and today against the New York Giants at Starlight Park, the Bronx.

Hearings on the injunction moves will be held in the case of the three Brooklyn players on Monday morning and in Wortmann's case on Tuesday.

The Hakoah counsel, headed by Louis J. Gribetz, in obtaining the stays argued that the two clubs which had obtained the brief injunctions were without status in organized soccer and that the contracts of the players involved in the actions contained clauses that required them only to play in conformance with the rules and regulations of the national governing body, the U. S. F. A.

GARRY HERRMANN MISSED SERIES FIRST TIME IN 23 YEARS

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 27.—The "papa" of the world series baseball classic—August "Garry" Herrmann—missed this year's contests, the first since 1905.

Herrmann retired from baseball last year after serving as president of the Cincinnati Nationals for 25 years. He was chairman of the baseball commission from 1903 to 1920, and as such was largely instrumental in promoting the interleague clash.

NEBRASKA TEAM EASILY CRUSHES LIGHTER TIGER ELEVEN, 24 TO 0

By Ed Cochrane.

Referee of Missouri-Nebraska Game.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 27.—Gwinn Henry, the master showman, sent his eleven Bengal Tigers into the Husker arena this afternoon, but the grizzled grid magician had lost his wizardry and his act was a total flop. Eleven fighting and determined scarlet jerseys threw themselves at the royal beasts from the jungles of Missouri and tamed them decisively, 24 to 0, before a 35,000 crowd, the largest bunch of humans to ever witness a Missouri Valley classic.

The victory, aside from being a big feather in the Cornhusker cap, was a personal triumph for Coach Ernest E. Bearg, who for three years had seen his proteges go down before the master mind at the Tiger helm. But today it was Bearg who held the magic stick and to Bearg goes a big share of the glory.

It was Reb Russell, the Pawhuska, Ok., cowboy, and Husker signal caller who stood out head and shoulders above all the [illegible]

Fumble Helps Nebraska.

Bob Mehrle's fumble on a bad pass from center was recovered by Ashburn on the Bengal 12-yard line and Russell plowed to the 1-yard mark on his first thrust, carrying Mehrle and Rosenheim a full five yards before he was downed. Blue Howell dove over center for the touchdown as the Husker rooters, a riot of color, went into hysterics. Witte place kicked the extra point and the Beargmen went in front 7 to 0.

Pass Goes Wrong.

The Scarlet Jerseys gained on an exchange of kicks and staged a steady march into Tiger terri- Missourians were forced to display- tory. Russell's center smash for 10 yards and Sloan's 15-yard pass to Howell featuring. In a desperate effort to score when the Tiger forwards became stubborn, Sloan hurled a long pass to Morgan, but the ball fell dead in the end zone and Henry's men took the ball on downs. The half ended a little later, with the Huskers clinging to their slim 7—0 advantage.

With Russell and Howell smashing the Missouri middle sector, the Bearg men plunged and thudded their way well into Bengal territory. A five-yard penalty for offside halted the march and Clair Stone dropped back and drop-kicked a beautiful goal from the 28-yard line. With the Bengals disorganized by this, Henry rushed in several substitutes in a vain attempt to turn the tide.

Howell Leads Attack.

There was no more scoring in the period, but early in the fourth Capt. Howell led his mates on a march from the Husker 20-yard line.

Clair Sloan, who had been inserted for "Dutch" White, reeled off a pretty 18-yard run. The Verdon (Neb.) youngster had a clear field except for Rosenheim, but the Tiger quarter made a shoestring tackle and downed his man on the Bengal 31-yard line.

Again a five-yard off-side penalty halted the Husker rush, but only for a moment, for a few seconds later Blue Howell sidestepped and cake-walked his way through the entire Missouri team for [illegible] yards and a touchdown. Sloan place-kicked the extra point to give the Scarlet sweaters a commanding 17-to-0 lead.

Later a fumble by Mehrle was recovered by the Huskers and converted into a touchdown on two plunges by Russell and Howell.

IOWA SNATCHES VICTORY FROM MINNESOTA, 7-6, IN FINAL PERIOD

1-YARD DASH BY HOVDE FOR SCORE OFFSET BY SUBSTITUTE'S 2-YARD RUN AND NELSON'S KICK

By Charles W. Dunkley
Associated Press Sports Writer.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 27.—Iowa's courageous gridiron warriors, kicked around the Western Conference for a year, met the invasion Minnesota's "Thundering Herd" today and turned it back. The score was 7 to 6.

Before 30,000 spectators, a record crowd in Iowa's football history, the Hawkeyes snatched a one-point victory from the undefeated Minnesota eleven, in one of the most dramatic battles of the year. The defeat crushed Minnesota's hopes for sharing or winning the Big Ten championship, and leaves Iowa undefeated and to be reckoned with for championship ranking.

Within one minute and 21 seconds after Minnesota had scored a touchdown in the fourth period, the result of a 91-yard run by Fred Hovde, star right half back, the Iowans came back with a stunning attack, climaxed by a 62-yard gallop by Oran Pape, a sub half back. Strangely enough, another sub, Nelson, clinched the victory, when he was called into the game only for the extra point, and made it.

All the excitement and thrills of the game were packed into that one minute and 21 seconds at the start of the fourth period, after the teams had fought stubbornly without scoring for three periods.

Nagurski and McLain Stopped.

While Hovde and Pape, the substitute, were achieving the glory of the game, the crowd was trying to find out just what happened to McLain and Bronko Nagurski, the Iowa and Minnesota full backs, who were expected to pulverize everything that came in front of them. Both the Minnesota and Iowa lines played so viciously, however, that neither "Big Nagu" nor the Cherokee charger got anywhere. McLain, in 13 shots at the line, gained only yards, while Nagurski picked up yards in 19 surges.

Minnesota clearly outplayed Iowa if the yardage gained from scrimmage is any indication. The Gophers gained 165 yards to 99 for Iowa, and registered 12 first downs to six for the Hawkeyes. The Gophers had the ball to within five yards of the Iowa goal twice in the first half.

Today's victory was the first the Hawkeyes have scored on Minnesota since 1924 and it was the first defeat Minnesota has suffered since 1926, when Michigan chalked up a 7-to-6 victory.

Ohio Wins; Indiana Star Kicks 70 Yards.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 27.—Ohio State kept its Big Ten slate clean, crushing Indiana, 13 to 0, before a homecoming crowd of 16,000 in Memorial Stadium here today.

The punting of Harrell, Indiana back, kept the scarlet and grey threat away from the Hoosier goal during most of the first half, one of his boots traveling 70 yards.

The first Ohio touchdown resulted after Cory intercepted an Indiana pass and returned it to the Indiana 47-yard line. Coach Wilce sent Kriss in for Kruskamp and Kriss slashed the Indiana line to bits, finally skirting end to put the ball on the four-yard line. Cory then made four attempts against the Hoosier line and his fourth plunge went over. Barratt place-kicked a goal.

In the third quarter, a fumble by Harrell was recovered by Ohio on the Indiana 35-yard line. Kriss broke loose for about 20 yards, and from the five-yard line, Eby slid off the Indiana right end, eluded two tacklers and fell across.

Purdue Crushes Chicago, 40 to 0.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Purdue's Boilermakers today rubbed Chicago in the dirt of Stagg Field as Chicago had never been rubbed before. The final score was: Purdue 40, Chicago 0.

It was Purdue's fifth victory over the Maroons in more than three decades of rivalry between the two schools, but today's carnage recompensed 10 or 20 defeats.

nnounce Lineup f Women's Field Hockey Team

On the basis of advance ticket sales, the St. Louis Field Hockey Association announced yesterday that no previous field hockey event ever had attracted the attention that is being displayed in the exhibition match to be played next Wednesday afternoon between an English touring team and an all-St. Louis. The number of tickets already sold for the match, it was said, virtually equals the total of advance sales for the three days of the national field hockey tournament held here last year.

Seats for 1000 persons are being put into place at Mary Institute playground, Big Bend boulevard and University car line, where the exhibition will be played, and a greater number of seats would have been arranged for, it was said, if a large advance sale had been anticipated.

Word was received yesterday that a party of 50 students and faculty members of the University of Missouri and Stephens College of Columbia would motor here for the exhibition. The State university is a member of the local field hockey association, and a match between Columbia and St. Louis teams is scheduled to be played later in the season.

The all-St. Louis team which has been selected to oppose the English visitors engaged in a long practice session yesterday, against other picked teams, and made an excellent showing both on offense and defense. With selections for two positions which had been in some doubt decided upon the members of the team are: Gertrude, Ume Chaplin, Eunice Child, garet Boggs, Ruth Forcier, Chaplin, Dolores Boeckmann, ian Bischoff, Virginia Gordon, thy Coleman and Ernestine

63,000 SEE ILLINOIS BEAT NORTHWESTERN

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 27.—Illinois, Western Conference 1927 football champions, continued its triumphal march to a second Big Ten title today, turning back Northwestern, 6 to 0, before a homecoming crowd of 63,000.

With Fritz Humbert carrying the ball in the second period, the Zuppkemen smashed their way from midfield to the 24-line, where the Northwestern line held for three downs. Jud Timm circled end for a touchdown and what proved to be the margin of victory. Nowack's attempt at goal from the placement for the extra point was wild.

Again the Illini came back and with Humbert hitting the line, pushed the ball to the one-yard line. But Henry Anderson, the Northwestern junior, who was the jinx to Illinois all afternoon, broke through and stopped the plunging Illinois fullback.

A closely contested battle is expected when the Y. M. H. A. football team takes the field against Benld Bulldogs of Benld, Ill., this afternoon, at Stars Park, Compton avenue and Market street, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The Benld eleven is composed of players whom, for the most part, are former college stars. They will come to St. Louis seeking revenge for the two beatings the local team has given them in the past two years.

The Y. M. H. A. team also has a number of ex-college men on its roster. Max J. Lorber, former quarterback at Indiana U., will make his season's debut in this contest. Laz Sommers, a halfback, and Meyer Libman, an end, both saw service with Washington U., as did "Babe" Goldwasser, a diminutive halfback, who has been one of the team's most consistent ground gainer. Goldwasser played on the freshman team at Washington. Harry Pascover of Milliken U., a 200-pound tackle, has been playing a fine game at his position.

Drake Bulldogs Defeated, 32-6, By Notre Dame

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27.—Game but outclassed, Drake University football team fell before Notre Dame, 32 to 6, today.

The victory kept unblemished Knute Rockne's record of no defeats on Carter Field since 1905, and was the third time in as many games the Drake Bulldog bowed to Rockne's ramblers.

Rockne started his regular backfield and kept the boys plugging until they had a 14 to 0 lead at the half. Substitutes took up the task and did a good job of it, until Rockne sent in the main string again, with Niemiec, Chivigny and Carriedo playing real football.

WISCONSIN TRIMS MICHIGAN AFTER TRYING 28 YEARS

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 27.—Wisconsin's 28-year quest for a football victory over Michigan ended today as the Badgers rallied late in the fourth quarter to score a single touchdown and win by 7 to 0.

It was not only Wisconsin's first victory in nearly three decades, but it was also the first time in the history of football relations between the institutions that the Badgers were able to keep the Wolverines from scoring.

Outplayed throughout the second and third periods and with honors even in the final session, the Badgers got the ball near midfield. A first down and a pair of thrusts at the line and Behr swung far back and passed to Cuisinier over Michigan's left side. The quarterback caught the ball as two blockers flattened Capt. Rich and other Badger runners prepared the open road to the goal line. Backus added the extra point.

Although beaten for the fourth straight time this season, Michigan displayed great improvement over previous performances and actually outplayed the Badgers in the last half until the break came. Three times in the second period Michigan held Wisconsin on or within its own 10-yard line.

Michigan had one great chance to score, taking the ball to Wisconsin's six-yard line in the third quarter. But a play went wrong and the Badgers recovered the ball.

Hatzfeld Post Plans Show at Armory, Nov. 6

Application to State and City boxing officials for permission to hold a professional boxing show at the Armory arena on Friday night, Nov. 6, was made yesterday by the Walter Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion. Fred A. Bottger, chairman of the post's boxing committee, stated last night that his organization plans to arrange four bouts to be featured by a 10-round contest.

The Hatzfeld Post committee expects to sign Joey Rivers, Kansas City featherweight and State championship claimant, as one of the principals in the feature 10-round engagement, according to Bottger, who stated that an effort will be made to match Rivers with Jimmy Watts, of Atlanta, Milton Manguna of New Orleans or Claude Wilson of Birmingham.

Rivers scored a knockout victory over Paul Steadman of this city, in the tenth round of a Stockham Post fistic feature at the New Coliseum a week ago.

ST. LOUIS-LOUISVILLE POLO MATCH CANCELED TEAMS TO PLAY TODAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—Due to intermittent rains throughout the day, the first game of the two-game polo championship series scheduled for this afternoon between the St. Louis "Big Four" and the Louisville Country Club "Little Four" was conceled. The two teams will ride out to meet each other Sunday afternoon, should the steady, cold drizzle abate in time to allow the turf to dry sufficiently.

Invading Louisville after a victory and loss in the series with the Memphis Hunt and Polo Club four last week-end, the St. Louis contingent is confident of defeating the local group, although the latter is a powerful organization in these parts. The visitors' mounts have been here since the early part of the week, and have been breezed and worked out daily so as to be in condition for the series.

St. Louis was favorite to cop the two matches, but since only one is left in the offering, their edge has somewhat dwindled, as Louisville has pointed since early 1928 competition for this day. The local County Clubbers have underwent strenuous practice all during the week, when the weather was of the typical autumnal variety.

HORNSBY NOT YET TRADED, BRAVES AND CUBS SAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Reports that Rogers Hornsby, baseball's man without a country, had been traded by the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs for a sum approximating $200,000 gave diamond followers something to get excited about today. The story, printed in the New York Sun, met prompt denial from officials of both clubs. The Sun continued to run its story through all its editions.

According to that newspaper Hornsby has been traded for $200,000 in cash and three Chicago players, Outfielders Earl Webb and Cliff Heathcote and Second Baseman Freddy Maguire.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, said the deal was "no further advanced than when the first rumors of it were printed six weeks ago."

May Depend on State Vote.

Ed Cunningham, secretary of the Braves, said: "We will take no action in the Hornsby case until after election day."

Voters of Massachusetts are to decide at the polls whether they want Sunday baseball, and while the predictions are that the plan will be defeated by citizens outside the city of Boston, the Braves apparently intend to await the returns before trading away their expensive manager.

With Sunday games at Braves Field, Judge Fuchs' club should earn enough money not only to afford a $40,000 manager, who already has signed at that reported figure for three more seasons, but also to build up the playing strength of the team by purchases of star minor league performers. It is no secret that the Braves have lost heavily in recent seasons, and $200,000 would be welcome in the treasury.

Would Set a New Record.

Hornsby's contract, which carried an option on the manager's services at the same figure for three additional years after the end of the first three-year period, was to be assumed by the Cubs, the Sun reported.

The sale of a ball player for $200,000 would create a new high record for a cash transaction in playing material.

When Hornsby came to the Giants from St. Louis for Frank Frisch, the deal was reported as "even up" with no cash involved. His transfer to Boston for Jim Welsh and Frank Hogan involved only a small cash outlay by the Braves, the Giants announced.

The sale of Babe Ruth to the Yankees by the Red Sox in January of 1920 for a reported cash price of $137,000 remains the highest figure paid in any deal yet officially concluded. The White Sox paid $125,000 to the Pacific Coast League for their third baseman, Willie Kamm, and several other players are reported to have been sold by the high minors for sums around $100,000.

Princeton Downs Cornell; Lowry's Goal Only Score

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27.—Princeton won the first football game played with Cornell at Princeton in 23 years today by proceeding on the principle that if a touchdown is not available, a goal from the field may be made to serve. The Tigers managed to get close enough to the Cornell goal in the third period to permit dashing Dave Lowry to boot the ball between the uprights from the 17-yard line and that was all the scoring there was.

I Princeton's 3 to 0 victory of the 35,000 spectators thought that was the ball game when the oval sped through the goal posts. Nothing either team had shown up to that time had suggested there would be any more. There were some threats from time to time after the placement had won for the Jungaleers but something always turned up to stop a score.

Cornell ran into fumbles at critical times when the big red team seemed about to accomplish something for Cayuga and penalties set Princeton back at vital moments. The Tigers were penalized enough to make up for the normal quota of three or four games.

OKLAHOMA DEFEATS KANSAS AGGIES FIRST TIME IN EIGHT YEARS

By the Associated Press.

OWEN FIELD, NORMAN, Ok., Oct. 27.—The Oklahoma Sooners banished an eight-year-old banshee today and defeated the Kansas Aggies, 33 to 21, in their annual football game here. The Aggies had won five out of eight previous games and held the others to ties.

Columbia Beats Lehigh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Columbia defeated Lehigh in a dual cross country race over a five-mile course in Van Cortlandt Park today by a score of 18 to 37. Captain Joseph Hagen of Columbia, finished first in 26 minutes, 48 seconds. Joyce of Columbia, was second, Sames of Lehigh, third.

SUN BEAU EASILY CAPTURES LATONIA CHAMPIONSHIP STAKE

KILMER COLT BEATS SORTIE AND LAWLEY ON SLOW TRACK

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 27.—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, with Jockey C. Craigmyle up, won the tenth Latonia Championship Stakes, feature race on today's program.

A. C. Schwartz's Sortie was second, two and a half lengths back. Lawley, owned by the Viking Stable, was seven lengths further back. The time for the mile and three-quarters was 3:00 3-5.

The track was slow from showers last night and today. The race was worth $27,320 to the winning owner.

Jockey S. Stretton, on William Penn, elected to go out to make the pace. He was followed by Lawley and Sortie, with Sun Beau running in last place. They ran in these relative positions until a mile had been covered. On the back stretch, the second time around, Craigmyle made his move with Sun Beau and quickly moved into second place behind William Penn. As the field swung into the stretch headed for the wire, the Kilmer entry passed William Penn to come away and win easily.

It was a victory for the East, but somewhat of a hollow one, for Misstep, the hope of the West, was scratched because of track conditions, and champion Reigh Count and Toro, Western stars, have been in retirement for weeks.

Shikat to Meet Evko in Feature Match Tomorrow

Final training workouts of the eight heavyweight grapplers scheduled to compete on Promoter Tom Packs' mat card at the New Coliseum tomorrow night, will be held this afternoon at the National Gymnasium.

The feature attraction is a one-fall finish bout between Richard Shikat of Germany, and John Evko, a rangy Jugo-Slav. Shikat made his New Coliseum debut two weeks ago, easily disposing of Herman Gotch, of Omaha. Evko has not been seen on a local mat in more than two years. He defeated Wladek Zbysko, lost to Joe Stecher and John Pesek, and drew with Jimmy Londos in previous local bouts.

Dick Daviscourt and Roy Steele, California headlock specialists, will meet for the third time, in the semi-windup. Steele won a decision over Daviscourt two years ago. In a return bout at the New Coliseum last winter Daviscourt was the victor.

Nick Lutze, former Notre Dame University athlete, and George Hills of Kansas City, are paired for the second preliminary while the curtain-raiser brings Vito Rinaldi, a local Italian, against Tommy Marvin of Oklahoma.

Harry Sharpe will referee the main bout, with Ed Myer and George Tragos officiating in the preliminaries.

Promoter Packs reports the heaviest advance sale recorded for any local mat show since the Stecher-Lewis title match last winter.

Scotland Beats Wales.

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 27.—Scotland defeat Wales by 4 goals to 2 in an international soccer match played today at Ibrox Park. Of the international series between the two countries, which started in 1876, Scotland has won 32 matches, Wales six, and 10 have been drawn.

Bobby Jones
Says

WHEN I said not long ago that my match against Maurice McCarthy at Minikahda last year was the hardest I ever played, I had not played Ray Gorton at Brae Burn. If I had been lucky to beat McCarthy, I was doubly lucky to beat Gorton.

Each of us started badly and finished well, but what made it hard was that on the second nine, when I was playing really well and felt I should be winning holes, I was losing them instead, or barely escaping with a whole skin. Playing the last nine holes two under par, I felt I was lucky to hold Gorton even.

Ray Gorton is a player of long experience and no mean ability, even now when he rarely engages in competition. Although he is a fierce fighter on the course, he never appears to be ruffled and always wears a happy smile. At no time does he appear disturbed or worried about the outcome of the match.

Ray met Bill Fownes in a national championship before the war, when Fownes was among the good golfers in the country. The match progressed to the thirty-sixth green all even, and Gorton found himself stymied with a putt for the half. Fownes' ball lay directly in line, shutting off any possibility of holing the putt in the usual way.

More Credit Due Evans.

IT happened that, on the night before, Gorton had asked Francis Ouimet how he negotiated a stymie with a niblic and Francis had explained. So Ray looked at Bill's ball for a moment, then hauled a niblic from his bag. "Well, Bill," he said, "I never tried this before, but here goes," and nonchalantly plopped the ball into the cup.

On the next hole, the first extra, Bill laid Ray another stymie, but this time the latter's ball lay almost 20 feet from the hole. Grinning happily at Fownes, Gorton sang out across the green, "Don't worry, Bill, I can't jump this one." That is typical of Ray Gorton. He plays well and hard, but bad breaks are all a joke to him.

A man whose play this season has earned him more credit than he is likely to get is Chick Evans. Losing his first-round match to Johnny Dawson, after being the loser in the Walker Cup singles, it might appear that Chick had played badly. As a matter of fact, when Dawson beat him, Chick had a four on the eighteenth left for a par 72, a round which would have beaten almost any other man in the field.

John Dawson and George Voigt played fine golf all the way. Until each was beaten in turn by Phil Perkins, he had played as well as any man in the field.

Perkins Had Off Day.

THE showing of the British champion was extremely gratifying to the many friends he made on his visit. He had played under strange conditions and in a foreign country as well, and consistently as any man in the field and considerably better than most. That he was unfortunate enough to be off form in the Walker Cup final means nothing. Golf is just that sort of a game.

That every man I played in the last three matches played considerably below his normal game is further evidence of the luck that is required for any man to win a championship. For a long time I could not help thinking that no matter how well I played, someone would play better. And they did. This year I was fortunate enough to catch them all on off days.

While I am on the subject of the Walker Cup championship, I should like to say that it was the consensus of opinion of all the players that the galleries were the best behaved and most considerate they had ever played before. Boston people have seen a lot of golf and they have been watching first-class golf for a long time. They have become perfectly schooled in the way to conduct themselves on the golf course, to be a help to the marshals and not a hindrance to the players.

DRURY PANTHERS BEAT OZARK WESLEYAN, 30-0

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 27.—After losing their first three games by a single touchdown margin, the Drury Panthers battered a husky Ozark Wesleyan College line to turn in their first victory of the season, 30 to 0, here today. Smith crashed through for two touchdowns, while Bowman, Lincoln and Dow made one each.

Drury got off to a slow start, due mainly to overconfidence, but scored in the second quarter, and then, after being held to a lone touchdown in the third quarter, the Panthers cut loose and scored three in rapid succession in the last 10 minutes.

Dr. Cardenas, crowded back on first turn, recovered quickly, raced into lead with a rush on outside after a half mile and, continuing as if much the best, won with speed to spare. Broad Axe, never far back, made a resolute finish, but could not menace the winner. Smoldering came over sharply at the first turn, took the lead after three furlongs, but tired after reaching stretch. Sister Zoe had early speed and, after racing in close quarters around last turn, began tiring. Friar Mint had no mishap.

$2 mutuels paid: Dr. Cardenas, win $7.54, place $4.58, show $3.66: Broad Axe, place $6.90, show $4.74: Smoldering, show $3.94.

ST. CHARLES TEAM DEFEATED BY KIRKWOOD, 14-6

Using a weight advantage to good purpose the Kirkwood High school team defeated St. Charles, 14 to 6, at St. Charles yesterday afternoon before 1500 fans in an exciting game, so exciting, in fact, that the crowd, enraged by a decision attributed to Referee Red Roche, Loyola Hall star of bygone days, which gave Kirkwood its final touchdown, attacked the official after the final whistle had blown.

Members of the faculty of St. Charles High school gathered about Roche to protect him from the crowd and succeeded in getting him off the field but not until a fan had planted his fist in the referee's eye.

The first half of the game was scoreless for both sides but in the third period Kirkwood started the scoring after recovering a St. Charles fumble on the latter's 22-yard line.

A pass, Kline to Fedder, advanced the ball 12 yards. Harsh made 10 yards off tackle and on the next play went over the goal line. Fedder added the extra point with a place kick.

St. Charles then opened up a passing attack, after receiving the kick and four completed passes resulted in a touchdown, the final pass was thrown by Schoenberger to Bacon.

Fumbling, which had marred the first part of the game, continued in the fourth quarter and resulted in the final score. Bacon received a pass from Schoenberger and ran 45 yards, but dropped the ball as he was tackled and Kirkwood recovered.

Kirkwood then began a march down the field with a series of line thrusts and finally Fedder jumped on top of a heap of players. When Referee Roche unscrambled the mass the head linesman, O'Reilly, ruled that Fedder had pushed the ball over and Roach upheld him. Fedder again place kicked for the extra point.

The defeat was the first suffered by St. Charles in three County League games and was bitter because of the fact that Kirkwood is considered St. Charles' strongest rival for the championship.

CALL Of the OUTDOORS

Weekly News Letter From the State Game Commissioner's Office.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 27.

KEITH McCANSE, State Game and Fish Commissioner, returned Oct. 16 from Washington, D. C., where he attended an organization meeting of the National Committee on Wild Life Legislation. The commissioner stated that, in his opinion, the movement is the "most advanced step ever taken in behalf of the wild life of America." McCanse is a member of the committee, which was organized in compliance with a resolution passed at a joint convention of recognized leaders in conservation affairs at Seattle, Wash., in August.

The committee will support the Norbeck migratory game refuge bill now before Congress in principle, but will recommend the elimination of the Federal hunting license and Federal supervised public hunting grounds provisions. It is believed that with these changes the bill which has had a stormy existence will pass both houses.

The organization presages real teamwork by reason of the fact that the committee is composed of men widely distributed over the country who will be able to coordinate the best thought and effort towards a nationwide movement such as has never before been possible.

State Parks Popular.

Compilation of the registration cards signed by visitors to Missouri State Parks this season shows that 25,321 people signed the cards. It is a safe estimate, according to C. D. Montieth, chief of parks for the Game and Fish Department, that this is not more than one-fifth of the number of actual visitors aside from the approximate 15,000 persons who attended the formal openings of Sam A. Baker and Meramec State Parks. A careful estimate of the total actual number of visitors to all State parks places them at over 140,000. No check was made at Indian Trail, Deer Run, Chesapeake or Arrow Rock, but the attendance at the latter place was not less than 3000. As to attendance, Sequiota leads off, with Meramec second and Big Spring third. Round Spring was next and Mark Twain State Park fifth.

A snow white or albino squirrel has been received by Taxidermist Ernst Schwarz of the State Game and Fish Department. The squirrel, which is a male, is pure white, in striking contrast to the eyes which are red. Schwarz states that this color of the eye is a characteristic of all albinos, mankind included. The specimen in question came from Patterson, Wayne County.

Pheasants Attract Attention.

The ring-neck pheasants distributed to game refuges, more than 1500 altogether, having been placed in the various auxiliary refuges and a few at the Meramec State Park refuge, are attracting a great deal of attention. The male birds are beautiful in their fall plumage and nothing attests the scarcity of this bird quite so much as the fact that large numbers of people are visiting the pens at the refuges. Almost 500 people who had never seen a ring-neck pheasant visited the refuge near Kahoka Sunday.

A large bobcat was trapped at Big Spring State Park last week and by careful handling was successfully removed from the trap alive. It is a fine specimen. Bobcats are particularly disastrous to small game, such as turkey, and are a menace to young pigs and other small stock on the farm.

SUMNER HIGH ELEVEN DEFEATS LINCOLN OF EAST ST. LOUIS, 7-6

The Sumner High School football team won its first victory of the season by defeating Lincoln High of East St. Louis yesterday, at the Stars' Park, 7 to 6.

The contest was hard fought with the visiting eleven scoring in the first half, while the Sumner team came back in the third quarter, scoring a touchdown and an extra point. Jimmie James, who is in his freshman year at Sumner, starred for the locals, while "Beef" Moore was the outstanding player for the Lincoln team. Prior to this contest, Sumner tied two other teams.

IOWA STATE HOLDS KANSAS TO TIE

By the Associated Press.

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 27.—Kansas and Iowa State battled to a scoreless tie here this afternoon. The Iowans showed a better offense then Kansas, featured by brilliant runs by Trauger and Lindblom. Twice the Jayhawkers were back 1 up nearly to their goal line, but each time the line held. A Kansas drive in the fourth period took the ball within the Iowa State 20-yard line. Schmidt raced out to try a field goal, but it was short.

MUNY SOCCER LEAGUE OPENS WITH 15 GAMES

The Municipal Soccer League, with 30 teams contesting, will open its season in five public parks this afternoon. Fifteen games will be played in Fairground, Forest Park, Sherman Park, Concordia Park and Carondelet Park.

Probably the best balanced league of the group is that at Sherman Park where each of the four teams is conceded a good chance to win the title. The same condition does not hold true at Fairground where the Angelicas are an outstanding team in Group No. 2 and in Group 3 the Palermos seem to be much stronger than their rivals.

At Carondelet Park, the No. 1 division is probably one of the strongest in the city. It has the added attraction of being international in character, being composed of the German Sports Club, the Spanish Ideal Club, the St. Thomas and the South Sides.

One Junior Division will operate at Concordia Park and a sort of intermediate league will play at Forest Park. This group has unusual interest in that two of the teams are being conducted largely as experiments by two veteran players who will attempt to develop youngsters who play the game exactly according to the best methods regardless of the outcome of the pennant race. Both the Cook A. C., managed by John Scully, and the Academy A. C., managed by Joe McConnell, hope to win the championship, but their paramount wish is to play good football. The teams are composed of junior players who have passed the age limit for junior clubs but are not strong enough for senior competition. The experiment will be watched with interest.

The schedule for today follows:

Fairground Park No. 2—Angelica vs. Shreve Avenue Business Men, 2; Schulze vs. Russell, 3:30. Referee—Oliver Miller.

Fairground Park No. 3—Palermo vs. Hartmann, 2; Benjamin Petty vs. Salisbury Street Business Men, 3:30. Referee—I. H. Cradock.

Carondelet Park No. 2—Garrett vs. German Sport Club No. 2, 2; Benton Park Recreation vs. Trumbull, 3:30. Referee—H. Donovan.

Webster Groves Ties Deaf School

FULTON, Mo., Oct. 27.—The football teams of Webster Groves High School and the Missouri School for Deaf battled to a 6 to 6 tie here this afternoon.

The first score was put across by the School for Deaf in the second quarter when Coll received a pass over the goal line from Jendritz. The attempt at goal kick by Coll went wide.

The Webster Groves score came in the third quarter and followed one of the few sensational plays of the contest. Westirup, Webster end, blocked a Missouri kick and Jeckel, center, scooped up the pigskin, racing 25 yards to the goal line for the lone counter of his team. The attempt of Westirup of goal was blocked. The School for Deaf made seven first downs and Webster five. Play was mostly in Webster territory. The Webster team excelled in kicking and frequently got out of dangerous positions because of that advantage.

The lineups:

ST. LOUIS HOCKEY TEAM TO START TRAINING AT WINTER GARDEN

St. Louis will get its first taste of professional hockey this week when the local club will begin training at the Winter Garden. The team's coach, Alec Irvin, one of the greatest Canadian players in the game today, has arrived in St. Louis and, following a conference with officials of the St. Louis club, expressed a belief that he would be able to have his team in good shape by the time the local club meets the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League in an exhibition here on Nov. 11. The first American Association game will be played here on Thanksgiving night, when Irvin's team will be sent against the Minneapolis club.

Other members of the St. Louis club are due for practice this week.

German Referee Gets Post in Soccer League

Another "old country" referee will be introduced to St. Louis Soccer League fans at Sportsman's Park this afternoon when Oscar Mossman of Germany takes charge of the first game of the doubleheader. Dave Sutherland, a native of Scotland, who made his debut as a referee at the opening of the season three weeks ago, will continue to officiate, handling the second game. The league officials, seeking to stamp out rough play, have turned to European referees as a means of obtaining cleaner play.

The Madison Kennel Club team, which has scored 11 goals in winning two games thus far, will oppose the Ben Millers in the first game today. The Wellstons and Tablers will meet in the second game.

It is understood that Tal Mulroy will be in the Ben Miller lineup for the first time this season. Manager Billy Foley announced that Mulroy had reached an agreement with the club. Two other stars of last year, Tom Erbe and Joe Hennessy, have not yet changed their minds about quitting the game.

COUNTRY DAY EASILY DEFEATS BURROUGHS, 27-0

By Robert W. Herr.

Country Day School continued its winning ways by trouncing the John Burroughs eleven 27-0, at the Codasco Field yesterday afternoon in the annual contest between the two schools. It was the third consecutive victory and the fourth in five starts for the Brown Road gridders.

Early in the third quarter the combination of Tupper, Husch and Lehman got off a number of good runs to bring the ball into scoring position and Tupper went over for the first touchdown. The kick for the extra point was good, but Burroughs came back strong and held play in midfield for the remainder of the period.

Starting the final quarter, Tupper and Husch reeled off 20 and 25 yard runs, bringing the pigskin to the Blue and Gold 20-yard mark, from where Tupper counted in three successive plunges. Shortly after, Husch paved the way for the third touchdown by his 30-yard run back of a Burroughs' punt, and Tupper again made good from the 35-yard line in four plays through tackle and around end. In the closing minutes of the game, Burroughs opened a passing attack for its best gains of the contest, but Country Day intercepted one of the attempts and started a drive for the final marker. Roberston, Tupper and Boettler led the attack with a number of pretty broken field runs and Tupper plunged across in the last minute of play.

For Codasco, the backfield combination of Tupper, Husch, Boettler and Lehman again showed to particular advantage, rolling up a total of 18 first downs as against their opponents' three.

The lineups and summary:

odernistic Note At Debut Dinner For Miss Chapman mart Decorations Set Off Brilliant Function at the Bellerive--Denver Guest and Miss Messick Help Receive.

ODERNISTIC art, symbolizing the spirit of the age, was charmingly employed last evening as the decorative theme me of the smartest parties ever in St. Louis when Mr. and Mrs. G. Chapman Jr. of 58 Kingsbury place nted to society their daughter, Miss Louise Chapman at a dinner dance at rive Country Club, which was reserved ively for the event.

The debutante, her parents, their guest, Mary Benedict of Denver Colo., and Jane Tyler Messick, debutante daughter Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Messick, received guests in the lounge to the east of the trance, which was a bower of gift flowers.

The decorations, the last word in modern- ic art, blended into the picturesque en- ble. The foyer was hung in brightly ped silk in deep reds, yellow and purple, in place by brilliant metallic sprays. The s in the east room and the foyer were with vivid screens expressing l'art mod- e. Many of these panels were designed ly to reflect the new mode but a number gingly portrayed civic scenes. "Lind- h Crossing the Atlantic" was interesting "Lindell Boulevard," done in three es of bright red and three shades of ple with the traffic circle at Kingshighway ndigo, attracted attention. "A Bad Night a Duck" was depicted by an unhappy pled duck striving to gain the top of a rch spire through black and silver light- . "St. Louis in a Snow Storm," with the phone Building enveloped in black snow, "Nelson's," a popular rendezvous for the ger set, with the genial waiters, Harrison Louis, perilously balancing trays of ice m sodas, delighted the guests. The lights covered with three frosted glass tiers tiful in their simplicity.

The decorations reached a climax in the t semi-circular dining room, the entrance which was marked by sentinel lights with ed shades. Here the dominant note was ieze-like valance, circling the room, show- a succession of red and mauve balloons racing formation with grotesque figures tumbling from their baskets. Colorful draperies in pastel-shaded batik rippled to the floor. The supporting pillars of the room made triangular for the occasion, were covered with sprawling green leaves and fantastic red flowers.

The tables were covered with cloth of silver, and a striking feature were modernistic orange, green and purple candles, especially cast for the party, in branched red lacquered holders. Quaintly exquisite flowers of tinted felt, with tiny mirrors forming the leaves, and gold and silver blossoms growing in green pots added to the attractiveness of the scene. The modern note was further enhanced by the use of amber, green and blue crystal for the table accessories.

The honey-colored glow from lights, covered by great round shades, decorated in bizarre geometrical forms, joined with the lights was reflected by hundreds of mirrored leaves of the flowers and the result was most flattering to the lovely faces of the debutantes, who sat with honor at a special table seating 160.

Miss Chapman wore the costume in which she served as first special maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball, a gown of white satin made on princesse lines, the skirt ending in chiffon, smartly short in front and touching the heels at the back, the entire frock besprinkled with crystals and pearls. She carried an armful of crimson roses. Mrs. Chapman was gowned in black transparent velvet. The neckline was traced in rhinestones and the drapery, which was caught in the back at the hips and depended to the floor, was lined in pale blue taffeta. Her flowers were orchids, worn in a shoulder corsage. Miss Benedict wore a becoming gown of Burgundy satin and carried a bouquet of pale yellow roses. Miss Messick's gown was of rose pink chiffon, with a wide crushed girdle of rose velvet and a skirt that fell in points to the floor. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Miss Chapman, who has been complimented at a number of smaller parties, was graduated from the John Burroughs School and attended Smith College.

Miss Emily Gerber Weds R. E. Williams

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 27.—Historic St. Peter's Church was the scene of one of the smartest weddings of the year yesterday morning when Miss Emily Gerber, daughter of Mrs. Floy Cole Gerber and the late William E. Gerber became the bride of Rolland E. Williams of St. Louis.

Since her debut a few seasons ago, Miss Gerber has taken an active part in the social and club life of the city and the wedding was of interest both in Memphis and St. Louis.

The church was elaborately decorated. The high altar of white Italian marble before which the ceremony was performed, was decorated with slender vases of Easter lilies and pink roses, between which were placed tall cathedral candles in gold candelabra. Palms were grouped at either side of the sanctuary and about the side altars, with clusters of greenery standing out in relief against the draperies of cardinal red velvet. The marble communion railing was garlanded with ferns, while the center aisle was marked off with green pedestal baskets filled with roses, and lilies and linked together by silver ribbons.

The "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was sung as a processional by a double quartet.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, John D. Gerber, wore a period wedding gown made of antique ivory satin with a full skirt and Elizabethan collar of rose point lace. The train was also of rose point and the veil, of egg-shell illusion, was arranged in madonna cap effect, tiny clusters of orange blossoms holding it in place. Orchids and lilies of the valley were the bride's flowers.

Miss Zoe Taylor, cousin of the bride, the maid of honor, wore a frock of silver lace over flesh chiffon, fashioned with long tight waist and full skirt longer in the back than the front. The matron of honor, Mrs. John D. Gerber, was similarly gowned in a silver lace over orchid.

The bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette McCormack, Miss Mary Louise McPhillips, Miss Dorothy Sibley, Miss Elizabeth Mallory, accompanying Miss Marie Ball of Webster Groves, Mo., and Mrs. John F. Curran and Miss Helen Williams of St. Louis, sisters of the bridegroom. They were gowned in models of the same style as the maid and matron of honor, of silver lace combined with pastel colored lace. They wore bridesmaids' veils of flesh illusion, falling from Madonna caps to their waistlines. Their flowers were arm bouquets of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Joseph Reilly of Miami was Mr. Williams' best man, and the groomsmen were Cooper Lytton, Charles Gerber, John F. Curran, William Gerber, Graham Short, Baron Seifert of Nashville, Frank Schram of St. Louis, William Cole Taylor, Harry D. Taylor and Frank Govan.

The nuptial mass was read by the Rev. William R. Lawler.

SATIN
FOR RICH SMARTNESS

WHEREVER fashionables congregate one will find the soft, rich luster of satin well represented. The satin model illustrated with its soft crown—smartly cut stitched brim—raises this Hat into the category of the unusuals.

A belt of velvet encircles the crown, and forms a careless bow which is held by a sparkling rhinestone ornament. To be had in black or brown.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair
By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifuly dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days

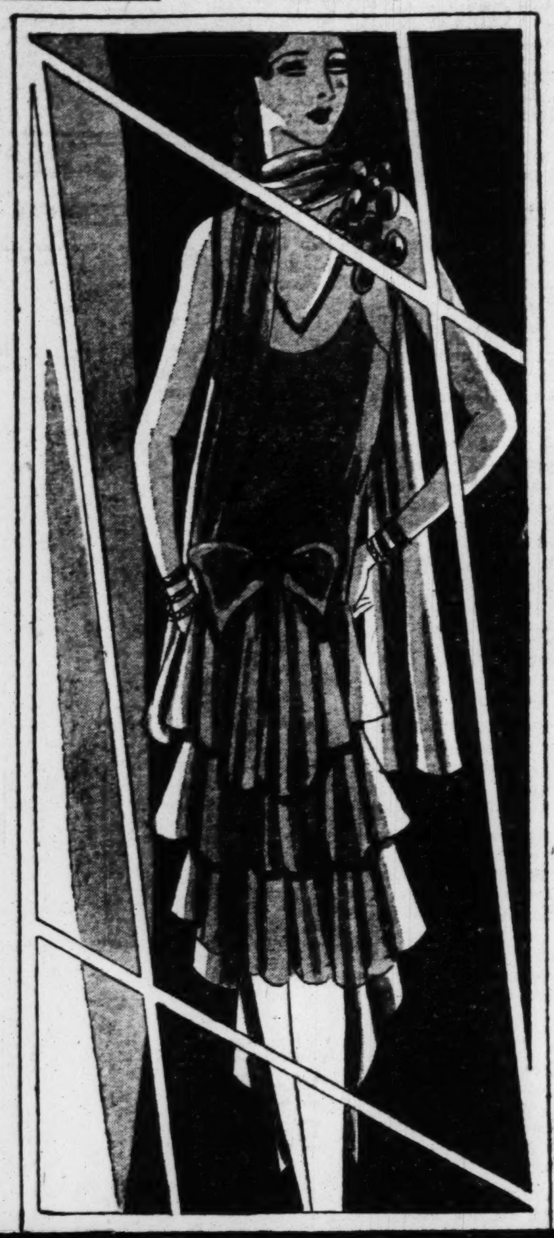
GARLAND'S

AT ANOTHER milestone in the career of this 100% St. Louis institution, we find good reason to celebrate the most significant progress that has marked any year in the 31 that have come and gone since Thomas W. Garland pioneered the Women's Specialty Shop idea in St. Louis. We have provided for our distinguished clientele a more pleasant, more convenient and most modernly equipped place in which to shop . . . A store vastly improved over the Garland's of a few months ago.

Unprecedented warm weather in October congested the apparel market to a point where makers were ready to make tremendous sacrifices in order to dispose of the vast quantities of merchandise which we always buy in preparation for this storewide event.

The stage is set . . . everything will be in readiness Monday for a week of super-savings in Garland's.



Charge Purchases in This Sale Payable in December

MANY WHO DO NOT WISH TO CHARGE OR PAY CASH WILL TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THESE SAVINGS ON "IBP" PAYMENTS

In addition to the usual "charge" and "will call" facilities, we offer an unusual service in the "IBP." Purchases are made in the usual way, in any department, at the lowest cash prices and the payments are arranged over a period of months. The small charge for this service is completely dwarfed by the advantage of purchasing at these savings.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

MISS MYRTLE MILLER

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen, in increasing numbers, on Fifth Avenue daily! The lovely New York girl, illustrating the new style, is Myrtle Miller, of 325 West 89th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten so much fluffier and more vigorous. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow, I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls, now; and I attribute its improvement to this method. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and holds it in place. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes all dust, grime and oily film from the hair—tones and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl!

Doctor Found What Is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year. Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but you may try it free by using this coupon:

Mussolini Tells Fascist Editors All Must Serve the Regime but He Insists Italian Press Is Free

ROME, Oct. 15.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI expressed his conception of the Fascist journalist's duty in the following speech delivered before the editors of 70 Italian newspapers who met in Rome on Oct. 10 for the first time in six years.

By Benito Mussolini.

COMRADES and Gentlemen: This important meeting of the journalists of the regime takes place only at the end of the sixth year thereof. You understand it would not have taken place before because it is only since January, 1925, and more particularly during the past two years that the problem of the Fascist press has been faced and almost entirely settled. In a regime which embraces everything, as any regime arising from a triumphant revolution should, the press is an element of that regime, a force at the service of that regime.

In a unitarian regime the press cannot be extraneous from the whole. This is why the whole Italian press is Fascist and should feel proud to militate compactly under the emblem of the lictors' rods. Starting with this undeniable fact, we immediately have a compass to guide the practical activity of Fascist journalism. We avoid that which is harmful to the regime and do that which helps it. Above all, and we may say it of Italy exclusively and apart from other countries, journalism, rather than a profession, or trade, becomes a mission of great delicacy and importance, because nowadays, it is journalism which circulates among the masses. After the school has instructed the rising generations, it is journalism which carries on the task of information and formation.

Freest Press in World

Therefore, it is not absurd that, since we must continue the formative education of the multitude, journalists should be morally and technically trained. It is evident that journalists are not made in schools any more than poets. Nevertheless, nobody can deny the usefulness of schools.

This first meeting of the journalists of the regime is meant to be an honor and recognition. Those old accusations that Fascist tyranny suffocates the freedom of the press are now entirely discredited. The Fascist press is the freest in the whole world. Elsewhere newspapers are under orders from plutocratic groups, from parties, from individuals; elsewhere they have been reduced to the melancholy state of exchanging exciting news. Perpetual reading saturates the public mind with a kind of stupefaction, with signs of imbecility; elsewhere journals are grouped in the hands of a few individuals who consider newspapers as true and personal industry like that of iron or leather.

Italian journalism is free because it serves but one cause and regime; it is free because within the laws of the regime it can and does exercise functions of control criticism, propulsion. I most absolutely deny that the Italian press is the realm of boredom and uniformity. All who read foreign journals of all countries in the world know how gray, uniform, stereotyped, even to details, is their press. I affirm that Italian Fascist journalism must always and in greater measure differ clearly from that of other countries so as not only to build for the flag which it defends but also be a resolute, visible, very radical antithesis to the press of other lands.

The "La" of Journalism.

This difference does not exclude another one equally important. Let me use a musical simile. I consider Italian Fascist journalism as an orchestra. The "La" is common to all instruments. This "la" is not given out by the government through its press bureaus under some sort of inspiration and suggestion made according to daily contingencies; this "la" is given by Fascist journalism itself. It knows how to serve the regime. It does not wait the word of command every day. It has it in its conscience.

Once given the "la" there remains diversity of instruments and it is precisely their diversity which prevents cacophony and brings instead full, divine harmony. There is, besides, the diversity of the musicians' temperament, a necessary diversity because this imponderable but vital element makes execution ever more perfect. Each journal should become a well defined, that is, individualized instrument recognizable in the great orchestra. In a modern orchestra stringed instruments do not exclude wind instruments of unusual shape. There can be Fascist journals of serious aspect with perhaps an official tinge, and journals for assault, warlike, headstrong. There can be journals partial to certain problems; those which are big enough to be national, others which must be content as excellent regional or provincial journals.

For instance, it is absurd for a provincial newspaper to soak its readers with whole pages on world foreign policy. Their difference must be bound up with true and proper division of labor based upon Fascist journalism's common sense rather than upon instructions from above.

All Serve the Regime.

The national, regional, provincial press serves the regime by reporting its daily task, creating, maintaining an atmosphere and approval of its work.

It is a great adventure to live in this first extraordinary quarter century, a great adventure for you to be able to follow Fascist revolution in its progressive stages. Destiny has been particularly kind to you, permitting you to be journalists during a war and revolution, both rare, memorable events in the history of nations.

Now, do all those who think they serve the regime, serve it effectively, usefully? Not always. Those do not serve it who abandon themselves to laudatory adjectives, singing some obligatory rhyme for conventional purposes about every act and fact, even of small import of every man even of modest stature. You must deflate and keep your distance. Six years of Fascist revolution are greater than any words, especially than many words. Nouns make adjectives superfluous.

Against Crime News.

Nor do those who give excessive space to crimes, featuring them for copy, serve the regime. nor those who neglect their journal's make-up, who should take great pains over headlines and text, especially head lines. I read, for instance, of rewards given to the reporter who spends his time between prison and hospital for the head line "genius and madness," as though genius inevitably dwelt in mad houses. Accidents during work become terrifying catastrophes. You feel bound to report that some young professor shoots his wife, as if it interested anybody but the janitor and their nearest relations. For the thousandth time you rehash the mystery of Rudolph at Meyerling and reprint to boredom the story of Baker, the self-styled Black Venus. All this is uneducative journalism of old regimes.

The new regime that is Fascist journalism must get off the rocks of this mentality and set out in search of and write about all other varied grand aspects, problems of

The A B C of the Farm Problem And Opposing Relief Programs

"Stabilization," "Orderly Marketing," "Control of Exportable Surplus," etc., etc., Mean Cornering the Market and Fixing the Domestic Price at the World Price Plus the Tariff.

Both Political Parties Would Bring This About Through Farmers' Pools Financed by the Government, the Difference Between Them Being That the Democrats Would Get the Farmers in by Compulsion, While the Republicans Would Trust to Voluntary Action.

What the Candidates Say:

Hoover at Elizabethton, Tenn.

WE stand specifically pledged to create a Federal Farm Board of men sympathetic with the problem, to be clothed with powers and resources with which not only to further aid farmers' co-operatives and assist generally in solving the multitude of different farm problems which arise from all quarters of our Nation, but in particular to build up with initial advances of capital from the government, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations which will protect the farmer from depressions and the demoralization of summer and periodic surpluses. Such an instrumentality should be able to develop as years go on the constructive measures necessary to solve the new farmers' problems that will inevitably arise.

It is no proposal of subsidy or fee or tax upon the farmer. It is a proposal to assist the farmer onto his own feet into control of his own destinies. This is not a theoretic formula. It is a business proposition designed to make farming more profitable. No such far-reaching and specific proposal has ever been made by a political party on behalf of any industry in our history. It marks our desire for establishment of farmers' stability and at the same time maintains his independence and individuality.

Governor Smith at St. Paul

*AS I read the McNary-Haugen bill, its fundamental purpose is to establish an effective control of the sale of exportable surplus with the cost imposed upon the commodity benefited. For that principle the Democratic platform squarely stands, and for that principle I squarely stand. Mr. Hoover stands squarely opposed to the principle by which the farmer could get the benefit of the tariff. What remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method, and I do not limit myself to the exact mechanics and methods embodied in that bill.**

*It remains but to work out the details by which this principle shall be put into effect, and I have pledged myself to name a non-partisan commission of farm leaders and students of the problem to work out those details.I pledge to the farmers and to the people of this country that no stone will be left unturned to give immediate and adequate farm relief, by legislation carrying into practice this definite principle for which my party and I stand.

By Charles G. Ross,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.

THERE is a farm problem; on that proposition there is complete agreement between the platforms of the two major parties and between the statements of the candidates. Likewise, there is agreement that the solution of the problem is vital not merely to the farming industry but to the whole country. Differences arise in the methods proposed for a solution.

What is the problem and what are the remedial plans of the candidates?

First, a glance at the importance of the farming industry. The farm population of the United States, according to the report of the Business Men's Commission in 1927, numbers about 28,000,000, or one-fourth of the whole population. Mr. Hoover in his acceptance speech placed the number of those who would be directly benefited by a farm relief program at one-third of the population.

Approximately 6,500,000 persons are engaged in operating the same number of farms, and these farms yield one-fourth of the world's production of wheat, three-fourths of the world's production of corn and two-thirds of the world's production of cotton.

Farming Industry in U. S. Has 65 Billions in Capital.

The capital invested in agriculture in 1919-20, as shown by statistics published by the National Industrial Conference Board in 1926, was $65,000,000,000, as compared with an investment of $44,000,000,000 in manufactures and $20,000,000,000 in railroads. Nearly one-fifth of the tangible wealth of the country is in farming property. It contributes about one-sixth of the national income and supplies materials upon which depend industries giving employment to one-half of our industrial workers.

Both the candidates recognized in their acceptance speeches the magnitude and gravity of the farm problem and its bearing upon the economic structure of the country.

Mr. Hoover said: "The most urgent problem in our nation today is in agriculture. It must be solved if we are to bring prosperity and contentment to one-third of our people directly and to all of our people indirectly."

Gov. Smith said: "This country cannot be a healthy, strong economic body if one of its members, so fundamentally important as agriculture, is sick almost to the point of economic death."

Issue Not a Class Problem But a Humanitarian One.

The problem, in other words, is not a class problem; and it might be added, as Senator Borah and others have done, that not only enlightened self-interest but sheer humanitarianism demands that it be solved. The farmer is entitled to a square deal. There can be no question that the rest of the country is prosperous enough to give him a square deal.

If there is anyone with a valid reason to object to an increase in food prices it is the small wage-earner in the cities, the man to whom an extra one cent or half-cent on the cost of a loaf of bread might be a burden. Yet the spokesmen of organized labor, realizing that the welfare of labor is intimately bound up with the welfare of the farmer, are among the most zealous proponents of farm relief.

One of the witnesses at a recent Congressional hearing on this question was Edgar Wallace, representing the American Federation of Labor.

"The farmers," said Wallace, "are our customers. We, as workers, are willing if necessary to pay a little more for our food products in order that our customers may be placed in a position to employ us."

Farmer Not Now on Equal Basis With Other Workers.

The problem is now to place the farmer on an economic equality with industry. No one questions that the farmer is now at a disadvantage. It is generally accepted as true (1) that the farmer suffers from a disparity between the prices of the things he buys and the prices of the things he sells, (2) that this disparity is due largely to the fact that he buys in a protected and sells in an unprotected market, (3) that he suffers from the lack of organization.

What is needed is some method that will give the farmer a control over the prices of his products comparable with the control enjoyed by the manufacturer over manufactured products. The problem was explained by the Post-Dispatch in those terms in 1923 and 1926. Farm leaders then quoted said that either "the stilts must be put under agriculture or taken from under industry"—that the tariff must either be made effective for the farmer or taken away from the manufacturer. Since both the parties are now committed to the protective tariff, the problem simmers down to the question of how to put the stilts under the farmer.

The fight over farm relief in Congress for the last five years has centered about the McNary-Haugen bill in one form or another. In 1924 the bill was defeated in the House by a vote of 224 to 154; the Senate did not consider it in that year. Under pressure from a group of strong farm organizations, it gradually gained strength. In 1926 it was again defeated in the House, this time by 221 to 167, and in the Senate it lost by 45 to 39. The bill was passed in 1927, the House approving it by 214 to 178 and the Senate by 47 to 39. A majority of the members of both parties supported it. Objecting particularly to the so-called equalization fee, President Coolidge vetoed the bill in vigorous language, and no vote on overriding his veto was taken.

Bill Vetoed After Passage Because Fee Plan Was Kept.

The bill was again presented last December, and in April of this year was passed by larger majorities than before, the vote in the House being 204 to 121 and in the Senate 53 to 23. It had been considerably modified, but it still contained the equalization fee. President Coolidge in May again vetoed the bill, and his action was sustained in the Senate.

The vote to pass the bill over his disapproval was 50 to 31, or only four votes short of the required two-thirds majority. An interesting feature of the roll call was the switch of Senator Curtis of Kansas, now the Republican Vice Presidential nominee, from his previous support of the bill to support of the veto. Senator Curtis thus got on both sides of the question.

The issue created by the McNary-Haugen bill was dominant in the primary campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, and again at the Kansas City convention. The convention was faced with the necessity of deciding whether it should stand by the President or by the Republican majorities in both House and Senate which had twice voted for the bill. It had to make this decision with respect both to the candidate and the platform. In each instance the McNary-Haugen advocates were defeated. Herbert Hoover was nominated, and, over the protest of a militant minority, the convention adopted a plank favoring the administration farm relief plan.

Democratic Plank Says Co-operatives Alone Cannot Solve Problem.

On the Democratic side, the farm issue played no determining part. The platform makers at Houston brought in a plank which went a long way toward satisfying the McNary-Haugenites, and this was adopted by the convention without opposition. The plank pledged the party to "foster and develop co-operative marketing associations through appropriate Government aid," and added: "We recognize that experience has demonstrated that members of such associations alone cannot successfully assume the full responsibility for a program that benefits all producers alike. We pledge the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance."

In giving this pledge, the party indorsed the object sought to be accomplished by the equalization fee. It did not, however, name the fee, the Democratic leaders taking the position that some other device might be found for accomplishing the same result.

The McNary-Haugen bill, with the equalization fee as its essential feature, is described in the preamble as a bill "to establish a Federal Farm Board to aid in the orderly marketing and in the control and disposition of the surplus of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce." It represents an effort, as its champions have said, to make the tariff effective for the farmer.

McNary-Haugen Scheme Devised to Control Entire Crop.

There is general agreement that under the law of supply and demand, when more of a crop is raised than is required for the domestic market, the price established in the world market tends to become the domestic price. What the McNary-Haugen bill seeks to do is to set up machinery for the control of the whole crop in order to prevent the surplus from beating down the domestic price.

We raise, let us say, 800,000,000 bushels of wheat, of which 600,000,000 are consumed at home and 200,000,000 are exported. (These are the round figures commonly used in discussions of the surplus, and they come close to the actual figures for 1926). The end sought by the McNary-Haugenites, as well as by the others who believe that the farmer is entitled to some form of governmental aid,

Fantastic Electoral System That Puts Minority in Power Denounced by Lloyd George

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Wartime Premier of England.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

WE ARE eight months from a general election in Great Britain, but although the rapids are some way off, there is perceptible quickening of the current. I am so involved as an oarsman in one of the boats that I am hardly a good judge of the progress of the race.

But I will do my best to give an impartial view of the position. The three parties have already met to settle their platforms. The most popular plank among the Conservatives will be "safeguarding," that is protection by installments. At their convention a tariff on iron and steel was carried with acclamation. It is the one item in the program that raises enthusiasm in the Tory ranks. Conservative spokesmen will loyally stand by every article of faith enunciated from headquarters, but their reliance will be placed in tariffs.

Government's Difficulties.

The rating proposals of the Government have fallen flat and will kindle no warmth at the gatherings of the party in the country or bring it any support at the polls. They will, if anything, alienate the trades that are called upon to pay without participating in the distribution. The Government's astonishing mismanagement of the Anglo-French pact has angered many of its followers and bewildered even the most faithful. The continued depression in the basic industries and the steady rise in the figures of the unemployed, are also telling heavily against the Government. There is a general sense of disappointment that no serious efforts have been made to grapple with the trade situation. On all these questions—save protection—Tory speakers and pressmen are apologetic. The safeguarding issue alone brings cheer to the weary spellbinder on his rounds.

But the real hope of the Government lies in the fact that the opposition is divided into two rival armies, Liberal and Labor, each as hostile to each other as they are to the Conservatives. Both these parties are committed to free trade and will resist every proposal to impose fresh tariffs; both object to the Government's rating proposals and both denounce the clumsy diplomacy which led to the misunderstanding with America. As to the Government's neglect to deal with the unemployed, both are equally emphatic.

An American Parallel.

Nevertheless, the division of those who oppose the Government into two rival camps may have the same electoral effect as the splitting of the anti-Democratic vote had in the presidential election of 1912. That is why, in spite of the unquestioned popularity of the Government, the issue is still in doubt. The last two bye-elections illustrate quite clearly the complications created by the three-party system. At the last election the Conservatives won Cheltenham and Tavistock in straight fights with the Liberals by handsome majorities. At the recent bye-elections, the Socialists intervened with candidates. The Liberals and the Socialists alike hammered the Government. The poll revealed the fact that the Government forfeited the confidence of the majority of the electors in both places, but owing to the division among its opponents, escaped actual defeat. The new members for Cheltenham and Tavistock represent a minority of their constituents but nevertheless they represent these constituencies in Parliament. In France there would have been in each of these elections a second ballot, and the opposition candidate who came second in the poll—in both cases, Liberal—would undoubtedly have been elected.

At the last general election the Tory poll was nearly 1,000,000 short of the aggregate Liberal and Labor poll. That did not prevent the Conservatives from securing 420 members out of a total of 615 in the British Parliament. The Bonar Law government of 1922 had a plurality of nearly 3,000,000 votes against it. All the same, it had a majority of 80 members returned to the House of Commons. Next time it is safe to predict that the Government poll will be many millions below the combined vote of the opposition parties, but there is no guarantee how this curious electoral gamble will turn out for the various parties.

The luck of the tables will favor one of them—but which. The last time, the Conservatives had one member elected for every 18,000 votes recorded for their party. The Socialists had one member for every 36,000. The Liberals could only secure one member for every 70,000 Liberal votes. Had each of the parties been elected according to their strength, the Conservatives would have returned 295 members, the Socialists 202 and the Liberals 110.

"Fantastic Electoral System."

It is a fantastic electoral system and no one can forecast how it will work. It is government by Monte Carlo methods. Next time the ball may roll with a click into the Liberal or the Socialist number. Lord Younger—a shrewd old Scottish Tory boss—has pointed out the dangers lurking in this system to the stability of our Constitution. He has urged that the luck of the gambling tables which hitherto has been entirely Conservative, might well one day turn in favor of the Socialists. He therefore urges, and has for a long time pressed the introduction of a second ballot into our Constitution. His warnings have so far gone unheeded and it is not impossible that his party may once again profit by neglecting his advice. The next general election in Britain will be a great gamble.

Expects a Deadlock.

The outcome most generally expected is a deadlock. In that event the parliamentary situation for all parties will be perplexing. At this moment, when party feeling runs high, it is difficult to see what will happen. No party is prepared to combine or co-operate with any other party. On the other hand, the parties are naturally disinclined to contemplate the prospect of keeping another party in power. If and when the occasion arises, I have no doubt the counsels of wisdom will prevail, and that, to use a famous phrase of the Duke of Wellington, means will be found "to carry the King's Government."

Public opinion will visit with quick resentment any exhibition of a selfish partisanship which makes it difficult for democratic government to continue. Memories of 1924 will make it impossible in any event for that disastrous experiment to be repeated. Liberals cannot be induced again to use their parliamentary strength to put a Socialist government into power. The Socialist government left behind a recollection of incompetence and arrogance. The best proof of their incompetence was their insolence towards a party whose good will was essential to their continuance in office. But that is not the only evidence of

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Woman's Story.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM a woman and not very brilliant or well informed as to our political platforms, but I do know these several facts which occurred during the last two Republican administrations.

My sister and her husband are giving up their farm home. The mortgage has it. Now after years of hard work to educate a family and provide a home, their efforts have been in vain and they are starting anew at 52 years of age.

A brother with a little family has lost his little grocery store. The chain stores have the business. He has applied to them for employment. Yes, indeed, they will hire a good, honest, experienced man like him. He will earn the magnificent sum of $15 a week.

And last, but not least is my good husband's troubles. He drank in moderation until prohibition. Now, after paying a big price for poison moonshine, he takes a few drinks and is insane. Wants to kill someone or gamble or most of all he wants to drive an automobile.

In the old days a few bottles of good beer at the cost of 25c warmed his heart and never did we have trouble.

Now his stomach is ruined, his mind is undependable and his pocketbook is flat.

How eagerly I would welcome prohibition if it only would prohibit.

Personally I would vote for a cannibal in preference to any one who calls the last two administrations a success.

Perhaps it was for the classes, but how unfair it has been to the masses. Consequently—here is another vote for Smith. ONE OF THE MASSES.

Another Sidelight on "Prosperity."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN reference to the Republican so-called prosperity, I quote from the Financial and Commercial Chronicle dated New York, October 13, 1928, page 1989.

The record of insolvencies in the United States for September, 1928, increased as compared with the same month of 1927, as had been the case in most of the earlier months of the year.

The report for the third quarter of 1928 shows 5210 strictly commercial failures with liabilities of $121,745,149 as compared with the third quarter of 1927 when there were 5037 failures with liabilities of $115,132,052. Of these 80 per cent were in the populous progressive states of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri and New York.

Bank defaults for the third quarter of 1928 were 55, owing $20,809,985, while for the same period of 1927 there were also 55, owing $20,857,350.

For the nine months of 1928 there were 247 banking suspensions with liabilities of $86,564,545, while for the same period of 1927 there were 313 similar defaults, involving $112,907,296.

The 12 months will show probably the same ratio making quite a handsome total, for the two years of Republican prosperity.

The Republican party has dodged between the legs of progress and advancement since the war and crowed at every footstep building on the theory that the majority of the people can be fooled most of the time.

A CONSTANT READER.

As to Political Preachers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE hear a great deal about nullification these days. How about nullification of that part of the Constitution of the United States which states that religion shall be no test of office under the United States Government? Aren't the preachers who are out against Smith preaching nullification in the true sense of the word? They are trying to tell us they are preaching against him on "moral" grounds. If this country ever had a man of high morality as a candidate for President, they have it now in Alfred E. Smith.

There have been other issues in this country which might have drawn the opprobium and censure of the preachers. Where were they then? You didn't hear any of them preaching about honesty in Government when the Tea Pot Dome scandal came to light. And they talk about New York. Is New York the only city in the country where the eighteenth amendment is being violated? Tammany and Al Smith have nothing to do with the City of St. Louis, and even a blind preacher can find all the evidence he wants right here in this town.

I wonder that a Republican has the nerve to talk about Tammany, in the face of the Republican corruption of the last few years. Perhaps Tammany in years gone by did give out contracts to their members (wouldn't the Republicans have done the same if they were in power?)—but the contractors gave employment to thousands of men, and passed the money along a little bit. If a Republican was ever known to share the loot with others, it is news to me.

Tammany is also a philanthropic organization. It helps its members when they are out of work or in hard luck, and for this reason has won a place in the hearts of the people. This is all bunk about Tammany. How about the crooked Republican machine in Philadelphia? How about Vare, who is responsible for the nomination of Hoover? You don't hear the ministers talking about him, do you? I am a Protestant, but the hypocrisy of some of the preachers has made me bow my head in shame.

E. C. N.

THE CASE AGAINST HOOVER.

The Post-Dispatch has said why it thinks Gov. Smith should be elected President of the United States, and it wishes also to say why it does not think Mr. Hoover should be elected to that office.

A liberal form of government under which all the people may participate in the wealth of the country has not been possible under Mr. Coolidge, not entirely because he is not liberally disposed, but because of the influences behind him. His obligation to those influences is much greater than his obligation to the people. He proves that in almost every one of his official acts. He vetoed the farm bill twice and the Muscle Shoals bill once. He destroyed the usefulness of the Tariff Commission because the sugar barons who had helped to make him President insisted upon controlling the commission's acts. It was the will of his masters and not his own that dictated the appointment of Charles B. Warren, one of the organizers of the Sugar Trust, as Attorney-General, an obvious impropriety which the Senate refused to confirm. It was their will also that actuated the appointment of Roy O. West, an emissary of the Power Trust, to be Secretary of the Interior, and as such to sit on the Federal Water Power Commission. It was their will that made every agency and commission of the Government the tool of privilege.

Mr. Hoover as President would have exactly the same masters Mr. Coolidge has had. The last hope that he might be his own man disappeared in his New York speech, where he raised the worm-eaten scarecrow of socialism. By this political legerdemain, which has deprived Congress of a single progressive act ever since Mr. Wilson left the White House, every one of the causes awaiting liberal indorsement in the White House becomes something that, according to Mr. Hoover, not the people of the United States but only Socialists want. Only Socialists want the farmer to enjoy the privilege that industrialism enjoys. Only Socialists want to keep the great hydro-electric plant at Muscle Shoals, and the one to be built at Boulder Dam, out of the hands of the Power Trust. Only Socialists want the states to handle the liquor problem as they wish and the long arm and nose of Uncle Sam taken out of the domestic affairs of the people. Only Socialists want to do away with the lame-duck sessions of Congress, and to pass a reapportionment bill ending our rotten borough system.

Mr. Hoover would therefore only continue the negations of Mr. Coolidge. He, too, would veto the Muscle Shoals bill with the commentary that the Government should not compete with its citizens in business. Its citizens have never offered it more than 6 cents on the dollar for a plant which cost $160,000,000; but Mr. Hoover, echoing his master's voice, would object to the Government operating it. He would also veto the McNary-Haugen bill, or any substitute, in dodging its principle. In short, the man would change, but the master's voice would be the same. It would say to every liberal aspiration, "Don't."

The objections of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover to progress are not wholly their own. The opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill, the consequences of which, if it is impracticable, would be upon the farmers themselves, lies deeper than that. It is the objection of the rich industrialists, the backers of the Republican party, to elevating the farmers to the privileged level of the industrialists. That destroys the theory of a small privileged class upon which the party as such enjoys the largess of the industrialists. Mr. Coolidge understood that quite well. He refused to turn the farmers into the lush pastures of the privileged, and the farmers therefore got only promises while he was in the White House. That is all they will get with Mr. Hoover in the White House. It is all that anybody except the privileged few will get as long as the Government is controlled by the Mellons and the Butlers. Mr. Hoover says a country that is spending $90,000,000,000 annually ought to be able to spend a few hundred millions to make the farmers prosperous, but if he is elected he will not indorse any such munificence. That would be too many hands in the cash box, which is contrary to the Republican tradition. Mr. Mellon and his Aluminum Trust—yes. The sugar barons—certainly. The farmers—no.

Nor is that the whole case against Mr. Hoover. The next President will almost certainly make several appointments to the United States Supreme bench. Several of the Justices, including, unfortunately, Justice Holmes, the noblest Roman of them all, are growing old. Mr. Harding was in the White House only from March, 1921, to August, 1923, but he appointed four of the nine Supreme Justices. The Republicans make a supreme effort to elect the President. They are not so particular about members of Congress. That is because through the White House they control two of the three co-ordinate branches of Government. With the White House in their possession they control appointments to the Supreme Court. If a veto by the President does not stop such a bill as the farm bill or the Muscle Shoals bill the Supreme Court can hold it unconstitutional. We have seen enough of Mr. Hoover in the campaign to know that he wears the brass collar of his party. Does anyone doubt that his appointments to the Supreme bench would be only such as Mr. Harding made? Does anyone believe he would put a Brandeis or a Holmes on the bench? Certainly not.

One other reason. Mr. Hoover would maintain the tragic farce of Federal prohibition with all its disastrous consequences, and Gov. Smith will try to change it for the better, restoring the rights of States and individual liberty.

For these reasons the Post-Dispatch is against the election of Mr. Hoover. We have had eight years of toryism. Not a single constructive or liberal thing has been done by the Government for the people. The country needs desperately a liberal administration which will do for it what the Wilson administration did. It needs to have all the progressive legislation dammed up behind Republican opposition go through again as it did when the election of Wilson let a similar accumulation go through, including measures beneficial both to business and the whole people. Some of those adopted under Mr. Wilson were experimental, as the Federal reserve act was, but they became a great boon to the country. Toryism never experiments. Its god is the status quo.

To elect Mr. Hoover would be only to prolong the period of negation and stagnation.

DECLINING WATERFOWL.

A waterfowl census of the world shows them to be declining in most countries. The United States is in some respects an exception. Shore birds are declining, but ducks and geese are holding their own. Swan are increasing. This is because the United States no longer shoots these birds in spring, when they breed, and forbids game markets anywhere in the country. Those have been the two greatest conservation acts in history, and they are bearing their fruit.

Unfortunately, Canada, which joined with our own country in a bird treaty, is not so well able as we are to protect the birds. This is because of the extensive use made of the eggs of these birds as food by natives in the Canadian wilds. These wilds are of vast extent, and to change the food habit of Indians and Eskimos in the far north is a difficult matter. However, Canada is making headway. She is sincere. She, too, wants conservation.

In the rest of the world there is almost no restriction upon either killing or selling waterfowl. It is a movement that takes foot slowly except among the English speaking peoples. The Latins particularly scarcely know the meaning of the word conservation. At a Congress for Bird Protection held at Geneva last summer Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, reported the results of the survey. It was shown that where the birds receive little or no protection they are disappearing. In the countries which practice conservation the remaining perils are drainage, oil on coastal water and lakes, the automobile and the motor boat. Draining deprives the waterfowl of their breeding places and the gasoline motor gets into every place where there are waterfowl 50 men where one used to go. Oil traps and kills the birds.

The problem in the United States is to provide game for so many hunters. It can be done only by severe restrictions upon the shooting and forbidding everywhere commercialism in game. The objective is one in which every hunter should join.

If Mr. Hoover cannot be elected President on the Republican ticket, maybe he will return to the Democratic party and try it the other way around next time.

A Baptist Preacher's Campaign Views

Citing Constitutional provisions for religious freedom, Missouri preacher declares that any Baptist who is not in favor of the free exercise of religious belief is untrue to the traditions of his church and his government.

By THE REV. WILL HALE

HOUSTON, Mo.

FOR many years I have been a Baptist preacher. Ever since I have been preaching, I have recognized the fact that every person who believes in the same Bible that I believe in, who worships the same God that I worship, who believes that Christ is the Son of God, and that He gave His life to save the world from sin, has a right to worship God in any manner, method, or form, satisfactory to the dictates of his own conscience. This right is given him by the Constitution of the United States. Arcticle I of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States provides:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." Article 6 of the Constitution provides: "No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States." Section 5, article 2 of the Constitution of the State of Missouri, provides: "All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience; that no person can on account of his religious opinions be rendered ineligible to any office of trust or profit under this State."

The Baptists in Rhode Island and the Catholics in Maryland were the first two colonies to declare for religious freedom.

Any Baptist who is not in favor of the free exercise of religious belief, any Baptist who is not for religious tolerance, any Baptist who contends that religion should be made a test to hold public office, is not only living untrue to the traditions of the Baptist Church, but he is running counter to the fundamental law of the United States, and also the fundamental law of the State of Missouri.

I know that at this time there are certain preachers in the pulpit and out of the pulpit who are denouncing Al Smith because he is a member of the Catholic Church. These preachers ignore the fundamental law of the land as above quoted. They believe that they should have the right to worship God as their conscience dictates, but they do not want to accord to Al Smith the right to worship God as his conscience dictates. They believe that Al Smith should not worship God as his conscience dictates. In other words, they do not believe that Al Smith's conscience should have anything to do with the manner, method or form in which he should worship God. They believe that the declaration of our Constitution that all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience applies only to men who belong to a Protestant denomination. They also believe that the declaration of our Constitution that no person can on account of his religious opinions be rendered ineligible to any office under our nation or State applies only to persons belonging to some Protestant denomination. These preachers not only want Al Smith to worship God as they dictate he should, but they also want the members of their respective congregations to vote as they dictate they should vote; they want their communicants to be as putty in their hands.

No preacher—no layman—has the legal or moral right to vote against Al Smith for the reason that he belongs to the Catholic Church and to do so is a direct violation of both our State and national Constitutions.

The Catholic Church worships the same God that the Baptists worship, they believe in the same Bible in which the Baptists believe, they belive in the same Christ that the Baptists believe in—then why should any Baptist vote against Al Smith on account of the fact that he belongs to the Catholic Church? To do so is both morally and legally wrong.

The histories which are now in use in the public schools make the statement that for nearly 1500 years after the birth of Christ, the Catholic Church preserved the Christian religion; William J. Bryan said, in substance, in 1924 at the Democratic convention in New York, that the Catholic Church, on account of its charity and the things of benefit to the people of the United States which it had performed needed no defense against the Ku Klux Klan or any other power seeking to destroy it.

There is one thing we do know and that is that the Catholics have always been loyal to the Government of the United States; that they were loyal to Washington in the Revolutionary War; they were loyal to the United States in the wars of 1812, 1845, the Spanish-American War and the World War. We know that 70 per cent of the volunteers in the World War were Catholics. We also know that Lafayette and Rochambeau were Catholics; that they left their native country, France, and came to the United States to assist Washington in obtainiing the independence of the United States. We also know that the first soldier killed in the World War was a Catholic, and that the first regiment annihilated in the World War was a Catholic regiment from the State of New York.

Now, if the Catholics have always been true and loyal to their Government and have done the things above enumerated for our country, by what right can the Protestant denominations of this country say that a Catholic shall not be elected to the office of President of the United States? My opinion is that the Baptist or any other Protestant denomination has no right to make any such contention, and that they are violating both our State and national Constitutions when they do so. The cardinal doctrines of the Baptist Church declare that everyone should have the right of free speech, the right of free thought, and the right to worship God as his conscience dictates.

A NATIONAL REFERENDUM.

From the New York Times.

AS election day approaches it becomes more and more obvious that two or three issues are going to be voted upon irrespective of party names, and certainly with no reference to party platforms. Should Gov. Smith, as now appears probable, poll a larger vote than any Democratic candidate for the presidency ever received—even if it prove not large enough to elect him—the result will be nearer to a national referendum than anything we have had. It is not explicit or formal, but none the less it is visible and vital. Thousands of men and women will cast their ballots mainly for what they think will be the effect on prohibition. Thousands of others will vote on the question of religious prejudice, either to express their own as emphatically as possible or to resent and renounce it. Both these great matters come before the electorate indirectly, yet with patent force, and will enter into the election in a way at present incalculable. It will be like taking "the sense of the country" on at least two issues on which politicians are divided and of which they have been afraid, but which evidently are uppermost in the feelings of millions of Americans.

An argument often heard in these last days of the campaign is that an immense vote for Gov. Smith will be ineffective. Mr. James Beck has been telling Pennsylvania Republicans who are inclined to support the Democratic candidate that it will be futile to elect him because once in office he could do nothing. The main reason assigned by Mr. Beck is that any proposals Gov. Smith might make would instantly divide his party: and without a united party in Congress he would be helpless. Well, the Democratic party may be divided in the future, but the Republican party is divided today. Eight or 10 Senators who call themselves Republicans have steadily refused to support President Coolidge, and there is no reason to suppose that they will support Mr. Hoover if he becomes President. Party for party, the Republicans are just as likely to show themselves paralyzed by factions as are the Democrats. Meanwhile, the fact remains that a great outpouring of the voters in favor of Gov. Smith would constitute, even if he should fail of election, a demonstration of popular sentiment which no thinking man, no political managers, could afford to ignore. It would be a referendum demanding that something be done to repair or avert the immense harm wrought by prohibition, and also stamping upon the miserable and un-American spirit of religious proscription in our public life.

A B C of Farm Problem and Opposing Relief Programs

[illegible] to keep the 200,000,000 bushels from fixing the price of the 800,-000,000.

The farmer is in a different position from the manufacturer. The latter can quickly adjust his supply to the demand; the farmer cannot. As Mr. Hoover has explained in one of his speeches, "he produces first and finds his market subject to every fortuitous circumstance of production and distribution afterward." Industry, moreover, is highly organized. Where there is monopoly, or near-monopoly, control, as in the aluminum and steel industries, a few men can fix the price of their product. Even where there is somewhat more active competition, it is possible for a comparatively small number of men in a given industry, through the exchange of trade information and other devices narrowly within the anti-trust laws to hold up prices. Again, a large section of industry operates behind the protective tariff wall. The farmer is unorganized, and the forces by which prices are regulated are quite beyond his control.

Fort of New Jersey States Situation.

The case has been accurately stated by Representative Franklin Fort of New Jersey, the leader of the fight against the McNary-Haugen formula at the Kansas City convention and now the secretary of the Republican National Committee.

"We have come to realize and to accept as a fact," said Fort in a speech in the House, "that American agriculture unorganized and unfinanced cannot, under existing conditions of commerce, compete on terms of equality in the markets of the world with buyers who today, as never before in history, are both firmly organized and firmly financed. Therefore there is no difference, I believe, in the House, as to the need of relief or as to the need of governmental assistance in procuring that relief. We are agreed that the farmer must have organization. We are agreed that the Government should help create and should foster the organization. We are agreed that the Government should in some way or other assist in financing the organization when created. Those are the essentials."

There is similar agreement now between the two candidates for the presidency; they differ, as did the President and the majority of Congress, on the method to be applied.

As a means of giving the relief which both sides to the controversy agree should be given, the McNary-Haugen bill proposes a 100 per cent compulsory pooling of a given crop—say the wheat crop—and the application of an equalization fee. However intricate might be the machinery required for the levying of the fee, the theory of the fee is simple enough. The object, as set forth in the minority plank rejected by the Republican national convention, the plank desired by the farm organizations supporting the McNary-Haugen bill, is "to distribute the costs and losses to be incurred in dealing with agricultural surpluses over each marketed unit of the crop whose producers are to be benefited."

Purpose Is to Place Whole Crop Under Unified Control.

"Over each marketed unit of the crop"—that is the vital point. The object of the equalization fee machinery is to put the whole crop, both the part consumed at home and the part sent into world trade, under unified control. This process would not be precisely a cornering of the market, for cornering as commonly understood means the speculative purchase of the whole supply of a commodity with a view to squeezing the consumer; but it would establish by law the "100 per cent co-operation" of producers which the advocates of the McNary-Haugen bill declare is essential to effective control. Under this "100 per cent co-operation," all the producers of a crop brought within the workings of the bill would share ratably in the liabilities as well as the benefits of the price-control transactions.

One of the congressional reports on the bill says: "It takes 100 per cent co-operation to deal effectively with the surplus, and it is impossible to get such complete co-operation otherwise than through governmental action."

The object of the equalization-fee machinery, then, is to "corner" the crop, in the sense of putting it under unified Government control, and then to dispose of it to better advantage than is now possible. This means segregating the surplus from the balance of the crop and establishing a "fair price" for the domestic market independent of the price in the world market. Ultimately, of course, the procedure means price-fixing in the domestic market (whether it be called "stabilization" or what not), just as any other form of effective control of a crop is bound to mean price-fixing.

The McNary-Haugen bill does not say what would be a fair price for wheat, but its supporters all along have asserted that it would be the world price plus the tariff of 42 cents a bushel. This is another way of saying that the plan would make the tariff effective for the farmer. Sometimes it is figured that the fair price would be the world price plus the tariff plus the transportation cost of importing a foreign product.

The bill would set up a Federal farm board with power to determine the fair price of a product and conduct the operations necessary to make it effective. This board would administer a revolving fund appropriated from the Federal treasury. In the form in which it was last passed by Congress, the bill provided that the board should first seek to attain the desired object through loans at a low rate of interest, out of the revolving fund, to co-operative associations of producers. If this method should prove insufficient, then the board would have the right to resort to the equalization fee. It was urged on behalf of the bill that the appropriation for its financing would not be a subsidy, inasmuch as the money would ultimately be returned to the Government—in the one case by repayment of the loans and in the other by the fee charged against the marketed product.

Temporary Loss on Surplus Met by Equalization Fee.

To illustrate the practical working of the fee, we assume that the world price of wheat is $1 a bushel, and that the board decides to establish a domestic price of $1 plus the tariff, a total of $1.42. Through marketing associations, corporations and other agencies with which the board would enter into contracts, it would buy up the entire crop, say of 800,000,000 bushels, at $1.42, or a total of $1,136,-000,000. It would then sell the surplus, 200,000,000 bushels, at the world price of $1 a bushel, thereby taking a temporary loss of 42 cents on the bushel, or a total loss of $84,000,000. This loss of $84,-000,000 would be spread over the entire crop of 800,000,000 bushels, so that the loss per bushel would be 10½ cents, which would be collected as an equalization fee. The price received by the farmer would thus be the fixed price of $1.42 less the 10½-cent equalization fee, or $1.31½ cents a bushel, which is 31½ cents more than if he had sold the entire crop at the world price.

The equalization fee has been recognized by both the friends and enemies of the McNary-Haugen bill as the heart of the measure. Representative Haugen said that it is "the all-essential feature of the bill" and the President in his veto message of 1928 called it "the kernel of this legislation."

The bill has been praised and damned in millions of words. For the opposition, President Coolidge has been the leading spokesman. In the message just quoted he said that the bill held out a "fantastic promise of unworkable governmental price regulation;" that it was "futile and delusive;" that it would set up "a bureaucratic tyranny of unprecedented proportions." He repeated his conviction that the equalization fee would constitute a tax, and that the proposed method of levying this tax was outside Constitutional limits.

Champions Defend Fee as Only Road to Complete Co-operation.

Champions of the bill have retorted that the fee is the only device yet discovered that will bring about 100 per cent co-operation" among producers; that the bill is not price-fixing legislation in the sense meant by the President, but only an attempt to give the farmer the benefit of the tariff; that the fee is not a tax but a "charge for benefits and service rendered" and an incident to a proposed regulation of interstate and foreign commerce which is clearly within the constitutional powers of Congress.

The President in his 1928 veto message said: "I have believed at all times that the only sound basis for further Federal Government action in behalf of agriculture would be to encourage its adequate organization to assist in building up marketing agencies and facilities in the control of the farmers themselves I want to see them undertake, under their own management, the marketing of their products under such conditions as will enable them to bring about greater stability in prices and less waste in marketing, but entirely within unalterable economic laws. Such a method, supported by a strong protective tariff on farm products, is the best method of effecting a permanent cure of existing agricultural ills."

Hoover Opposes Compulsion, Depends Upon Voluntary Co-operation.

This is the position taken by Mr. Hoover. In his acceptance speech he gave a relief formula in three parts: Use of the tariff to protect the farmer, development of inland waterway transportation in order to reduce freight rates; and the creation "of a Federal Farm Board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with which not only to still further aid farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up with Federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations which will protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralization of seasonal gluts and periodical surpluses." He said that his program was adapted "to the variable problems of agriculture not only today but which will arise in the future."

Gov. Smith has taken his stand on the Democratic platform, which declares for "distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance." The platform does not indorse the equalization fee, and neither has Gov. Smith indorsed it. Nor has he repudiated it. In his campaign speeches on farm relief he said: "For that principal (the principle above quoted) the Democratic platform squarely stands, and for that principle I squarely stand. . . . What remains of the McNary-Haugen bill is a mere matter of method, and I do not limit myself to the exact mechanics and methods embodied in that bill."

He has pledged himself to appoint a commission to work out the details of a relief plan. What he has said leaves the way clear for him to support the equalization fee if that is the method decided upon by his commission. It also leaves the way clear for him to support some other method.

To put his position in another way: If it is true, as some farm leaders have said, that the equalization fee is the only possible method by which the purpose of the McNary-Haugen bill can be realized, then Gov. Smith, by his present commitments, is committed to the equalization fee but he is not necessarily committed to it if other machinery to accomplish the same result can be devised.

Difference Between Candidates.

The difference between the two candidates boils down to simply this: That Hoover would seek to accomplish through voluntary co-operation on the part of the farmers, with Government financial aid, what Smith would seek to accomplish through compulsory 100 per cent co-operation.

This difference is the crux of the whole difficulty over legislative farm relief. It is the difference which has kept the President and Congress apart ever since the farm organizations began demanding the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Compulsory co-operation is declared by the McNary-Haugenites to be an absolute prerequisite to effective price regulation. Otherwise, they say, there would be individual action by nonco-operators which would defeat the purpose of the proposed crop pools.

"What is needed," according to Representative Dickinson (Rep.) of Iowa, one of the foremost spokesmen of the McNary-Haugen group, "is a device by which nonmembers may be compelled to pay their share of the cost of stabilization, and that is the underlying principle of farm relief legislation."

One of the authors of the bill, Representative Haugen (Rep.) of Iowa, has similarly declared that "anything short of the 100 per cent pool would fail to give the desired results."

Compares Fee Plan With Federal Reserve Banks.

Gov. Smith in his Omaha speech said that "stabilization corporations made up of voluntary associations of producers can no more stabilize agriculture than the banks of the country were able voluntarily to stabilize our financial system without the intervention of the Government in forming the Federal Reserve System."

Mr. Hoover has said: "I am no believer in governmental compulsion as a method of attempting to build up any kind of human activity. Compulsion is an implement for the stopping of wrongdoing. Rather are we to succeed if we set up such helpful and sound organization that people are attracted by self-interest to join in the effort. I believe therefore that we must devise machinery for the development of organization, the joining of which would be purely voluntary and the advantages of membership in which would be such as to swiftly secure within their ranks the preponderating marketing of particular commodities."

Mr. Hoover points to his success as Secretary of Commerce. In promoting co-operation between the Government and business, and expresses the belief that the same methods can be applied with good results to the problems of agriculture.

How much the price of farm products to the consumer would be increased under the McNary-Haugen bill, or under any other form of crop control, it is of course impossible to say. In one of the debates on the bill, Representative Fort estimated that the equalization fee, which he said would raise the price of wheat 60 cents a bushel, would add 1 cent a loaf to the price of bread. If that estimate is correct, the fee as it is commonly figured by its supporters would add something over one-half cent. On the other hand, it was pointed out in the same debate that the price of bread in recent years has had little relation to the price of wheat—that bread cost the same when wheat sold at $2.40 a bushel as when it sold at 86 cents.

Both Parties Committed to Relief of Agriculture.

The question of increased prices, however, is immaterial in this campaign. Both the parties are committed, and their candidates likewise, to improving the farmer's economic position. Both of them are for governmental aid in that direction. Both stand for the strengthening of the farm co-operatives. Both in the last analysis stand for price regulation, or stabilization, or fixing, whatever you may choose to call it, based on effective crop control. Crop control means control of the whole crop or a preponderating part of it, with control of the surplus as a necessary incident to this end.

Mr. Hoover and the Republican platform say that effective control can be achieved by the co-operatives through voluntary pooling, with Government aid.

Gov. Smith and the Democratic platform, accepting the "principle and purpose" of the McNary-Haugen bill, say that voluntary action, since it would stop somewhere short of 100 per cent pooling, would not be enough; that the Government must therefore set up machinery requiring 100 per cent pooling.

The fundamental difference is between voluntary action on the one hand and compulsory action on the other.

The end that is sought—better prices for the farmer in the domestic market through unified crop control—is the same.

UNION OFFICIAL SHORT $15,000, POLICE HEAR

Auditor's Report on Books of Hugh J. Gordon to Be Made Known.

An auditors' report covering a shortage in the accounts of Hugh J. Gordon, president, secretary and treasurer of the St. Louis Web Pressmen's Union No. 38, will be presented at a meeting of members of the union at the Holland Building this afternoon.

Although police have information that the audit has disclosed that Gordon, an officer of the union for the last 10 years, is short $15,000 Joseph C. Orr, international secretary of the union, and members of a committee appointed to take charge of Gordon's affairs, declined to discuss the amount until after the report of the auditors is presented at the meeting. Members of the committee said it was not learned what Gordon did with the money, although it is suspected that he gambled.

The shortage in Gordon's accounts was discovered early this month and a number of meetings of the membership have been held to discuss the matter. Gordon at first denied there was a shortage and then is said to have told close friends that he was at least $3500 short in his accounts. He is married and resides at 2519A California avenue.

Gordon was arrested Thursday night as he approached Hotel Jefferson to keep an appointment with Orr. He was released on bond Friday to answer any charge which may be placed against him. Preliminary information for the issuance of a warrant has been presented to the Circuit Attorney's office.

WORKMAN KILLED BY FALL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

E. G. Schaub Apparently Failed to Observe Car Was Not There When He Stepped In.

Edward G. Schaub, 55 years old, a utility man at the Lynn Meat Market, Sixth and Morgan streets, was killed yesterday when he pushed a hand truck loaded with 200 pounds of ice into an elevator shaft. He fell from the first floor to the basement with the truck.

The elevator was on an upper floor of the building. Schaub apparently opened the first floor door and pushed the truck in without observing that the car was not there. He lived at 1525 Semple avenue.

individual and national life. Copy about crime must be left to police reports, except in those exceptional cases where great social, human or political interest prevails.

Those do not serve the regime who fail to keep their dignity before foreigners who are enjoying Italian hospitality either when they express their opinion about the regime or Mussolini. I repeat that the highest marks assigned to me, with or without praise by any of these illustrious personages, leave me entierly indifferent.

Exalt big men, all those who render service to their motherland and humanity, not those vain ones who like to see themselves pictured in the act of saluting the unknown warrior. Nor do those serve the regime who lack discretion, especially in matters of foreign policy or finance who are inexact.

the ineptitude they displayed. They were very raw and inexperienced in office. But while they were too inexperienced to know, they were also too self-satisfied to seek counsel of those who did. Assuredly, 1924 will not be repeated. The Liberal party would not stand it. They would far rather bide their time for another five years.

DRY DEFENSE IN MAIL UNDER HEFLIN'S FRANK

Statement by Bishop Cannon Ammunition for Missouri Anti-Saloon League.

A defense of prohibition, made by Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Church, and sent postage free through the mails under the congressional frank of Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama, is included in literature with which the Anti-Saloon League has supplied Missouri ministers for their sermons today in observance of "Good Citizenship."

The Rev. Parker Shields, Missouri superintendent of the Anti Saloon League, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the league's literature, including attacks on Gov. Smith because of his stand against a continuance of prohibition, has been sent to 2,000 ministers of non-Catholic evangelical churches and expressed the conviction that the day would be observed in most of the 2,000 churches.

The fourth Sunday of October usually a Temperance Sunday, but the designation was changed this year, in churches following the dry league's program, to fit in with the present political situation. Posters urging church members to vote as a duty of citizenship, and carrying an appeal for them to cast their ballots against wet candidates have been supplied for display in church buildings.

The defense of prohibition sent out under the Heflin frank is an address delivered by Bishop Cannon before the Prohibition Conference in Washington on Feb. 28, last, and read into the Congressional Record last June. As such it has been printed by the Government printing office for distribution. The Rev. Mr. Shields said the Missouri Anti-Saloon League had sent out 10,000 of the pamphlets.

Football Play In Southern Cities Draws Motorists

Trips to Atlanta and Nashville Also Offer Opportunity for Belated Vacation Tours Over Excellent Highways.

FOOTBALL is providing one notable incentive for St. Louisans to drive to Nashville, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., and for somewhat more than a year the highway to those Southern cities has been in excellent condition. The trip is attractive in the autumn if made for no other purpose than to enjoy the scenery and look at the historic places in the two towns and along the route.

It is 359 miles from St. Louis to Nashville and 282 miles farther, or a total of 641 miles, to Atlanta. Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain are on the way, 495 miles from St. Louis. A tireless driver with a fast car could reasonably expect to make the whole trip to Atlanta in one long day at the wheel. For almost any capable driver it is an easy two-day journey.

Vanderbilt University at Nashville and Georgia Tech at Atlanta have football teams which attract national attention. Their "at home" schedules for the remainder of the season follow:

Vanderbilt at Nashville—Nov. 3, Kentucky; Nov. 17, Tennessee; Thanksgiving, Nov. 29, Sewanee.

Georgia Tech at Atlanta—Nov. 10; Vanderbilt, Nov. 17. Alabama; Nov. 29, Thanksgiving, Auburn.

Both Nashville and Atlanta have interesting things for the traveler to see, not the least of which are the signs of modern social and industrial development in these once staid old places. Chattanooga and Vincennes and Evansville, Ind., likewise are worth visiting. The climate is pleasant at this time of year in the South, and Atlanta particularly offers itself for a brief autumn vacation in pleasant surroundings.

From St. Louis to Vincennes the route follows Illinois concrete pavement of U. S. highway No. 50 and this flat country may be traversed speedily. Then one turns south on U. S. No. 41, paved with slab as far as Evansville just beyond that busy town there is a regular ferry over the Ohio River into Kentucky. Through the Blue Grass state there is a fine, broad rock road, No. 41, via Madisonville and Hopkinsville. The only drawback is that in dry weather when travel is heav. the surface is dusty, but when it is cool that is not so bad.

Tennessee has a dustless, bound macadam road, if the tourist turns off of No. 41 at Clarksville, shortly after crossing the State line, and follows U. S. No. 241 into Nashville by way of Springfield, although this lengthens the trip a little.

The country across Kentucky and northern Tennessee is pretty, rolling nature, and well cultivated, showing in various subtle ways that it has the dignity of age. This region was the scene of the earliest westward movement of American pioneers a century and a half ago.

At Nashville, the State Capitol is an imposing structure on a hill and there are numerous other fine buildings giving the town a distinctive atmosphere..

Between Nashville and Chattanooga the route lies over U. S. No. 41, except that a recently constructed road between Manchester and Monteagle makes a mile-saving cutoff over Tennessee No. 2 possible, and except that it is necessary to follow No. 2 rather than an unmade stretch of No. 41 between Jasper and Chattanooga. Some of the surface is concrete and the rest is bituminous macadam of the highest type, mile after mile over the Cumberland Mountains being smooth and wide as a park drive.

To the south of Nashville for some distance there is more rolling farm country, with the Cumberlands looming off to the east. Then Walden Ridge, a rugged offshoot of the range, is encountered. Its winding grades furnish picture upon picture. Unlike some mountain country, this is a section where tilled lands frequently can be seen not far away. Nevertheless, the car twists and climbs aplenty among wooded summits. Approaching Chattanooga, there is a very long, curving descent beside a dry, narrow gorge and through a forest.

Passing near the base of Signal Mountain, the route goes on to a bridge over the rushing Tennessee River and suddenly is in the city. Dominating the horizon then is Lookout Mountain. Signal and Lookout both have resort hotels. The way continues into Georgia at the suburb of Rossville and then goes through Chickamaugua battlefield, which is amply supplied with British Speed King Plans To Set New Records in U. S.

MAJ. H. O. D. SEGRAVES.

Maj. H. O. D. Segrave to Test Golden Arrow, Newest Motor Giant, at Daytona Beach in January—Hopes to Reach 240 M. P. H.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Golden Arrow, in which Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, holder of the world speed record for motor cars, hopes to reach a speed of 240 miles per hour, is almost completed. Maj. Segrave will take the car to America in January for tests on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Simultaneously, his new motorboat, christened Miss England, is receiving final touches. This craft will be a comrade of the Golden Arrow in seeking to lower American records. Maj. Segrave expects to hop-skip and jump over the water at a rate of 90 miles an hour or more.

"I intend to go for the records in February," Segrave declared in an interview. "It is hard to say which of the two records will be the more difficult to beat; I am inclined to think the motorboat record will be the harder, and it will certainly be at least as dangerous as the other."

Judging solely from the design of his car, Segrave said he knew it would produce a speed of 240 miles per hour. Tires, he declared, were the great problem for racing motorists.

"Last time," Segrave related, "the Dunlop company promised that the tires would stand up at 200 miles per hour for three minutes—and they did. This time they promise one minute at 240 miles per hour, and that should be long enough."

According to plans now announced, Segrave's car will present a unique appearance. It will be so low that the top of its tires will be the highest part of it, and it can stand upside down on its own wheels.

The body will be only two feet wide. The wheelbase, however, is 13 feet 6 inches. Segrave says his car has several original features which he refuses to divulge, believing there is still time for American firms to copy them.

Segrave's greatest problem in connection with his motorboat is to prevent it from turning over. With a single propeller the twisting strain of the engine on the hull, called "torque," is so great that there is a tendency for the propeller to turn the boat over instead of propelling it forward. One way out of the difficulty is to use two propellers, revolving in opposite directions. But there is twice as much resistance of the boat in the water.

"Nobody," Segrave continued, "can tell me which will slow down the boat more, two propellers or the lopsided position in the water which one propeller would bring about."

Expert for Permanent Car Styles

Auto Mortality Due to Change in Design, Says R. M. Bach.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Richard M. Bach, associate in industrial art of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, in a speech before the body division of the Detroit section, Society of Automotive Engineers here this last week, urged the engineers to develop a car style that will last just as long as the engine.

"You are still seeing the new in terms of the old," said Bach, "and only the surface of real art development has been scratched so far. The growing style consciousness of the public is only just beginning to be realized by the automobile industry, after it has been responded to by 20 other industries.

"Car mortality is due to style changes. The oftener you change the style, the shorter the life of your cars. If you make contsant changes, how can you expect the public to have confidence in your designs? You must build just as solidly from the art side as you have from the mechanical side.

"Installment buying is an argument against frequent changes. By the time a man has bought a car on time, the style has changed and he has to start all over again. Right now, you are oversold on novelties and so is the public. I am hoping that you will develop a car style that will last just as long as the engine does."

The principal market at this time for American-made marine engines is Canada, according to a report by the automotive division of the Department of Commerce. In the months of March, April, May and June, the Dominion bought 2027 motors, as compared with a total of 2475 for the entire year of 1927.

Dodge Brothers will double the production capacity of their plant at Evansville, Ind. Work will be under way before the end of this year.

Hupp Motor Car Co. has announced a new five-passenger custom-built Rauling town sedan. The new model is priced at $2095.

Road Bond Boosters On Speaking Tour

Anthony F. Buford, secretary of the Citizens' Road Bond Committee, and Roy S. Rauschkolb, manager of the development bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, are motoring through the State in the interest of the $75,000,000 State road bond amendment which will be voted on by the entire State on Nov. 6.

The trip, which began last Tuesday, will be continued until Nov. 3, and both men will make addresses in 18 communities in addition to a radio speech from Kansas City.

The use of a decorated automobile, calling attention to the merits of Proposition No. 3, was donated for the trip through the courtesy of the Cadillac-Oliver Co., here.

Buford and Rauschkolb will make addresses in Moberly, Keytesville, Marshall, Lexington, Richmond, Excelsior Springs, Kansas City, Carrollton, Cameron, Savannah, Maryville, Princeton, Unionville, Memphis, Canton, Bowling Green, Troy and Bellflower. The radio address will be made from the Kansas City Star station.

Chicago to Vote on $10,000,000 Airport

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. — Chicago will vote on a $10,000,000 bond issue at the November election for the construction of an airport bordering Lake Michigan at Grant Park within a few minutes of the loop district.

Passage of the issue was virtually assured recently when the South Park Commissioners, who have control of the property, voted unanimous approval of the city's major airport plan.

The Illinois Central railroad and the War Department, the other two parties to the ordinance, have already given their assent so that save for various routine matters, the proposition for an island airport is nearly ready for submission to the voters.

The revised plan proposes the construction of a landing field on 1000 acres of reclaimed land in the lake.

In approving the new plan, the south park board conceded all their rights to the city with minor reservations designed to protect the interests of the board. These are the right to route all traffic to the airport; to regulate the construction and design of all buildings which may eventually be built in order that their general appearance may conform with the general architectural features of Grant Park.

Chicago has already established one Municipal airport in Cicero but it is considered too far out for convenience, being about one hour distant from the loop.

Only Rich Japanese Have Cars.

Only the rich can afford private automobiles in Japan, and owner-drivers are practicallly nonexistent. The price of a car is generally twice as much as the same car would cost in America. The annual tax ranges from $200 to $300, depending on the horsepower. Gasoline costs 35 to 45 cents a gallon.

"Pusher" Ship Being Built In California

Dirigible Has Blower to Kick It Through Air, and No Propeller.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—While the Graf Zeppelin and the Los Angeles are occupying the center of attenton in the lighter-than-air world, an all-metal airship of unique and interesting design is being built at Glendale, Cal.

Whispers of the stubby, metal airship have been reported but the aeronautical world hitherto has not been taking the project very seriously. The ship is the product of Thomas B. Slate who has invented a long list of things in the last five years.

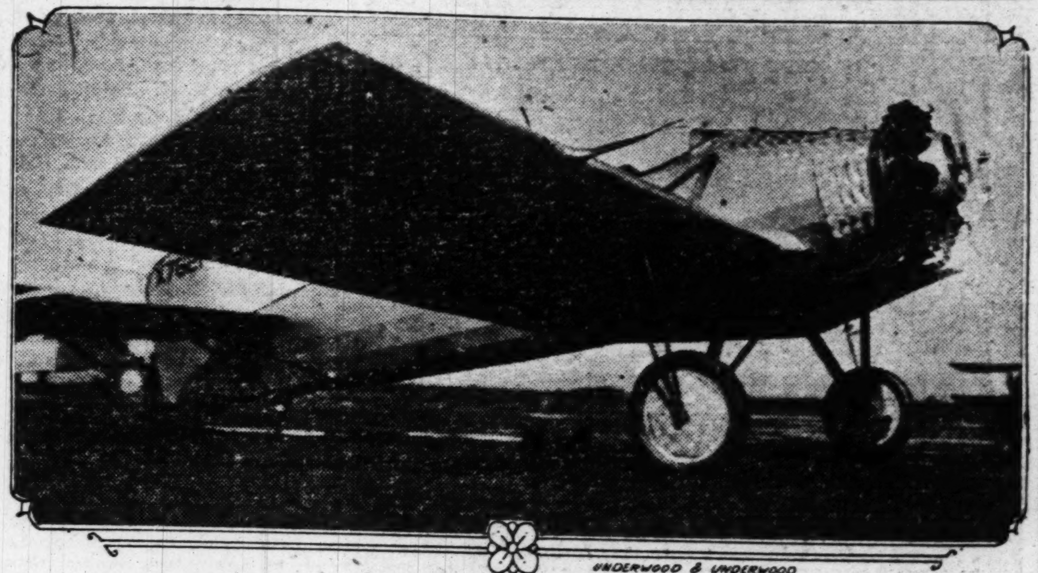
The airship as recently described is 212 feet long and 58 feet at its highest diameter. Power will be generated by steam turbines so that weight per horsepower is claimed to be as low as three pounds. There are seven turbines.

The outstanding feature is the method of propulsion proposed. A blower driven by a 400 horsepower turbine is located in the nose. This displaces air in front of the ship so that the air flows back over the skin of the dirigible to its replacement at the tail which is tapered down.

A partial vacuum is created by the blower so that a suction is set up. The air flowing back over the skin sets up a positive action and urges the ship forward. Two other smaller propellers are located near the cabin to offset resistance. These are reversible to assist in maneuvers.

Another feature is the elevator attachment. A fuel tank is lowered to the ground attached to a guide line. Two of the turbines are used to operate the elevator up and down this line. Landing fields are obviated by this device, it is said, as the tank may be lowered to a building as well as a field.

NO STABILIZER ON THIS MONOPLANE



UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

A NEW type, low-wing monoplane, probably the first of American construction, designed by W. L. Schult and Donald Hall for Mahoney Aircraft Corp., of Los Angeles. A second wing, about one-half the size of the forward one, is located at the rear of the plane and acts as an elevator. The plane is 23 feet long with a 27-foot wing spread. It can stop within 150 feet, the inventors say. The most radical change is the absence of a stabilizer, heretofore considered a necessity.

More Higher Type Roads Being Built

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—There was an increase of 19 per cent this year in the mileage of high-type pavements on Federal-aid highways. The mileage of low types increased but nine and one-half per cent.

The greatest increases in the types more suitable for heavy duty, highway officials say, merely reflect the increased demands of a growing traffic. Federal-aid highways are the most heavily traveled in the country.

With the co-operation of State Highway Departments, 8181 miles of Federal-aid highways were improved in the fiscal year 1927-28, and 2014 miles that had been previously improved by Federal aid were given surfaces of higher type. This work was done at a total cost of $205,043,784, of which the Federal Government paid $88,056,984, or 43 per cent, and the States paid the balance.

Bus Upkeep Costs Only 1.1 Cents a Seat Per Mile

This National Average, Based on 1927 Figures, Is 1½ Cents Less Than Expenditure Per Seat for Private Autos.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 27—The average cost of operating busses in the United States in 1927 was 1.1 cents per seat for every mile as compared to 2.6 per seat for private automobiles, the Bus Division of the American Automobile Association has revealed after a survey of motor bus operating costs of 66 representative companies which carried more than 400,000,000 passengers at an average fare of 10.1 cents.

"Fares constituted about 95 per cent of the total revenue of the average company in this group, while it paid $8,700 for its insurance, and almost $37,500 or 1.6 cents per bus mile for taxes," the A. A. A. report on the survey says.

"Although bus transportation is in its infancy, with the average age of these 66 companies at four years," it continues, "the miles of route covered by the common carrier motor bus exceds by five per-

NEW OAKLAND MODELS NOW ON DISPLAY

Line Has Larger Power Plant and Improved Body Design.

Completely new in appearance, with a host of advanced engineering features, the latest Oakland All-American six line went on display here today at the Mississippi Valley Motor Car Co., Oakland and Pontiac distributer.

The new line has a bigger, faster, more powerful engine; internal expanding four-wheel brakes, new Duco color combinations; higher, larger cross-flow radiator with grill front, adjustable driver's seat, chrome plated lamps of new design, sturdy 10-spoke wheels, Lovejoy shock absorbers and spring covers as standard equipment, new steering gear and sturdier frame.

Seven models comprise the line. They are: Sport roadster, sport phaeton, coupe, two-door sedan, four-door sedan and a new landdaulet sedan and convertible cabriolet.

The rear seats of all five-passenger models are two inches wider this year to provide increased elbow room and to add to the comfort of passengers. This change has been effected without increasing the tread.

Closed bodies all have adjustable driver's seats, reveals around side windows set off by a narrow bead, single belt moulding starting at radiator and completely encircling the body, smart side cowl ventilators, new type military sun visors, and hardware designed exclusively for Oakland. Individual body types have walnut finished door panels, Axminster carpet in tonneau, embossed leather smoking sets, package space, and luggage room in rear deck.

A new instrument panel finished in black imparts a dignified touch to the front interior. Instruments are individually mounted on the dash and directly illuminated by two soft shielded lights. On the dash are an 80-mile speedometer, gasoline gauge, oil gauge and ammeter mounted on a raised panel on the center of the board. On either side are the ignition lock and lighting switch button, and the choke and throttle control buttons. The windshield wiper control and light switch buttons are below the speedometer. All instrument dials are black with white figures.

A new outside appearance has been provided by the chrome plated radiator which has been raised so that the line from the base of the cowl to the new flat radiator cap appears virtually level. The shell is high and narrow with an unbroken outside curve line.

The fenders, full crown, larger and wider than a year ago are of seamless one-piece design with a beaded edge and a 71-inch spread. Rear fender ends have been extended lower than the hub cap to assure increased protection and added beauty.

The newly fashioned hood has a chrome plated top hinge and vertical louvres in five groups of four each on either side. Parking lamps are mounted on a chrome plated cowl bar.

Small-diameter wood wheels are standard equipment on all models. Tire size remains at 29 by 5.50, oversize for Oakland weight.

A powerful new engine has been achieved by stepping up the cylinder displacement to 228 cubic inches as against 212 in the earlier model. This, in conjunction with other engine changes, results in a top speed of well over 70 miles per hour and quick acceleration of from 10 to 25 miles per hour in high gear in six seconds flat, the factory engineers report.

Increased displacement was brought about by enlarging the cylinder bore from 3¼ inches to 3⅜ inches. The improved engine develops 68 brake horsepower at 3000 r. p. m.

A new and exclusive Oakland feature is the four-point rubber engine mounting adopted for the new model. By means of special rubber "biscuits" which insulate the engine from the frame, there is no metal-to-metal contact, a feature which eliminates noise and engine vibration.

Other features contributing to better performance are permanent mould type semisteel pistons combining lightness with long wear; an improved oiling system to assure better lubrication of cylinder walls, piston and pins; larger oil pump which circulates 200 gallons of oil every 60 minutes at 25 miles per hour; larger carburetor and manifold; more rigidly supported transmission housing, and latest improved AC air cleaner consisting of a chamber filled with copper shavings dipped in oil.

Among chassis refinements are an improved universal joint; larger muffler; new fender tie rods, front license supports and spare tire carrier.

Bus Upkeep Less Than That Needed For Private Car

cent the route mileage of the railroads and by 463 percent that of the electric railways."

The A. A. A. says this tremendous and sudden popularization of the bus which has been due to an increasing demand for public conveyance by automobile, has led to a wide-spread need on the part of operators, manufacturers, financiers, as well as regulatory and legislative bodies, for data on the costs of operation.

"Steady progress has been made in adapting the motor bus to the transportation needs of the country. Bus registration has reached a total of about 86,000 units. This total is not large when compared with automobile registration, but to appreciate its full significance, it must be compared with the number of units in the electric railway industry. In the hey-dey of the trolley, after two decades of expansion, about one hundred thousand were in use.

"The bus companies used in obtaining average figures range from the operator of but a single bus to the operation of 1380 busses, from the operation of 42,178 bus miles to the operation of 46,293,358 bus miles from the accommodation of 7000 passengers to the accomodation of 261,548,808 passengers and reveal the same wide variation from almost any other point of consideration."

Woman Betters Own Mark In Coast-to-Coast Run

Mrs. Lavia Willard Drives Stutz Black Hawk Across Country From New York to Los Angeles in 4 Days, 8 Hours and 47 Minutes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Determined to beat her own record in a coast-to-coast automobile run, made early in August, Mrs. Lavia M. Willard, prominent society woman of New York, realized her ambition last week. Driving her privately-owned Stutz Black Hawk of standard design, she drove from New York City to Los Angeles, Cal., in the remarkable elapsed time of 4 days 8 hours and 47 minutes, bettering her previous time by 19 hours and 39 minutes. Her departure and arrival were both witnessed by Western Union officials, who provided affidavits which were forwarded to the Stutz Motor Car Co.

Mrs. Willard left New York City at 5:47 a. m. Monday, Oct. 15, and completed the long journey, of approximately 3365 miles, on Friday, Oct. 19. She was accompanied by her husband, A. H. Willard. Her route led through Wheeling, W. Va., Columbus, O., Indianapolis, Ind., St. Louis, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., Albuquerque, N. M., and then to Los Angeles. So far as records are concerned, Mrs. Willard is the first woman driver to attempt the coast-to-coast speed trial.

On her previous journey Mrs. Willard selected a different route, through Pittsburg, Pa., South Bend, Ind., Joliet, Ill., Davenport, Ia., Des Moines, Ia., Omaha, Neb., Cheyenne, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Utah, Reno, Nev., and to the terminus at Oakland, Cal. On this run her speedometer recorded a total of 3324 miles as compared with the longer mileage on her run last week. Her time for the August speed trial was 5 days 4 hours and 26 minutes.

These two coast-to-coast runs are not the only examples of Mrs. Willard's driving ability. She piloted her Stutz Black Hawk on a nonstop run from New York to Chicago, on July 2 and 3, in 22 hours and 48 minutes, in a contest sponsored by the New York Women's Automobile Club. The coast-to-coast runs were not competitive, however, but were made because of Mrs. Willard's interest in motoring.

explanatory markers and monuments of the great Civil War struggle there.

Between Rossville and Cassville, Ga., the better road is No. 41 W, via Rome, rather than No. 41 via Dalton. At first there is bituminous macadam surface and then 61 miles of excellent gravel. The worst surface of the whole trip is for 18 miles of rocky road north of Marietta, Ga., but beyond that there is concrete on No. 41 into Atlanta. The Georgia scene affords some small mountains and many hills and it is a comparatively prosperous portion of the State, although the ubiquitous red clay often intrudes. Near Marietta may be seen the hazy dome of Kenesaw Mountain, famous in wartime history of the section and known, too, as the source of the name of baseball's czar.

From Atlanta, there are good roads to Asheville, Virginia and Florida.

Preston Sultan, Major Fitzmaurice, the Irish ace, and other noted flyers who have had more than 3000 hours in the air and don't broadcast their aerial accompliments. "Scotty" has flown 3600 hours without a serious accident.

Sixteen Parachutes Tested.

The 16 regulation parachutes of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps were tested Tuesday by Lieut. Frank Dunn and Master Sergt. Jim Tate. The 'chutes were strapped to a dummy and thrown overboard. Each of the 'chutes opened promptly. Sergt. Tate, a graduate of army parachute schools, spent the next three days repacking the envelopes.

Hughes Broadcasting Trip.

Equipment for broadcasting Charles E. Hughes' speech on behalf of the Hoover-Curtis ticket at St. Joseph, Mo., Tuesday night, was carried there that afternoon by Milton Girton, chief pilot of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., in a Ryan brougham.

Catches His Train by Air.

"Bud" Gurney, chief pilot for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, made a fast trip to Terre Haute, Ind., Wednesday, in the Robertson company's new Cessna monoplane, with Howard K. Richmond, New York business man, as a passenger. Richmond, having missed a noon train for the East, took off with Gurney in the Cessna at 1:30 p. m. They landed at Terre Haute, about 150 miles east of St. Louis, an hour and six minutes later, in time for Richmond to catch his train. The Cessna has a top speed of 160 miles an hour and was purchased for fast emergency trips.

Flood Lights and Beacon.

The new flood lights and beacon at Parks Airport were tested last week and are in operation. The beacon, mounted on a 65-foot tower, rotates six times a minute, throwing a beam of light one degree above the horizon. The beacon can be seen for more than 50 miles on a clear night. The four flood lights illuminate the 120-acre airport, making night landings easy. An attendant is on duty all night to switch on the lights at the sound of a motor overhead. Boundary and obstruction lights to complete the night flying equipment of the field will be installed shortly.

Airplane Business Trips.

Gustave J. Gruendler Jr., vice-president of the Gruendler Manufacturing Co., has been using an airplane for bi-weekly business trips to Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois communities. Piloted by Jack McMillan and usually accompanied by a salesman, Gruendler has closed a number of profitable business deals by getting on the scene quickly.

Many Type Demonstrated.

Admiral Navy Day Speaker.

Rear Admiral J. R. Reeves, commander of aircraft of the Pacific fleet, with headquarters on the aircraft carrier Langley, was the "Navy day" speaker at a dinner at Hotel Chase last night. His subject was "Aviation." Admiral Reeves made the trip from the coast by rail.

Flying Trip Into the South.

Capt. Harry H. Young, regular army instructor for the Thirty-fifth Division Air Unit, returned to Lambert Field last week following a 10-day leave, which he had spent in making a flying trip with Mrs. Young to Nashville, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala. While in the South Capt. Young spoke before civic organizations on the proposed air mail route from Chicago to the South, which will be connected with St. Louis by means of a "shuttle" route to Evansville, Ind.

Lambert Field Lights Ordered.

Flood lights for Lambert-St. Louis field have been ordered by the city lighting engineer and commercial flyers at the field are hopeful they will be installed in the near future. The only lights at the field now are a small beacon, red hazard lights on buildings and hangars and 50 red lanterns supplied by the city Street Department, which have been strung along two sides of the airport as markers.

Robertson on Eastern Trip.

Frank H. Robertson, vice president of the Robertson Aircraft Corp., departed for New York Friday to confer with P. G. Kemp of Chicago and Paul Goldsborough and L. H. Piper of Minneapolis, directors of the Universal Aviation Corp., the recently organized $7,000,000 aerial transportation company, with which the Robertson Company is affiliated. Robertson is to become president of the Robertson Corp., succeeding Arnold Stifel, who resigned to become a director of the Universal Aviation Corp.

Drives Car Through Office.

Someone drove an automobile through the front of Field Manager Scott's old office. As the city is building "Scotty" a new concrete office building, he is not taking the accident to the old frame structure seriously. The new office has a small observatory on top.

Flying Field Instructor.

Bert Ison is in charge of flying instruction at the Robertson Flying School, succeeding Dan Robertson, who is seriously ill.

Pitcairn Mail Wing Comes.

One of the most completely equipped ships seen at Lambert Field recently was flown here from Milwaukee by J. J. Watson, salesman of aircraft finishes for the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. The ship is a Pitcairn mail wing with a Whirlwind motor.

Phone Book for Planes.

Joe Wecker, field manager at Parks Airport, is preparing a telephone directory of all airports in the country in co-operation with officials of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. When completed the directory will be issued to commercial pilots to be carried in their planes in the event they need assistance following emergency landings in strange territory.

New Flying School Building.

The roof of the old air mail hangar, which is being wrecked, was pulled down by a tractor. A new hangar and flying school building costing $65,000 will be erected by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation in place of the old "elephant hide" building.

Guided by Beacon Light.

Lieut. R. D. Reeve of Brooks Field, Tex., was the first visiting flyer to thank the officials of Parks Airport for installing a beacon and flood lights. Flying an army ship to Pittsburg, Lieut. Reeve was unable to pick up the Scott Field beacon Thursday night due to smoke and landed at Parks field almost out of gas.

Woman Passenger Stops Here.

A new tri-motored Ford transport purchased by the Sunbeam Air Transportation Co., Dallas, Tex., stopped at Lambert Field Thursday for fuel en route from Detroit to Dallas. Mathew Watson and Ben Howard were the pilots and Miss Grace McClellan of San Antonio was the passenger. The ship is powered with two Whirlwinds and a Wasp.

H. H. Frese of Washington, a Department of Commerce inspector, spent several days at Lambert Field last week inspecting equipment. Frese served in the army with Murel Bouse, manager of the Von Hoffman Flying School.

Air Corps Officers' Dinner.

The first regular monthly dinner of officers of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps was held at the American Annex last night. Plans for the proposed flight of officers of the unit to Hot Springs, Ark., to attend the annual convention of the National Guard Association were discussed.

Rating of 99 for Robertson.

The Robertson Aircraft Corporation continues to hold the lead in efficiency among air mail contractors. The last Federal report on air mail service gives the Robertson company a rating of 99 per cent.

Travel-Airs for Park College.

Four new OX-5 Travel-airs have been ordered by Oliver Parks for use at Parks Air College. The school now has 18 instruction ships. Three planes were sold to Parks' students last week.

Up 17,500 Feet in a Falcon.

Lieut. Frank Dunn, apparently seeking relief from the late autumn heat, flew to an altitude of 17,500 feet in a Falcon of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps last Sunday.

Air Student From Colombia.

G. G. Stewart, 39 years old, of Medelin, Colombia, South America, is a student at the Robertson Flying School. Stewart, an American, plans to organize a commercial aviation company upon returning to Colombia.

Gas and Oil Service Truck.

Another gas and oil service truck has appeared at Lambert Field. It belongs to the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., and has a capacity of 350 gallons.

Jumper and Inventor on Visit.

Visitors at Parks Airport.

E. R. Moore, another resident of Lincoln, Neb., called recently at Parks' Airport in a Stinson monoplane. Other visitors included Clay Saunders, whose father founded the Piggly-Wiggly stores, and William Gerber, from Memphis, in a Whirlwind Waco.

Three Combination Planes.

Orders for three combination passenger and mail planes have been placed with the Stearman Airplane Mfg. Co. by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation. The planes, which will have Cyclone motors capable of 142 miles an hour, are to be delivered late in December. The Robertson company also purchased a second Curtiss-Robin last week and now has about 30 ships in flying condition.

Barnstorming in Illinois.

"Bud" Gurney went barnstorming to Marion, Ill., last Sunday in a Ford tri-motored ship and carried 212 passengers.

Has Blower Heating System.

The new Robertson Aircraft Co. hangar is equipped with a blower heating system, which blows heat down to the floor. Fuel oil is used, a 10,000-gallon storage tank being part of the equipment.

Airplanes for the Children.

Gentry Shelton flew another new Curtiss-Robin to Tulsa, Ok., Thursday. This is the fourth "Robin" sold at Tulsa, where the big oil and gas men buy their children airplanes.

Glycerin for Dressing Spares.

Radiator glycerin mixed with a little lamp black makes an excellent dressing for spare tires. This combination answers all of the preservative needs of paint or varnish, it keeps the tires shining black and new looking and the rubber pliable, and prevents dry-rot.

RAY GRAHAM.

Heading the list of prominent business men who spoke at the testimonial dinner tendered Sol Gross, president of the Gross-Butler Motor Co., new Graham-Paige distributer, at the Coronado Hotel Thursday night of the past week was Ray A. Graham, secretary and treasurer of Graham-Paige Motor Corporation of Detroit.

Graham welcomed Gross into the Graham-Paige legion, predicting that he would be as successful in the automotive industry as he has been in other business enterprises in St. Louis for the past 20 years. At the conclusion of his address, Graham paid particular homage to the "Spirit of St. Louis" as the outstanding feature in the development of Greater St. Louis as a better place to dwell in.

Gross, as related in these columns last Sunday, recently organized the Gross-Butler Automobile Co., to take over the Weber Motor Car Co., erstwhile Graham-Paige distributer here, with himself as president and John Butler of Kansas City as chairman of the board. This is Gross' first venture in the automobile business. He has, however, been a prominent business figure in St. Louis for many years, until recently being vice president and general manager of the Con P. Curran Printing Co. He also was the organizer of Marquette-Easton Finance Corporation, and Snell Finance Corporation, and a member of the board of the Gross-Kelly Co. of Las Vegas, N. M., Indian traders.

In outlining his business policies at the dinner last Thursday night, Gross said that it was his intention to operate his business along strict business lines with service to the owner of motors purchased from him as the first consideration.

"Too many distributers of automobiles hold the attitude that once they have sold an automobile their obligation to the owner is over, and this is one of the main reasons why many car merchandisers do not make a success," he declared.

Other speakers at the meeting included Walter Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce; John Butler, member of the newly organized motor company, to distribute the Graham-Paige automobiles in the St. Louis territory; Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co.; Eugene Mudd, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce; Frank B. Corley, vice president of the Con P. Curran Printing Co.; John M. Goodwin, Matt H. Carpenter of Milwaukee, Wis., and Rev. Francis J. O'Hern, S. J., president of St. Mary's College, Kan., who spoke for the alumni of the college of which Gross is a member.

John S. Leahy was toastmaster.

New Enterprise to Take 5000 Old Cars Off Streets Yearly.

The automobile salvage, used parts yards and store of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association was formally christened in fresh pressed cider Friday at noon. Officially this is the Auto Dealers Salcage Co., established at 6606 Easton avenue in Wellston, an incorporated institution, the stockholders in which are St. Louis motor car dealers.

The new enterprise was toasted in fresh cider, served from the back of an ancient gray hearse, by a scared colored man, "Bozo," the cider keg being set on two packing cases significantly labeled "embalming fluid."

About 250 St. Louis and East St. Louis automobile men assembled at the yards Friday in answer to the invitation extended for "reception and lunch" tendered by the directors of the Auto Dealers Salvage Co., George Weber, Weber Implement and Auto Co., president; Phil H. Brockman, De Luxe Auto Co., vice president; Robert E. Lee, secretary and treasurer; Frank R. Tate, Tate Motor Co., and R. C. Frampton, Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

The visitors, who began to assemble at 11 a. m., were conducted through the parts, tire and battery departments by Lee and J. W. Wright, the general manager. At 12:30 a buffet luncheon was served and Lee introduced for brief talks George Weber, Phil H. Brockman, Frank Tate and R. C. Frampton, each of whom told of the astoundling progress made by the salvage yards in its 60 days of existence.

"On Aug. 15," said Weber, "we took over the weed-grown seven-acre lumber yard of the Gavin Lumber Co. Today you find it with buildings remodeled, store front built in, roads built and 862 automobiles of all ages, kinds, models and stages of decrepitude, in stock and being dismantled. We are tearing them up and selling the metal and the parts and expect to so dismantle at least 5000 of these dangerous and unsatisfactory 'junks' during our first year."

Brockman, pointing out the more than 800 old cars in the yards, said, "We have in taking these in rendered a tremendous service both to the public and the motor car industry by getting these off the streets. To the public they were a constant menace; to the industry they were an economical menace. To us they will be a source of profit. The steel mills will turn the old metal back into new motor cars or railroad equipment and the unworn parts—axles, gears, generators, starters, tires, batteries, speedometers and glass—we will sell to the public at nominal prices for replacement purposes.

Tate and Frampton each urged the motor car dealers to give their support and sell their junk and wrecked cars to the Auto Dealers Salvage Co., their own institution, as one means of getting them off the streets and of getting into the hands of the public other cars that are better, more satisfactory to drive, less expensive to maintain and safer.

Peerless Plans to Increase Production

The Peerless automobile factory is being revamped preparatory to rearranging the assembly lines to make room for increased production.

The rearrangement calls for large additions to the plant. These are being rushed to completion.

"An influx of orders on the new 1929 Six-81, and plans which are rapidly materializing for an even bigger year next year, have forced us to make the biggest change in our factory in many years," says L. R. German, president of Peerless Motor Car Corp.

"The revamping process is further necessitated by the fact that the Nickel Plate Railroad is widening its right-of-way which runs directly through the Peerless property. The changes will put us in a better position than we have been in for several years and will speed up production on Peerless cars.

"An indication of the growing popularity of our new models may be had from the fact that that at a single meeting of export dealers held in Paris, France, over 300 Peerless cars were ordered."

Durant Executives Return From Europe

John S. Hunt, general manager of the Durant Motor Co. of New Jersey, and Carl M. Phillips, chief body engineer, arrived Friday aboard the steamship Aquitania from Europe. They went to Europe last month to confer with W. C. Durant in regard to the new Durant plant in Germany and to inspect European automotive plants. While there they attended both the Paris and London automobile shows in order to see European automobile developments.

NAVY PLANS BASES FOR DIRIGIBLES

Construction of New Super-Airships Prompts Schemes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Creation of a number of great dirigible iarports will be coincident with the construction of the two super-airships by the United States navy, it was learned today.

They will be strategically located along the far-flung coast line of the nation and at interior points to serve both the needs of national defense and commerce, aeronautic experts declared.

The navy's aircraft expansion program includes dirigibles as an important and vital part. And great airships, it was pointed out, must have a number of bases not only from which to operate but as havens of safety in case of storms.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, declared that the epochal flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Germany to the United States had proven the worth of such craft. He has long been the champion of dirigible construction for the navy despite bitter opposition.

"The flight of the Graf Zeppelin has more than justified the navy in carrying on with her smaller ships, thus keeping alive in the world the airship industry at a most critical time," said Moffett.

INCREASE OF CAR EXPORTS IS FORESEEN

Foreign Trade Soon to Use Million Units Yearly—Klingler.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 25.—Automobile leaders here are paying special heed in their surveys of 1929 market trends, to the export aspects of the industry, conscious of the fact that overseas trade has been growing consistently until it holds today third in the list of American exports, with a valuation of $486,000,000.

This is regarded as significant, coming as it does with the industry centered upon the final quarter of what promises to be the greatest year in the history of the domestic market, with no decrease in home demand expected during 1929.

Far from viewing with complacency the gigantic forward strides made in foreign markets since 1921, the consensus of expert opinion adheres to the view that the export business is still an infant—a giant infant which promises to achieve a mighty growth. Rehabilitation of Europe, the betterment of road conditions all over the world, the establishment of American credit systems abroad and the continuous improvement of American manufacturing methods are among the reasons assigned for a view of the foreign market that is decidedly optimistic.

Last week H. J. Klingler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., predicted that America will be exporting 1,000,000 cars annually within the next few years. Klingler made this prediction fully aware that the total number of American cars shipped abroad for sale in 1927 was 460,305, and cognizant, too, of the fact that foreign trade barriers are not likely ever to be obliterated.

Explaining his forecast, he said: "One million American made cars will be shipped overseas and sold in the next few years. Today there are upwards of 29,505,475 motor vehicles in the world, and of this number 23,000,000 are in use in the United States. I feel that this is altogether out of proportion. The United States has only about 5 per cent of the world's population and only a fraction of its habitable land. Yet it owns 80 per cent of all the motor vehicles in the world.

"General Motors export, applying American methods of manufacture, distribution and credit, has gone a long way in the last few years to make the world motor minded. For instance, Chevrolet cars and trucks are now being sold in 104 countries from Iceland in the North to New Zealand in the South, and each one of these cars is serving as an individual ambassador of the superiority of the American product. Each is educating the world at large of the advantages of economical transportation that cannot be surpassed.

"During the first six months of this year General Motors Export reports the sale of 57,808 Chevrolet cars and 50,542 trucks as compared with 38,594 passenger cars and 32,799 trucks for the first six months of 1927. This increase in the export trade has been reflected generally. Figures for the first eight months covering the entire American export field show an increase of 36 per cent over 1927.

Change in Name Of Carondelet Motor Company

Ford Dealership Now Operated as Stevens Motors, Inc.

Change of the firm name of the Carondelet Motor Co., 3857 South Grand boulevard, authorized Ford dealer for the past 12 years, to Stevens Motors, Inc., has been announced by Frank Stevens, president of the company. No change has been made in the executive personnel of the company.

Coincident with the announcement in the change of name of his firm, Stevens announced that he has organized the Stevens Emergency Road Service with headquarters at Stevens Motors, Inc., to give a 24-hour emergency road service to Ford owners, which is described as being available at one and a half cents per day. The service is to cover a territory approximately 300 miles square with the Stevens Motors, Inc., located centrally, it was stated. Information as to the new service is available at the firm's headquarters.

The company, of course, continues as authorized Ford dealer and is displaying a complete line of Ford Model A cars and used Ford Model T cars.

Old Chrysler Makes Dizzy Speed Record

Enthusiastic drivers, with a heavy foot for the accelerator pedal, are given a new speed mark to shoot at as the result of one Lloyd Groover's phenomenal drive in a Chrysler phaeton over the good, bad and indifferent roads from Phoenix, Ariz., to Los Angeles in 7 hours, 31 minutes for the 490-mile route. This is an average of 63.84 miles per hour, a factory report states.

The car, Groover's own, had previously been driven 110,000 miles.

Says U. S. Highway System Is Essential To Traffic Control

Dr. Arthur H. Blanchard Addresses American Society for Municipal Improvements.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—The outstanding hope of securing an "essentially uniform" municipal traffic regulation and control system all over the United States lies in establishment of a system of national highways by the Federal Government, to which states and municipalities might easily conform, said Dr. Arthur H. Blanchard, president of the National Highway Traffic Association, addressing the meeting of the American Society for Municipal Improvements here.

"As the states now adopt legislation which controls traffic on their highway systems, it is natural to presuppose that Congress will empower the United States Bureau of Roads, a National Highway Commission, or the Interstate Commerce Commission to formulate and enforce regulations applicable to traffic on all highways comprising the national system," declared Blanchard.

"The effect on state regulations will be apparent. It is not conceivable that the motoring public would long tolerate one set of regulations controlling traffic on national interstate highways and different regulations on the intrastate highways outside of urban districts."

Blanchard pointed out that France, Italy and several other nations have national road systems.

He said the so-called "model ordinance" of the Hoover commission was a big step in the right direction, but so many alternate recommendations were incorporated in it that it was at the mercy of the "hundred million traffic experts in the United States."

An "essentially uniform" traffic ordinance should definitely cover every traffic regulation which cannot be readily and practically indicated by signs and signals, he declared.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT:::BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Style and Comfort Things Buyers Seek

Style and comfort are the two most desirable features in an automobile body from the buyer's point of view, say Fisher designers in pointing to their recent achievement of combining both style and comfort in the Silver Anniversary Buick. Without style a motor car is deprived of all personality; it can make no appeal to the buyer's imagination. And as to the second requisite, they say nothing less than the mimimum of comfort satisfies the exacting motor car purchaser of today.

In the case of Buick bodies, Fisher desingers say, the tremendous visual appeal everted by the exterior design has been coupled with a degree of interior comfort and luxury transcending all previous high standards of body manufacture.

ENGLISHMAN'S LAND YACHT HEADED WEST

Palatial Coach Being Used by Naval Architect on U. S. Tour.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 27.—Mounted on a Reo speed wagon chassis, the first American-English caravan de luxe or "land yacht" made its appearance in America recently. It was specially constructed for Glenn Stewart of Easton, Md., who proposes using it on cross-country tours; also on a hunting trip through the Rockies. Its designer and builder is Melville Hart, well-known consulting engineer and naval architect of London. Mr. Hart accompanied the "super-caravan" across the ocean on the Minnewaska. It is now heading westward, carrying its owner and his party.

Over all the length of this luxurious vehicle is some 24 feet. The actual body length, however, is 17 feet 6 inches and the width 7 feet 6 inches, while the weight is about four tons—probably the largest traveling apartment house ever built. The cost of the completed home is approximately $20,000. There is a salon, kitchenette, lavatory, shower bath and driving compartment, in all of which each minute detail has been planned and carried out with exquisite perfection.

The salon is paneled in walnut with an embossed, gray-coated ceiling. In the daytime there are two wide settees which can be converted into sleeping berths. Beneath them are lockers for the storing of linens and accessories. Rich mauve and gold silk upholstery are the keynote of the color scheme, which is further carried out by the pastel rug upon the floor. Inlaid wood pictures are fitted into the walls. Aside from the upholstered settees, or day beds, as one might call them, other furnishings are a sideboard, two wardrobes, gun cupboard, glass and decanter cabinets; numerous smaller lockers fitted into convenient nooks and corners; an electric fireplace, reading lamp, clock barometer and altitude meter.

Tiled in blue and white and with the new chromium plated fittings, which do not tarnish, is the lavatory. It, too, is plentifully supplied with lockers for toilet articles, while the water supply has been provided for by a tank beneath the van. The miniature kitchen might gladden the heart of many a small apartment dweller, with its neat black and white tiled walls and convenient equipment. There is a ship's cooking range, fitted with an oven and hot water tank; sink, dresser fitted with cupboards for supplies and cooking utensils; also plate racks, water filter and pumps for the water supply.

The driving compartment is finished in light oak, while the seat is convertible into a sleeping berth. On the roof is a powerful searchlight with a range of more than a mile, and underneath the car are fitted water and gasoline tanks, an ice chest and cold storage lockers—truly all the comforts of home!

The Reo Speed Wagon chassis was shipped from New York to Mr. Hart in London, whose experience as consulting engineer, and naval architect made possible the "flatavan," as he calls it. The land yacht is something new in automobiles, although Mr. Hart has designed a number of them for wealthy patrons, including the Maharajah of Gwalior.

A number of the British nobility and members of Parliament inspected the vehicle before it was shipped to America, and the King and Queen have evinced a profound interest in this new type of home on wheels, While on display for a week in New York City, prior to its delivery to Mr. Stewart, the car was the center of a throng of admirers.

Reo Ships 10 Tons Of Mail by Air

For the first time in the history of the Boston air port, two planes were needed to bring the mail from Hadley Field, New Jersey, as a result of the 10-ton shipment of airmail recently dispatched by the Reo Motor Car Co. of Lansing, Mich., a large part of which was destined for New England and called attention to the 1929 Reo Flying Cloud.

Waste Oils From Autos Gives Rise To New Problems

Regarded as Menace to Property for It Contains Gas Mixture.

Disposal of automobile crankcase oil is a problem confronting authorities of metropolitan cities.

The oil, mixed with gasoline and other, fluid waste of garages, is highly inflammable and is regarded as a menace to life and property. Virtually every garage which has stores of the discarded lubricant, is a fire-trap. The refuse is regarded as more dangerous when it finds its way into city sewers. Combined with other underground gases it causes explosion from spontaneous combustion and lighted matches tossed into sewer openings.

District of Columbia officials recognize the hazard used motor fuel presents. They sent questionnaires to various American and European cities to learn the method used to discard the oil. With this information they are trying to perfect a practical plan.

Garage owners in the district are forced to store the old oil in metal containers and dispose of it the best they might. A quantity still finds its way into the sewers and the Sewer Division is constantly trying to trace the source of the "contraband."

Experts thought they had solved the problem with a plan that the worthless oil would be effective to oil roads. The monkey-wrench was hurled into this plan with the discovery the oil is to inflammable to be carried and sprinkled from motor tanks.

Motor Hoboes Problem to City Charity Bodies

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.

THE hobo has become modernized by the automobile. So much so that he now takes his wife and children along wherever he wanders—and so thrusts not only himself, but his entire family, on the mercy of charitable organizations.

The problem these flivver hobos present is one of national concern, far greater than any similar difficulty in former years, according to Edward N. Lynde, general secretary of the Cleveland Associated Charities.

"There are twice as many auto transients this year as last, according to our records," said Lynde. "This is due to a general restlessness and in the West it has become a serious problem. When charity organizations hold a conference there the first thing is to outline a program to aid the auto migrants.

"The migrants we get here seem to know the ropes. They have been to other agencies. They don't ask for food and shelter, but for money to make their next stop.

In the "Graf Zeppelin," trans-Atlantic visitor to the United States and the largest Zeppelin ever produced, the power plans is composed of five Maybach engines each having 550 horsepower and built on the V-type principle of engine design. The engines are similar to those used in ZR-2, the U.S.S. "Los Angeles." The present flight is commonly heralded as the greatest achievement in aeronautics. It is the third trans-Atlantic flight of a dirigible, and the first flight in the world's history in which a dirigible carried both passengers and mail.

Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, world war ace and now assistant general sales manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., states that it is the same principle of engine design as was selected by the Cadillac Motor Car Co., some 14 years ago and that it was selected by Cadillac and later by the Zeppelin organization for similar reasons of efficiency, dependability, economy and general suitability in each case.

CHRYSLER

Public acceptance decrees Chrysler as motor car style leader

There can be style leadership only when the public makes known its choice by an overwhelming acceptance—whether it be gowns, hats, shoes—or motor cars. . . . ¶ It is precisely in that manner that people everywhere have designated Chrysler as the style leader in the automobile field. . . . ¶ Chrysler, even with the largest production in its history, is only now beginning to supply the public demand. . . . ¶ The new Chryslers offer so much more than the new slender-profile chromium-plated radiator, the "air-wing" fenders, the arched-window silhouette and a host of other new details. . . . ¶ They offer new body lines which are long, lithe and sweeping — obsoleting the bulky and cumbersome. They offer performance that out-Chryslers even Chrysler. . . . ¶ Chrysler progressiveness and the greater values which Chrysler gives, are winning every day new thousands to Chrysler. . . . ¶ It is because of all these things in combination that the public decrees Chrysler is the style that re-styles all motor cars.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

Tour Through College and Luncheon to Precede Football Contest.

An invitation to all St. Louis Boy Scouts and scout leaders to witness the football game between the University of Missouri and Drake University at Columbia, Mo., next Saturday afternoon has been received at local Boy Scout headquarters from Dr. L. C. Brewer, director of physical education of Missouri U. All St. Louis scouts and leaders will be admitted to the game free, upon presentation of their membership certificates. Adults accompanying them, however, must hold regular tickets to the game.

The entire university will be thrown open all day to scouts, Dr. Brewer says, and guides will be provided to conduct the groups through the buildings and grounds. Through the cooperation of the Columbia Lions' Club, a luncheon will be served to all visiting scouts and leaders on the athletic field. The purpose of the trip is to enable St. Louis scouts to become familiar with the State University.

While most of the scouts must provide their own transportation, the local council has announced it will take a party of Eagle Scouts to the game in the Irondale Camp bus, which will accomodate about 30. Places in this bus will be filled in the order in which applications are made, so Eagles who desire to make this trip have been advised to get in touch with H. T. Swanson, activities director, at local headquarters, 505 Chemical building.

'KEG PARTY' TOMORROW NIGHT

Scout Leader to Entertain Scout Leaders.

A "keg party" for the Boy Scout leaders of St. Louis, comprising scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, and troop committeemen will be held at the home of Clarence H. Howard, president of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, at 5501 Chamerblain avenue, tomorrow evening, according to Assistant Scout Executive John D. Wright. More than 1000 men are expected to attend the party.

The program, which was arranged by Wright, will consist of games, songs and events "of interest and value to all scout leaders of the city." Prizes will be awarded, and announcements of activities for the coming season will be made.

Headquarters Notes

Thirty-three boys became affiliated with Boy Scout troops during the past week, successfully passing their Tenderfoot tests, according to Carl Laemmli, of the registration department. The West District led in the number of recruits for the week, with 15. The new scouts and their troops are:

West District: Troop 2, Charles Allen, John Geddis, Robert Johnson, Robert Mautz, Leslie Post, William Tedford and Harvey Watt; Troop 14, John Kenny, Troop 54, Aubrey Yawitz and Leroy Phillips; Troop 60, K. Freeman and J. Yount; Troop 135, Edward Ballman; Troop 111, Roy Greathouse and Marvin Green.

North District: Troop 48, R. Wallace, William Grummel, H. Lake and R. Cherry; Troops 1, Alvin Varbrough and Joseph Parker; Troop 203, F. P. Blair Jr., Norvell Pearson and John Pearson.

South District: Troop 63, Delbert Melton; Troop 74, Harry Entson.

Suburban District: Kirkwood 2, Evans Crosby, Eugene Lofgreen, Robert Meyer, Dick Prough and Carleton Tenney; Overland 1, Earl Coleman; Webster Groves 5, Charles Ervin Jr.

The following troops are due to re-register during November: West District, Troop 5, Troop 17 and Troop 125. North District, Troop 42, Troop 64, Troop 122 and Troop 83. South District, Troop 109, Troop 117, Troop 118, Troop 123, Troop 131, Troop 139, Troop 152 and Troop 80. Suburban District, Webster Groves 2.

A message of greeting from the Boy Scouts and leaders of Duesseldorf, Germany, and the good wishes of the scout membership of Rotterdam, Holland, were brought to the Boy Scouts of St. Louis last week by William L. Stollman, 3960 North Eleventh street, who had just returned from a tour of Europe. While in Europe Stollman spent some time studying scouting methods in France, Germany and Holland, and on his return here enrolled for the Scoutmasters' training course which is to be given by the local council this winter. He has expressed a desire to become a scoutmaster in St. Louis.

SCOUTS DISTRIBUTE 200,000 COMMUNITY FUND CIRCULARS

Boys Take Literature Into Homes in Less Than Hour Allotted for Civic Good Turn.

The civic good turn of distributing 200,000 rotogravure circulars Monday evening announcing the launching of the Community Fund campaign was completed by the Boy Scouts of St. Louis in less than the allotted one hour, a survey of the distribution revealed. The start was made at exactly 7:45 o'clock, and a report was made by each troop of the exact time the last circular was delivered by its members. Taken as districts, the North District moved the most speedy, completing its task in 48 minutes, 12 under the allotted time. The West District was second, finishing in 55 minutes, while the South and Suburban districts, with larger territories and comparatively fewer scouts, finished in 59 minutes.

The length of time required for distribution was lengthened by the method employed, which required that the scout hand the circular to a member of the household personally, with a short verbal message from the Community Council. No circulars were left in mail boxes or under doors. The speed made was also more remarkable from the fact that originally it was planned to deliver only 150,000 circulars, 50,000 being added at almost the last minute. Every family in the city and suburbs was reached.

Practically all troops had 100 per cent of their membership participating in the work. At least two troops, 90 and 116, were assisted by the Troop Committee, with automobiles.

Troop Notes

NORTH DISTRICT.

Scout Elton Stone of Troop 3, Grace Holy Cross Church, is the first to amass a total of 1000 points in a patrol efficiency contest now going on, but several others are close behind him. Assistant Scoutmaster Hunt is conducting intensive instruction classes in merit badge subjects. The troop is specializing in outdoor activities, and has planned a hike to the Lions' Den. Troop good turns and weekly patrol meetings are regular activities of this unit.

The appointment of William Barefield as assistant scoutmaster of Troop 161, of the Webster School, was announced at the last meeting. Deputy Commissioner Simons visited the troop recently and spoke on pending North District activities. This troop completed its distribution of Community Fund posters in less than the alloted hour. Regular hikes are being taken by the troop.

SOUTH DISTRICT.

A Scout Night at the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church is being planned for the evening of Nov. 4 by Troop 63. The pastor, Dr. Matheson, has prepared a special sermon "A Son of Whom a Father Is Proud," and a special musical program has been arranged by the Oak Hill orchestra. Scouts of all neighboring troops have been invited to attend. A poster contest conducted in connection with the Scout night was won by Scout Albert Schoenbeck, who received a year's subscription to Boy's Life as an award.

Troop 77 of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church is entering upon the final week of an inter-patrol contest, during which a different subject was featured each week. The contest included first aid, handicraft, a field meet, and patrol good turns, and will conclude this week with a stunt night at the regular troop meeting Thursday evening. The troop is continuing an intensive outdoor program established for the fall season. The most recent hike was to Kenwood Springs, with the entire troop taking part in a program of test passing. A council fire was held in the evening, with Troop Committeeman Dese as master of ceremonies.

As an outcome of its recent activities, Troop 155 of the McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church was invited by the business men of Troy, Mo., to come to Troy to interest the town in the organization of a Boy Scout troop. The invitation was answered by Scoutmaster Charles Pollack, Outdoor Troop Committeeman L. E. Bright, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Hugh Johnson, Senior Patrol Leader Robert Mueller, Bugler Dick Briell and Patrol Leaders Martin Sheets, Orville Bachmann, Jack Emmett, Edward Thornton and William Bright. Upon arrival at Troy they staged a model troop meeting from start to finish, dramatized the 12 Scout laws, held a flag ceremony and a patrol meeting, and demonstrated methods of first aid, knots, signalling, uses of neckerchief, games, and other scouting activities. As a result of the trip, a troop is being organized in Troy, with excellent support from the townspeople.

A drug and bugle corps is being organized at Troop 176, of the Jewish Orphans' Home, by Scoutmaster Kramblett, and will soon be ready to give a public exhibition. A harmonica and leather expert, Ben Aubertine, gave demonstrations of his skill at the last meeting.

An airplane club has been organized at Troop 152, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Christian, who is an aviator. Scout Joe Stiener and Scout Otto Gutfreund have completed flying models, and several others have made scale models. Christian and several others are working on flying models. When all are completed a contest will be held and prizes awarded.

WEST DISTRICT.

An all-city record was established by Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. at the City Court of Honor last Monday by having six of its members qualify for Eagle Scout at the same time. Two of the scouts were brothers, Frank and Morris Gollub, the others being Francis Klein, Edward Hopper, Melvin Hartzman and Paul Gordon.

A Fathers' and Sons' hike to the Lions' Den Reservation was taken by 43 scouts and 16 fathers of Troop 90 of the Temple Shaare Emeth last Sunday under the leadership of Scoutmaster Gergheim. The day's activities, which were partly scouting and partly athletic, were participated in by both men and boys. Members of the troop received 21 merit badges at the Court of Honor last Monday evening. Three boys qualified for first-class rank, and two others became Star Scouts.

An exceptional record in acquiring honors was made by Troop 98 of the St. Roch's Church at the last Court of Honor. Nineteen boys from the troop received 70 merit badges, six became first-class, seven were awarded Star badges, two qualifiied for Life Scout, and two completed all the requirements for Eagle Scout. In addition, one boy, already an Eagle Scout, was awarded an Eagle palm for additional achievement.

DIAMOND SIZE OF HEN'S EGG

Picked Up by Worker in South Africa Sold for $22,000.

By the Associated Press.

KIMBERLEY, South Africa, Oct. 27.—A diamond the size of a hen's egg and weighing 282 carats was recently picked up by a native employe at Bad Hope Diggings in Darkly West. It is the largest diamond ever found in alluvial diggings and was sold for $22,000. The merchant who bought it said that he would have paid $120,000 if the stone had been pure white.

The world's largest diamond, the Cullinan, weighed just over 3000 carts. The Kohinor diamond, before being cut, weighed about 900 carats. It was cut down to 106 carats and placed in the British crown.

29 WOMEN JOIN NEW CLASS IN GIRL SCOUT LEADERSHIP

School Teachers Comprise Majority of Members in Group at Pilgrim Church.

Twenty-nine prospective Girl Scout leaders have organized themselves as a Girl Scout troop at a training course in girl leadership which is being conducted by the St. Louis Girl Scout Council at the Pilgrim Congregational Church. The "troop" is being captained by Miss Ruth Sampson, local director of the organization here, who also acts as main instructor. The class held its first meeting last Tuesday evening, and will hold the next assembly next Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock.

The class is unusual this year in that the majority of the members are school teachers, the remainder being trained nurses, school students and social workers. In former years the classes have been divided almost evenly between teachers and home-makers.

Members who complete the training course, which will cover at least 10 hours, are eligible to become leaders of Girl Scout troops. At presen there are 75 troops, with 1500 members, in St. Louis and vicinity.

CONFUCIANISM NO LONGER STATE RELIGION OF CHINA

Nationalists Do Not Interfere With Sage's Adherents, but Influence Is Waning.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, Oct. 27.—Confucianism, under the Nationalist regime, has lost its last claim to the State religion of China.

The Nanking Government has decreed that nothing be done to prevent veneration to the memory and teachings of the great sage, but the old influence of Confucius has crumbled under the weight of modernistic Nationalism.

This summary of Nanking's attitude toward the ancient faith and code which has molded Chinese thought and conduct for more than 2000 years was given by a direct descendant of Confucius who is also a member of the Nationalist Government. He is Dr. H. H. Kung (Kung Hsiang-hsi) of the seventy-fifth generation in direct line from the sage, whose Chinese name was Kung Fu-tzu. Dr. Kung, alumnus of Oberlin and Yale universities, is Minister of Industry and Commerce and, while proud of his Confucian lineage, is a Christian.

"Many persons, especially abroad, erroneously conceive of Confucianism as a religion," said Dr. Kung. "Confucianism actually is a code of philosophy, a standard of ethical conduct for which no claim is made of divine or supernatural sanction. However, the policy of the Nationalist Government is complete religious freedoom and toleration, and we shall do nothing to interfere with those who still worship Confucius.

"Certainly we shall do nothing to cast disrespect on the memory of this great man, who is venerated as the great sage and teacher of the Chinese people."

'HOT DOGS' POPULAR IN RIO

But Brazilian Capital Venders Call Them "Cachorro Quente."

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 27.—The "dogs" that made Coney Island famous are winning extraordinary popularity in the Brazilian capital. They would not be recognized by an American, however, under the name "cachorro quente." For the instruction of those little versed in the Brazilian tongue, the words "hot dog" are placed in parenthesis on the signs so that there will be no mistake.

One of the most popular places in Rio in recent months is a "hot dog" stand just off the white way here where the moving picture palaces are. Business at this stand is at its height in the hours preceding midnight, and a China fox terrier together with a stuffed yellow dog of once uncertain pedigree are placed in the window to attract customers.

Cuticura Heals Head Covered With Ringworms

"My head was covered with ringworms about the size of a dime. I had a few on my face and they were very painful. They were very itchy and I used to scratch them until they would bleed. Wherever the ringworms were on my scalp my hair fell out. I could not sleep much at night on account of them.

"My mother read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and advised me to send for a free sample, which I did. I was very much pleased for it gave quick relief. I purchased more and in about two weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Pearl Haimerl, R. F. D. 15, Deerfield, Ohio, Jan. 25, 1928

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

WATER FALLS 1840 FEET AT HUGE ALPINE POWER PROJECT

Two Provinces Built Gallery Through Mountain to Connect Two Mounatin Lakes.

By the Associated Press.

GARDONE, Lake Garda, Oct. 27.—D'Annunzio recently visited the gigantic hydroelectric plant being built at the nearby Lake Ledro and predicted that "eternal riches will come from the eternal flow of streams from the snow-capped Alps."

The unique feature of this undertaking, which will be finished before the end of this year and, it is hoped, will be inaugurated by Premier Mussolini, is that it is non-speculative and that no private capital is invested in it. The entire enterprise, which is one of the most important of modern engineering, has been financed with funds supplied by the Provinces of Verona and Bologna, besides a few of the municipalities directly concerned, including Riva, the largest city bathed by the Lake of Garda, and Rovereto on the Innsbruck-Trent railway line. The last two are on former Austrian territory and were annexed to Italy after the last war. The electric power which the new plant will produce is destined almost exclusively for agriclutural and industrial purposes.

The power is produced by a fall of 1840 feet, obtained by joining the Lake of Ledro to Lake Garda by means of an artificial gallery through Mount d'Oro, which divides the two. The Lake of Ledro is 2135 feet above the sea and that of Garda only 210.

The gallery connecting the two lakes starts at 85 feet below the water level of the first, reaching the second in less than four miles. The quantity of water passing through this gallery can be regulated in its terrific fall almost perpendicular above the city of Riva.

Back to Eye and Ear Shows

The Shubert, After Week of Darkness caused by Illness of Mr. Arliss, to Have Musical Revue, "Gay Paree," Starting Tonight—American to Open With a Mystery Meller Next Sunday.

IT IS really too bad that we did not get, last week, a view of George Arliss in his production of "The Merchant of Venice" for the coming of this fine actor in his first Shakspearean offering was looked forward to by lovers of the classic drama—and there were enough of them, by the way, to buy nearly $20,000 worth of tickets, in advance, for the performances which were called off by the illness of Mr. Arliss.

Instead then, of a week of Shylock the Shubert tonight goes back to the type of show which has marked the first few weeks of this season, musical revues of the typical Shubert style. This particular one happens to be "Gay Paree" and has Chic Sale, former vaudevillian, as its main funmaker.

Following this show the Shubert will again attempt to forsake revues for a short spell and will offer "The Silent House" a mystery meller, which will come here from London by way of New York and Chicago.

THE same evening, next Sunday that is, the American Theater, which has been undergoing a long period of dressing up, will make a belated opening with "Interference," another British thriller, written by Roland Pertwee, who is best known on this side for his magazine stories.

While there is nothing, at the moment, scheduled for the week following "Interference" at the American the booking for that house will lean more to dramatic than musical offerings. Coming in November and December are the mystery play, "Wooden Kimono"; Frank Craven in "The 19th Hole"; Queenie Smith and Charles Purcell in the musical comedy, "Hit the Deck"; and Ziegfeld's musical production of "Rosalie," starring Marilynn Miller and Jack Donohue.

Later the American will house the New York Theater Guild Repertory Company presenting "The Doctor's Dilemma," "Ned McCobb's Daughter," "The Second Man" and "John Ferguson"; Mrs. Fiske and an all-star cast in "Much Ado About Nothing"; the mystery play "Dracula," which ran last season at the Fulton Theater, New York; Margaret Anglin, William Farnum and Lyn Harding in a spectacular production of "Macbeth" for which Gordon Craig designed the settings; the New York Theater Guild Production of "Porgy"; "The Bachelor Father"; George C. Tyler's "all-star" cast, including Frances Starr, Fritzi Scheff, James T. Powers, Raymond Hitchcock, Wallace Eddinger, Mary Shaw, Brandon Tynan and others in the Players' Club production of "The Beaux Strategem"; Genevieve Hamper, Frederick Lewis and John Alexander in a Shakespearean festival, and George M. Cohan's production of "By Request," starring Elliot Nugent.

Among the musical attractions coming to the American are Ziegfeld's productions of "Rio Rita," and "The Three Musketeers."

Thurston, the magician, will pay his customary fortnight at the American and the Market street house will also offer several all-star revivals now being organized by George C. Tyler.

IF the past week was a disappointment to the theater-goers who wanted to see George Arliss' "Shylock," it was doubly disappointing to that gentleman himself. St. Louis has always been enthusiastic about his performances and he looked forward to a banner week here. It was bad enough to lose the chance to give his version of the Shakspearean drama before tremendously friendly audiences, but to take a week off and spend it in bed was Mr. Arliss' idea of nothing at all to feel cheerful about.

The latter part of the week, when he had recovered his voice well enough to talk, although his physician would not permit him to tax it to the extent of going through the exacting lines of "Shylock," Mr. Arliss explained that his major sport, whenever he was not playing, was going to the theater. To be sure, there was nothing in the way of dramatic fare which he could have found in St. Louis during the week of idleness, but all the same he felt that he ought to be in a show house. "When I am not acting," he said in his hotel room, "my chief hobby is going to the theater. I trust the compilers of important historical facts will please note this and thus save themselves much laborious correspondence. Comparatively recently I attended a performance at a well-known New York theater and I was surprised to find in my program a special note of instructions to the audience. The producers of the play about to be presented, politely requested visitors to the theater to refrain from applauding. Any attempt at curtain calls or other audible intimation of approval was to be regarded as an interruption liable to destroy the illusion of the play.

"I believe I have a full appreciation of the artistic temperament, but I cannot say that I am altogether in sympathy with an effort to train the public to restrain its emotions in the theater. Is it not possible that we of the theater are beginning to take ourselves too seriously? The art of the theater cannot be too seriously approached, but I doubt whether we are gaining anything by trying to make the audience behave as though they were not in a theater at all. I will confess that I have always considered there is something supremely simple and primitive in curtain calls—actors standing in a row and bowing and smiling their thanks to an audience for his generous support. But, after all, isn't that a part of the theater? Isn't that one of the pleasant attractions of the theater? Don't we all have to shed our shell of sophistication when we go to a theatrical entertainment? And isn't that mainly why we go? An audience likes to applaud, it likes to see the actors bow and smile. I am going to have an awful struggle with myself when I see a fine actor work up to a splendid climax, if I am not allowed to give him a round. Cannot the public be given credit for sufficient imagination to be able to readjust its mind to the story of the play, even though it has applauded? Do we entirely realize how wonderfully keen is the imagination of an audience in the theater? Do they really need all these helpful hints to keep them in the mood of the play? If by eliminating curtain calls, we could keep the minds of the audience pinned to the story until the rise of the curtain on the next act, I might admit the value of this innovation. But it only gives them a little longer to drift away. We know what happens between the acts. As the curtain falls, one lady probably says to her friend, 'Isn't she great?' 'She certainly is—great.' Great!—The last time I saw her I was with Emily.' 'Oh, tell me whatever's become of Emily?' 'Why don't you know?—etc., until the very last minute before the curtain rises. Failing a companion to talk to, one reads: 'What Men

NEW YORK
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.

IF there are any customers who would care for a rousing old-fashioned cry—you know, the kind where you boo hoo out loud and moan in staccato intakes of breath—see Al Jolson in the talking picture, "The Singing Fool."

I saw it at the Winter Garden, now temporarily a movie house, on opening night five or six weeks ago, and every time I try to tell about it I break down all over again.

It is one of those plots that would make us laugh out loud at its sheer hokum and ten-twent-thirt mawkishness were it not for the supreme artistry of Jolson.

I understand Jolson has a hundred per cent record for making people cry with this film—including the movie producers who had to pay him.

It would seem most wise cracks originate in the brush. Every time I broadcast what seems to me a new bit of slang from Broadway I hear from some resident of Walla Walla or Fergus Falls that it is as old as the hills.

The passing of Roy K. Moulton removed a lovable newspaper humorist with a large following, especially in the middle and northwest. He had a droll manner of commenting on everyday happenings of life, seasoned with a cheerful philosophy. In a letter to me six months ago he was feeling much better and said: "I expect to be back in harness soon. But if I don't, perhaps I will not be missed." In this he was wrong. Any man who can make the world smile will always be missed.

The bone-headed ball player of "You Know Me Al" fame which Ring Lardner glorified in his Saturday Evening Post stories, was brought to the stage in a play called "Elmer the Great," by Lardner, a few weeks ago. The lines proved again that Mr. Lardner is one of our very best humorists, although the action of the play—at least on the opening night—creaked, even though produced by such an expert as George M. Cohan.

One of the over-rated plays to my notion is "The Front Page," a so-called hit of the season. It was so absurdly exaggerated it was changed during rehearsals from a drama to a farce. Its resemblance to actual newspaper work and talk is as far fetched as the resemblance of a department store basement to the Louvre. The producer, Jed Harris, is responsible for one big hit, "Broadway," but with his other productions he seems to be the happy victim of some delightful "log rolling."

Short Shavings: Marie Dressler, the hilarious comedienne, is authoring a volume called "From 50 On." . . . The years have touched Miss Dressler lightly . . . Michael Arlen and his bride are expected in America in January. . . . Lillian Lorraine is to return to the management of Ziegfeld, according to rumor. . . . Harlem's richest Negro is rated as worth $600,000. . . . Shubert Alley is a blind street back of the Astor where actors gather. . . . Incidentally, at a dinner attended by 20 of New York's most sophisticated wordlings, all stated, in an after-dinner discussion, they were convinced of the immortality of the soul.

When Frank Tate Started Vaudeville

FRANK R. TATE, local capitalist, who gave St. Louis its first theater devoted exclusively to vaudeville, will be honored, along with a dozen other vaudeville pioneers, in the St. Louis theater, the Grand Opera House and the 800 Keith-Albee-Orpheum theaters in the United States and Canada, during the present week.

The week has been set aside, by executives of the recently merged Keith-Albee and Orpheum circuits, as "Founders' Week," co-incident with the opening, tomorrow night, of the $6,000,000 Keith Memorial Theater in Boston, which has been constructed as a gesture of esteem to B. F. Keith, originator of vaudeville entertainment, and those of the West, including Mr. Tate, who laid the foundation of the national institution, known now as vaudeville, but in the pioneering period as variety.

The Keith Memorial Theater, which is in the same block, where Keith, 45 years ago, opened his store-show, with its 23 kitchen chairs, and a stage made of crude planks, which rested on borrowed packing cases, will be dedicated Monday by a number of stars, who spent part of their careers under Keith's wing. They include George M. Cohan, Weber and Fields, Raymond Hitchcock, Maggie Cline, Eddie Leonard, Fay Templeton, David Warfield, and Flo Irwin.

TATE conceived the idea of promoting a strictly vaudeville theater in St. Louis in 1896, and, retiring from the real estate business, in which he had been engaged since his graduation, several years earlier, from Washington University law school, set about to accomplish his objective. At that time little was known of vaudeville here. The late Col. John Hopkins, who operated Pope's Theater as a dramatic house, with prices ranging from 10 to 30 cents, had been presenting variety turns between acts to kill stage waits, and the efforts of these song and dance persons, wire walkers, jugglers and the like, picked up from wherever Col. Hopkins could recruit them, constituted virtually the only vaudeville entertainment here at the time.

Before actually beginning promotion work, Tate visited Boston and several western cities, including San Francisco where the budding Orpheum Circuit had opened theaters, and returned convinced he could outdo all others in the magnificence of the structure and a quality of acts to be presented. He obtained the necessary financial support, built the Columbia Theater, at Sixth and St. Charles streets, now the site of a 5 and 10-cent store, and on March 27, 1898, the first exclusive vaudeville theater in St. Louis was opened.

In this connection, Tate recalls, with a chuckle, that the Columbia was not named after the Gem of the Ocean, as many might believe, but after the Columbia Brewery, an executive of which was a heavy stockholder in the theater.

The Columbia, at the time, was recognized as one of the finest theaters in America, and, by far, the most ornate vaudeville house in the country. It was the first theater in America to have mezzanine boxes, and the opening of the house was quite a social affair.

DEDICATORY ceremonies were held on the Thursday night, preceding the opening show, and the theater was crowded. After the ceremonies, which included much speech-making, Tate stepped onto the stage and, as he invited the guests to inspect the mysteries of backstage, the curtains were parted, revealing tables piled high with food. Tate relates that the party lasted until 4 a. m., and that it was found necessary to send out for additional food before all the guests departed.

While virtually every performer of any consequence of 30 years ago played the Columbia, including such popular favorites as Montgomery and Stone, George M. Cohan, David Warfield, Weber and Fields, Raymond Hitchcock, Sarah Bernhardt, the Drews, the Barrymores, Maggie Cline, May Irwin, Fay Templeton and others, it was found difficult, some weeks, to book a full program of eight or nine acts, as vaudeville then did not have the organized booking agencies as it now has. Consequently, Tate found it necessary to put in a stock company, headed by Dick Baken, an English actor with a repertoire of more than 100 playlets, and this company used to "pinch hit" on such weeks to give the patrons a full-length show. Baker's company comprised several who later became quite famous, including Henry Kolker, Jim Daly, Robert Druett and Elinor Robson. The stock company was retained for three years, at which time booking agencies became so organized as to be able to assure the Columbia complete shows weekly.

At that time there were less than 20,000 seats in theaters in America devoted exclusively to vaudeville. Now there are more than 1,000,000.

THE movies, at that time, were beginning to take hold of public attention, and Tate began showing pictures before and after the vaudeville performances, and the first colored motion pictures shown in St. Louis were projected at the Columbia.

Tate continued to operate the Columbia until the Orpheum, which he also built, was opened in 1917.

In 1920 the Kohl and Castle interests of Chicago, the Finn and Heiman Circuit, and Tate merged with the Orpheum Circuit, which was operated throughout the West until its merger with the Keith-Albee Circuit, which consolidation has been perfected only in the last few months. One of the first moves of the merged Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation was to prepare to honor the pioneers, who helped build up vaudeville from a comparatively few performers to the more than 20,000 now playing before the footlights, and this honor will be paid the few living pioneers during "Founders' week," with appropriate decorations, heralds, photographs and the like outside the 800 K-A-O theaters, and on the screens of these theaters will be shown a motion picture directing attention to the early days of vaudeville and the men who laid the foundation of this form of entertainment.

Players-Guild Busy Rehearsing

NIGHTLY rehearsals are the order in the little theater of the Artists' Guild on Union and Enright where "Ariadne" by A. A. Milne will be presented by the Players' Guild the week of Nov. 12. The play reading committee, composed of Mrs. Hazel Ewald, John Hart Brown, Miss Elizabeth Jenkins, William G. B. Carson, Miss Barbara Yore and Harry McClain selected a comedy for the opening of the season and will close with a play in light vein, the three intervening ones being of more serious style. It will be the aim of those responsible for the organization of players functioning as the Players' Guild to adhere to the best in drama, giving due regard to construction, literary and dramatic value, coupled with that which will arouse public interest.

The 10 plays submitted for a choice of five include "Ariadne" by Milne, "The Pigeon" by Galsworthy, "June and the Paycock" by O'Casey, "Pillars of Society" by Ibsen, "If" by Dunsany, "Fashions for Men" by Molnar, "Mr. Prohack" by Arnold Bennett, "The Masque of Venice" by Gribble, "Hell Bent for Heaven" by Hatcher Hughes and "To Have the Honor" by Milne. The season's exact repertoire will be announced shortly.

The Players' Guild has no connection with either the Players' or the Artists' Guild and all casts are chosen in open competition, the idea being to develop a permanent theater movement here similar to those functioning with success in Boston, Detroit, Minneapolis, Birmingham, Pasadena, Dallas, New Orleans and Nashville.

New Yiddish Play At Odeon Tonight

"The Blushing Bride," a new farce comedy, will be presented by the Henrietta Schnitzer Players at the Odeon Theater tonight. The play is said to be replete with characteristic Jewish humor, and is woven about an immigrant lass in search of the fabulous millionaire husband. After a series of "Dumb Dora" acts and antics the ghetto heroine reaches the goal, and the day dreams of a fantastic mind become a reality. A number of old-fashioned folk songs and racial music are interwoven into the four acts of the skit.

Henrietta Schnitzer will portray the leading role, supported by an able cast and Rader's symphony orchestra. This is the first presentation of the play in this country after having enjoyed a successful run in the principal cities of Europe.

Von Stroheim Turns Trick

His Picture, "The Wedding March," Is One of World's Leading Films Telling a Convincing Story in a Tremendous Way—Eddie Peabody and Not Brooke Johns to Succeed Frank Fay at the Missouri—Custards Last Stand.

By NIE.

THERE have been some fine motion pictures displayed during the present year, more good ones perhaps than have been seen in any other single season. To be specific, a few of them have been such films as "Sorrell and Son," "The Student Prince," "The Patent Leather Kid," "Harold Teen," "Tempest," "White Shadows of the South Seas," "Lonesome" and the two Jannings triumphs, "The Last Command" and "The Patriot." Most of these films, together with the other good ones of the year, have been good "audience" pictures—that is, good box office attractions—as well as artistic successes, but the other night we saw a new screen offering which completely overshadows anything heretofore presented by the cinemas.

The picture is "The Wedding March" made by, with, and largely for Erich Von Stroheim, an actor who has always been known as "the man you love to hate" because of his villainous characterizations. In this picture, however, he has a near-sympathetic role for the first time and plays it far better than any of the standardized sheik leading men of the screen would be able to do.

FOR sheer magnificence and beauty and attention ot detail, which never becomes tiresome in the film, this picture has never been surpassed. Nothing De Mille has ever done in pageantry even approaches it, and the story carries conviction in its big scenes, as opposed to the artificial shots of the De Mille efforts. There is the impression throughout that you are not looking at a picture at all but at life itself—a smashing, crashing view of real people really living. It is so finely played and so correctly photographed that one feels that he is walking, step to step, with the characters.

"The Wedding March" takes a long time to present, running almost two hours, but one hardly notices its length so absorbing is the story of love and hate in Vienna in the days before the war. Whether or not it is a picture which will appeal to the flapper audiences remains to be seen. The ending, which comes with an abruptness which is entirely unlooked for, finds none of the characters for whom all of the sympathy has been carefully created, in a position where they may never again expect happiness, but it is great drama even if it happens not to be great theater.

For a long time "The Wedding March" has been talked about but not seen, but now, after more than three years of continuous effort by Von Stroheim, it is reaching the screen. It is the first film he has directed since "The Merry Widow" and the first one in which he has acted since "Foolish Wives," six years ago.

IN the story Von Stroheim is a dissolute young officer of the Austrian Life Guards Mounted. There are plenty of colorful excesses and flaws in his character, but he always holds the affection of his audience. A rearing horse which he is riding brings about an acquaintance with Fay Wray, harpist at a country inn, and the two fall in love. His princely family, meanwhile, has arranged a marriage for him with the daughter of a wealthy commoner and the picture ends with the wedding.

Actual camera work occupied more than nine months. Since filming was completed, various factors have delayed the picture's release, the principal one being the difficulty in cutting it down to the accepted length for entertainment purposes. Von Stroheim himself urged that "The Wedding March" be made into two separate but coordinated films, to be shown on successive nights. This idea finally was abandoned, and in the cutting process emphasis has been concentrated upon the love of the two principal characters while all incidental threads of the narrative have been deleted.

Von Stroheim's supporting cast is headed by Fay Wray, who was an unknown heroine in Western films when the director chose her as his leading woman. Since that time Miss Wray has played with distinction in several pictures.

"The Wedding March" has synchronized sound effects but no talking and a musical score composed especially for the production. The famous Corpus Christie Day procession, with 2100 actors, is shown in gorgeous technicolor.

THE length of time which it takes to show "The Wedding March," which is coming to the Missouri on Nov. 17, will make it impossible to put on a stage show that week which happens to fit well into the scheme of things at the theater. Frank Fay will give up his job as Master of Ceremonies on that day and for the next two weeks there will be no one taking his place for after the Von Stroheim picture is through a foot ball film will follow for Thanksgiving Week with Red Grange appearing on the stage in person. Then, on Dec. 1, the stage shows will be taken up again with Eddie Peabody, the western Master of Ceremonies, in charge. Brooke Johns, who was scheduled to follow Fay, has postponed his appearance until some time next year.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN worked as an extra in Norma Talmadge's picture, "The Woman Disputed," which is at Loew's this week. And the world's most famous screen comedian received the same pay of the other extras.

One day when Henry King and Sam Taylor were directing a scene in the story of love and war, several extras were instructed to stand in doorways and peer out at Miss Talmadge, in the role of a girl of the streets, as she passed. King wanted a little man in a big coat for one of the close-ups—and none of the extras answered the requirements.

Chaplin, who happened to be visiting the Talmadge set at the United Artists studio that day, was jokingly asked by King if he wished to make a few extra dollars.

"Certainly!!!" replied Charlie. "Get me an overcoat and I'll do the scene with Norma."

Miss Talmadge was not told, and when the cameras followed her as she walked along the street, peering into the leering faces of various men, she received the shock of her life when she discovered one of them to be Charlie Chaplin.

At the end of the scene Mr. Chaplin said.

"Where's my $7.50?"

BIGGER and better pictures used to be the goal of the movie industry. Now it is louder and longer talkies.

Only a few months ago it was a novelty to hear and see a one-reel talking picture. Today one can listen to so-called 100 per cent

Works New to St. Louis To Have Prominent Place On the Symphony Programs

Twenty-Five of the 73 Numbers to Be Played During Coming Season Will Be Heard for First Time.

FULLY one-third of the works scheduled for performance by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra during the coming season, which opens Nov. 9-10, will be new to St. Louis, according to the programs given out by Manager William E. Walter last evening, yet those "novelties" range from a divertimento by Karl Ditters von Dittersdorf, who was the friend of Haydn and Mozart, to two symphonic pictures by a present-day Italian composer, Mule, whose work has not yet been heard in this country.

Twenty-five of the 73 numbers programmed for the season will be new to the St. Louis orchestra. Among them are several works by the most representative of the modern composers: Stravinsky and Prokofieff, among the Russians; Roussel and Ravel, among the French; Mule, Zandonai, Malpiero and Respeghi amongst the Italians; Albinez, DeFalla and Turina among the Spaniards; Eugene Goossens, Frederick Delius and Ralph Vaughn-Williams among the English; Edvard Holst, representing the Scandinavians; the Rumanian Georges Enesco, and the Hungarian Yolanda Mero.

Despite such a representation of newer works, there is a sound underlying structure of accepted composers. Beethoven will be represented by three symphonies, the Fifth, the Eighth and the Ninth; Brahms by two, the Second and Third; Schubert by his great No. 7 in C. Schumann by his First in B-flat; Tschaikowsky by the "Pathetique." Mendelssohn by the "Italian," Mozart by his violin concerto No. 7 and a serenade for four small orchestras; Bach by the Third Brandenberg Concerto and his Suite in G; Berlioz by three movements from his "Fantastic" Symphony; Strauss by his "Don Quixote," "Don Juan" and "Death and Transfiguration;" Wagner by the closing scene from "Die Walkure," together with some of his overtures; Rachmaninoff by his E Minor Symphony. Other composers represented are Chadwick, Chabrier, Kroeger, Smetana, Saint-Saens, Moussorgsky, Rossini, Sibelius, Verdi, Corelli, Debussy, Wold-Ferrari, Balakirev and Chausson.

The orchestra's rehearsals begin tomorrow at the Musicians' Club, 3535 Pine street under Emil Oberhoffer who has come to St. Louis after a successful term as guest conductor in Detroit and who will spend the next two weeks in intensive rehearsal preparatory to his opening concert pair Friday and Saturday of next week.

The programs were completed yesterday. They are subject to change, but experience last year indicates that few if any changes may be ordinarily expected. The opening program for Nov. 9-10 will be as follows:

My Jubilee from Symphonic Sketches .... Chadwick
Symphony No. 6 in B Minor
Pathetique ...... Tschaikowsky
Andante Cantabile ..Tschaikowsky
In Memoriam
Mrs. John Fowler, Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis
Orchestral Suite from the Ballet
Petrouchka .... Stravinsky
Bouree Fantasque ......Chabrier

Behind the Screens

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.

THAT Adolphe Menjou earned $2500 a week and received a bonus of $20,000 for making four pictures was brought out at the trial of the suit of his former manager, John McKeon, for $17,000, for services rendered. McKeon charges he was hired by Menjou at $10,000 a year to get modifications of the film star's contracts. McKeon alleges he was discharged a year later.

One of the strange things about this town where so many actors and extras are prosperous one day and penniless the next is the number of its pawnshops. There are only two.

One is just off the Boulevard near Central Casting and close to the harness shops and lunch counters where movie cowboys loaf. That seems a natural location. The other flaunts its red awning across the street from the studio where Mary Pickford works and where Douglas Fairbanks, John Barrymore, Norma Talmadge, D. W. Griffith and other celebrities earn the money with which they buy all their little luxuries.

Surely the proprietor of this place is not so optimistic he expects Mary Pickford to come in and pawn her jewels or John Barrymore to ask the loan of a few dollars on one of his yachting trophies. But when questioned he merely smiles and says:

"You'd be surprised to meet some of my customers."

Of course extras and bit-players hit the financial bumps more often than players earning enough to buy bonds or real estate regularly. But a sudden drop from $700 a week to nothing often shakes a bright new diamond bracelet off the wrist of an actress no one suspects of being financially embarrassed, even if her contract with Such-and-Such Pictures wasn't renewed.

Diamonds, guns and cameras are the articles most frequently pawned here. And guns, according to one pawnbroker, are most in demand among the folks who come in to buy from him.

"I don't always sell them, though," he added, hastily. "These women! Why do fire-arms fascinate them? I told one flaming flapper she was too doggoned temperamental to own an automatic."

That is only one broker's side of it. The other is noncommittal on the subject of gun sales, but complains that the automobile loan brokers are spoiling his trade by taking in diamonds as well as cars.

There would be 10 times as many pawnshops in Hollywood if licenses weren't so hard to get, alleges one of the pawnbrokers. The other disagrees. He says most picture people prefer to visit downtown Los Angeles shops when the watch or the necklace must be pawned, and that two pawnshops are enough to take care of all the others.

One of the stars of Hollywood about whom picture-goers hear very little is Harry Oliver. He stars at building extraordinary sets. The sad part of his skill, of course, is the fact that the more convincingly natural the set looks on the screen the less likely any film fan is to wonder what artist was responsible for it.

Those who stroll often through the studios, however, get to know Oliver's sets by the "feel" of them. He seems to have the knack of making streets and houses look as though people really lived in them, even when one walks by them knowing them to be make-believe. And a river he built recently with a mountain looming over it, all in the open air, looked more convincing and attractive than some of the genuine California scenery nearby.

Just now he is busy reconstructing an Oregon wheat field inside one of the big stages on the Fox lot. The original field was shorn of its stand of grain and the wheat stalks shipped to Hollywood to "take root" again. When the last scene of "Our Daily Bread" has been shot the crop can be harvested once more and made into real flour or breakfast food.

Some of the Negro extras are still a little dubious about these talking pictures. Lew Seiler says he looked through a crowd of Negro applicants for a certain type needed in "Badges," which is to be an all-dialogue picture, and finally found a lad who resembled what he wanted.

"You look the type, all right," he told the boy, "but I'm not so sure you could handle the lines."

The applicant hastily looked around for an exit.

"Listen, Boss," he quavered, "Ah don't think you want me in this yere pitcher at all; and Ah don't want to be in it neither, 'cause when it comes to handlin' lions Ah never was no movie actor."

Those who think living in Hollywood is just a haphazard existence, full of pictures and parties, are respectfully referred to a recent announcement of the establishment of the Academy of Advanced Thought and Fine Art of Living in Hollywood. The school's announcement says it has a faculty of 19 teachers and will offer courses to "fit one for the conquest of life's problems and the mastery of environment."

And Hollywood certainly is some environment.

From now on the bespectacled Harold Lloyd is going to run less and talk more.

In deference to the desire of picture-goers for movies with a voice, the comedian of the horn-rimmed glasses is toning down the breathless speed of his latest film adventure to a point where he will have breath enough now and then to utter a few words of dialogue.

"There'll be no more 'chases' in my pictures from now on," he said during a lull in production. "I'm through with the pell-mell pursuit.

"In this picture a background of mystery, rather than speed, sets off the comic moments. We're not making it a mystery-thriller; but the underground Chinatown scenes will give us a chance to get thrills and laughs with microphone as well as camera."

Lloyd is an eager young botanist in the new picture; a botanist who by accident becomes the star finger print expert and criminologist of a metropolitan police department.

A producer who cannot use phrases full of -tone or -phone in his announcements these days is hopelessly out of luck. In Hollywood, at least, he is suspected of having no talking picture equipment and therefore of being unprepared for the new era. Even the schools which advertise in the help wanted columns of the newspapers and urge jobless boys and girls to take a course in motion picture acting are falling in line. John Ince, who runs one of these institutions, is offering in his advertisements now a "free voice test on that marvelous new device, Ince-a-phone."

Perhaps the oddest film job anyone has filled since the talkies came in was the parrot-doubling engagement recently completed by an actor whose sole duty was to stand behind a curtain and speak the lines of a parrot playing a bit in a talking picture. The parrot could talk, but was not bright enough to memorize the lines the director wanted spoken. So a double was hired for the bird.

Boys of Fairfax High School, in Hollywood, looking about them and noting how little capital it takes to become a motion picture producer, have organized the Colonial Pictures Co. to make football comedies with the school as a background.

This town's inner circle of film fans is looking at a John Barrymore picture the rest of the world probably will never see. It is the two reels of "Tempest," in which Barrymore makes love to Dorothy Sebastian.

Some picture-goers may recall that four successive directors worked on "Tempest" and three successive heroines essayed the princess role before completion of the final version, now showing at theaters, in which the German actress, Camilla Horn, is Barrymore's heroine.

The "Sebastian version" accordingly is being viewed by film folk here with the sort of eagerness fight fans displayed when the famous Dempsey-Tunney seventh round reached the screen. It is human to enjoy an argument over whether or not the referee was right.

The extraordinary angle of it all is that it should be possible for anyone to see the Barrymore-Sebastian reels at this date. Usually such discarded sequences go to the furnace for the silver that can be reclaimed from scrap film, particularly if keeping them "alive" breeds opportunity for an argument. Or they are locked in a vault for possible future reference, and forgotten.

In this case, a gallant gesture on the part of the producer was to save all her scenes for the departing heroine as a memento and a good-will gift. As such it was an expensive present, for the two reels are said to have cost upward of $100,000 to produce, figuring Barrymor's salary as part of the expense.

One of the hobbies of Cecil B. de Mille is his mountain farm of 600 acres in the Gold Creek region north of here, where grapes and apples and poultry abound. He takes special pride in keeping hunters off the place, maintaining a guard against such trespassing and even putting out large hunks of rock salt where the wild deer can see it, taste it and know that the man who makes Biblical pictures is their pal. The other day he visited the place and saw 20 deer; also the remains of $5000 worth of young apple trees the animals had tasted and, apparently, liked.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, the "No Hunting" sign stays where it was. "It isn't very often the deer get a break these days," De Mille explains.

Are Wearing' (supplied by the same considerate management, especially that one may improve the shining moments between the acts). Or one gazes rapturously at the picture of that charming but unblushing lady who always figures in the program in an extraordinarily well-fitting corset and nothing else. But, in spite of this, is not the audience mentally alert enough to come back to the play immediately the curtain rises on the next act and to take up just where it left off?

Von Stroheim Scores A Real Hit With "The Wedding March"

talkies running into seven reels, while with each new picture the producers are installing more microphones on the set to catch a greater variety of noises.

In the screen opera version of "The Desert Song" film fans will hear at one and the same time the voices of six principals, 100 singers in the chorus and a 50-piece orchestra playing the accompaniment. And that is only one picture. Nat Ross, who has made 32 silent collegiate comedies with Dorothy Gulliver, George Lewis, Churchill Ross and other juveniles, is going to make the big leap in his next one and put all the rah-rah and rough-house of a college campus full strength on the screen. While Rowland V. Lee promises to screen in "The Wolf of Wall Street" all the turmoil of a hectic day in the stock exchange, as well as the voice of George Bancroft.

Custard-pie comedy is fighting with its back to the wall these days. Driven into a corner by the popularity of talking short subjects, the old familiar slapstick two-reeler is being deserted by some of its best friends. It was only a few months ago that William Fox disbanded his slapstick units to make room for more Movietone novelties. And now Al Christie, for many years a leader of the rough-and-tumble school of film comedy production, says frankly that the talking screen has created a demand for a new type of comedy utterly different from the slapstick styles of the past.

Merely putting words into the mouths of slapstick characters and setting up a microphone to record the plop of a custard pie against the comedian's face will not satisfy the sound-wise film fans, Christie feels. So his first group of talking two-reelers will be film versions of one-act plays which already have been successful on the stage. He is not booking vaudeville acts, but buying up short comedies which he can produce here with his own players. He will also produce in talking comedy form a series of Negro stories featuring Negro comedians.

A less radical departure from slapstick is contemplated by Hal Roach, who says his Laurel and Hardy comedies and the Our Gang pictures will be equipped with dialog and given a talking career. He adds, however, that most of his featured players have had vaudeville experience, and that by next spring he will be turning out a new kind of entertainment combining the best in film slapstick with the sort of comedy material that has proven its ability to "click" on the stage.

Adolph Bolm, one of the foremost ballet masters, who will be seen at the Odeon Nov. 22, came into prominence first in Petrograd when leading member of the Imperial Ballet. Then in London Bolm was associated with Pavlowa with her first company in the heyday of her career. Later in Paris, Bolm was the premier dancer and ballet master of the Diagghilev Ballet Russe, and it was in this capacity that Bolm was first introduced in this country. He was secured by the Metropolitan Opera House as leading male dancer and was responsible for many of the Metropolitan's special ballet productions, notably "Coq d'Or" and "Petrouchka." Later he was invited by the Chicago Opera Company to head their ballet, and finally he was selected to head the Chicago Art Alliance, a special organization to foster a ballet season in Chicago. With Adolph Bolm will appear Ruth Page, premier danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Ravinia Opera Company; Vera [illegible]rova, interpreter of the Oriental and Spanish dances, and Ber[illegible] Holmes. Mr. Bolm, besides [illegible] trained dancers, brings with him five musicians and a concert pianist.

Fritz Kreisler will give a recital at the Odeon on Friday evening, Nov. 23. Mr. Kreisler's last appearance here was in 1926.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Oratorio Society of St. Louis, a body of about 200 Lutheran choristers intent upon oratoric production, and recruited from the Lutheran churches of St. Louis and vicinity, the following officers were appointed: Theodore W. Eckhart, who is the financial secretary of the Missouri Synod, was elected president. William [illegible] Heyne was reappointed as conductor of the organization. The policy of having two ministers and teachers on the board of directors was maintained, and the following were elected in this capacity: Rev. F. L. Neebe and Rev. William [illegible] Peters. The two teachers chosen were George Hoerber and [illegible] Becker. Other appointments were: Vice president, A. Jutze; secretary, Miss Olga Knolle; treasurer, [illegible] Vogt; and librarian, Arthur [illegible]derson. A. P. Ranft was appointed business manager, and Henry [illegible] Ameiss Jr. publicity and advertising manager.

The Oratorio Society is at present rehearsing excerpts from Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," which it presented last December in concert at the Odeon. These excerpts are to be rendered in the form a Christmas concert at various Lutheran churches throughout the city and surrounding territory. The first church concert will probably take place in a month.

SMITH, "IN SUBSTANTIAL ACCORD" WITH PROGRESSIVE VIEW, LA FOLLETTE ASSERTS

Whichever Nominee Wins, Senator Says Public Must Rely on Progressives in Congress to Protect Its Interests.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 27.—The issues of water power, farm relief, labor injunctions, corruption in public service and abuse of presidential power in Nicaragua are in the presidential campaign not because of the courage or patriotism of the Republican and Democratic parties, but because Progressive Republicans and Progressive Democrats, acting as a group in Congress, have forced them in.

This declaration was made by Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin Progressive, in a signed editorial in the current issue of La Follette's Magazine. He insisted that neither the Republican nor Democratic party was on record in favor of the principles for which the Progressive group has fought.

Gov. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, has made public declarations and definite commitments which are in substantial accord with the views of the Progressives on the issues forced by the latter, the Senator went on. Nevertheless, the editorial says, if Herbert Hoover is elected and undertakes to carry out the policies of President Coolidge, or if Gov. Smith is elected, "the people will have to rely on the Progressives in both parties to guard the national resources of the public domain from such interests as the power trust, to provide equality for agriculture and to protect wage earners from denial of their constitutional rights."

Senator La Follette said he had dissociated himself from the Republican national ticket and platform throughout the campaign.

Text of Editorial.

The text of his editorial follows: "Certain issues are at stake in the election Nov. 6, which go to fundamentals of government and of the Progressive movement.

"The election involves, too, the question of how Progressives who have little faith in either of the old parties, but who nevertheless desire to support Progressive principles wherever and whenever they are at issue, may most effectively accomplish that purpose without abandoning the ground already won at great effort and sacrifice.

"The Progressive movement, as we know it today, had its beginnings a generation ago in the State of Wisconsin. It owed its origin and its enduring success to the devotion of the people of Wisconsin to the Republicanism of Lincoln and the Democracy of Jefferson, as exemplified in the independent leadership and the constructive statesmanship of Robert Marion La Follette.

"It was the administration of Gov. La Follette and the working out of fundamental reforms in the State of Wisconsin that first made the Progressive movement a powerful force for good in State and nation in the period preceding the World War. It was largely due to his uncompromising opposition to monopoly, privilege and corruption at Washington that 5,000,000 Progressive voters left the old parties under his leadership in the last national election.

Takes Up Father's Work.

"My father devoted the last years of his life to an effort to rally the common people of this country to a political movement, which, as he believed, would reestablish equality of opportunity and a larger measure of human freedom, challenge the existing system of privilege and corruption at Washington and ultimately overthrow it. The year following the 1924 election, he died in the belief that neither of the old parties was a fit instrument for this purpose, and that the best hope of the American people lay in the maintenance and advancement of the Progressive cause. He believed that the first condition essential to such an advance was the increasing of the Progressive group in both branches of Congress. He confidently hoped that ultimately the executive branch of the Government could be brought under Progressive control.

"Sharing this conviction, I have devoted my energies during the last three years in the United States Senate to a support of Progressive principles, with the larger aims of the movement constantly uppermost, and without any regard whatsoever to considerations of party regularity. During this period public questions of the gravest importance have engaged the attention of Congress and the interest of the American people.

Muscle Shoals.

"Under the leadership of Progressives like Norris of Nebraska, and Wheeler and Walsh of Montana, the effort has been made, often against the active opposition of the Coolidge administration, to complete the exposure and to effect the punishment of the faithless public officers and private conspirators first challenged for their shameless corruption by Robert M. LaFollette. The restoration to the people of hundreds of millions in stolen goods has been due solely to the efforts of these Progressives.

"During this entire period, a fight has been waged under the leadership of Senator Norris of Nebraska to save Muscle Shoals to the people of this country. This has been but a part and a symbol of the progressive effort to conserve all our natural resources from the rapacity of such interests as the power trust, and to establish the principle that the natural resource of hydro-electric energy should be developed and operated by the government itself, for the common benefit, rather than to be turned over to private corporations for their selfish exploitation and profit.

On this question Progressives of both parties have supported Senator Norris. Men have been found in both parties in Congress and in executive office to do the bidding of the Power Trust.

Within the last three years the only plan thus far proposed which has had for its avowed purpose the granting of equality to agriculture, has twice been passed by Congress and twice been vetoed by President Coolidge. Progressives like Senator Howell of Nebraska, Senator Frazier of North Dakota, and Senator Shipstead of Minnesota have led in this struggle on behalf of the farmer. Opposition preventing enactment of any genuine relief measure has come from members of both parties who are content to permit the benefits of Government protection to remain the exclusive privilege of manufacturing industries.

Imperialism in Nicaragua.

"Under the present administration of the United States has for more than a year been engaged in a bloody and costly warfare in Nicaragua which has engendered hatred of our flag as a symbol of imperialism throughout Central and South America. The only effective protest offered against this policy has come from Progressives in Congress, over the combined opposition of the administration itself and the leaders of both the old parties. It is due, in fact, to an alliance between Republican and Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee, that an investigation was blocked at the last session of the Senate and that United States Marines now remain in Nicaragua making war upon a weaker people with whom we are at peace under every rule of international law and under the express terms of our own Constitution.

"During the present administration this country has witnessed an abuse of the injunction in the State and Federal courts which, permitted to go uncorrected by law, will practically destroy the right of collective bargaining and paralyze organized labor. In thre coal fields of Pennsylvania, O., and other States the injunction has recently been used to deny the most sacred and elemental rights of American citizens. Had it not been for the exposure of these conditions forced by Senator Johnson of California and the offering of the pending anti-injunction bill by Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, this grave abuse would today remain unchallenged in Congress and without hope of remedy.

Progressive Platform.

"Thus the Progressives of both parties for years have, by maintaining their record distinct from that of the old parties, and by an intelligent use of the balance of power, rendered inestimable service to all classes and sections of the country. They have fought unceasingly and against heavy odds for principles worth fighting for, the stamping out of corruption in the public service; the saving of our last great natural resource from the power trust and its development and operation by the Government; the restoration and maintenance of agriculture as a profitable industry in which free, independent farmers may engage; the recognition of the sovereignty and equality of all nations, large and small, as the only sure basis for a lasting peace; and the protection of labor from a denial of constitutional rights which imperils not alone the liberties of wage-earners in industry but the liberties of all our people.

"I have participated in the work of the Progressive group in the Senate, without regard to partisanship, because I believe in the justice of these principles and find them embodied in the creed of no organized political party represented in the United States Senate today.

"It was these principles, presented with the indorsement of the Republicans of Wisconsin in the form of a minority report on platform, for which I stood at the Republican National Convention at Kansas City.

Repudiated G. O. P. Platform.

"This report was rejected and in its stead the convention adopted a reactionary platform offered by Senator Smoot of Utah. It pledged a continuance of the Coolidge policies, ignored the existence of Muscle Shoals, Boulder dam and the power trust, failed to mention or repudiate the betrayal of the party and the country by Fall, Dougherty, Forbes and Hays, rejected the farm bill passed by a Republican Congress, and frankly defended the Coolidge policy of imperialism in Nicaragua.

"At the outset of the campaign in which I was a candidate for renomination to the Senate in the Wisconsin primary, I publicly repudiated the Republican platform and announced that I stood pledged to the Progressive platform embodying the principles submitted by the Wisconsin delegation at Kansas City. Upon this pledge, I was renominated and am a candidate for re-election to the Senate.

"If these pledges are to be fulfilled, it is obvious that Progressive principles of government must enlist the support of men and women throughout the nation, and candidates for public office must be elected whose public records and commitments square with them.

"Accordingly, since the Wisconsin primary, I have been speaking in Minnesota on behalf of Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor candidate; in Montana, for Senator Wheeler, Democrat; and in North Dakota, for Senator Frazier, Republican. These men, although representing three different parties, have rendered signal service in the public interest as progressive members of the Senate. I have likewise publicly urged the re-election of Senator Dill, Democrat, of Washington; Senator Howell, Republican, of Nebraska, and Senator Johnson, Republican, of California. Their re-election and the election of other candidates for the Senate and the House of like character is essential to the advancement of the Progressive cause.

Where the Old Parties Stand.

"When we turn to the presidential campaign, we cannot blind ourselves to the fact that the same questions which have arisen in the election of a new Congress are likewise at issue in the election of a chief executive. The next President of the United States must pass upon these identical questions and will share with Congress in their settlement for the good or ill of the country. Prejudice and passion may, at times, obscure the real issues, but they continue to exist whether we face them boldly or not. The issues I have mentioned are in the presidential campaign today, not because of the courage or patriotism of either of the old parties, but because progressive Republicans and progressive Democrats co-operating as a group in Congress have forced them out into the open and compelled their consideration at the polls.

"Neither party is today on record as a party in favor of the Progressive principles for which this group has fought. So far as the Democratic party is concerned, this is due to the fact that there was no discussion of these issues and the successful candidate did not take a stand upon them in their national aspects before the convention met.

"The Republican party in its national convention at Kansas City did take definite ground against Progressive principles on most of those questions. It confirmed that stand by its blanket indorsement of the administration's policies and by its nomination of a candidate intimately associated with the policies of the Harding-Coolidge administration.

"Since the convention, Mr. Hoover has repeatedly pledged the continuance of the Coolidge policies and stated his belief in their wisdom and justice. On not one of the important issues at stake has he departed from the recorded position of the present administration, which I have found it necessary to resist as a member of the United States Senate. I have therefore, dissociated myself from the Republican national ticket and platform throughout this campaign.

Smith "In Substantial Accord."

"Since the convention, Gov. Smith has made public declarations and definite commitments which are in substantial accord with the Progressive view on water power, farm relief, the injunction in labor disputes, corruption in the public service, and abuse of presidential power in Nicaragua.

"We know in advance that if Mr. Hoover is elected and undertakes to carry out the Coolidge policies to which he has pledged himself in this campaign, the American people will have to rely on Progressives in both parties in Congress to take the initiative in exposing corruption, to guard the natural resources on the public domain from such interests as the power trust, to provide equality for agriculture, and to protect wage-earners from denial of their constitutional rights.

"We know, also, that if Gov. Smith is elected, and undertakes to redeem the pledges he has made in this campaign, on these issues, the American people will have to rely on the same group of Progressives in Congress, rather than upon the Democratic membership as now constituted, to see that those promises are fulfilled, in the legislative branch of the Government.

"In either event, the maintenance and strengthening of the Progressive group in Congress is of paramount importance to the public interest.

"To that purpose I have given my best efforts in the Senate, in the National convention at Kansas City, and throughout the present campaign in my own and other States.

"So far as I am concerned, I intend to continue this course in and out of the Senate in an honest effort to advance Progressive principles on the great, fundamental issues which, it seems to me, should control if we are to promote the freedom, welfare and happiness of the American people. This I propose to do, as a Progressive Republican, without regard to the fortunes of any political party or individual, recognizing no responsibility or obligation except to the people and the commitments which I have made to them."

is at hand, for the first concerts are less than a fortnight away, as they come on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 9 and SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 10
Thereafter, during a period of twenty-two weeks, a total of eighteen such pairs will be given.
The admirable orchestra of which Saint Louis has just reason to be proud will be under the direction of four most distinguished conductors. Three of these,
Emil Oberhoffer, Bernardino Molinari and Eugene Goossens demonstrated their worth in their appearances with the Orchestra a year ago. The fourth,
E. Fernandez Arbos, is Spain's foremost conductor, acknowledged to be one of the very few truly great conductors amongst contemporary musicians.
The list of soloists is unusually interesting, containing as it does artists whose standing in music is unquestioned; and, as a special feature,
Beethoven's Ninth or Choral Symphony will be given with the assistance of 100 singers from the Morning Choral and Apollo Clubs and an exceptionally fine quartet.
The sale of season tickets shows a material advance over that of last year, but there are still left excellent seats to be had for both the Friday and Saturday series at all prices—$12, $16, $20, $25, $30. A few boxes for Saturday evenings are available at $250 each.

rogress of Television Is Still Halting, Survey Shows

o Possible Appeal to the "General Public" at Present, According to Official Report for Radio Manufacturers' Association.

By R. P. CLARKSON,
[illegible] for the Radio Manufacturers' Association.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—There e now in the United States approximately 640 broadcasting stans, ranging in power from five atts to 50,000 watts. These are ly the stations in the so-called roadcast band," which officially ns from 199.9 meters to 545.1 ters, but is commonly spoken of the 200 to 600-meter band.

Many of these broadcasting stas have "short wave" compan- stations which send out on ve lengths below 100 meters the e programs, at least in certain rs. As a rule, the short wave tions are of quite low power t, in spite of this fact, they are monly picked up at greater disces than are the parent stations mselves.

The Short Wave Situation.

So far as the public in America concerned, the short wave stas are not a factor—virtually n-existent. The usual commerl set used in the home for entertainment has great difficulty tting down to the lowest waves the broadcast band, and is enely unsuited to short wave tung and reception.

Nor is it probable that any form radio receiving set will be desed which will become popular the home, and be capable of andling the short waves as well the usual broadcast waves. At resent this can be done by the aterchange of coils or by connectg up, to the present set, a seprate tuning device. Both arrangements are more or less for the experimenter, however, and the best ractice is to use two entirely seprate sets with different antenna ircuits.

Television Reception.

Any television reception by the eneral public at present, therere, involves one of two things. ither the sending of images must ake place within the 200 to 650 eter band, or the public must y special television receivers. If e sending of television images ould be done in the broadcast and, it is admitted that most of e up-to-date receiving sets could e used for reception, and, in place f the loud speaker, one would erely plug in a device to make the gnal visible instead of audible. r the experimenter, this can be ne.

However, the number of stans which are sending images is small, the results to date are crude and so difficult to reive, the apparatus to create the age is so cumbersome and inlves moving machinery which turn requires electrical connecns entirely apart from the set, such incessant attention is rered for the instant to instant lation of the device, while no device can be used except for particular station it matches, t there can be no possible apl to the general public.

The first step in any wide, genal development of television will e establishing sufficient transmitg stations so that a purchaser, herever he may live, has at least e program he can tune to. Of urse, he would prefer a choice. Then, instead of the very few mines occasionally given to telesion broadcast at present, there ould be broadcasts of such length s to permit some degree of enyment. It is also obvious that here must be a standard adopted y the various stations which will ermit a receiver to be used equaly well on all of them. Otherwise, here can be no nation-wide use r sale of television receivers.

Some Television Broadcasting.

At present, so far as the general public is concerned, there are only two stations attempting anything aproaching television broadcasting. These are WGY at Schenectady, on a wave length of 379.5 meters, and WRNY in the New York area, on 326 meters. There are short waves carrying these programs also, as follows: 2XAL, New York, 30:9 meters; 2XAD, Schenectady, 21.96 meters, and 2XAF, Schenectady, 31.4 meters.

In addition, there is 3XK near Washington, D. C. operating on 6.7 meters, and carrying a program of dancing shadows or silouettes, transmitted from a film, a sort of miniature moving picure in a rather simple form. There are several broadcasting tations in the Middle West conmplating this type of broadcast this winter.

At one time WLEX, Boston, on 8.5 meters and 1XAY, on the me wave, had regular television edules, but they have been disntinued. Also WCFL, Chicago, 61:5 meters, has been broadsting television as has 8XAV, ttsburg on 62.5 meters, and both ntinue.

In all cases, the hours devoted o this type of broadcasting are w and the time subject to change.

CALLED FIRST AIR PREACHER

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

In the New York area, there are daily five minute periods at various hours. The Schenectady broadcasts are of half hour or hour duration several times a week. In addition to these regular broadcasts, there, have been occasional television transmissions incidental to demonstrations of apparatus or of television systems.

No Common Standards.

Even aside from the widely different receivers necessary to get every one of these broadcasts, ranging as they do from 379.5 meters to 21.96 meters, it would be necessary also to have different television apparatus, for the stations send their images at different speeds, and the images are of different "screens" or number of lines corresponding to the screen of a half-tone newspaper picture. At present, the screens used are 24 or 48, or approximately that. WRNY is using 44, and the Chicvago station 45. The Schenectady broadcasts are 24 and the rest are 48, which bids fair to become most popular. The speeds range from 450 R. P. M. at WRNY to 1260 at WGY. This means from about 8 pictures per second to 21. The usual "movie" is 16 per second.

Just now all the images sent are square, but it is conceivable, unless standards are adopted, that not only will speed and quality differ widely, but also that images of different proportions will be developed according to the tastes of the broadcaster.

In spite of these pioneering stations, most of whom are carrying on this work to gain experience and knowledge against the time when television actually arrives, or to encourage experimentation, there is no general tendency for broadcasting stations to enter this field.

In fact, it is a question whether the Radio Commission will permit the stations now indulging to continue, unless, as suggested by one of the commissioners, after midnight. The idea of this limitation is that, in view of the congestion and interference in the ether and extremely limited number of those who can receive the crude broadcasts, it seems unwise to permit good broadcasting time to be taken up by experimental work on waves entirely unsuited to television purposes.

Broadcast Band Unsuitable.

It is the unsuitability of the broadcast band which is largely responsible for such lack of interest by most of the television broadcasters, and is largely responsible

Caldwell Sees Demands for Higher Power

By O. H. CALDWELL,
Federal Radio Commissioner.

When you listen in on the radio tonight, three things are essential to your reception of the program: (1) A transmitting station; (2) a medium to carry the program to you—the ether, and (3) your receiving set.

Now that radio receiving set in your home represents the best engineering design that its makers could command at the time it was built.

Similarly, the great radio broadcasting stations which send out the programs are models of efficient engineering design. No effort or money is spared to get the best equipment. To this end, stations are continually replacing apparatus that has become obsolete, and installing better designs.

But what about engineering design in the equally-important "ether link" between receiver and transmitter?

It is to introduce corresponding high standards of engineering excellence into this great interconnecting medium between your receiver and your favorite station—that the present reallocation has been carefully worked out with the aid of the best engineering and radio minds in the country.

For what will it avail to have the best-engineered receivers and the best-engineered transmitters, if the conductor between them is not carefully planned so as to utilize our precious few broadcasting wavelengths to best efficiency in the public interest.

Congress, by its radio act of 1928, ordered a reallocation of the nation's radio facilities. By this mandate of Congress, a general upsetting of the broadcasting wavelengths was inevitable.

With such reallocation coming anyhow, it has been the care of the Federal Radio Commission to see that the rearrangement of wave lengths and powers should also bring with it good radio reception to all listeners in all parts of the country. Conference after conference has been held wth leading radio men and the best engineering advice and ingenuity has been applied, after incessant labors of the commission's staff throughout the past four months.

So far as the commission has

Symphony Orchestras Playing on Three Independent Stations

Listeners who prefer the finer instrumental music will benefit from an effort by the more powerful independent stations to justify their use of national cleared channels by raising their program standards. The Nov. 11 allocation, with its permits for increased power, makes sponsorship of such concerts appear more desirable, especially when a station can give assurance of national coverage or, at least, coverage over several states.

WGN, Chicago; WCCO, Minneapolis, and WLW, Cincinnati, already have assembled real symphony orchestras for broadcasting regularly. With WGN using 15,000 watts of power; WCCO 10,000 watts, and WLW 25,000 watts, concerts by these orchestras should be received satisfactorily in the St. Louis district. Plans for WBBM, Chicago, which has started to build the 25,000 watt transmitter for which it has been granted a construction permit, and WENR, Chicago, whose owners hope to be allowed to use its 50,000 watt transmitter at half power, at least, promise ambitious musical programs.

The new WGN symphony orchestra is playing nightly. It shares programs nights with a dance orchestra—from 7 to 8:10 o'clock and from 10:30 to 11:15. Thursday nights, it gives special concerts from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

WLW has organized a large unit from the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, with Fritz Reiner and Vladimir Bakaleinkoff as conductors. This orchestra is to give a concert over WLW Tuesday nights, from 7 to 8 o'clock St. Louis time, beginning this week.

Reiner, who is conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, is to direct two concerts a month over WLW. Three-minute discussions of the music programmed are to be given by Robert A. Smith, a Cincinnati musical writer.

Bakaleinikoff, assistant conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, is to direct two concerts a month over WLW of a more "popular" nature, corresponding to the Cincinnati Symphony's Sunday "pops."

The WLW orchestra, consisting of 40 picked musicians, is to play in one of the station's studioes instead of in the concert hall.

WCCO'S symphony program is the most ambitious of the three. The full Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra of 85 musicians, directed by Henri Verbruggen, its conductor, is to play over that station every Sunday night at 9:15 o'clock, for 20 weeks. The first of these concerts was given last Sunday night. The orchestra plays in a special WCCO studio.

St. Louis in Nov. 4 Stetson Broadcast

Information received yesterday was that the St. Louis World's Fair dedication ceremony on April 30, 1903, would be recreated in the Stetson broadcast over KSD and allied stations next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4.

Move to Oust Head of Radio Board Reported

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—President Coolidge may be urged to request the resignation of Ira E. Robinson, Radio Commissioner for the Second Zone. Robinson has been acting as chairman of the commission, but it is said that he is to be deposed and Judge Eugene O. Sykes of Mississippi appointed in his stead.

It is said authoritatively that as soon as the elections are over, a delegation of Senators will call on the President regarding Robinson.

The action is planned as a result of the refusal of Robinson to participate in any way in deliberations of the commission pertaining to the reallocation to broadcasting stations. Several days ago, Robinson issued this statement:

"Having opposed and voted against the plan and the reallocation made thereunder, I deem it unethical and improper to take part in the hearings of complaints against the same or the hearings for modifications of the same."

Most of the work of the commission at present concerns the reallocation, dealing with dissatisfied stations. Each commissioner has more than his hands full with his own zone.

Robinson's refusal to have anything to do with it at all has thrown an additional burden on the other commissioners.

But, more important, it has put the commission in a position where it may be deadlocked at any time.

This is particularly important at this time because of attempts of the commission to determine how long "limited time" stations may operate. A "limited time" station is to operate on a cleared channel when it will not interfere with the station to which the channel belongs. They are made possible by the difference of time between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Two Commissioners—Caldwell and La Fount—believe that limited time stations should be required to close when it becomes dark at

Hotel With Radio In Rooms Sued For Music Writers

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27—The right of a hotel or other public place maintained for profit to pick up by radio copyrighted musical selections for the entertainment of its guests unless licensed to do so is involved in a case pending in federal court here.

The action was brought by Maurice J. O'Sullivan, Kansas City attorney, in behalf of Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and DeSylva, Brown & Henderson, Inc., music publishers, against Wilson Duncan, operator of station KWKC of Kansas City, and the Jewell-LaSalle Realty Company, operator of the LaSalle hotel in Kansas City.

The petition alleges neither defendant was licensed to perform in public and for profit the music copyrighted by the plaintiffs. It contends that eight numbers broadcast by KWKC and picked up by the hotel on its central receiving set and distributed to its various rooms constituted an infringement of the copyrights.

The plaintiffs seek injunctions against the radio station and hotel and damages of $250, plus attorney fees, for each of the eight musical numbers.

O'Sullivan says the law suit involves only commercial users of radio and does not affect the private set owner.

Opera Tonight on WHO, WOC.

The last act of Offenbach's opera, "The Tales of Hoffman," may be tuned in at 9:15 o'clock tonight on WOC, WHO, KVOO, WHAS, WSB or KOA. Alan Jones will sing the role of Hoffman. This will be the conclusion of the attempt to broadcast an opera in instalments on three successive Sunday nights.

Listeners Found to Be Keener Musically Than Critics Admit

The A. & P. Gypsies as they play over KSD and allied stations now that their personnel has been increased to 24 musicians.

An experiment that revealed the widespread musical culture and capacity for musical appreciation in this country has just been concluded by the A. & P. Gypsies, whose orchestra broadcasts every Monday night over KSD and a chain of NBC stations headed by WEAF, New York.

The experiment began last winter. The A & P Gypsies at that time were what is known as a "small orchestra," numbering 14 men and a director. This orchestra had developed from the original Gypsy string ensemble of six musicians. Constant requests from the Gypsies' radio audience asking them to play selections adapted to a larger orchestra moved their sponsors to add sufficient musicians to make the Gypsies a symphonic orchestra capable of playing any of the musical masterpieces.

Had these extra musicians been added at one time, the experiment would not have been possible. But finding the right musicians took time and as a result one and two men at a time were added.

When thre musicians had been added, letters began asking if the orchestra had been changed. Two men were added and more letters were received. Some letters commented on increased volume. Others spoke of a fuller, more rounded tone. Some attempted to name the instruments that had been added This keenness of ear on the part of the listening public was a revelation.

The Gypsies then added three more musicians, increasing the bass and string sections of the orchestra. Many letters of comment followed this adidtion. Numerous writers guessed exactly what had been done. Others, musically appreciative, but apparently not so keen of ear, did, nevertheless, sense a change and wrote that the Gypsies seemed to sound better than ever before.

The finale of the experiment was recruiting the Gypsies to their present strength of 24 musicians. The symphonic balance of the orchestra achieved by the final move was again recognized by the radio audience.

Requests came in for a list of the instruments in the Gypsy orchestra. The characters of request numbers underwent a change. The audience asked for numbers which only a symphonic orchestra could properly render. Persons musically prominent analyzed the tone quality of the new Gypsy orchestra and wrote its leader, Harry Horlick, letters on the improved reception made possible by the augmented orchestra.

The experiment, which began in so accidental a manner, is held to prove indisputably that the American radio audience has developed a keener appreciation of musical values than educators are willing to admit.

CALDWELL SAYS DEMAND WILL BE FOR HIGH POWER

fulfilled the engneers' advice, good radio is assured after Nov. 11. when the new plan takes effect.

In those respects, wnere the commissioners disregarded the engineers' recommendations, such as in adopting only 40 cleared channels, instead of the 50 recommended by the engineers,, trouble already looms ahead for listeners, as well as for broadcasters.

Certainly, it would appear that the commission has made a grave mistake in not providing enough clear channels to give full-time positions on the air to a great pioneer station like WGY, Schenectady.

In Chicago, a similar 50,000-watt transmitter, WENR, representing an investment of $600,000, will have to stand idle five nights a week, because not enough clear channels were voted.

In the South, other 50,000-watt units will have to remain off the air half-time, because there are not enough high-power channels to go round.

It is these great high-power units which serve huge audiences over great areas, audiences many times the total number of those of the two or three 500-watt stations, each of which likewise consumed a channel but provides only limited service.

As the members of Congress learn the scientific facts concerning radio broadcasting and the greater public interest to be served by more high-power channels, it can be predicted that action will be taken instructing the commission to follow the engineers' advice and set aside 50 to 60 clear channels to insure the greaetst public service.

Already, several movements to this end are under way among members of Congress, in order that listeners in their districts may have full-time service from high-powered favorite stations with audiences numbered by millions.

WLW Dedicates New Station at 8 P. M. Tomorrow

Program on 50,000-Watt Transmitter to Continue Till 2 A. M.

With a program beginning at o'clock St. Louis time and continuing until 2 a. m., the transmitter of WLW, Cincinnati will be dedicated tomorrow night. A total of 39 broadcast features announced, by Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, owner of the station. Included will be 29 features originating in Cincinnati and 10 presented by the National Broadcasting Co. in compliment to the Crosley Corporation.

WLW is limited to use of watts for regular broadcasting, but can use 50,000 watts after night. As has been told, it broadcast with 25,000 regularly and after Nov. 11.

Walter Kelley, known to theater goers as the "Virginia Judge," will be master of ceremonies for the second hour of the program and will do his skit, "In de Co't."

Wayland Echols, young California tenor, will be a featured soloist. Echols has been the soloist with the St. Louis Symphony orchestra and other musical organizations following his return from success in Europe.

A short dedication address by Powel Crosley will be followed later by greetings from the City of Cincinnati delivered by Mayor Murray Seasongood.

From 17 "Pick-Up" Points.

A large radio orchestra under William C. Stoess, musical director of the Crosley stations, will be heard at intervals. Other orchestras will include a 35-piece WLW orchestra at 10 p. m., the Crosley Cossacks and the nationally known dance orchestras of Jan Garber, Henry Thies and Sammy Watkins.

Seventeen pick-up points will furnish the program, although the first two hours will be from the ballroom of the Hotel Gibson, where 500 guests in Cincinnati for the transmitter dedication, will gather after a banquet for the special entertainment, the signing of the Mayflower Pact, one of WLW's series of Historical Highlights, will be presented in costume. Mel Simpkins' Singing School, broadcast regularly by station WSAI, also will be featured.

Entertainers to Be Heard.

Entertainers who have made a name for themselves on WLW programs will be presented. They include Mabel Jackson, soprano; Louis John Johnene, baritone; George Convers, tenor; Tom Richley, xylophonist; the Frohne Sisters quartet; the Crosley Burnt Corkers in a minstrel bit; Charles Gillick, station organist; the Variety Three, and the Gondolyrics.

A trio of women will sing a version of the "Waltz of the Flowers" from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite" that never has been done on radio. A nationally famous pianist has been engaged to play a piano concerto with the dedication orchestra.

The final half hour of the broadcast, from 1:30 to 2 a. m. will originate in the Chatterbox of the Hotel Sinton, where a radio "frolic" will go on the air. Assisting Henry Thies and his orchestra will be Don Dewey, tenor with the orchestra, Don Becker, ukulele player, Tom Richley, xylophonist, and Lucille and Mary, a harmony team. The Office Boys also will be included in the program.

WJZ, New York, will cancel its Slumber Music Concert to join WLW in its dedication. Both stations will broadcast the program which the National Broadcasting Co. is offering the new station from 10 to 11 p. m.

NBC features will include a 35-piece orchestra, Paula Hemminghouse, Carroll Andrews, the Choristers, the Pickard Family, The Lampe Trio, a "hot" singing organization who will make their debut with this program, and several others.

the point where the station to which the channel belongs is located.

Commissioner Pickard believes limited time stations should be permitted to operate until the time of interference between the stations.

Should Commissioner Sykes, who is in the South, agree with Pickard, the Commissioners would be tied on the matter.

Other commissioners feel that, regardless of Robinson's views, it is his duty to aid as much as possible in bringing about the best possible conditions under the new allocation.

"When Congress created the commission," they say, "it was to clear up the interference that had resulted from the breakdown of the law.

"Robinson would have us sit around and take no action. He seemed to think conditions were about as good as they could be.

"But the leading engineers of the country told us differently. Moreover, they told us how we could improve reception more than [illegible] per cent.

"So the plan was adopted despite the objections and disapproval of Robinson.

"The commission at this time is particularly in need of the services of all of the Commissioners."

The belief in Washington is that Robinson's intention is to gather around him the dissatisfied broadcasters for a fight against the new allocation plan.

ing songs he made famous -two years ago, when he with Fay Templeton in -Five Minutes From Broad- Victor Moore will revive his character of "Kid Burns" for listeners at 4:30 this after- when he appears as guest the Acousticon program.

The rotund comedian with the high-pitched voice, who appeared several of George M. Cohan's musical comedies at the dawn of present century, has dusted off songs that he made popular in the years that have flown "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," "Mr. Burns of New Rochelle," and "Under Any Old Flag At All."

The two "Mary" songs, sung by Templeton in "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," also will be featured in the "Acousticon" recital, while the orchestra will play four oldtime numbers. The Police Parade" march, Lindo," "Stop Dance" rag, "Hiawatha."

Two numbers by the quartet— a medley of "band" songs, and other "The Red Rose Rag"— complete the program.

A radio recreation of the Peace Jubilee celebration in Boston, in is to feature the Stetson broadcast at 5:30 over KSD. George W. Ventre and the Weymouth Post Band will furnish the music.

A few years after the Civil War, Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, a Bostonian by adoption and one of the great band directors and musical geniuses of this country, proposed that there be held a great music festival to mark the era of peace which the country was enjoying. His dream was such a vast one that nearly everyone laughed at it. Then by the magic of his personality, and the force of his conviction, Gilmore gained supporters and finally realization of his dream.

The Brahms Sonata No. 2, in A minor, will be played by Arcadie Birkenholz, violinist, in recital over KSD at 5:30.

The Brahms work opens with the first bars of Wagner's familiar Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger." This is intended as a compliment to the composer, of whom Brahms was an admirer. Such action is not unique in musical annals, since Grieg once used a theme of Brahms and Brahms responded with the use of "Aasa's Tod" in one of his works.

As a closing number Birkenholz will play "Dreams" by Paniagua.

Sylvia Miller, the youngest member of Major Bowes' Capitol "Family," whose lyric soprano is well known over the air, will be the featured soloist in the "Family's" broadcast over KSD at 6:30 o'clock.

STRAUSS PEYTON

John Thomas, on KSD, Monday night.

Miss Miller is the youthful singer chosen by Alma Gluck, Sophie Braslau and other operatic stars to receive the gold medal prize in last year's Music Week competition for junior sopranos.

Ifor Thomas, the Welsh tenor from the Paris Opera, and Leonora Cortez, concert pianist, will be soloists in the Atwater Kent hour over KSD at 8:15 o'clock.

A native of Philadelphia, Miss Cortez went abroad early for study, later making her debut in recital at Rotterdam, Holland, followed by an extensive tour of Holland, England and Germany. Her American debut came two years ago with the Symphony Orchestra in Philadelphia.

Thomas began his study at the Royal Conservatory, London, and later studied in France and Italy. In 1926, he was leading tenor of the Monte Carlo Opera House, and last year was leading tenor of the National Opera of Paris.

Thomas' voice won him immediate recognition upon his arrival in America and caused flattering comparisons with the voice of Caruso.

for the poor results for those who have taken up the matter.

This arises from the legal separation of stations by only 10,000 cycles. The effect of this restriction is to limit the frequency transmitted from any station to 5000 cycles, ample enough for voice and music, because even Galli-Curci's highest note will not reach 1500 cycles and the overtones of a violin or its harmonics will be of little powerabove 5000 cycles. For television purposes, however, a frequency limitation of 5000 cycles immediately makes impossible either quality or action. If 16 pictures per second are transmitted, no one picture can be made up of more than 312 impulses or dots. Assuming a square picture, and the quality of even on ordinary newspaper cut, the maximum size possible would be about one-quarter of an inch square.

By using a single sideband, and thus utilizing the entire 10,000 cycles, the area would be doubled. By reducing the action to the flickering stage of the old movies, and being satisfied with a quality poorer than the crudest of the printer's work, one can secure an image an inch and a quarter square. This particular size is a limit put on the experimenter by the fact that the glow lamps available for reception happen to have a glowing surface of only that dimension.

In one or two instances, for demonstrations only, the Radio Commission has granted permission to ignore the legal limitations and fair results have been obtained in an image about three inches square. Because of certain effects of the human eye, it can be demonstrated that this size is about the limit that can ever be reached with a good image showing moderate action, using the rotating disk system without a multitude of receivers.

Ignoring any difficulties to be overcome, however, it is certain that even 20,000 or 40,000 cycles separation of stations will not ultimately suffice. That means television must go down to the short waves.

New stations will have to be built and a new style receiver will have to be developed and marketed. There is no provision for this departure even if we had a television system in which broadcasters had confidence.

Betty Crocker on KMOX in St. Louis

Total of 24 Stations Broadcasting Radio Cooking Schools Feature.

Betty Crocker's radio cooking school is to be broadcast over KMOX in St. Louis, this fall and winter—on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Other stations in this part of the country broadcasting this feature are: WSAI, WCCO, WDAF, WHO and KYW. There are 24 all together in the chain.

During the three years that Betty Crocker has been conducting this nation-wide radio cooking school, 113,994 women have been her registered pupils. Of these 65,-819 have been awarded radio cooking school diplomas. There are 443 women who have listened to these classes so faithfully and reported so completely on all the lessons that they have earned diplomas from all eight of the cooking classes Betty Crocker has conducted. There are three cooking classes a year for two years and two cooking classes during one year. Thus to have earned eight diplomas a woman must have listened in with perfect regularity for three years.

The courses in Betty Crocker's Radio Cooking School are all different, so that earning one diploma does not bar one from registering again and earning another diploma. This year the cooking school will again be divided into three classes or semesters.

A large number of new members are expected since four stations have been added to the chain now broadcasting these talks. So Betty Crocker's radio cooking school will be available to women in every state, from Maine to California.

WGY Refuses to Fight Another Station for Wave

Radio Board Likely to Allow It to Use 150,000 Watts Experimentally, if It Will Change Application.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The suggestion of Louis G. Caldwell, counsel for the Federal Radio Commission, that WGY, in its amended application, should definitely apply for one of the eight clear wave length channels already assigned to stations in the first zone, was refused by Martin P. Rice, manager of broadcasting for the General Electric Co., in a statement broadcast over WGY and contained in a letter mailed to Caldwell.

"We have no quarrel with any radio station, and we do not feel we should be compelled by the commission to start any such quarrel," Rice said. "We merely want to continue to serve the 3,000,000 people dependent upon WGY for its radio programs, and if we can't continue to use our present wave length, which we have enjoyed for more than five years, the commission should grant us one equally good."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—A majority of the commissioners seem to favor allowing WGY to use 150,000 watts power experimentally.

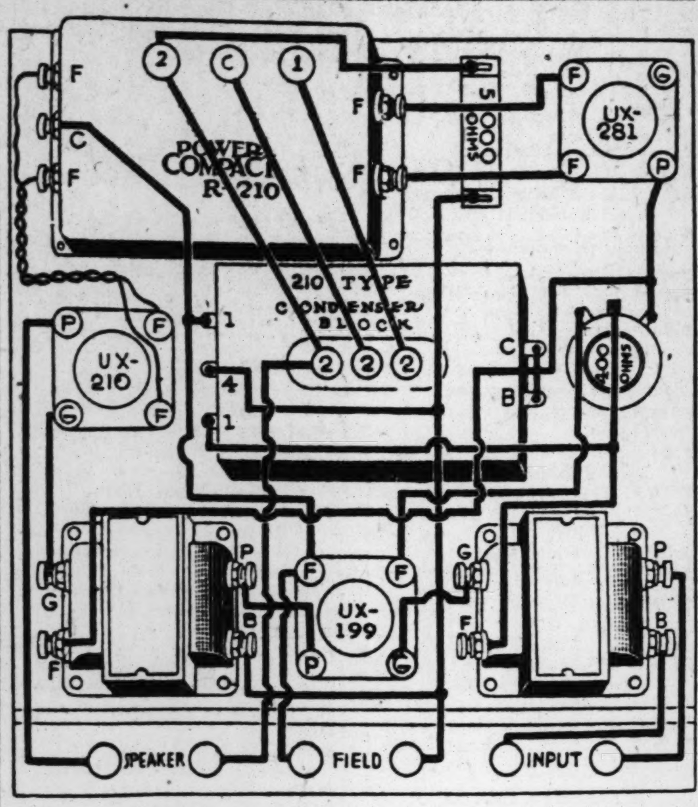
For Converting Old Phonograph



A new development in radio is a portable all-electric amplifier with which an old-style mechanical phonograph may be converted into a modern electrical reproducing machine. It uses a 210-power tube and is easily built at home.

The amplifier is so compact that it may be placed in a compartment or the tone chamber of a phonograph, so that there will be no unsightly wires or difficult connections to be made. It need only be connected to a dynamic speaker, power for the field of which is provided in the amplifier, then to the phonograph pick-up and to the light socket. The amplifier is not designed for use with radio receivers.

A list of parts required for this amplifier follows: One Thordarson R-210 power compact, two Thordarson R-300 audio transformers, one 210 condenser block (Aerovox, Dubilier, Tobe); one electrad fixed resister, 5000 ohms, type B; one Yaxley 400-ohm potentimeter, three Benjamin sockets (sub-panel), six binding posts, two input, two speaker, one positive, one negative; three Benajmin subpanel brackets, one Pc. Bakelite, 10"x10"x¼"; one Pc. Bakelite 10" x2"x3-16", one UX-281 rectifier tube, one UX-210 power tube, one UX-199 tube.

Loud Speaker Should Fit Surroundings.

A mellow, dull speaker is preferable in a sparsely furnished room. There will be little sound absorption. If the room is heavily furnished with carpets, upholstered furniture and draperies, the tone of the speaker should be rather sharp.

POWER-
CLARITY-SIMPLICITY

TOO OFTEN a "new model" in radio represents merely a change in cabinet design or a minor improvement in the receiver. The new Freshman models mark a basic advance in radio science.

Radically different, and stripped to the essentials, the Freshman Model Q ushers in a new day—long the dream of radio engineers—the day of Simplified Radio.

And what does simplified radio mean to you? That increased efficiency and dependability which follow the intelligent simplification of any piece of mechanism. This new Freshman simplicity, plus quality construction and workmanship throughout, offers a new power and clarity, a lower first cost, operating cost and upkeep—in fact all that can be truthfully promised for radio today.

Your local Freshman dealer will gladly demonstrate Model Q. He will install it in your home—he will arrange for time payments—he will service Model Q if it ever needs it. But Model Q is out to give service—not to demand service.

Betty Crocker on KMOX in St. Louis

Total of 24 Stations Broadcasting Radio Cooking Schools Feature.

Betty Crocker's radio cooking school is to be broadcast over KMOX in St. Louis, this fall and winter—on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Other stations in this part of the country broadcasting this feature are: WSAI, WCCO, WDAF, WHO and KYW. There are 24 all together in the chain.

During the three years that Betty Crocker has been conducting this nation-wide radio cooking school, 113,994 women have been her registered pupils. Of these [illegible] 815 have been awarded radio cooking school diplomas. There are 443 women who have listened to these classes so faithfully [illegible] ported so completely on all the [illegible]

[illegible] for Eveready Hour

[illegible] Songs and [illegible] Dances on [illegible] Night.

[illegible] of American mu[illegible] "My Old Kentucky [illegible] "Old Black Joe" and oth[illegible] Stephen Foster songs will make [illegible] program of The Eveready [illegible] next Tuesday evening.

Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the Eveready Orchestra, has just completed a series of musical arrangements of Stephen Foster melodies which will be used for this Eveready Hour program.

Three movements from Dvorak's "The New World Symphony," also will be played by the Eveready Orchestra, which will be enlarged for the occasion. Dvorak's work was chosen because it is based on American tunes.

The program will be entirely musical, without interruption for announcement of the various numbers, this being made possible by the fact that the various melodies and symphonic music are so well known to listeners.

Singers on the program will include Vaughn de Leath, Frank Crumit, Frank Luther, Carson Robison and the Shannon Quartet, consisting of Lewis James, Elliott Shaw, James Melton and Wilfred Glenn.

Among songs sung are "Old Folks at Home," "Massa's in de Cold Ground," "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and Stephen Foster melodies of darky days down South, which have been sung by two generations. These include "Nellie Was a Lady," "Ring de Banjo," "Lou'siana Belle," "Hard Times Come Again No More" and "De Camptown Races."

Radio Network To Help Flyers Nearly Finished

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—Construction of a radio network from New York to Salt Lake City, which will help fliers combat fog and other hazards on the national transcontinental airway, should be completed about Jan. 1.

The Airways Division of the Department of Commerce, which is establishing the system to promote the safety and comfort of flying and reliability of schedules, is placing radio communication stations and directive beacons on the air routes of the country.

The communication, or control, stations will give information on weather and landing conditions to the pilot and the radio and marker beacons will serve as navigation directors.

Women Register Because of Radio

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Radio, which has taken politics to the living room and into the kitchen as never before, is believed largely responsible for an expected increased women's vote Nov. 6. Women, who never attended a political meeting now have politics taken to them as they do their housework in the day or spend leisure hours in the evening.

From all parts of the country comes reports of increases in the registration of women voters. Some of the credit for stimulating feminine interest in political affairs is given by broadcasters and political observers to the League of Women Voters' weekly broadcasts on national issues. A hook-up of KSD and 23 other stations carried these to milions of listeners in all sections of the country.

WSAI Allowed Only Daylight Time

Channel to Which It Is Assigned Belongs to Texas Station at Night.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 27.—Listeners have got a wrong impression that WSAI will be allowed to operate with full time on a cleared channel on and after Nov. 11.

Announcement was made Oct. 17 that WSAI was given "full time" on 800 kilocycles. However, the statement later was made that the announcement was a "mistake" and that WSAI would be allowed full time operation only in the daytime, being forced to close down as soon as darkness linked Cincinnati and Fort Worth, Tex., where the 800 kilocycle wave also is given to Station WBAP, which shares time with KTHS, Hot Springs, Ark.

Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, which operates WSAI and owns WLW, made this statement regarding the new disposition of WSAI.

"Giving WSAI permission to operate only in the daytime in no way takes care of the people in this part of the country who depend on the station for chain programs and the other diversified programs of WSAI.

The commission does not yet seem to recognize that what listeners have been asking for is the right to operate WSAI as a regional station with full time."

Judge Ira A. Roberts, chairman of the Radio Commission, was quoted as saying, when WLW and WSAI were ordered to divide time, that the commission had refused a separate license to WSAI on the ground that no operator should be allowed two radio stations.

At the same time, the 830-kilocycle channel on which WSAI has operated for three years, was given to KOA, Denver, owned by the General Electric Co., which has two other stations.

WSAI is expected to seek a formal hearing and request retention of 830 kilocycles for the station.

Watch Tube Contacts.

The A. C. tubes operate at comparatively low voltages and high current. Unless a socket whose spring terminals make a very good contact with the tube prongs is used the contact resistance between the tube prong and the socket current supplied to a value that is too low for satisfactory operation.

No Announcer for Next Eveready Hour

Stephen Foster Songs and Symphony by Dvorak on KSD Tuesday Night.

Sixty minutes of American music, including "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe" and other Stephen Foster songs will make up the program of The Eveready Hour on KSD next Tuesday evening.

Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the Eveready Orchestra, has just completed a series of musical arrangements of Stephen Foster melodies which will be used for this Eveready Hour program.

Three movements from Dvorak's "The New World Symphony," also will be played by the Eveready Orchestra, which will be enlarged for the occasion. Dvorak's work was chosen because it is based on American tunes.

The program will be entirely musical, without interruption for announcement of the various numbers, this being made possible by the fact that the various melodies and symphonic music are so well known to listeners.

Singers on the program will include Vaughn de Leath, Frank Crumit, Frank Luther, Carson Robison and the Shannon Quartet, consisting of Lewis James, Elliott Shaw, James Melton and Wilfred Glenn.

Among songs sung are "Old Folks at Home," "Massa's in de Cold Ground," "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and Stephen Foster melodies of darky days down South, which have been sung by two generations. These include "Nellie Was a Lady," "Ring de Banjo," "Lou'siana Belle," "Hard Times Come Again No More" and "De Camptown Races."

Radio Network To Help Flyers Nearly Finished

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—Construction of a radio network from New York to Salt Lake City, which will help fliers combat fog and other hazards on the national transcontinental airway, should be completed about Jan. 1.

The Airways Division of the Department of Commerce, which is establishing the system to promote the safety and comfort of flying and reliability of schedules, is placing radio communication stations and directive beacons on the air routes of the country.

The communication, or control, stations will give information on weather and landing conditions to the pilot and the radio and marker beacons will serve as navigation directors.

Women Register Because of Radio

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Radio, which has taken politics to the living room and into the kitchen as never before, is believed largely responsible for an expected increased women's vote Nov. 6. Women, who never attended a political meeting now have politics taken to them as they do their housework in the day or spend leisure hours in the evening.

From all parts of the country comes reports of increases in the registration of women voters. Some of the credit for stimulating feminine interest in political affairs is given by broadcasters and political observers to the League of Women Voters' weekly broadcasts on national issues. A hook-up of KSD and 23 other stations carried these to milions of listeners in all sections of the country.

WSAI Allowed Only Daylight Time

Channel to Which It Is Assigned Belongs to Texas Station at Night.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 27.—Listeners have got a wrong impression that WSAI will be allowed to operate with full time on a cleared channel on and after Nov. 11.

Announcement was made Oct. 17 that WSAI was given "full time" on 800 kilocycles. However, the statement later was made that the announcement was a "mistake" and that WSAI would be allowed full time operation only in the daytime, being forced to close down as soon as darkness linked Cincinnati and Fort Worth, Tex., where the 800 kilocycle wave also is given to Station WBAP, which shares time with KTHS, Hot Springs, Ark.

Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, which operates WSAI and owns WLW, made this statement regarding the new disposition of WSAI:

"Giving WSAI permission to operate only in the daytime in no way takes care of the people in this part of the country who depend on the station for chain programs and the other diversified programs of WSAI.

The commission does not yet seem to recognize that what listeners have been asking for is the right to operate WSAI as a regional station with full time."

Judge Ira A. Roberts, chairman of the Radio Commission, was quoted as saying, when WLW and WSAI were ordered to divide time, that the commission had refused a separate license to WSAI on the ground that no operator should be allowed two radio stations.

At the same time, the 830-kilocycle channel on which WSAI has operated for three years, was given to KOA, Denver, owned by the General Electric Co., which has two other stations.

WSAI is expected to seek a formal hearing and request retention of 830 kilocycles for the station.

Watch Tube Contacts.

The A. C. tubes operate at comparatively low voltages and high current. Unless a socket whose spring terminals make a very good contact with the tube prongs is used the contact resistance between the tube prong and the socket current supplied to a value that is too low for satisfactory operation.

S WHALE HAS BIGGEST BRAIN

an Asserts Elephant and Man Have Smaller Ones.

y the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 27.—e fishes had an inning at the rman Congress of Natural Science here when the whale was clared the mammal entitled to e record of possessing the largest brain.

Prof. W. Weygandt, Hamburg rologist, confuted a prevalent ief that the largest brain claim shared by whales, elephants and man. As a matter of fact, he said, the whale only justified the claim, the largest whale ever caught having a brain weighing 7000 grams. The human brain seldom exceeds an average weight of 1280 to 1460 grams in the male and 1140 to 1340 in the female.

MICHELSON TO BE HONORED FOR 50 YEARS OF RESEARCH

Optical Society of America to Hear Physicist's Latest Contribution to Science.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Workers in the broad field of science to which Prof. A. A. Michelson of the University of Chicago has contributed more fundamental knowledge than any other man of his time, will assemble here Nov. 1, 2 and 3 to do him honor and exchange information on their latest discoveries, at the annual meeting of the Optical Society of America.

Designated the "Michelson meeting" of the society, it will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of the Chicago scientist's first contribution, his initial paper on a method for measuring the velocity of light. On the second day of the meeting he will make his latest contribution, a paper on "Results of Repetition of the Michelson-Morley Experiment," giving his most recent conclusions on the famous "ether drift" experiment, which, first made public more than 40 years ago, affected the fundamental concepts of physics and figured prominently in the working out of Einstein's theory of relativity.

A number of other famous investigators in the physical, biological and psychological branches of optics also will contribute papers, and the "speeded up" motion pictures of the planets in action, made by Prof. W. H. Wright at the Lick Observatory, will be presented for the first time in America. Dr. Leonard T. Troland, director of research and process control of the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, will give a demonstration of technicolor pictures and will present a paper on the science of optics from the psychologist's point of view.

BEST GARDEN CONTEST PRIZES WILL BE ANNOUNCED NOV. 10

Horticultural Society to Meet at Washington U.; Has More Than 1000 Members.

The St. Louis Horticultural Society will have a meeting Nov. 10 in the auditorium of the Washington University Medical School, at which the awards will be announced in the "Best Garden Contest" of the society, and addresses will be made by civic and horticultural leaders.

Prizes totaling $1000 will be awarded, of which $25 will be awarded to the best garden in each of 24 districts. Two city prizes of $50 and $100 will be awarded to the best of the district winners. In addition, the name of the winner of the $100 prize will be engraved on a silver cup presented by Eugene H. Angert, president of the Horticultural Society. Anyone having the best garden three years in succession will take possession of the cup.

The growing membership of the society was stressed yesterday by Angert, who stated there were now close to 1000 members in the society, which was organized last January. Membership at $2 a year is open to all interested, and may be entered at the office of the society, 821 Central National Bank Building.

TITLED BRITISH CHURCHMAN TAKES PARISH AMONG POOR

Lord Clonmore Lives in a Meager Room Over a Fried Fish Shop.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Lord Clonmore, 26-year-old son and heir of the Earl of Wicklow and newly ordained deacon in the Church of England, has given up his sumptuous quarters in a fashionable Park Lane mansion to live in a meager room over a fried fish shop in a district populated by "the poorest of the poor."

His lordship, whose country seat is a castle in Ireland, now is "at home" only to the poor people of his parish, St. Mary's, at Somers Town. To his parishioners the noble is now simply Father Clonmore and to his more intimate friends he is Billy.

Austria's Side of the War.

PRAGUE, Oct. 27.—The Austrian War Department has decided to issue an official history of the World War, in six large volumes, called "Austria-Hungary's Last War." Historians, military experts and others are now completing the first volume and it will be put on the market before Christmas. The history will describe the country's part in the war from a strategic rather than from a political standpoint.

Japanese Thread in French Silks.

By the Associated Press.

ALES, France, Oct. 27.—French silk worms are making less and less of the thread that Lyon factories weave into cloth. The cocoon industry has been dying out for 75 years and much of the famous French silk now is made from Japanese thread. Back in 1852 Lyon silks were famed throughout the world and the beautiful cloth was really a French product. There were raised then 28,000 tons of cocoons, and now the output has sunk to 2500 tons a year, much less than the silk mills can use.

TUTTLE MEMORIAL DEDICATION NOV. 1

Formal Service and Reception Will Be Open to the Public.

The Bishop Tuttle Memorial will be formally dedicated next Thursday evening. The service and the reception which will follow are open to the public. The dedication will take place on the evening of All-Saints' day, 109 years after the founding of Christ Church Cathedral parish, which began with the gathering of six persons in a little storeroom.

The memorial commemorates the life and work of Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, for 40 years Bishop of Missouri. It will be a center of diocesan activities, and community and civic projects.

The large auditorium in the building is dedicated to Dean Montgomery Schuyler, for many years head of the parish, and under whose auspices Christ Church Cathedral was erected. When, in 1859, Dean Schuyler purchased the present Cathedral site, at Thirteenth and Locust streets, several members of the congregation withdrew be cause the church was "going so far out in the country."

The Memorial contains club and class rooms, offices for diocesan and aCthedral staffs, a gymnasium and swimming pool, dining room and kitchens, and living quarters for several Cathedral workers.

The campaign for funds for the Memorial was conducted by Protestants, Jews and Roman Catholics. The furnishings of the Memorial are gifts of members of the Cathedral congregation.

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE TO DISCUSS SCHOOL ELECTION

Plans Will Be Submitted at Meeting of Members on Nov. 9.

Plans for the election of four members to the St. Louis Board of Education next spring will be submitted to members of the League of Women Voters by Mrs. Jerome E. Cook and Miss Eleanor D. Horton, of the Education Committee of the League, at a meeting in the Coronado Hotel, Nov. 9, at 3 p. m.

The League last May voted to make the election of four desirable candidates to the Board of Education its major project for 1928-29, and the plans to be submitted next week have been approved by the Board of Directors and Education Committee of the League.

The League also will make an attempt to get an increased number of voters to the polls next spring, and states in its current bulletin that only one-fourth of registered voters cast their ballots in the last Board of Education election.

FRENCH AND GERMANS REVIEW MARNE BATTLES

Views of Foch, Joffre, Ludendorff and Ex-Crown Prince Given in New Book.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Marshal Joffre, the former Crown Prince of Germany, Marshal Foch and Gen. Eric Ludendorff are joint authors of a remarkable book just published in Paris. Victors and vanquished fight over again the two battles of the Marne, 1914 and 1918, and tell how it happened.

Free from bombast on the part of the victorious Joffre and Foch, the story of the defeated crown prince and Ludendorff is told in a simple, dignified way, without alibis and with no little pride.

Joffre surrenders the entire credit—the only thing Papa Joffre ever surrendered—for victory in 1914 to the "poilu," the "admirable French soldier."

The Crown Prince puts the defeat squarely up to Count von Moltke, chief of the German general staff. He seeks no excuses for the German soldier, rather extols him.

Foch Praises Americans.

Foch pays a splendid tribute to the American doughboy and practically writes that without the intervention of the valorous American armies the war could not have been won.

Ludendorff, while blaming the weak policy of civilian statesmen at Berlin for the collapse of the German army, says that with the "entry into the line of a million Americans, fresh, young and ardent for combat, the result became inevitable."

Joffre writes: "It had been said that while the French soldier was second to none in intelligence, courage and energy, he lacked patience. The world believed that after a long retreat his morale would be shaken and he would not respond to the order of resuming the offensive. I never hesitated before those considerations. Discipline, abnegation and courage of the French soldier won the first battle of the Marne."

Count Von Moltke Blamed.

The Crown Prince has this to say: "Upon Count General von Moltke must directly fall the responsibility for the terrible and formidable tragedy of the Marne. So little faith had he in his own star that he remained in that little red brick school at Luxemburg throughout the battle, and it was impossible for him to remain in contact with the troops in the field."

Foch, the most graphic writer of the military quartet, says that the American "valorous troops played a decisive part in ending and winning the war." Referring to the creation of the "unique command" under himself Foch says: "Pershing arrived at my headquarters and with a generosity which I shall never forget said: 'All we have is yours, use it as you see fit.' That settled the day."

Concerning actual fighting, Foch continues: "The advance of the Americans was irresistible. In less than two days all the objectives assigned to them were reached; 13,000 prisoners, 450 guns, remained in their hands. For the first battle of a new and young army that was a masterstroke. The moral effect was considerable. It could not help but make a tremendous impression upon the German General Staff and spread discouragement among German soldiers."

WAR MEMORIAL IN GERMANY DEPICTS HORRORS OF COMBAT

Death Swinging Scythe Rides Black Horse Trampling Mass of Human Beings.

By the Associated Press.

ETTLINGEN, Baden, Oct. 27.—A war memorial which is not a glorification but a scathing denunciation of war and martial deeds has been erected in this city.

In the town hall tower, which is surmounted by a maroque helmet, one side of the wall is adorned with a haut relief depicting all the gruesome horrors and destructiveness of war. Symbolized death riding a black horse is seen swinging a scythe as his animal tramples on a mass of human beings and on soldiers engaged in fierce combat. The base of the relief, symbolizing human discord, pictures two men desperately clutching each other's hair, both enlaced in the coils of the serpent of paradise with the apple.

Facing the relief is the statue of a soldier in full war equipment pointing to the memorial hall in which on granite slabs are inscribed the names of the war dead under the epitaph: "Our faithful brothers who died for the fatherland." The only ornament on the dark, vaulted ceiling is the symbol of eternity in the center—a snake biting its own tail—with the century old maxim on silver coins of the ancient south German cities: "Domine conserva nos in pace."

MARKED DECREASE IN AMOUNT OF BUILDING

Dodge Reports for September Show 42 Per Cent Decline From August.

The volume of construction started in Missouri during September amounted to $12,537,400, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. This figure was 42 per cent under the total for the preceding month and there was a loss of 10 per cent from the total for September of last year.

Analysis of the September contract total showed the following items of importance: $6,013,500, or 48 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $2,498,500, or 20 per cent, for commercial buildings; $2,285,000, or 18 per cent, for public works and utilities; and $596,000, or 5 per cent, for religious and memorial projects.

During the first nine months of this year there was $176,734,100 worth of new building and engineering work contracted for in the State of Missouri, which was a gain of 35 per cent over the amount contracted for in the first nine months of last year.

New work contemplated in this State since the first of this year has reached a total of $233,458,900, as compared with $189,188,200 for the corresponding period of last year, the increase being 23 per cent.

DOWNTOWN VALUES APPROACHED IN WELLSTON DEALS

will open a department store there in the near future. Rental in this instance is withheld. The Penney company recently opened a store on North Fourteenth street, and, it is understood, contemplates establishing stores in other parts of the city.

The Penney Co., which has stores throughout the country, is constructing a 13-story warehouse at Thirteenth and Poplar streets, as a middle-west source of supply. Cost of this building will approximate $1,500,000.

The Walgreen Drug Co. has acquired a 99-year lease of the southeast corner of Hodiamont and Easton avenues, 42 by 150 feet, at a rental of $18,000 a year. This is 5 per cent on a valuation of $360,000. The value of the building, however, was taken into consideration.

Incidentally, real estate men do not recall any sales of property in this section of Wellston at the high valuations established under leases, which, nevertheless, determine values from an investment viewpoint.

The Kroger Grocery Co. has purchased 50 feet on the south side of St. Charles Rock road just west of Evergreen avenue, in the business center of Wellston. The reported price is $110,000, or more than $2000 a front foot. While leases are being made on a much higher basis, this is a new purchase price record for ground at this point on Easton west of the Hodiamont tracks.

Kresge to Have Whole Block.

The pace was set in Wellston several years ago, when the block embracing the southeast corner of Suburban tracks and Easton avenue, and the southwest corner of Easton and Hodiamont avenue, was acquired by S. S. Kresge & Co., the former at a rental of $6600 a year, and the latter at $22,000 a year, or a total of $28,600. Kresge controls this entire block under 99-year leases, from the Polar Wave Ice Co., which owns the corner of Easton and the Hodiamont tracks, and the Straus estate, which owns the corner of Easton and Hodiamont avenues. The disparity in the rentals is due to the size of the two lots, together with the fact that the lease from the Polar Wave Co. was made at a much earlier date than that with the Straus estate, and before the upward trend of values in this part of the city had gained headway.

The new building of Kresge & Co., occupies the southeast corner of Hodiamont tracks and Easton avenue. The southwest corner of Easton and Hodiamont avenues is occupied by the Walgreen Drug Co., which it will shortly vacate to make way for expansion of the Kresge store, which then will embrace the entire block. The Walgreen Drug store on this corner will be replaced by one to be established on the southeast corner of Easton and Hodiamont avenues.

The United Cigar Stores Co., occupies the northwest corner of Easton avenue and the Hodiamont car tracks under a long lease. The rental under this lease is at an unprecedented valuation as contrasted with values prevailing in other outlying parts of the city.

Neisner Bros., are having plans made for a handsome building on the Wellston site. The concern recently acquired a long lease of the building at the northeast corner of Sixth street and Washington avenue, owned by J. & I. Meyer, for a store on a large scale. The building is now being remodeled with plans for opening the new store at an early date. This lease was negotiated by Martin & Breitt several months ago.

Excavation soon will be started for the Wellston Loop building at the northwest corner of Easton and Hodiamont avenues. The building which will be erected by N. Pelligreen, of the Pelligreen Construction Co., will have a frontage of 200 feet on Hodiamont, with an entrance on Easton. It will also face the Hodiamont tracks and Theodosia avenue. Stores will comprise the first floor and offices the upper floors. The building will be four stories in height.

McLaughlin; 2600 North Leffingwell avenue, a two-story brick building of 6 rooms, for a client to William C. Johnson; 30 feet of ground on the north side of Devonshire avenue, east of 5651 Devonshire, by a depth of 140 feet; 45 feet on the south side of Palm street, west of 2542 Palm, by a depth of 135 feet, for Fred Slobright to Mrs. William Schmidt, and 3008 Semple avenue, a two-story frame building, arranged as two flats, three rooms each, for H. SOUTHEAST CORNER OF PAGE AND KINGSHIGHWAY SOLD

The M. J. Slonim Realty Co. announces the sale of the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Page, consisting of two buildings on a lot 112 feet to a client whose name is withheld. The consideration is reported to be in the neighborhood of $160,000. The property consists of eight stores, 12 apartments and four garages, bringing in a substantial rental.

B. A. Thompson Transactions.

Bartling Leases Business Places.

W. J. Bartling, agent for Geo. A. Vaccarezza, has leased to the New Market Hardware Co., formerly at 4015 Laclede, the entire building at the southeast corner of Sarah and Laclede for a period of 10 years, which they now occupy after extensive alterations. Bartling also leased to A. Pacini, formerly of 4062-64 Laclede, the new building recently completed at 6-8 South Sarah street, where he will operate a first-class restaurant.

William Watson Co. Opening.

Former Irish Leader Dies.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A picturesque figure in Irish politics in the old Fenian and Parnell times disappeared today when John O'Connor, former Nationalist member of the House of Commons for South Tipperary and North Kildare, died at his residence in a London suburb. He was 76 years of age. John O'Connor was known in the House as "Long John" because his height was more than 6 feet 4 inches. He joined the Fenian movement as a boy in County Cork and later was affiliated with the Parnell and John Redmond parties.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 27.—Indorsement of the $20,000,000 conservation bond issue by President John H. Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor was announced here, in an appeal to all trade unionists and friends of labor in Illinois.

I'm Representing the House

All over the United States men are representing houses — and making good salaries doing it.

Representating starts usually with answering an agent or salesman help call.

If such an opportunity appeals to you read the offers in the Post-Dispatch Help Wanted Columns.

We quote from the oldest trust company in New York:

"Of all investments, none presents more difficulty in proper management than real estate."

"Many years' experience leads us to believe that, rightly managed, there are few investments that will afford more adequate income or a greater enhancement in value over a period of years."

There it is: Real estate will not manage itself. Many owners are coming to realize this, and are coming in to join us, and give us the benefit of their experience and get the benefit of ours.

MODERN 6-6 SINGLE FLAT

At 6625 San Bonita avenue I have a very modern and up-to-date 6 and 6 room single flat; also a similar building at 6623 San Bonita avenue and I make the following offer: To the first two persons inspecting these buildings today and who desire to become their own landlords and quit paying rent, I shall sell them the buildings for $500 down payment. I will take back the balance in one deed of trust and carry it over a period of 15 years with monthly payments, including the interest and principal of $140 per month. The flats now rent for $75 each or $150 per month, so that your interest and principal payments are less than the rents we receive from the buildings now. The buildings have a sun room with Murphy bed, living-room with fireplace, dining room and kitchen with large kitchen cabinet, rear porches, two separate bedrooms with tile bath between, large attic space, two separate steam vapor heating plants, instantaneous hot water heater, laundry trays, large basements, side drive and 2-car brick garage. See this building today, bring along a reputable builder to appraise the value for you. And act today, as this is an offer you cannot afford to overlook. You have to pay rent no matter where you live, start in right now paying that rent to yourself. Remember, there are no catches to this offer, our principal who is out of town has authorized us to offer these buildings to the first buyers on the above terms. You get perfect title to and possession of the property and you will then own and have that much-coveted home of your own. Get out early, as this offer is so unusual that we expect these buildings to be sold early in the day.

This is less than the rental we receive from the property.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters or medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

FRENCH MOTHERS.—To date no address for the club called the French Mothers has been found. The Alliance Francais is a club of French residents of St. Louis. Send any details you have about the question.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.—Informal invitations are very often telephoned. You may ask those you are inviting if they will come to your house on your mother's birthday, mentioning the hour and date. The at home card not mentioning the birthday, will also serve.

J. W. R.—Santos Dumont was the first man to fly an airplane in Europe and the first to circle the Eifel tower in a dirigible. In August, 1919, he was in New York, having come from south America to try some of the new planes at Mineola field. You can probably get a sketch of his life from the public library, or information from the Aero Club de France.

R. E. M.—As to the originator of prohibition, and of local option, there were different societies whose motto was "temperance" before there was any legislation for curtailment of the liquor traffic in the United States. Francis E. Willard, (1839-98) headed a body of Christian women, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which spread into every State. The Good Templars (organized 1851) originally proposed organization of political leagues for the support of party candidates who were out-and-out prohibitionists. The Antisaloon League was organized at Oberlin, O., in 1893, on the basis of this policy. The National Antisaloon League was organized two years later. In 1913 the league adopted the proposal for a national prohibition amendment which had been first recommended in 1876 by the Prohibition Party. This latter was organized in 1869. From 1895 to 1913 local option had been spreading because of general sentiment and the activities of the different organizations.

D. M.—In declaring the gasoline tax law in Illinois unconstitutional the Supreme Court held last February, that it was discriminatory. There was discrimination against the motorists because the gasoline tax did not apply to users of gasoline for other purposes, because it differentiated in the treatment of kerosene and gasoline, both fuels, and because it did not affect electrically propelled vehicles. The Court held the law violated the fourteenth Federal constitutional amendment which guarantees equal protection to all, and that it imposed a double tax, the license tax being the other.

M. L.—Offices held by Jeptha D. Howe in St. Louis were: An appointive office as assistant to the Circuit Attorney (1897) and chairman of the Republican City Committee, 1904 to 1909. He was not the (chief) Assistant Circuit Attorney, but held the office mentioned under Circuit Attorney Eggers. In 1900 he was mentioned for the nomination to office of Assistant Circuit Attorney, but failing of nomination, did not run for a salaried elective office thereafter.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

YOUNG WIDOW AND MOTHER.—You cannot make the real estate dealers return the down payment if they are unwilling to do so.

FINE DAY.—If a house is vacant and for rent and burns, you can collect insurance, unless it has been vacant for a time exceeding the period mentioned in the policy, if any. Consult a lawyer and show him the insurance policy.

A. K.—The change of the family name by the father also changes the names of the son's if they are under 21 years of age, but not if they are over 21. The Court cost for such change will probably be less than $25, and there will be a lawyer's fee. Consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

GUNGA DIN.—The drug in question may not be harmful if absolutely necessary to take it, but the bromide of potash, in ten or fifteen grain doses would effect the purpose to better advantage, and be less likely to cause digestive and other disturbances. If taken, the bromide of potash should be well diluted, each dose in a half to a full glass of water.

ROSE.—Among local measures to control and correct broken veins are: Systematic bandaging, gentle massage with Iodex ointment night and morning, and elastic supports. A flannel bandage is used as it is somewhat elastic. The urine should be examined as some kidney or liver trouble may be the primary cause.

LEO.—A reasonable amount of food in ounces daily for a person could not be determined by actual weight or measurements, much depending on the food value of the different articles consumed. The occupation and age has something to do with this, as the walking you mention being an occupation out-of-doors, influences the appetite and also the need for food. The eating of the sour articles you mention, should not counteract the sweets eaten.

W. O. B.—The city institutions, such as City Hospitals, the Infirmary, etc., will usually care for such cases as that of the person in a wheel chair if the patient is a resident of St. Louis. For full particulars communicate with Dr. Shankland, Hospital Commissioner, Municipal Courts Bldg, 14th and Market streets. Also the Bureau of Municipal Nurses, room 35, the same building, will give the information.

BRODERICK—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Mary Broderick, who departed this life Oct. 31, 1926.
Years of sacrifices, little of play,
Loving and giving and smoothing the way;
Life is too short, mother, ever to pay.
Strong in adversity, ready to do,
Gentle, unselfish and friend ever true,
Our proudest possession, dear mother, was you.
DAUGHTER. (c)

CLOSTERMEYER, SOPHIE—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died Oct. 24, 1926:

The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

EICHEL—In memory of Max J. Eichel.
Sad and lonely years have passed since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that day we still remember well;
Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In a home that is missed today.
Sadly missed by his family.
EMMA EICHEL AND FAMILY.

RAUH, CHARLES—In loving memory of our dear brother, who died Nov. 2, 1927:
Just one year ago today
Since our loved one passed away;
We saw him suffer, heard his sighs,
His aching heart and weeping eyes;
We saw him sinking hour by hour,
Yet could not stay death's awful power,
But now he calmly sleeps at last,
All pains, all aches, all suffering past.
Sadly missed by his BROTHERS, SISTER AND NIECE.

KELLER—In memory of our beloved father, William J. Keller, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 26, 1927.

KOENIG, ANDREW B.—In loving remembrance of my dear husband, our beloved father and grandfather, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 27, 1927:
Wonderful father, man and aid,
One who was better God never made,
Wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million that, father, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Sad and sudden was the call,
For our dear father, loved by all.
We little thought that on that day,
He would be called so far away.

The New Colossus in the Oil Fields

With a Gross Income Ranging From $45,000 to $65,000 a Day, Tom Slick Is Now the Greatest Independent Producer in the World.

By M. W. CHILDS

TULSA, Okla.

A SHY, nervous little man whose gross income from oil is between $45,000 and $65,000 a day whipped the entire industry in Oklahoma not long ago. That man is Tom Slick, whose wells give forth more oil than those of any other independent producer in the world, more even than those of many corporations with commonly known names.

Like David, he emerged victorious from battle with a giant, with giants—the corporations seeking to put Oklahoma's oil production on a prorate basis. And with victory, he sought to slip back into the obscurity that he prizes almost above everything else. His aversion to publicity amounts almost to a phobia. He has never given an interview, never even permitted the affairs of his business to become public if he could prevent it. He abhors ostentation. Oil is the obsession of his life; it has blotted out almost everything else.

He fights for oil unceasingly and usually with success. That is why he fought the corporations on the proration question. He charged, in effect, that their talk of conservation and price regulation was merely a screen to hide their real motive. What these corporations really wanted, he was convinced, was to curtail oil production in a certain pool in which he had dug the first wells and was getting the first big yields.

That is what he charged when he appeared with the other producers—representatives of the big corporations—before the State Corporation Commission in session here. What he said, in effect, was: "You want me to pinch down my wells until you can get a chance to get yours dug so that you can then take some of my oil. And you can't do it! If any pinching down is going to be done all the wells in Oklahoma will be pinched down for 24 hours, say—on Sunday so the field men can have a rest."

Slowly they retreated before his sharp voice, his nervous gesture. No court, no law can prevent a man from taking oil out of ground that he owns or leases, Slick maintained. Finally he forced them to concede this fact. Their bluff was called. And at one time it had been a serious bluff, with a threat of legal force.

AT 45 Slick's career has reached a new height. His wells are producing 30,000 to 40,000 barrels of oil a day, which will be increased, it is expected, to 50,000 or 60,000 when eight wells in the rich St. Louis pool come in.

He has long since reached the goal that he set for himself 20 years ago. He owns outright, or he has leases on, hundreds of thousands of acres in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas. He must have fully 300 to 400 producing wells and a large number are always being drilled. His name is a byword among the envious.

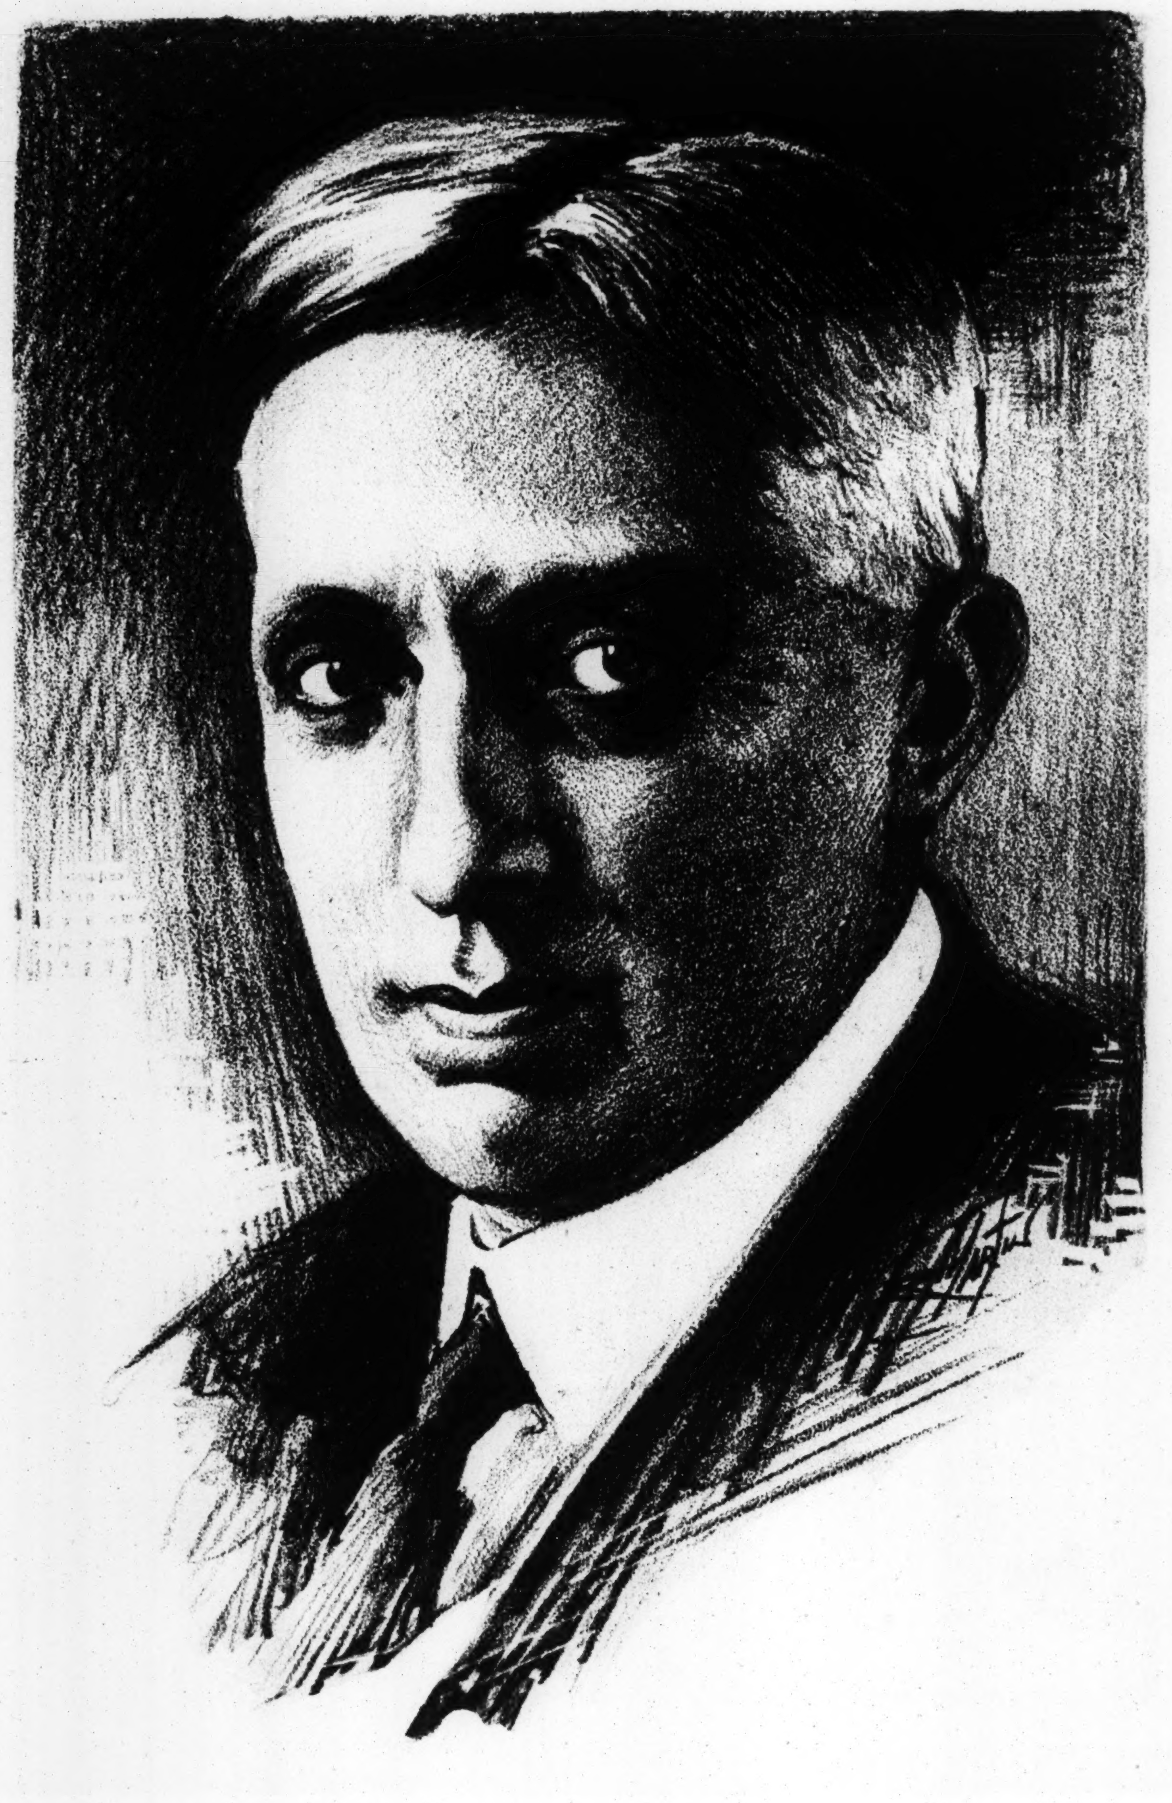
And yet he drives himself with an intensity that is scarcely ever relaxed. It is just as though he were a penniless wildcatter. It is because he loves the game. Money means nothing to him; he and his family live in a modest way. But the game itself has a fascination for him, his friends say, that is irresistible.

They tell you here that Tom Slick was born into the oil business. His birthplace is Clarion, Pennsylvania, the center of a field that was at one time richly productive. He grew up in sight of oil derricks. When he was still very young he went out to the Southeastern Illinois field and stayed there for a time.

About 1907 he came to Oklahoma as a lease-broker—he bought and sold leases, mostly for others, occasionally for his own profit or loss. In those early years it was mostly to his loss. But he persisted. He would get enough money together to drill a hole and forthwith sink all the money he had in that hole. From the first he seems to have been something of a visionary, to have had a kind of mysterious faith in his own convictions. They say that whenever Tom Slick takes a lease or buys a piece of land he never gives it up and when he once starts to drill a well he keeps on until he strikes oil or until it is impossible to go down any farther.

He put down a number of dry holes in those years, but never seemed very much concerned. Then he developed a profound conviction about a certain tract of land. He went to several people and tried to get them to go in with him and buy up all the leases so that together they could "checkerboard" large holdings. Checkerboarding, it should be explained, is done the way children divide candy—this square is mine and that square is yours and so on. But Slick had difficulty convincing anyone with money. Not far from the tract which he hoped to gain control of there had been drilling which had been barren.

At last he succeeded in interesting a man who put up a considerable sum. Before they started to drill a single well they acquired leases on hundreds of acres. Drilling was commenced and watched with the greatest interest throughtout Oklahoma. It wasn't long before the drillers struck Wilcox sand. At that time this was considered an indication of a good oil yield at an easily accessible level. There was considerable excitement and an immediate influx of speculators and wildcatters. With the prospect of a rich return, an effort was made to pry the penniless Slick loose from the share of the profits that he had legitimately earned by promoting the whole scheme. This sort of thing was common then, of course.



Tom Slick.

TO A CERTAIN degree it is true that Slick's whole career turns on this one episode. If he had not fought back, it is probable that he would always have been just a lease-broker, destined to be gyped out of one holding after another. Slick did fight back.

He found another backer with sufficient money. This man, to save Slick's holdings, plunged almost every cent he had in the venture. As it then stood, the first partner owned all the leases on which there had been indications of Wilcox sand and Slick and the later partner owned the other and what was then regarded as the much less desirable half of all the land that had been acquired in the project.

The Slick holdings proved to be the exact center of the Cushing pool, the richest find of its kind up to that time, yielding far more than the wells in the Wilcox sand. This was in 1912. The Cushing pool gave many millionaires their start, among them Harry F. Sinclair.

Slick sold his holdings a year or two later for about $2,500,000. He had a strong desire, that seemed to be sincere, to get out of the oil business. It was shortly after this period that he met and married Miss Berenice Frates, a daughter of J. A. Frates of Springfield, Missouri, who was then a vice president of the Frisco Railroad. For a time Slick seemed to find an outlet for his restless energy in travel. He and his wife traveled extensively in various parts of the world. But this diversion did not long suffice. A year or less saw him back in Oklahoma speculating—not in oil this time—but in railroads and other public utilities. He built two or three short railroad lines. These properties did not prosper. They absorbed more and more of his capital.

There came a time, his intimate friends say, when there was very little left of the stake he had made in the Cushing pool. Hardly more than enough to invest in the sinking of a few new oil wells. Slick went into the Pioneer, Texas, field and here he found some oil, but scarcely more than enough for operating expenses.

ENTIRELY on his own initiative he bought 80 acres near Tonkawa, Oklahoma. It is the way he has always operated. No one knows his "system," his "method." He has been known as an "antigeologist," but there are those who say he knows more about geology than many of the leaders in the profession. In several instances he has made great strikes on lands that geologists regarded as hopeless.

He goes in very quietly and before anyone is aware of what he is up to he has checkerboarded large holdings and is ready to begin his drilling. Buying that 80 acres was the biggest piece of luck Slick ever had.

It yielded him approximately $18,000,000 in a short time. He has pyramided these millions many times over. He has been in three or four rich fields since then, notably the Seminole, and now, more recently, in the St. Louis pool.

Nothing, it seems, can break his luck now. It is the comment one hears most frequently. But it is not entirely luck by a long way, as any old-time oil man will tell you. Nor does all the oil that gushes from his many wells represent so much profit in dollars and cents to Slick. His leases cost him $3000 a day in rentals. And—just one example of his expenses—it costs $100,000 to drill a dry hole. He drills many such today.

Certainly Slick works harder than anyone in his employ, tool dressers and drillers not excepted. When an important well is drilling he wants to be near it all the time. He sleeps under the boilers or in the tool shed. He follows every stage of the drilling with the most intense interest. The nature of each bit of debris that is taken out of the hole has some significant meaning for Slick. Like many of the pioneers in the oil business, he has had a sand named for him—Slick sand, a type that he was the first to come upon. A city and a town also bear his name—Slick, Oklahoma, and Slick City.

The other day he came into the proration meeting looking utterly weary. Someone asked him where he had been. "I've been sleeping on a pine board for five nights," was his explanation. And he seemed surprised when the men at the meeting looked on this as a rather unusual proceeding.

All the details of his business he carries in his own head. While, very recently, he has consented to have bookkeping systems installed, he still knows each last minute fact connected with every lease that he holds. It was only a short time ago that he was persuaded to incorporate as "T. B. Slick, Inc." He holds all but three of the shares, and these are owned by friends. Slick has done a great deal for his friends and relatives. He has established several of them in successful businesses.

A bundle of nervous energy, there seems no rest for him. He suffers from insomnia and it is said that it is a rare night that he sleeps more than three or four hours. Wherever he is, he thinks about this well, or that well that may come in today or tomorrow. He has a belief that is unshakable that there are great untapped resources of oil at depths far greater than those to which wells have ever been drilled. He believes that some day a means will be devised for getting down to those depths and he scoffs at pessimists who fore-see the world's oil supply exhausted.

He has one major relaxation—hunting. He owns vast estates in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas which are well stocked with game. Each fall he takes a party of friends aboard a private car—the provision being that they shall not spend any of their own money—and they go into the brush for two weeks. His most intimate associate says that if you walk him far enough — miles — then at night he will sleep.

HE CHERISHES, too, a wistful hope that the oil business can carry on in the same manner that it has done for the past 20 years. He likes the idea of the oil men knowing each other, of a friendly spirit among them. He will remind you that once it was called the "oil fraternity" and not the oil business. In the interests of this hope he gave a year ago a Lucullian banquet for 350 oil men from all parts of the United States. Every kind of game and wild fowl had been shipped by the barrel from one of his Texas estates. The meal that the chefs of the Tulsa Country Club prepared for that night is still talked about.

There is his family, too. With them he finds a measure of relaxation. He has two sons now, the oldest about twelve, and a daughter. Their scale of living, in comparison with Slicks' wealth, is really modest. They have a home at Clarion, Pennsylvania, another at Oklahoma City and a third at San Antonio, Texas. But none of them can compare with some of the palaces here. The newest one—that is still a sensation—cost about a million dollars to build and has an entire Indian village reproduced in one wing to gratify a whim of the owner.

This sort of thing Slick rather scorns. He is so scrupulously modest that he wears not even a watch chain, in marked contrast to a majority of his associates who have a weakness for diamonds displayed prominently.

His charities are said to be large, but he loathes to have them mentioned. Nothing will freeze him into silence more quickly than a reference to some one of his philanthropies. He tries to keep them secret whenever that is possible. For example, if he meets a crony of the early times who is down on his luck, he asks him to call at his office in two or three days. There the old-timer is politely handed an envelope. And in the envelope he finds a check for $100, $500, even $1000.

His friends all feel that he is wearing himself out, that he is driving himself to the point of complete exhaustion. When they remonstrate, urge him to slow down, he turns their remarks off with a joke. Or if he is in a serious mood, he says: "What! With the market in the condition it is now! Why I'd have to sacrifice seven or eight million dollars." And if the answer is, "Well, what is that to you?" he will answer "Nothing," and that ends the discussion.

HE WAS told by a group of noted specialists some years ago that he would have to slacken his pace appreciably or greatly shorten his life. It has seemed impossible for him to follow this advice.

There has always been another well, or another field or another lease, a will-o'-the-wisp to lead him on. It must be rather like a poker game, always that avidity to spur him on, not for the pile of chips or for the millions but because it is so exciting, so eternally fascinating. His hair is quite white, his face begins to be a little wrinkled, but his eyes have that same intense, searching look that they have always had. When there's a new field opened up, Tom Slick'll be there, his friends tell you. And you know it is the truth.

Chocolate-Bar Millionaire Will Be a Boarder in His Own Home

Latest Philanthropy of Milton S. Hershey the Godfather of a Whole Town in Pennsylvania.

BY ELLWOOD DOUGLASS

HERSHEY, Pennsylvania.

HISTORIC old Spring Creek winds lazily down to the Hershey Chocolate Corporation and into the maw of industry. A hundred iron jets hide it under spray clouds for some 200 feet. Here the water from the factory condensers is cooled so that it may thriftily be used again. Such devices may be seen in the St. Louis industrial area, and they are not pretty.

But in Hershey the spray is a veil beneath graceful willows, over grassy banks. In its silver, when the sun is right, hovers a baby rainbow. Along the banks stray lordly white fowl, and the course of the little stream is a landscaped lyric of sweeping boughs and tiny bridges.

Spring Creek, a Lebanon Valley landmark since the days of William Penn, has been put to work for industry. But it also has been made to do its bit for art. It "renders unto Caesar"; it preserves a nice balance between utility and the Finer Things. Therein it epitomizes the life and works of Milton S. Hershey, who has made many millions, but, having given his people everything else he could think of, decided a few weeks ago to give them his own magnificent home. At an age when most men want, above everything, a home and all a home implies, this multi-millionaire is going to become a mere boarder.

Latest photograph of Milton S. Hershey.

Stranger than that, this fine home —or The Mansion, to call it by name— is to be the quarters for a modestly exclusive country club!

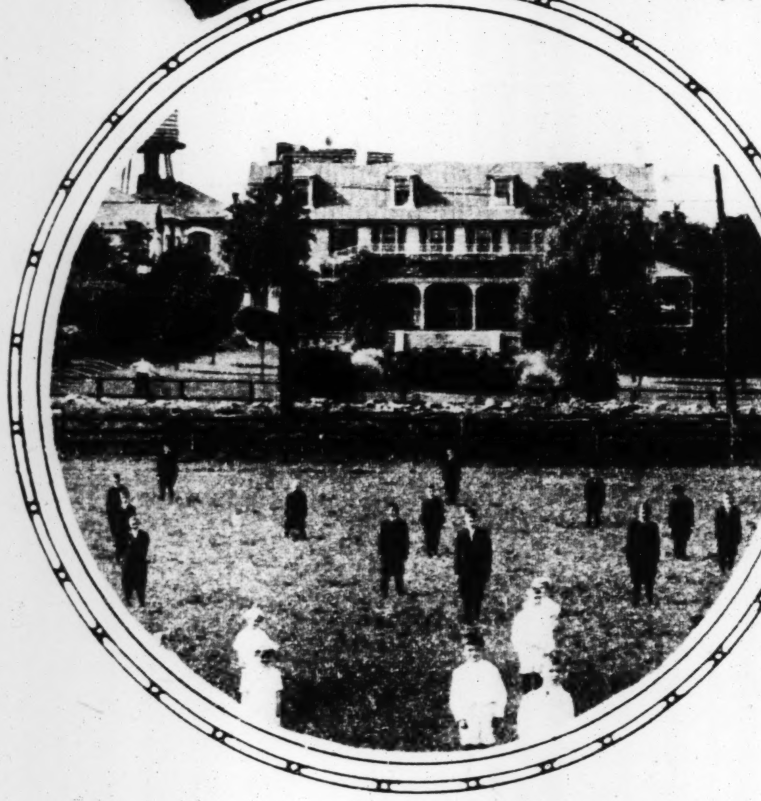
Characteristically, this extraordinary piece of fancy philanthropy is not to be without its compensating gift to the plain people. Supplementing it to a tee will be an 18-hole golf course, open to everyone: the Hershey pay-as-you-play links, where anyone may shoot his 18 moles for a minimum maintenance fee.

"THE club will be more than merely a place to play golf," explained Mr. Hershey, a small, square man with graying hair, black brows and a rugged but kindly, almost boyish, face. (As he spoke, he flicked the top from a box of chocolate on his desk, broke off a piece of the candy and took a quick, decisive bite. He is the sort of man who can do things like that without abating his dignity a bit.) "It will be a sort of social center for my people." (Now he glanced at the piece of chocolate in his hand with the air of an expert who knows how to appreciate an achievement.) "I do want to concrete this community together. We are not like the ordinary town of many diverse interests, here in Hershey. We are just one big farm. That is the way the State regards us—we are not an incorporated town—and that is the way I like to look at it."

With the latest of his other benefactions—a $1,500,000 Community House, on which his workmen are starting this month—it may be said that his people just about have everything. In the last 20 years his gifts have reached an amount which even the philanthropist himself would not venture to estimate. Certainly they run into millions. And all the time while he was giving away everything in sight, he was making money so rapidly that he cannot see today, at 71, that his benevolences have diminished his own wealth.

He has not merely cared for the economic necessities of his people, the 2500 people of this community. He has provided for what he considers their esthetic necessities. Finding it difficult to extract pleasure out of seeing others stumble through impoverished, stupid, unlit lives, he has gone to remarkable lengths to give them what many business men would consider unmitigated luxuries. In his opinion he has done that without damaging the prosperity of his concern, or the security of his investors, or his own fortune.

"It has helped them," he said. "They kind of grew up together—the business, the town and these philanthropies, as you call them. It's like high rent. If business is good, you can carry it without noticing; if not, you can't."



Birthplace of Milton S. Hershey, now the Administration Building of the Hershey Industrial School.

All the world, or at least that portion of it which reads the daily papers, knows the story of Hershey's success, built on the 5-cent chocolate bar. Twice he failed, but he saved money on wages sometimes as low as $50 a year, and each time tried again. He won his first triumph in Lancaster, Pennsylvania; sold out a caramel business for $1,000,000 flat, attempted to retire and, unable to stick it out, established his present business here in Hershey. His first equipment was a boiler and a ladle—the great great-grand-daddy of machines which each, in his enormous factory today, handle 50,000 pounds of cholocate at a time.

BACK in the early days of the concern, 20 or 25 years ago, he began to set aside the endowments for his philanthropies. Their values then were not large. But he was making money, and making it fast. That early start is the explanation of how his money-making and his money-giving could "grow up together," and, so to speak, grow up painlessly.

He has given his people Hershey Park, 100 acres bearing $350,000 worth of improvements, besides a convention hall which seats 4000 persons. The Church of the Brethren, which has many members in this section, holds its annual convention here. Primarily for their convenience he erected the $100,000 hall, but it also gives the people of Hershey and those for miles around an opportunity to hear operas and concerts which they otherwise would miss. In the park also is to be the pay-as-you-play golf course, which will cost another $100,000.

Besides these, for a mere sample, there are $100,000 quarters for men's and women's clubs, whole blocks of homes and apartments, and the site for the projected Community Building. This, he amusedly conjectures, with its five stories, theater, swimming pool, library, meeting rooms and dormitories for 100 boys, is likely to run well over the $1,500,000 estimate.

"But it isn't exactly give-away," he protested, grinning. "They pay for everything they get."

Two $600,000 buildings given outright to the public school district were cited as something they certainly did not pay for, and some doubt was advanced that, for example, $3 a year membership dues would quite pay for building costs as well as maintenance for the men's and women's clubs.

"Anyway, they pay something," replied Hershey. "And that's the point. They don't feel that they're having something thrust at them for nothing. It's not like the welfare work in many factories" (this with a definite trace of pride) "where the workers feel that it's all free, and all charity, and probably not much good anyhow, and so never pay any attention to it."

He considered a bit of chocolate, nibbled tentatively, and went on with growing earnestness.

"I'm a great believer in giving them the opportunity. If they want it, all right; you know they'll make good use of it when they must go after it themselves.

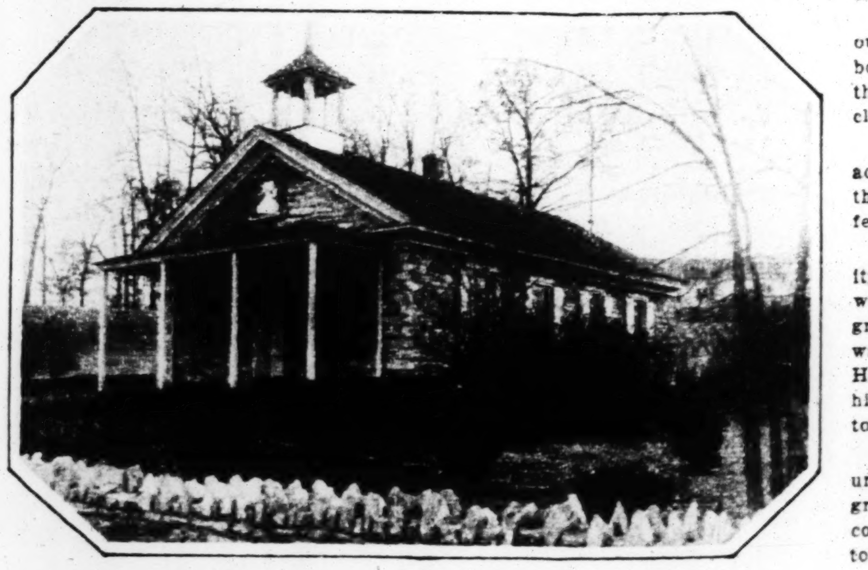
"Of course, a good many don't want it, and I'm not sure that it's wise, in those cases, to thrust it on them. Take those school buildings: there they are for those who want the opportunity. But many of them do not care to go to school, and if a boy doesn't want to study Latin and Greek, you can't make him do it.

"A lot of business men say 'Don't have any schools; let factory hands remain factory hands.' We figured differently. We gave 'em schools and everything like that we could think of.

"And" (triumphantly concluding what, for him, was an inordinately long speech) "the fact that we've still got plenty of help shows that we may have been right."

The name of Hershey confronts one at every turn in this community, so that the casual visitor—and even many employes of his concern—get the idea that Hershey owns the town. That is not the fact, but the fact, in this case, is stranger than the fancy.

In 1909 Hershey, having no children of his own, set out toward embracing the orphan boys of the country within the circle of "his people." At that time he and his late wife endowed the Hershey Industrial School. It is the school, not the manufacturer, which owns the whole town of Hershey. The school owns the amusement park and all improvements, the club buildings, the Hershey department store, the Hershey model hotel, the Hershey Trust Company, the Hershey planing mill, the common stock of the chocolate concern, 8000 acres of Pennsylvania farmlands and 60,000 acres of sugar plantations and mills in Cuba!



The school house that Hershey attended.

HERSHEY is chairman of the five trustees of the Hershey Estates, who manage these immense properties for the school. Capacious, modernly equipped buildings are going up one after another, and where the school had little over 100 pupils five years ago, today it has 218. Some conception of its size may be gathered from the fact that its various departments are scattered through three counties, and one of them is at Harpers, 13 miles from the headquarters of the school in Hershey.

The Industrial School receives children 4 to 8 years old, teaches them a trade and endeavors to send them back to their own communities—though many stay in Hershey because of acquaintances and associations here—equipped to earn a living at 18. Formerly it accepted only fatherless boys, but, with the discovery that many more provisions were made elsewhere for fatherless than for motherless children, it now accepts children who have no mother.

"They don't look like boys in an institution for orphans, do they?" he asked, and something beyond the mere absence of uniforms bore him out, for they are a bright-faced, lively lot.

"You saw those clean tablecloths out there? Can you imagine those boys going out from surroundings like that and not making clean homes and clean communities?"

If the school is Hershey's crowning achievement in practical philanthropy, then the golf club is his equivalent feat in esthetic philanthropy.

Before the World War the community had a nine-hole course, but help was so scare in wartime that the greens could not be kept up, and so it was abandoned. For some months Hershey, though he plays little golf himself, has been considering how best to remedy this lack.

First he gave 170 acres of the naturally rolling, partly landscaped grounds of his residence for the course. Then he sent for gardeners to plant the grass and shrubbery, and golf engineers to lay out the course.

And at length he decided he might as well provide the clubhouse, too, and let the residence go with the grounds.

The imposing stone structure, with its entrancing formal gardens, is considered one of the finest examples of residential architecture in this country. But the gift is the more surprising in that Hershey is strikingly a home-loving man.

One of the first gratifications of his early success was to purchase back the old homestead of his family. The farmhouse now is the administration building of the industrial school, and the room in which Hershey was born is a lounge for visitors. The one room stone schoolhouse which he attended is preserved beside his driveway at the foot of the hill, dwarfed by the mansion on the summit.

"We were thinking about another residence for the clubhouse, but The Mansion was more conveniently located," Hershey said. "What's the use of having a fence around a place like that? That wouldn't do anybody any good. I spend six months of the year in Cuba, anyway. All I ask is space for living quarters while I'm here—and that the other members will let me sleep."

This, incidentally, will be probably the first country club to choose a site directly adjacent to a factory.

"We have reversed the usual conditions of a manufacturing community, it's true," remarked Hershey with an air that certainly was not dissatisfaction. "In most such places the ordinary hands live next door to the factory, and the high-salaried men live as far away as they can get. My managers live here in Hershey, right next door to the plant, while some of the workmen live as much as 13 miles away—and commute by the Hershey Transit Company."

But he could not stray far from the subject of his new golf club, which he is set on having ready next June.

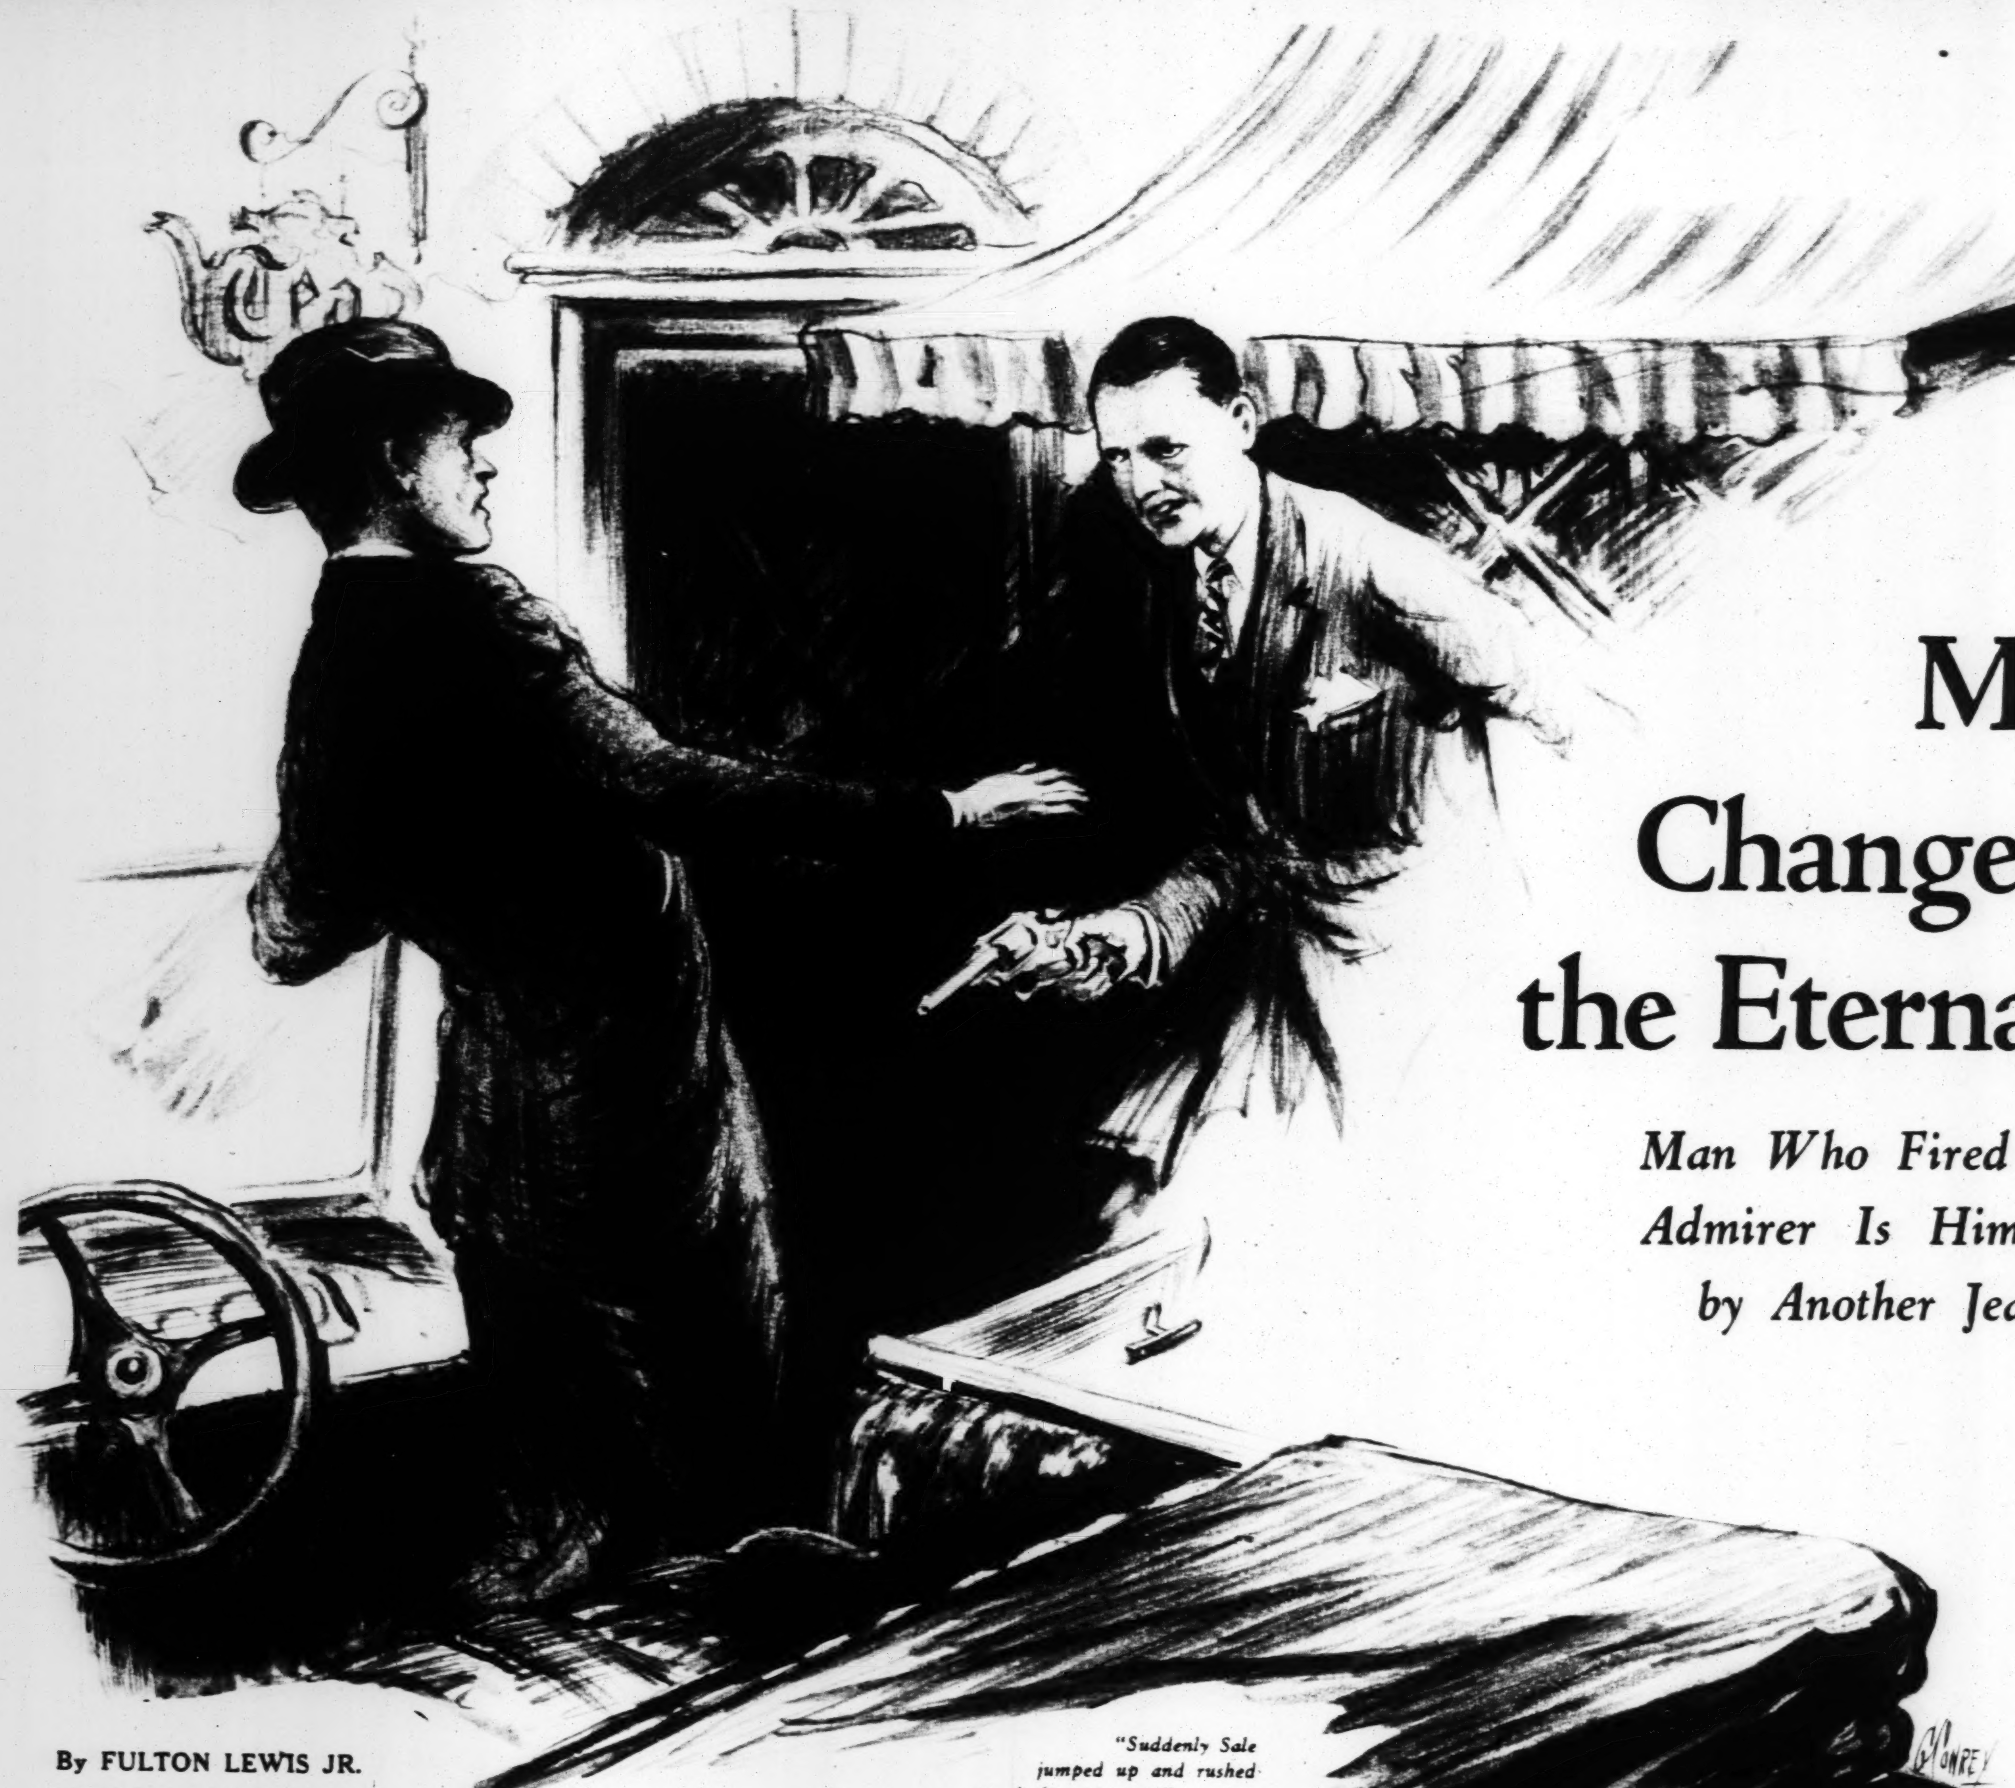
"WE MUST have some sort of restriction on the membership, but we don't know yet just what it will be," he meditated. "We'll not confine it to employes, but have outside members, and nonresident members, like any club. We don't want to make it too steep for anybody who should belong, but we don't want to throw it open for a lot of fellows with hip-pocket liquor to crowd in and spoil everything."

Would it, by any chance, be self-supporting?

"Well," he chuckled, with a reminiscent look—born most certainly of many civic enterprises wherein "they pay for everything they get"—"I expect I'll have to be the star boarder!"

When Mr. Sale Changed Place In the Eternal Triangle

Man Who Fired on His Wife's Admirer Is Himself Shot Down by Another Jealous Husband.



"Suddenly Sale jumped up and rushed out of the tea room."

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

ERNEST W. SALE, handsome young husband who enlivened fashionable Connecticut avenue last February by streaming a pistol full of lead into a man he believed was making love to his wife, has gone into Emergency Hospital himself with four critical bullet wounds as the "other man" in a parallel triangle.

This time the shooting, instead of taking place in a crowded shopping district, occurred in the quiet dining room of a small boarding house; but the story was none the less the same: that of a woman, a jealous husband and a Don Juan rival. The first time Sale played the second part, and for his ardor in portraying the role was indicted for assault with intent to kill and is now awaiting trial.

The second time he played the third part, and as hospital surgeons battled to save his life the woman who caused the shooting haunted the halls outside his room, praying that he might live.

It was on the afternoon of February 9 that Sale staged his sensational gunplay, on the crowded sidewalk in front of one of the most exclusive hotels in the national capital, as the aggrieved husband.

He was 29, and his wife was 23—an extremely pretty woman who had married him at the age of 17. They had lived together without discord until a few weeks before, when the husband's jealously began to assert itself.

Mrs. Annie Sale.

Norman James Pryor.

Ernest W. Sale.

SALE had heard, from several sources, that his young wife had been seen with his closest friend, K. T. Davis, and at first he was not suspicious. When the rumors persisted, however, and the details of the stories became more and more compromising, he decided to take a hand.

Arriving home one afternoon late in January, he found Davis in the parlor with his wife, and there was a scene. He warned his friend not to come to the house again, and never again to see his wife. Davis was angry, but could do no more than leave, having been ordered from the premises.

No more trouble developed until the day before the shooting, when the husband happened to be walking along a downtown street and saw Davis' car parked at the curb with Mrs. Sale sitting in it. He did not disturb her, he said, but stood off and watched.

After a short wait, he told police, Davis came out of a nearby store, got in the machine, and the two sped off, chatting and laughing.

Angry, he returned home, and when his wife arrived a little later, confronted her with a statement of what he had seen. She seemed contrite, he said, but said that Davis had insisted upon seeing her. Sale said no more to her that night, but next morning, after he had gone to work, he called her and told her to meet him in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Sale, not knowing what to expect, obeyed, and at the appointed time the husband arrived and told her that she must call Davis and have him meet them there. She protested, but he insisted. She reached Davis at his office in the Interior Department and made an appointment with him.

Across the street from the hotel was a small tea room, a favored spot for the younger members of the diplomatic set, and Sale took his wife into this. They got a table by the front window, and ordered tea, Sale constantly watching the street outside. Time passed. The maid brought the tea, and they drank it. Mrs. Sale still did not know what her husband intended to do.

FINALLY, at the curb outside, a small roadster pulled up, and Davis got out. Suddenly Sale jumped up and rushed out of the tea room, his wife close behind. He slowed up as soon as he got on the sidewalk, took a couple of steps, and then stood still, feet apart, glaring at Davis.

"Well . . . . ?" he ventured.

"Where's Betty?" asked Davis.

Sale, according to witnesses, broke out into hysterical laughter at this point, and Davis, nonplussed, simply stood on the running board of his machine, not knowing what to make of it.

"Where's Betty!" mocked Sale, still laughing. Then suddenly his voice and expression changed. He took a menacing step forward.

"You're a fine friend," he said. Then he whipped a revolver out of a back pocket and opened fire.

There were five shots, in rapid succession, three of which went wild. But one plowed through Davis' abdomen and shattered his right hip, and another struck his forehead just above the eye. There might, indeed, have been more shots but for the fact that Mrs. Sale and a taxicab driver, rushing the jealous husband from behind, overpowered him.

The turmoil that followed probably surpassed anything that Connecticut avenue ever before had seen. A debutante tea was just beginning at the Mayflower Hotel, and streams of sleek automobiles were disembarking daintily dressed young ladies and frock-coated escorts under the porte cochere. As the shots cracked out there same a short, low moan from Davis and he fell forward to the sidewalk, followed by screams from the debutantes, the howl of brakes or the sudden whirr of speeded motors.

LINGERING near the door of the hotel, as a police precaution against any holdup men or pickpockets who might plan to prey on the bejeweled guests at the tea, was a detective sergeant. Almost before the echoes of the shots had died out, he had Sale under arrest.

Davis was rushed away to Emergency Hospital, where, in due course of time, he recovered, and Sale was eventually indicted by the grand jury for assault with intent to kill.

He frankly admitted the shooting, and the facts that led up to it, but contended that when he made his wife make the appointment he had not intended to shoot Davis.

"I only meant to say to him, 'Why don't you take her if you want her,'" he told police, "but I got mad when he asked me where she was, and started shooting."

As the course of Washington justtice is somewhat cumbersome, and the hearing of Sale's case was not scheduled for consideration until months later, bond was posted for his appearance and he and Mrs. Sale went away on a "reconciliation honeymoon" for several weeks. When they returned it was with the intention of starting all over again, in new surroundings, amid new friends. They gave up their former home, and decided to build in the suburbs. In the meantime, they took rooms at a quiet little boarding house on First street.

There they met Norman James Pryor and his pretty young wife, and in the evenings often played bridge with them. Things went smoothly, Sale told police, until Mrs. Pryor began telling him how unhappy she was with her husband. He was not particularly interested, he said, but the young woman seemed to seek him out as a confidant, and he could find no way to escape without injuring her feelings.

Meanwhile, it developed, Pryor was beginning to grow jealous and as the summer wore on relations in the boarding house grew decidedly strained. Then, late in August, Mrs. Sale was stricken ill and after a serious operation was forced to make an extended visit with her family in Virginia. The mere fact that Sale was remaining at home alone seemed to arouse the suspicions of Mrs. Pryor's husband still further.

FINALLY, according to fellow roomers at the house, Pryor met Sale in the hallway late one evening and warned him in very decided language that he must stay away from Mrs. Pryor. Sale agreed without protest, but in the days that followed Pryor seemed to think otherwise.

At last, fully decided that Sale was disobeying his injunction, he strode into the dining room one night and without warning drew a pistol and opened fire. Someone ran to a telephone and called police, while the owner of the house ministered as best she could to the wounds of Sale.

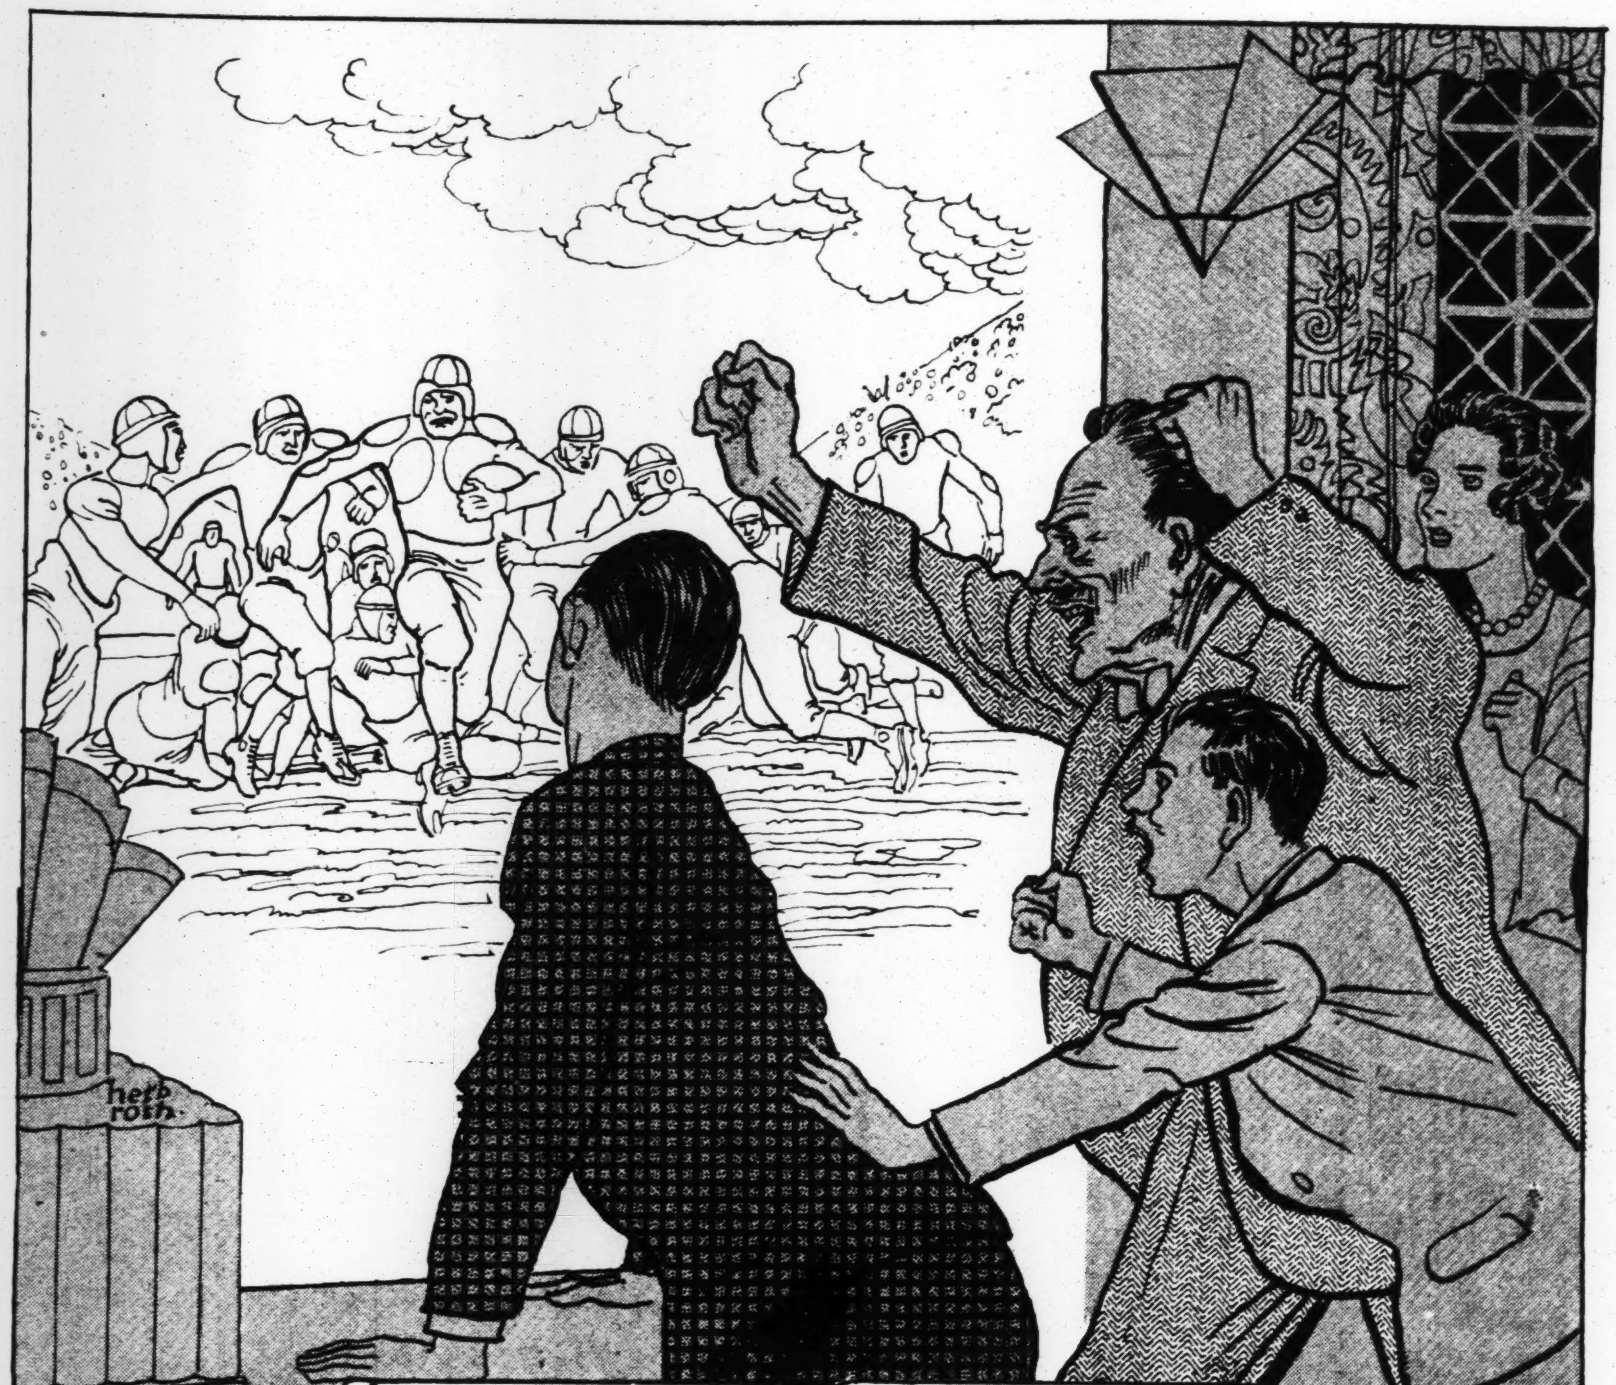
Pryor's marksmanship proved to be somewhat better than Sale's marksmanship had been with Davis. Out of four shots fired, two burrowed into the victim's chest, cutting close to the heart, one shattered his shoulder and one went through his hand.

Pryor made no attempt to escape after the shooting, and gave himself up to police when they arrived. Frankly he confessed the shooting and all events leading up to it, and boldly ventured that he was "ready to take the medicine."

Unlike the case of the Sale shooting, no reconciliation has followed in the Pryor family. Mrs. Pryor insisted on accompanying the wounded man to the hospital, and remained there almost constantly until danger was past.

When Television Comes to Every Home

What the Newest Marvel of Science Will Mean to the World and a Simple Explanation of How It Works.



The "play that saved the game" with all the comforts of home.

NEW YORK.

ALMOST every day now one reads about a demonstration of television, the newest marvel of fast-stepping science. The radio fan prophesies glibly that it won't be long before his set will be receiving pictures as well as words. But how many know what it's all about? What do all these new developments mean, and how does the thing work, anyway? If it does work, why cannot one buy a little televisor and use it in his own home?

Studio scenes are now regularly broadcast by television from certain large radio stations, and eager amateurs are already building their own sets with more or less success from directions in the radio magazines. But television is still in its infancy, just as auditory radio was around 1914. It is hardly out of the laboratory, too complicated in operation for all but the skilled experimenter, and too expensive for the average home. Years must elapse before television becomes an everyday factor, although constant experimentation is gradually eliminating the obstacles in the way of its development. But it is coming, and coming sure. So be prepared!

To understand the process of television one must look into the workings of its "eye," the photo-electric cell. This marvelous device, invented only a few years ago, today performs innumerable different little jobs for commerce and science. By its power of reacting electrically to light, it measures daylight or the progress of stars, it counts traffic on the streets. In talking moving pictures it changes light to sound, and in television transmutes light variations into electric impulses.

To explain this one must go back to the first principles of the molecular and atomic theory. It appears that all matter is composed of atoms, which in turn are made up of electrons and protons, normally in equal numbers. Under this condition of equilibrium an atom is uncharged—electrically neutral.

When an atom loses one of its electrons, it tends to attract toward itself any neighboring electrons, and thus is "positivelv" charged. If, on the other hand, the atom has an extra electron, this electron tends to draw away from it, and the atom is "negatively" charged. Connect by a wire a body composed of positive atoms to one made up of negative atoms and the electrons will stream from negative to positive until equilibrium has been restored. This current of electrons is what constitutes electricity.

NOW, certain metals, such as potassium and caesium, have the property of emitting electrons when acted upon by light. Expose a bit of potassium to light and electrons will leave its surface in large numbers. If these electrons could be trapped in some way into an electric circuit their movement would cause an electric current. Since the number of electrons leaving the potassium is proportional to the intensity of the light, the current would be large or small as the light dimmed or brightened.

Given perfect darkness, the battery will send no current through the tube, for there is no direct connection. But let light fall on the cell and the potassium coating will emit electrons. Free to move in the vacuum, they are attracted to the positively charged metal ring and stream through the connecting wires to the battery, causing a current. (See Figure 1.)

As fast as electrons leave the potassium they are replaced from the negative terminal of the battery and there is a continuous flow of electricity around the circuit as long as light falls upon the cell. If the light increases in intensity the electronic emission from the potassium also increases and the current is correspondingly augmented. The opposite occurs when the light dims.

Thus, at the sending end of the television system there is an "eye" capable of transforming the energy of light into an electric current of corresponding intensity. At the receiving end, therefore, there must be a device which can change this current back to light—of the same intensity as that which reaches the photo-electric cell. In other words, there must be an electric lamp which dims or brightens instantly as the current changes. Such a device is the neon tube.

An ordinary incandescent lamp would not do, for the heated filament glows for a fraction of a second even after the current has completely stopped. But the neon lamp, which is utilized commercially for electric signs, produces light from a miniature lightning flash, so that there is no heated wire to glow.

The neon lamp is a glass tube containing neon, an inert gas found in the earth's atmosphere. At each end there is a metal plate, called an electrode, connected to a dynamo or battery. When the current of the dynamo is large enough it will jump the gap between the plates and a stream of glowing electrons will flow from one electrode to the other through the gas. The neon lamp has the property of changing its light instantaneously according to variations in the current. And as this current, greatly magnified, comes from the photo-electric cell at the other end, the moment there is a change in the light falling on the photo-electric cell there is a corresponding change in the light of the neon tube. (See Figure 2.)

This system, however, would not give the details of a picture but only the total amount of light being reflected from it. Therefore, in the television apparatus, length and breadth are translated into time. Only one tiny portion of the transmitted scene is received at a given moment. But the tiny images follow each other so rapidly that the eye sees what appears to be a complete image.

This is because of a physical phenomenon known as "persistence of vision." The eye does not react instantly to light changes but takes about one-twentieth of a second in the process. Motion pictures, flashed on a screen at fifteen per second, give the illusion of continuous motion, although between flashes the screen goes dark. The image of one flash persists in the brain almost until the next flash occurs.

Suppose a picture to be divided in 2500 tiny sections in 50 rows of 50 each. If these sections were lighted one after another for one fifty-thousandth of a second each, the whole picture would be lighted within one-twentieth of a second, and the vision of the first flash would persist until the last had occurred. Now, if these tiny sections flashed forth with different intensities, the details of the picture would be revealed.

Look closely at a half-tone photograph as printed in a newspaper. It is simply a large number of dots of different sizes, which when all are seen at once give the illusion of a picture. The same effect would be produced if a black shield containing a small hole were moved rapidly in front of the picture, exposing to the eye in swift succession tiny details of the complete image.

JUST exactly that is done in the television system. In the sending set the picture, actor or scene to be transmitted is focused with a lense into a small aperture. All the light being reflected from the scene passes through a small square hole cut in a black piece of cardboard. Behind this aperture rotates the "scanning disc," and behind the scanning disc is the photo-electric cell.

The scanning disc is a circular metal shield punctured around its outside edge with tiny holes. These holes are so spaced that only one of them passes the aperture at a time, and they are so arranged that every part of the aperture has been passed when the disc makes one complete revolution. Since the disc revolves about 20 times a second the whole picture is revealed to the photo-electric cell—one detail at a time—within the limit of "persistence of vision," or one-twentieth of a second.

At the receiving end, just the reverse takes place. There is the same small aperture, the same scanning disc, but behind the disc is the neon lamp instead of the photo-electric cell. The holes of the scanning disc are arranged the same as those on the disc at the sending end. The two discs start at the same corresponding point and rotate at the same speed. The eye looks directly at the scanning disc, and through its whirling holes sees the pinkish light of the neon tube. Since the light varies according to the action of the photo-electric cell at the other end, the eye receives the illusion of a complete image. (See Figure 2.)

Suppose, for instance, that the picture to be transmitted is composed of vertical black lines. The first hole on the scanning disc begins to cross the aperture at the upper right-hand corner. At this point there is a white space. Light reaches the photo-electric cell through the hole and it gives forth current. The current, greatly magnified, reaches the neon lamp at the receiving end, and the lamp shines brightly. At precisely that moment, the first hole of the receiver's scanning disc is also at the upper right-hand corner of the aperture. At that point, therefore, the eye sees a little spot of light.

Then the hole on the sending scanning disc moves further to the left and reaches the first black line. No light is reflected from black, and none reaches the photo-electric cell. The cell gives forth no current, none reaches the neon tube, and the light goes out. The hole on the receiving scanning disc has moved a corresponding distance to the left, and at that point the eye sees a shadow. Thus as the hole moves across the top edge of the aperture, the eye sees first a streak of light, then darkness, then another streak of light, and so on until the hole has completed its course across the aperture.

The next hole starts across on a line a bit below the first one, and reveals light and shadow in the same manner. There are 50 of these holes in all, and when the disc has made a complete revolution the entire picture has been revealed. Since the whole process takes but one-twentieth of a second, the eye, because of persistence of vision, sees all 50 streaks of light and shade apparently at once. Consequently it receives the illusion of a number of vertical black lines—the same as the picture being transmitted. When the subject moves the televisor gives a rapid succession of these images just like a motion picture projector.

In its present state of development, television does not give a perfect image. Minute imperfections in the scanning discs, together with their rapid rotation, give a somewhat blurred effect. It is about as clear as the average newspaper halftone would be if it were animated.

One of the greatest problems in television was that of synchronization. The two scanning discs of the system must run at precisely the same speed, and keep in step. Each scanning disc is operated by a main motor. At the receiving station a synchronizing generator is mounted on the same shaft with this motor; at the sending end the synchronizer is another motor, designed to keep in step with the generator from which it receives its power. (See Figure 2.)

THUS synchronism is assured. The motor at the receiving end operates a generator. This generator transmits its current to a motor at the sending end, which is mounted on the same shaft with the main motor. If the latter drives the discs too slowly the other motor coupled to it speeds it up, keeping in step with the generator at the other end, or conversely retards its action when it goes too fast. Since the generator is driven by the receiving station motor, the speeds of all four machines are identical.

To transmit motion pictures similar apparatus is used. Motion picture film is employed as in the usual projector, but the beam of light passes through a scanning disc before reaching the film. Behind the film is a photo-electric cell. Thus a thin pencil of light traverses each film, and the resultant light and shade finds its reaction in the cell. The film is scanned at the rate of 16 pictures a second.

At the receiving end a mercury-arc lamp, which gives a much more powerful light than the neon tube, projects the image through a scanning disc on to a screen. The use of the arc light was made possible by an arrangement similar to that in a radio tube, where the weak grid currents control the intensity of the more powerful battery current. The arc lamp dims or brightens instantly, according to any variation in the faint currents coming from the photo-electric cell at the other end of the system.

Another way of enlarging the image for an audience—or "optience," the new word for a group of spectators—is by using a "grid" receiver. Instead of a small neon tube, tiny portions of which are viewed at successive times, there is a very long tube, folded and refolded in the shape of a gridiron. Instead of one pair of electrodes, there are 2500 pairs, 50 lines of 50 each.

INSTEAD of a scanning disc there is a rotating brush kept in synchronization with the sending disc. As the photo-electric cell is exposed to one part of the subject, this brush makes contact with the electrodes in the corresponding part of the long neon tube. Twenty times a second, each of the 2500 pairs of electrodes flashes forth with a brilliancy the same as a corresponding part of the subject. Due to persistence of vision, the whole grid, seen through a ground glass screen, seems lighted at once into a complete picture.

The image can also be somewhat enlarged by a new projector, which is simply a scanning disc with magnifying lenses instead of the usual holes.

The problems in the way of practical television are still large and many. In the first place the receiving station, unlike a radio set, is quite as complicated and expensive as the sending station. It requires an expert to handle the controls. The operator at the receiving end would have to continually regulate his dials to prevent the picture from becoming distorted. Automatic synchronization by radio is prohibitively expensive.

Again, to bring television to the telephone subscriber, four or five lines would have to be used simultaneously. Similarly, at least three broadcast channels of the present width would be needed to transmit images by radio and another one to transmit sound. Due to overcrowding of the air by the numerous radio stations this would not be feasible with waves of the length now used. If the process were speeded up in order to create a larger image, as has been done by Karolus in Germany, just double the number of telephone lines or broadcast channels would be needed.

But television is stepping along. Perhaps it will be developed along entirely new principles, doing away with heavy rotating parts, just as the tricky crystal was eliminated from the radio set. It is not yet out of its short trousers. But spanning continents and oceans with eye and ear at the same time is no longer a wild flight of fancy.

JUST a short time ago the perfection of a larger, more powerful photo-electric cell—the electrical eye of the apparatus — brought television from the darkened studio into the sunlight. Until then natural illumination was too weak, powerful spotlights or thin, blinding light rays moving rapidly over the scene had to be used. In a recent demonstration of the new cell, developed by the Bell Laboratories in New York, a man waving a tennis racket on the roof of a building was clearly visible in a receiver on the floor below.

With the supersensitive photo-electric cell the televisor camera is no longer limited to transmitting the image of a small scene placed directly before it. Some day you may be able to watch the cataract of Niagara from your easy chair.

Another newly invented electrical eye, the work of Professor Karolus in Germany, is capable of transmitting 80,000 electrical impulses a second, or double the speed now used in television apparatus. With this cell very rapid motion could be broadcast without distortion of the images, and at the receiving end the image would be three and a half inches square instead of only two.

Again, by a process similar to television, Dr. Frank Conrad, of the Westinghouse Electric Company, recently succeeded in broadcasting a complete motion picture, and incidentally succeeded in forming a very bright image. It shouldn't be long now before some enterprising tourist will have a movie of himself taken in Siam and sent by wireless to the home folks in Grand Rapids.

With such steady strides toward its realization constantly taking place, there can be little doubt that some day in some form television will be practical enough for any home. But that day, it must be admitted, seems a long way off in the future.

THE FAMILY PICNIC AT THE PIERIAN SPRINGS

THE scene is the small hall in the City Art Museum. It is hung with paintings by old masters, a majority of them rather somber in hue and theme. Included also are three or four Italian primitives. A controversy between various city factions has grown up over the price paid for the latest acquisition to this gallery, a dark, forbidding portrait of a Spanish gentleman, with scarcely a high light in the entire canvas. This is the picture—it has been reproduced in the newspapers—that attracts the attention of all. Opening immediately off this gallery is a small corridor, along the walls of which are plaster copies of familiar Greek originals—"The Winged Victory," etc.

A group enters, father, mother, a half-dozen children, ranging from 5 or 6 to 17 and 18. With the oldest girl are two friends who form a separate unity within the general mass.

"Here's that picture they paid $250,000 for," the oldest girl announces authoritatively, pausing before the canvas.

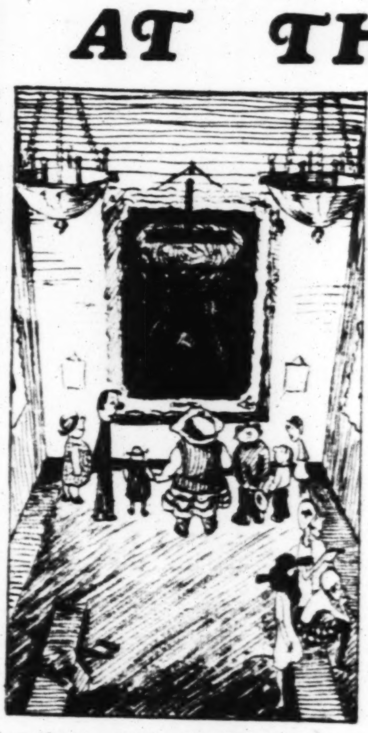
"You're crazy," young Fred challenges. "That wasn't $250,000. It was $2,500,000. I read it in the paper."

"Wasn't it $250,000, mamma? Two million dollars! Who'd ever pay two million dollars for a picture. You don't know how much money that is."

"Oh, you're crazy. The paper said it was a million dollars. How do you know how much a million dollars is? Wasn't it two million dollars, papa?"

"SHHH! Quit arguing all the time. They can hear you all over the whole museum." The head of the family studies he picture solemnly. "Whatever they paid for it, they paid too much. I think it was $250,000, though. But I'll go ask the guard." He departs in search of him.

"Gee, hasn't he got funny fingernails," Frieda, aged 11, comments. "So funny and long and skinny." She touches a corner of the canvas. "Just think of that being worth a million dollars."



"Frieda, don't you touch that," her older sister reproves. "Why, they'll be putting us out of here. Can't you do something about her, mamma?"

"It's so dark and kind of smoky all over," Fred says. "It reminds me of that 'Three Niggers in a Coalhole.' They sure saw them coming when they sold 'em that picture."

The mother speaks. "I think it's right pretty. We shouldn't talk that way about a picture that the city has gone and spent all that money for. Yes, I think it's . . . it's . . . right pretty."

"How do you pronounce that name under there, ma? El . . . G-r-e-c-o Greeko, I guess, huh? But, my gosh! look at that other name underneath it. He sure got all that was coming to him. Theata . . . coppu . . . less. I can't pronounce that. How do you pronounce it, ma?

"Let's see." She puts on her glasses and bends down over the name plate. "Theatta . . . atta . . . Why, I don't know. Ask your teacher tomorrow."

Father has returned, looking slightly cast down. "He says it only cost $22,500. But I think he's wrong. I'm sure I saw in the papers where the board of directors of the museum planked down $250,000 for it, and Joe Bush, over at the City Hall, he raised a big holler, but it didn't do him no good."

Little Johann, aged 5, has escaped into the corridor containing the statuary and his shouts are now heard. "Oh, mamma, look in here. He hasn't got any clothes on." There is frantic dash for Johann.

Mother is first to the goal. "Stop that. Stop pointing that way. I'll take you right out of here and take you home and put you to bed if you don't keep still and stay with me."

"But he hasn't got any clothes on, mamma." The oldest sister and her two friends are speechless and a little purple with laughter of a gasping, choking sort.

"Drag him out, drag him out," Fred comments laconically. "I wish I had a build like that bird, though."

They move on and pause before one of the primitives.

"For God's sake!" father exclaims. "Just imagine 'em spending good money on that thing. Why, Frieda does better than that in school."

All are consumed with contemptuous, pitying mirth.

"Look at the big stomach on th one, mamma. Isn't that crazy?"

"Her neck looks like a piece o wood. Nobody ever had a neck li that, did they, mamma?"

"What do they put that kind o painting in a museum for, pappa? like that big one out in that oth room—that one about the revoluti —but this one's punk."

Some obscure joke has set the th girls off into speechless laugh again. They hold onto each oth positively overcome.

THIS annoys father a lit "What in the world are you g laughing at now? You're li lot of silly school kids."

"Oh, they've gotta have their d joke," Fred says wisely.

"Fred," his mother admonish "Don't talk that way even in fun."

All finally struggle out of the g lery and the figures in the portra along the walls are heard to s wearily. There is a dim, unbro silence for about three minutes.

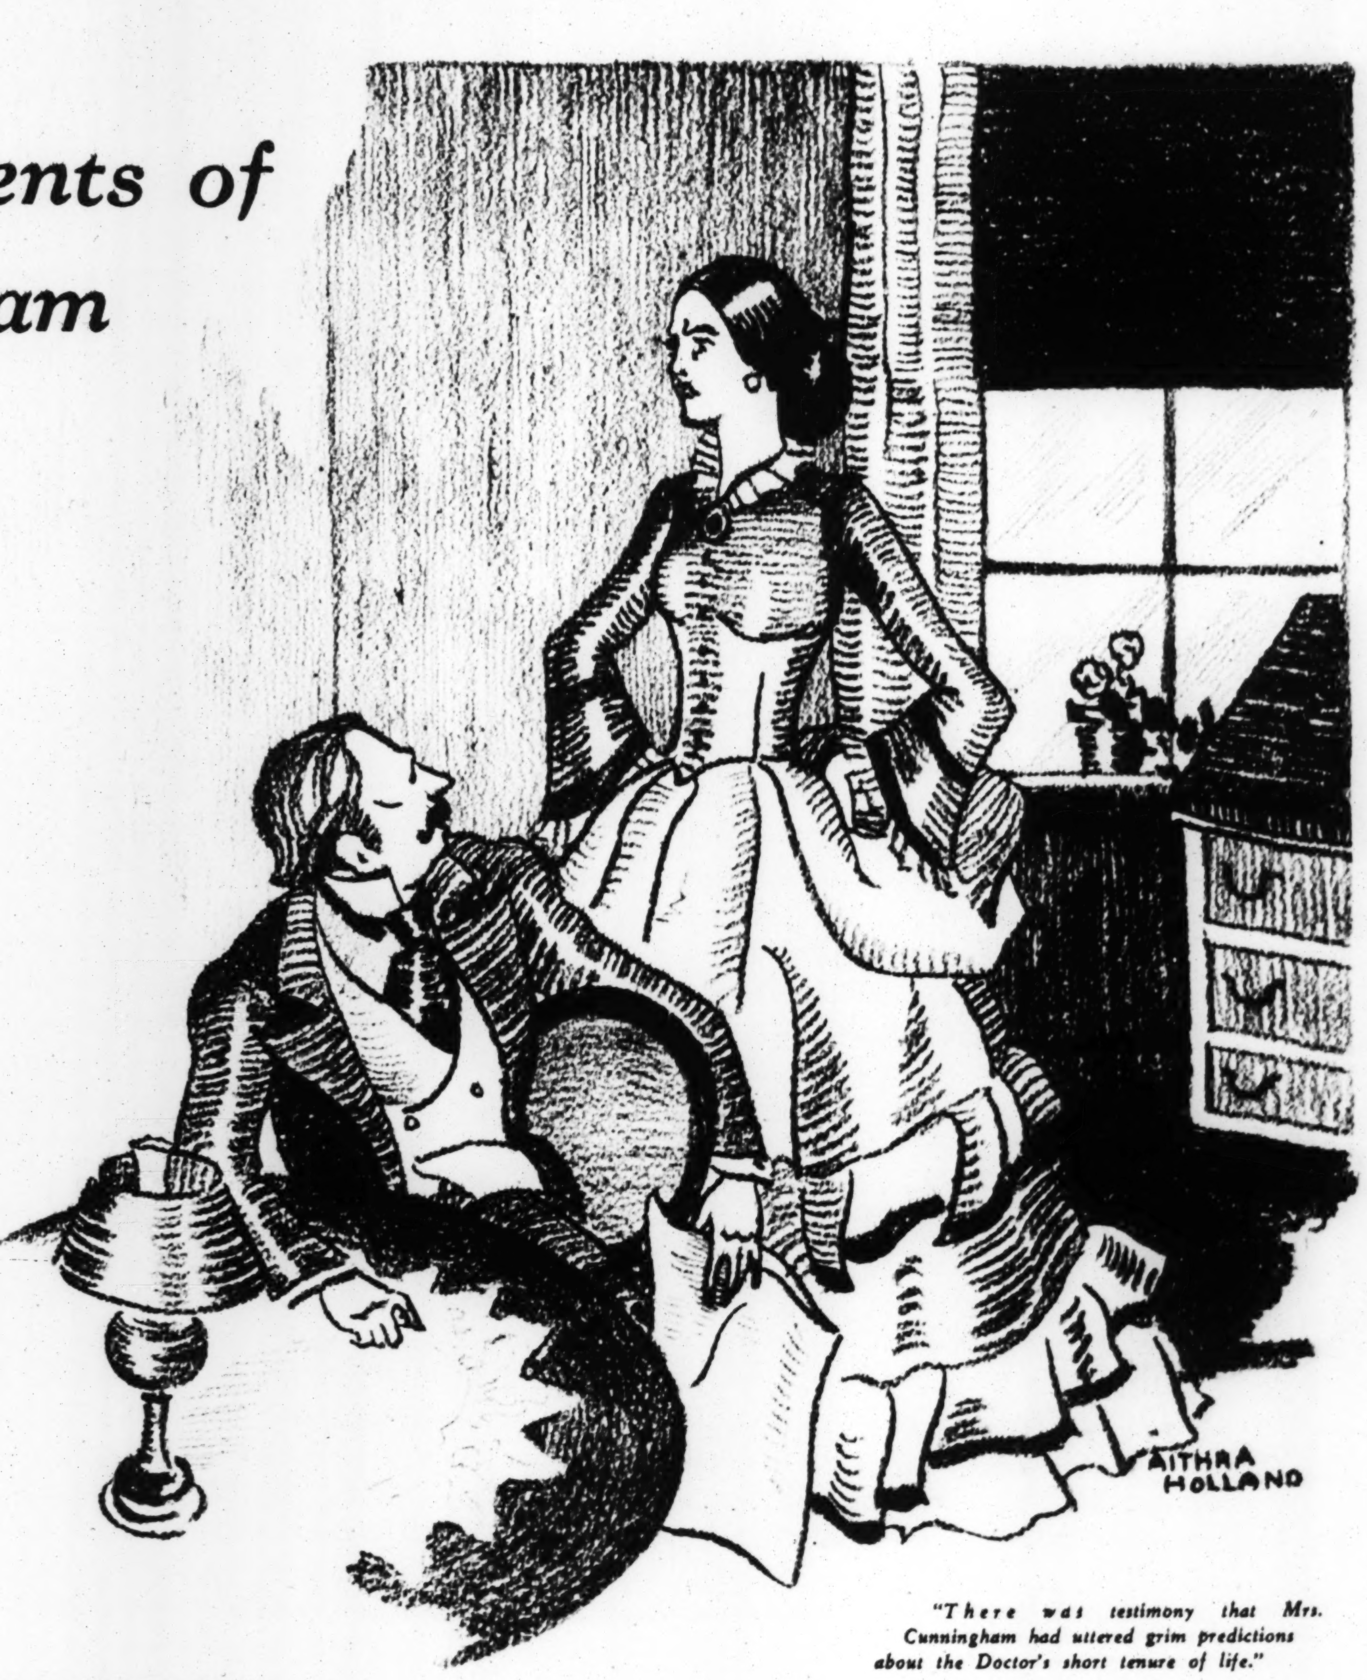
NUMBER 31 BOND STREET

OR

The Accomplishments of Mrs. Cunningham



"There was testimony that Mrs. Cunningham had uttered grim predictions about the Doctor's short tenure of life."

THIS is the seventh story in Mr. Pearson's series of famous murders.

By EDMUND PEARSON

BOND STREET, in New York, is one of the least engaging of streets. Huddled with trucks and drays, many of which make their headquarters here, it is strewn with rubbish and paper, and is dusty or muddy according to the weather. There are one or two garages reeking with gasoline and soiled with grease. A few dismal furriers and one or two frowsy shops for feathers and plumes add to the raggle-taggle effect. Here and there a building keeps in its upper stories some indication of the fact that this was once a quiet and fashionable street of dwelling houses.

A few years before the Civil War it had already lost some of its former distinction; boarding and lodging houses had crept in among the private residences. In the late winter and early spring of 1857, its inhabitants longed to flee away, and probably some of them did so. Crowds filled the street for days at a time; police were busy trying to drive back a dense mob who came to gaze at what had become the most unpleasantly famous house in America: Number 31 Bond Street. Not again for thirty years did New York furnish America and Europe with another mystery so interesting, so minutely discussed, as the tragic death of Dr. Harvey Burdell.

This gentleman was a dentist; widely but not too favorably known in New York. The house was his property and his home. When his office boy, coming early in the morning of the last day of January, found the office liberally spattered with blood, and the Doctor, like Banquo, with twenty trenched gashes on his head—more or less—his heart pierced and his carotid artery severed, the boy very naturally began to scream and shout, and to call the other people in the house in order to break the news.

Doctor Burdell, who was about forty-six years old, had engaged in a number of law suits and other more informal quarrels with both men and women. He was supposed to be a bachelor; he was undoubtedly a man of property. He like few persons and few cared for him. His voice, it was said, was deep and hoarse, like the croakings of a bullfrog. Never had he been known to keep any pets, except for certain guinea pigs—and the possession of these by a scientific man does not imply any unusual qualities of warm-heartedness. At one time, he had a more curious possession than the guinea pigs; a girl servant named Biddy, who spoke English, French, German, and Spanish, and slept sitting up on a stool in the kitchen, because her master was too penurious to furnish her with a bed. She died a year before the murder, and if it were not for the fact that anybody and anything were possible at 31 Bond street, I should suspect her to have been invented by the author who describes her.

MANY stories were current about Doctor Burdell's difficulties with this one and that, but none of his enemies was supposed to be ready to carry animosity to the point represented by the condition of the Doctor's study on this morning.

The other persons in the house became of the utmost interest to the police and everyone else. It was to be inquired what they knew of a murder which left trails of blood upstairs and down, and could hardly have been carried on without shouts and screams, thuds and blows, thumpings and bangings, and all the turmoil of a wild, long-drawn-out, and desperate fight. There had been a storm outside, but public amazement was great when the other folk at 31 Bond street—and there were ten of them—said they had heard nothing at all!

They were a strange group, the inmates of Doctor Burdell's house. Menageries used to exhibit what they ironically called a "Happy Family"—a cage in which dwelled together an armadillo, a serpent, a small pig, a duck and a comatose monkey. There was almost as much variety, and fully as much happiness with them as in the family on Bond street. First in importance and interest was Mrs. Emma Cunningham, "supposed to be a widow." More than one of these folk was "supposed" to be something or other in regard to marital condition, but it took long and painful investigation to discover whether this condition should be set down as single, wedded, or simple moral turpitude. Mrs. Cunningham was a rather attractive woman in the late thirties; there had certainly been a Mr. Cunningham; and there were four minor Cunninghams: two daughters, sixteen and eighteen, and two sons, nine and ten. Ostensibly, her position in the household was a tenant of the Doctor and keeper of a boarding house for the other residents.

The boarders were, first, a lawyer, the Hon. Daniel Ullman, recently defeated for the Governorship. He seems to have been absolutely unconnected with the murder, or with any suspicions of being involved in it. Next, and by no means unsuspected, came a mysterious and heavily bearded person named John J. Eckel, a minor politician, who carried his fondness for canary birds to the verge of intemperance; he kept seventeen of them. Mixing the seeds for the canaries was a daily ceremony of some importance. A third boarder, a young man of nineteen—much derided for his taste for poetry—was unfortunately named George V. Snodgrass.

THERE were, moreover, two maid-servants. Not one of these had heard a sound while the burly dentist had unsuccessfully fought for his life the night before. A few of them, including Mrs. Cunningham, were calmly at breakfast, and Mr. Snodgrass was playing the banjo, when the office boy raised the cry of murder, and informed them that somebody had broken in and treated Doctor Burdell with the utmost brutality.

Mrs. Cunningham instantly emitted a wail of distress. She had not meant to announce it so soon, but now the truth must come out: the poor, dear Doctor was her husband, and she—harrow and alas!—was once more a widow! Police, neighbors, almost everyone was much astonished at the news. Why Doctor Burdell should have married Mrs. Cunningham — unless better to carry on his incessant quarrels with her—nobody could say. He had accused her of stealing his property and she had made unpleasant counter-charges against him. So far as the quarters in the house were arranged, Mr. Eckel seemed to come nearer to sharing the lady's bed and board than any one else, although at the time of the murder, at all events, Mrs. Cunningham's room was very completely occupied by herself and her two daughters. As proof of her marriage to the late Doctor—at whose ghastly form policemen, physicians, reporters, and a coroner's jury were now gazing — the saddened widow brought forward a marriage certificate; the testimony of her daughter, Augusta, the only witness; while she called upon the clergyman, who had read the service, to say if she spake not the truth.

New York turned with eagerness to hear what would be said by the Rev. Dr. Uriah Marvine, of the Dutch Reformed Church on Bleecker street. Doctor Marvine could identify positively only Miss Augusta Cunningham. She had come to his house the previous October, with an older woman who might be Mrs. Cunningham—the clergyman was not certain—and this older woman he had then and there married to a man who called himself Doctor Burdell. Looking upon the body of the murdered man, with a hectoring Coroner shouting in his ear, Doctor Marvine really refused to say whether the living bridegroom of October and the shockingly mangled dentist of February were one and the same, or not.

Here was a fine mystery, and New York came to the conclusion that there had been a fraudulent marriage, with Mr. Eckel, or someone, impersonating Doctor Burdell. There was testimony to the effect that Mrs. Cunningham had uttered grim predictions about the Doctor's short tenure of life on the very day of the murder. Moreover, she was said to be left-handed, and the wounds seemed to have been inflicted by a left-handed person. Mrs. Cunningham, with Messrs. Eckel and Snodgrass, was arrested and taken to the Tombs. There followed a long and rather ridiculous inquest, in which about a hundred witnesses were examined. It lasted for thirteen days, and occupied proportionately as much space in the newspapers as the most notorious case of our times. The names of the inhabitants of 31 Bond street became, throughout the English-speaking world, familiar in the mouth as household words.

By Mrs. Cunningham's account, her courtship by Doctor Burdell was marked by many tender and romantic incidents. He had a judgment against his brother, William, and this he assigned to the lady of his heart. A short while afterward he asked her for a note for the amount of the judgment, at twelve months from date. She gave it to him, but in September he accused her of stealing it back again. She told him she knew nothing about it. At the same time, she chided him with not having fulfilled his promise to marry her and also accused him of bringing "females into the house for improper purposes." After this display of affection on both sides, they naturally decided to get married, which they did on October 28th.

Mary Donohue, serving maid at 31 Bond street, was asked by the Coroner if she ever heard any threat uttered by Mrs. Cunningham against the Doctor. She answered doubtfully that she never heard any threat, although Mrs. Cunningham did say that it was time Doctor Burdell was out of the world, because he was not fit to live in it. Miss Augusta Cunningham, the servant added, seemed to endorse her mother's opinion; at least, she remarked that the Doctor was "a bad man."

It further appeared that the dentist had not been boarding at home for a number of months. He took his meals at the Metropolitan Hotel, and there, between five and six in the afternoon, he ate his dinner on the last day of his life.

AN AMUSING description of this dinner, or at least the scene of it, may be read in Alfred Henry Lewis's story of the murder. For the sake of greater picturesqueness, Mr. Lewis imagines the restaurant filled with nearly all the literary men of America—except for the Southern writers and some of the New England group. Walt Whitman, Herman Melville, and a great number of lesser figures, such as Bayard Taylor, Stedman, N. P. Willis, and Fitz-James O'Brien, are all there at the same time.

Three police officers described the controversy between the affianced lovers over the note. They had been called in, to act perhaps as seconds, and see fair play. When Doctor Burdell accused his fiancee of stealing the note, she said that "she was his wife by every tie that could be," and to remove any doubts that might be troubling the officers, raised her hand and dealt him a violent blow. And she added that he had deeply wronged her.

Doctor Burdell then told Officer Davis that while he—the doctor—was asleep, Mrs. Cunningham had taken the key of his safe from his trousers pocket and stolen the note. Thereupon, Mrs. Cunningham, "in a tremendous rage," rushed in upon them, told them not to credit a word of the doctor's, who had ruined her and her family. She added, further, that "she would have his heart's blood, or something to that effect." (The last phrase, "something to that effect," I take to be the words of Officer Davis, not of Mrs. Cunningham.) The policemen, with a nice sense of their duty, assured both persons that they could do nothing in the matter; it did not become them, as officers of the law, to assist anybody in procuring a dentist's heart's blood. In the meantime, and pending the satisfaction of her sanguinary aspirations, Mrs. Cunningham brought two suits in the Supreme Court against Doctor Burdell, one for breach of promise of marriage, and another for slander. The doctor was arrested, but was released on giving bail for $6000.

A colleague, named Doctor Roberts, testified that in October Burdell had informed him that between himself and Mrs. Cunningham there was now eternal peace and amity. This was strengthened by a paper found in the dead man's office in which it was stated that, in consideration of the withdrawal of the suits, he agreed as follows:

1. I extend to herself and family my friendship through life.
2. I agree never to do or act in any manner to the disadvantage of Mrs. Emma A. Cunningham.

Six days after he was released from arrest, by the withdrawal of the suits, the alleged marriage service was performed. Yet a Mr. Blaisdell testified that on the day of the murder, Doctor Burdell had said he was not married, and would not even marry that celebrated lady with whom so many men have absolutely declined to wed: "the best woman living."

Reverend D. Cox put in his testimony to the effect that, on that same day, he heard the dentist declaiming against marriage, and denouncing women as "so artful." An old patient of the doctor, one Cyrenious Stephens, heard from Burdell, not long before the murder, that he had been pursued in vain by Mrs. Cunningham, bent on marriage. But, he added:

"I WOULD not have her to save all my money and my life."

Further to cast doubt upon the marriage, one Allen Smith testified that, in his belief, Doctor Burdell was in Saratoga on the day of the supposed wedding.

Murder seemed to brood about the house; Miss Mary Crane, an old friend, had been told by the doctor a week before his death "that he had let his house to a lady and that she was the most horrible woman he ever met." He said he suspected "foul play"; he did not like the way "they" were "prowling about" at night, but, thank heaven! he would get rid of them all on May 1!

The two daughters and the two little sons of Mrs. Cunningham were all examined at the inquest. Each was questioned separately, and nothing was said by any one of them to connect any person in the house with the murder. The daughters had slept with their mother all night; they went to bed together between 10 and 11 (the elder daughter was departing next day for school in Saratoga), they heard nothing unusual, and they all got up next morning at the customary time.

At last, there appeared a man named John Farrell, who seemed to have occupied a very advantageous position from which to report upon the murder. On the evening of the crime he had been sitting on the front steps of the house, repairing a broken shoelace. Two men came down the street. One of them walked by, but the other—who wore a shawl, as Doctor Burdell was accustomed to do—went into the house. Soon, there came from within the cry of "Murder!" followed by a sound as of somebody choking. Mr. Farrell went on with the repair of his shoelace, however, and then, apparently, he continued to sit, admire the view, and reflect upon the strangeness of human existence, of life and its many little problems. Finally, a bearded man, whom Farrell now said looked much like the prisoner Eckel, put his head out the door and told him to go away. The bearded man was in his shirt-sleeves, the accepted costume for middle-class murders involving rough work, in the 1850's. After this, there was some confusing and contradictory evidence about the purchase of a sword-cane by Mrs. Cunningham.

That lady's counsel, Mr. Clinton, protested vigorously at the proceedings of the inquest, but it was not unexpected when a verdict was found against all three of the suspected persons. They were held for trial later in the spring.

In the meantime, the question of the alleged marriage in October was threshed out, by desire of Mr. Clinton. A fraudulent marriage, with Mr. Eckel, or any one else, impersonating Doctor Burdell, made the charge of murder seem much blacker. Proceedings were held in the Surrogate's Court, praying for letters of administration for Mrs. Cunningham-Burdell, as she called herself, as the lawful widow of Doctor Burdell. At this hearing, the Reverend Doctor Marvine appeared once more, and gave strong testimony that, upon careful consideration, further views of Mrs. Cunningham, and allowances for the appearance of the corpse of the murdered man, he was now assured in his own mind that her claim was truthful, and that he had indeed married them as she alleged. The clergyman was cross-examined in behalf of the Burdell heirs, by Samuel J. Tilden, but seems not to have been shaken.

Although the proceedings ended, and the Surrogate reserved his decision, it may be that this incident turned public opinion into channels somewhat less hostile to Mrs. Cunningham. Her trial for murder came on in May; the trial of Mr. Eckel, an accessory, awaiting its outcome. Mr. Snodgrass had been released from custody. Farrell was not called by the prosecution; apparently, he was merely one of the large number of persons who thirsted for glory, and longed to connect himself, in one way or another, with the celebrated case. Some of these strange beings made claim to the leading role of murderer and attracted much attention, both before and after the Cunningham trial.

The District Attorney, A. Oakley Hall (false prophet in the Webster case, and afterward somewhat celebrated as Mayor), led forth, in his address to the jury, a platoon of attractive female sinners, beginning with Messalina, and ending with the prisoner at the bar. If a flock of tanagers had flown into Court they could hardly have brightened the proceedings more than the gallery of naughty women, whose hands, like their souls, he assured them, were of the most flaming scarlet. Mr. Clinton then painted the widow in sadder colors; and the Judge, in his charge, gave the jury a very fair idea of the case. And this was that the circumstances were both suspicious and puzzling, but that the State had not proved its contention. The trial had indeed been very different from the inquest; a great amount of ridiculous testimony, like that of Farrell, had been sifted out. Mrs. Cunningham's quarrels with the doctor remained in evidence, as did her threat to have his heart's blood.

BUT it was shown that Doctor Burdell quarreled with everybody and all the time; that he made violent and abusive statements about many persons, and often met them on friendly terms an hour later. Perhaps the jury believed the testimony, seemingly quite truthful, given by the prisoner's daughters, that they slept with their mother all night long, and heard nothing of the murder. At all events, the jury took only a few minutes to find Mrs. Cunningham "Not guilty."

It is instructive to note that, during the trial, when the sale of newspapers broke all records everywhere in America, the press of Philadelphia and Boston failed not to point out that the whole affair was but one more proof of the scandalous corruption of New York society. A newspaper in

The Countess von Treuberg Vamped One Man Too Many Born the Daughter of a Tailor, Her Conquests Were Vast and Unscrupulous, Her Lovers Many, But the Last But One Took Her Life.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

Countess Fischler von Treuberg.

BERLIN.

"PUSSY" UHL, despoiler of men, has met death at the hands of the last of her lovers. The tailor's daughter who became a Countess was found dead a few mornings ago in her luxuriously appointed Berlin apartment, beside the body of Lieutenant Edgar Deese, formerly of the German Air Force. The young aviator had forgiven her for wrecking his fortune and his future, but he could not forgive her faithlessness. He had shot her to death and killed himself.

The outcome, on the whole, probably was of financial benefit to a youthful pugilist of Berlin, for the Countess "Pussy" had indicated a tendency to divert her costly attentions from the aviator to the boxer, as a child might toss aside a half-dry orange for a fresh and juicy one. Many men had loved "Pussy," and none had found it inexpensive. She had been a flashing desolation through the courts of Europe for more seasons than she would have cared to count, but, despite her 53 years, she still retained her fatal gift to destroy men's scruples and their pocketbooks.

A pretty thing, was this daughter of the village tailor, some 30 years ago. There was a certain archness in her glance, a provocative twist to her smile, a piquant, self-belying look of little-girl naughtiness. Men wondered, and a few learned disastrously.

Not for long could one quiet little German village contain the lively talents of "Pussy" Uhl, no matter how those talents enlivened it. Soon she had departed in quest of other worlds to conquer, and in a few years her conquests were the talk of Berlin and Paris.

Her star was highest in those gay days of sowing the whirlwind just before the World War. Shrewd and pudgy German bankers, dissolute Russian Princes, sophisticates of the Hungarian nobility, cool of manner but flaming of temperament, all flung themselves headlong into the race to dissipate their fortunes in furtherance of her Sybaritic tastes.

PERHAPS the crowning triumph of the tinsel and crimson saga of "Pussy" was her marriage in London to Count Fischler von Treuberg. His name was sesame to the most exclusive circles of the German court; moreover, he was quite old. But, once the title was hers with their marriage, he spared her even a few years' wait; he divorced her like a gentleman.

Free again and a Countess, the tailor's daughter cut a wider swath than ever. As the notorious "Pussy" Uhl, she had been sought out at her own apartment by the highest in rank and renown of half-a-dozen nations, but as the no less notorious Countess von Treuberg she could enter homes where plain "Pussy" Uhl, however fascinating her appearance and her past, could not have "crashed" the servants' entrance.

Hearts and flowers, to say nothing of sables, jewels, Paris gowns, Persian rugs, seats at the opera, gold, reputations and villas in Monaco, were laid at her feet in redoubled plenty. The arch sparkle of her eyes had developed a hint of glitter, the little-girl naughtiness of her features had turned to frank sophistication, but the Couness von Treuberg at 35 was no less devastating to Paris, London and Berlin than was "Pussy" Uhl, the tailor's daughter, to her native village at 23.

She was as addicted to luxury as a parlor kitten; as prideful of personal adornment as a peacock. Men who thought they lived only to bask in her smile learned that actually they lived only under the frowns of their creditors; supporting her in the manner to which she was accustomed thrust more than one of them into unaccustomed penury. But "Pussy" was always helpful in those little exigencies, as the world learned in 1913 when her affairs came under legal inquiry.

Grave scandal, in the many glamorous, shameful years since she had set out from her German village, more than once had touched her name. That was inevitable, but it was no hindrance to her jewel strewn course. Rather it was an aid, for she had a plenitude of friends in high places to rescue her from the more serious difficulties, and the lighter ones only served to broadcast her lure; for danger, to most men no less than most women, seems to be a fascination in itself. But in 1913 a young officer whose life she had wrecked was so inconsiderate as to choose her apartment for the indiscretion of shooting himself.

The investigation that followed brought disclosures sufficient to give pause to even those mothlike young men determined to singe their wings as speedily and irreparably as possible. The witnesses included Count Gunther von Konigsmarck, Count Gohna and Princess Louise of Coburg, who said they had been defrauded of nearly $5,000,000 by the Countess "Pussy." Testimony showed not only that she impoverished her victims to gratify her insatiable love for luxurious baubles, but that when their own funds were exhausted she helpfully introduced them to money lenders.

The Countess von Treuberg was sent to prison, and no more was heard of her until after the war.

When the war was over, however, and the "inflation period" had set off another world spree so heady as to erase the memory of the one just before the war, the Countess got into action again. She began founding companies to operate gambling establishments at German seaside resorts. That, as her years drew on toward 50, seemed more in keeping with her remaining talents than would have been her old pursuits.

THE archness now was outright boldness, and the provocative smile, shorn of mitigating youth, was brazen, but still she was a woman of enormous personal attractiveness. So it was that young Lieutenant Deese, enthralled by her, put his entire fortune in her hands for one of her casino enterprises, and thereby lost his all.

Unaccountably, though his money was gone, she continued to accept his attentions in her Berlin flat. Perhaps old age was disposing her to soft-heartedness. But at the same time she retained enough of the ambition which characterized her youth to look around for new opportunities. The opportunity, in this case, seemed to be a young prizefighter, for a few weeks ago the aviator found them together when he made his evening call at her apartment.

The Lieutenant did his best to shoot her, but failed miserably and was carted off to jail. She refused to prosecute, as customary with her kind, whether Countesses or not. Police accepted his story that he drew his revolver in self-defense and, after several weeks, he was set free.

Immediately he sought out the Countess for a reconciliation. Possibly he had formed his plans then; possibly he was still under the spell of her quite mature charms. In any case, she received him again, but not without forebodings.

"Deese will shoot me yet, you will see," she told her maid one morning. "He has been fingering his revolver again."

But she let the maid go out and leave her alone with the brooding aviator. That night her premonition came true, and so died the Countess "Pussy" as she had lived.

John J. Eckel.

Richmond, Virginia, took a line which sounds more novel to us now: the Burdell murder could not have occurred, wrote this Virginian, except in a "free" society—that is, a community which did not enjoy the chastening influence of Negro slavery.

Back went Mrs. Cunningham to Bond street, and there—pending the Surrogate's decision—she might have remained had she not determined to clinch her hold upon the Burdell estate. She had already informed the matron of the Tombs that there was going to be a little Cunningham-Burdell in her home. The birth was expected sometime in July or August, and her physician, Doctor Uhl, was so informed. After one or two calls Doctor Uhl became convinced that the case had decided peculiarities. He reported the whole matter to the District Attorney. This official pointed out that a grave imposture was evidently in preparation, and that it was his duty to let the persons with guilty intent commit themselves fully.

DOCTOR UHL visited Mrs. Cunningham, who now confidentially admitted that the approaching accouchement would be immeasurably enhanced by the presence of a real infant. She therefore offered him $1000 for a baby and his services as impresario. The Doctor seemed to agree; he pointed out to his patient that there were in New York certain ladies known as "California widows"—their husbands being in pursuit of gold in that distant state. Occasionally these ladies became possessed of babies, and in these circumstances, one of them might be willing to part with the child for any reasonable offer—before her husband returned. This baby might become a Cunningham-Burdell, heir to a fortune. Mrs. Cunningham agreed with enthusiasm to so benevolent a suggestion.

The physician actually made his arrangement with Bellevue Hospital, where there was a newly born daughter of a poor woman, who was prevailed upon to lend her baby for a short time, in the interests of justice. The double comedy was carried out with the most careful attention to detail. Doctor Uhl arranged for a house in Elm street, to which the "California widow" and her baby were supposed to come; Mrs. Cunningham inspected the house and approved it. She, in the meantime, arranged the scenery at her own home. Doctor Uhl asked her when it would be convenient for her to become a mother, and, after deliberation, she selected August 3. On that day, she sent her messenger to Elm street, who brought the baby home in a basket. After that, the birth took place, and as a little tribute to Doctor Burdell, the room selected for it was his bedroom, in which his body had been laid out for burial. A nurse and a doctor were present. They were not in Doctor Uhl's secret, but were in Mrs. Cunningham's employ.

When detectives entered, as they did after a while, and proceeded to arrest everybody, including the baby, Mrs. Cunningham was much distressed, saying: "Don't touch my dear baby—this is the child of Harvey Burdell."

Unfortunately for her the child was easy to identify; it had been fantastically decorated—like marked money in a plot to catch a thief. It was touched with lunar caustic—which would become visible next day.

With great inhumanity, the police insited upon making Mrs. Cunningham arise from her maternal couch. They led her back to the Tombs, for it seems that the production of a bogus baby, for purposes of inheritance, is disapproved by the statutes. This adventure was too much for her lawyer, Mr. Clinton, who would have nothing more to do with her. He maintained to the day of his death unshaken confidence in her innocence of the murder, and in the validity of the marriage to Doctor Burdell. The evidence for the marriage, however, did not convince the Surrogate; the last exploit had affected him unfavorably. The spurious baby, by the way, for some time earned a very good salary—for one so young—from Mr. P. T. Barnum.

Mrs. Cunningham, by some technicality or omission, finally escaped all punishment and is said at last to have attained a fortune in grape culture in California. She seems to have returned to New York in the early eighties, at all events, and was sometimes recognized on the streets by policemen, who did not share Mr. Clinton's faith in her innocence of the murder. Mr. Eckel did not profit by his months in prison, nor even by the refining influence of his 17 canaries; he perpetrated an election fraud and died in jail in Albany.

The question of Mrs. Cunningham's guilt is certainly puzzling; I find it hard to believe she would have murdered the doctor on the day she threatened his life. Yet she showed stupidity when she attempted to bribe Doctor Uhl.

IF SHE were guilty, the rest of the household seem to have been well coached to tell a convincing story under cross-examination. Light chat about the pleasure everybody would take in assassinating Doctor Burdell seems to have formed part of the table talk at Mrs. Cunningham's breakfasts and dinners. It was in evidence that Mr. Eckel rubbed his hands one morning, before attacking his buckwheat cakes, and remarked genially that he wouldn't mind helping to string the doctor up. The dentist must have been an irritating person to provoke such a desire in one whose hands were daily employed in the gentle task of mixing quarts of bird seed.

NEXT week's tale, the concluding one of the series, will be "Three Footnotes to De Quincey; or, Cream, Crippen and Smith."

CLOTHES IDEAS FROM ABROAD

By Mae Martin

LAST FALL, when I was in France, I admired the dress which the daughter of our hostess was wearing, and she confessed it was three years old, originally rose-beige, now dyed a rich, deep shade of red!

The French are eternally surprising you with thrifty little tricks like that—tricks which it pays to imitate.

Most of us have dresses, which, if allowed to remain their original color, are discarded or seldom worn. Redyed, they become favorites again.

Just get a package or two of true, fadeless Diamond Dyes, and try your hand at tinting or dyeing. You'll be amazed to see how easy it is to use Diamond Dyes, and you'll be delighted by the results. Diamond Dyes never disappoint you. The "know-how" is in the dyes. They are real dyes, like those used when the cloth was made. They never give things that redyed look or take the life out of cloth like make-shift, inferior dyes. Crisp, bright new colors appear like magic, right over the old, faded ones. Simple directions in each package of Diamond Dyes enable you to secure more than sixty tints and shades with them, including everything that's fashionable this season. Sales of over twenty million packages a year show how women depend on them.

FREE Mail the coupon and I'll send you my big book of dollar-saving ideas, fully illustrated in colors.

What Goes On In a Thimbleful of Wate

New Exhibits at American Museum of Natural History Show Plants and Animals Magnified a Million Times.

A water plant that traps and devours miscroscopic animals.

NEW YORK.

MOST of us are so fastidious that we are inclined to get upset when we find a speck of dirt or other foreign substance in a glass of drinking water.

How many of us realize that even in a thimbleful of water from the bottom of a pond there are thousands and thousands of minute living plants and animals?

The answer is, "Not many."

It explains, for one thing, why the directors of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, are congratulating themselves on the recently opened exhibits which depict, now for the first time, the myriads of organic life in a cubic half-inch of water.

Thanks to the microscope and the patient study of experts in marine life, visitors to the New York museum may see what until recently was visible only to the highly trained scientist. Through reproductions in glass and colored wax, a whole new world opens up, a world as real and vivid as the stars brought into closer human comprehension by the telescope.

WHEREAS the stars have been objects of human curiosity ever since the birth of mankind, it is only within the last three centuries that rotifers have become known. So utterly minute are they that it took mankind at least 10,000 years to discover them, and even now a knowledge of their existence is not common.

Authorities at the American Museum attribute credit for discovering rotifer life to the Dutch scientist Leeuwenhoek. He is said to have discovered the secrets of these minute specimens while examining a tiny drop of pond water through the microscope and made his discovery known through published letters to the Royal Society of London, between 1673 and 1723.

The newly opened group in the American Museum is so constructed as to represent a huge magnifying glass, through which the observer gazes into a jungle of water plants peopled by hundreds of tiny animal forms.

In their natural size the plants would cross and recross an area about the size of one's thumbnail. In the exhibit they are so greatly enlarged that they appear to tower above the visitor's head, and their great size gives them a strange and unfamiliar appearance.

Writing about these new exhibits in the current issue of Natural History, official organ of the museum, Dr. Roy Waldo Miner, curator of marine life, responsible for the direction and installation of the exhibits, calls attention to the beauties of these minute animals and microscopic plants hitherto unknown to the vast majority of people.

After stopping long enough to pay tribute to the inventors of the microscope whose work, after all, is basically responsible for the extension of human knowledge in this field, Doctor Miner enters into a vivid description of marine life as depicted in the several exhibits recently installed.

While the exhibits comprise both vegetable and animal life, the term rotifers, by which they are known scientifically, is used only to identify the tiny animal creatures which swarm in the representative cubic half-inch of pond water, Dr. Miner explains. The typical rotifer is a somewhat top-shaped animal with a body tapering from a relatively large, often flattened head, to a more or less pointed foot, usually furnished with two pointed toes. The head, according to Doctor Miner (and most of us must take his word for it) has a crown of moving hairs by means of which the rotifer moves from one place to another.

So rapid is this movement, Doctor Miner explains, that some scientists have been led to the conclusion that here indeed was an illustration of a wheel in nature. This is interesting scientifically because the idea of a wheel has long been deemed a conception of man. But on closer inspection, Doctor Miner contends, the resemblance to a wheel proves only to be an optical illusion.

The moving crown of hair-like projections serves him in good stead in another capacity however, and this capacity is, to the rotifer at least, one of the most important. Even rotifers must eat. And the crown of hairs helps him bag his food. Unlike most animals with which we are familiar, the rotifer has a peculiar digestive tract.

Once inside the coronet of hairs, the more minute animals upon which the rotifer feeds pass into his mouth, from thence into a capacious pharynx and are there seized by a curious apparatus peculiar to the rotifer. This apparatus is known as the mastax and in reality is nothing more nor less than a set of jaws located in the tiny animal's throat.

Experts who study rotifers are very much interested in this organ, since it provides them with a means of identifying each particular family. One species of rotifer has a mastax comprised of a toothed forceps that tear the food apart. In another they act as a grinding mill, and, in still others, as a suction pump.

As might be expected, rotifers of different family groups have different methods of seizing upon their prey.

This depends to some extent on the type of mastax with which nature has provided them, according to Doctor Miner. Rotifers of the first sort, for instance, not infrequently prey upon animals as big or bigger than themselves.

One significant fact in the rotifer world appears to be that the female rotifer is more important than the male.

Male rotifers are essentially short-lived creatures and seemingly exist only to further the race of rotifers. Female rotifers by far outnumber the males and perhaps the brief life of the male is accounted for by the fac

What Will You Do When Your "Children Cry for It"

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of this soothing preparation. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and Baby is comfortable. A few moments, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. Yet this is a vegetable product; a remedy meant for youngsters. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for every-day ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless.

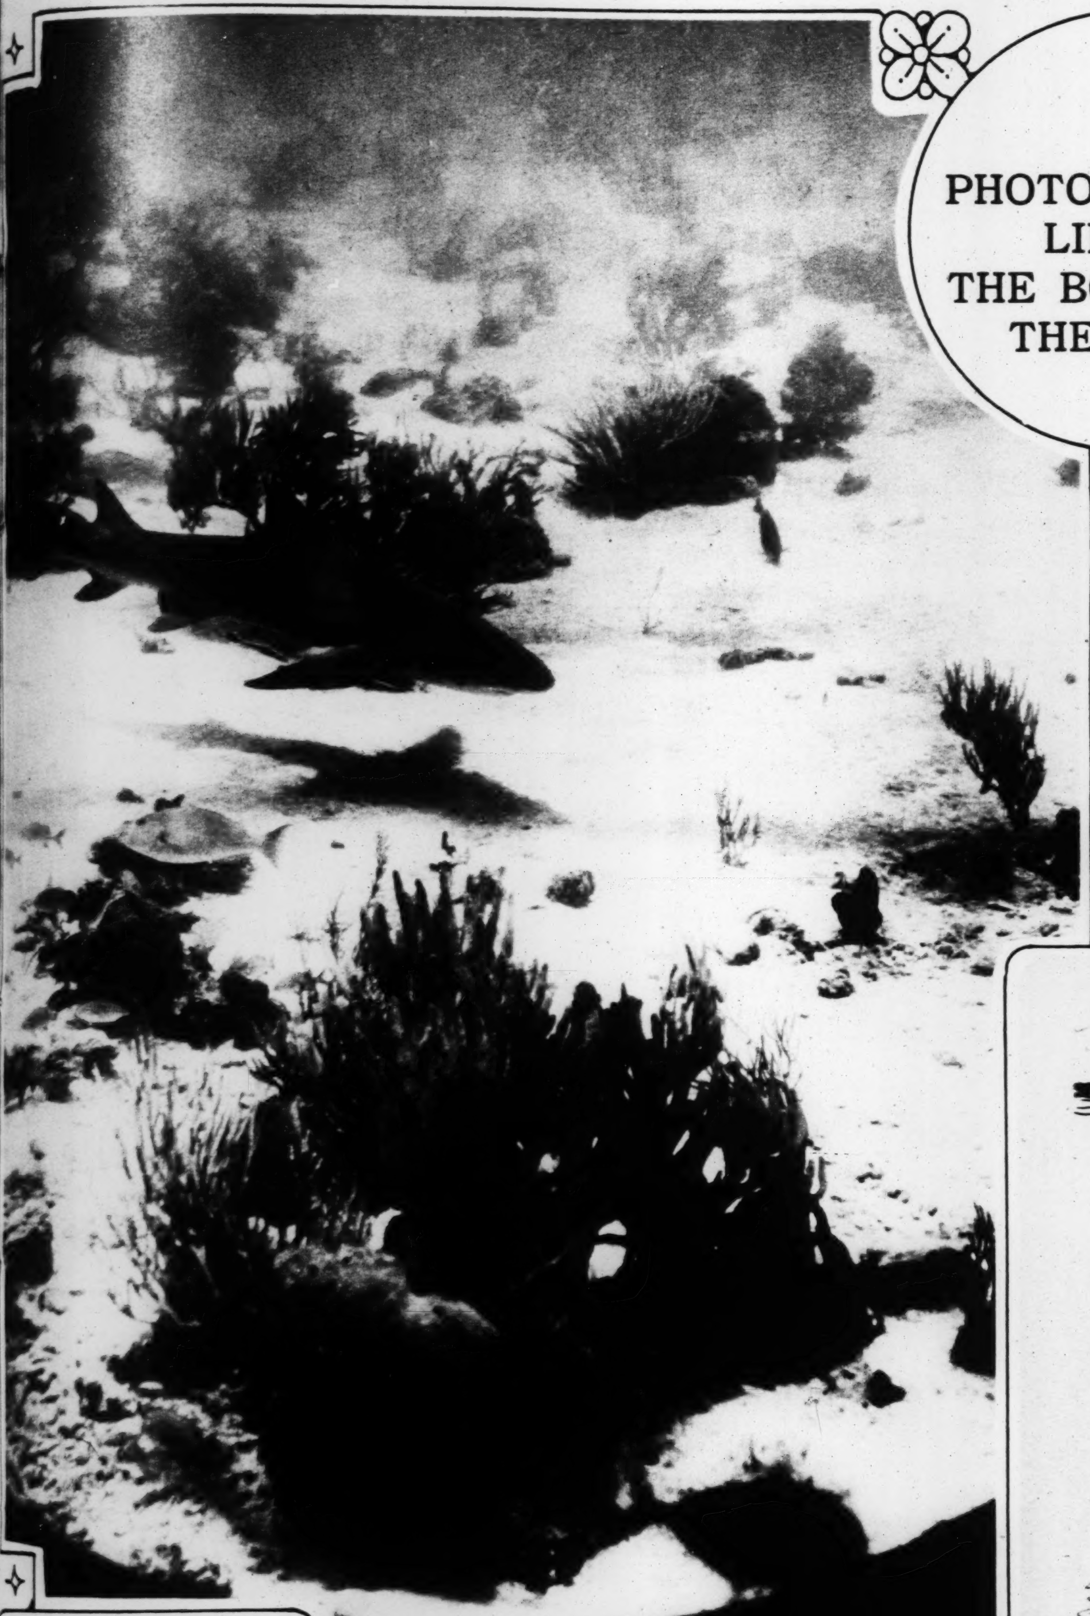
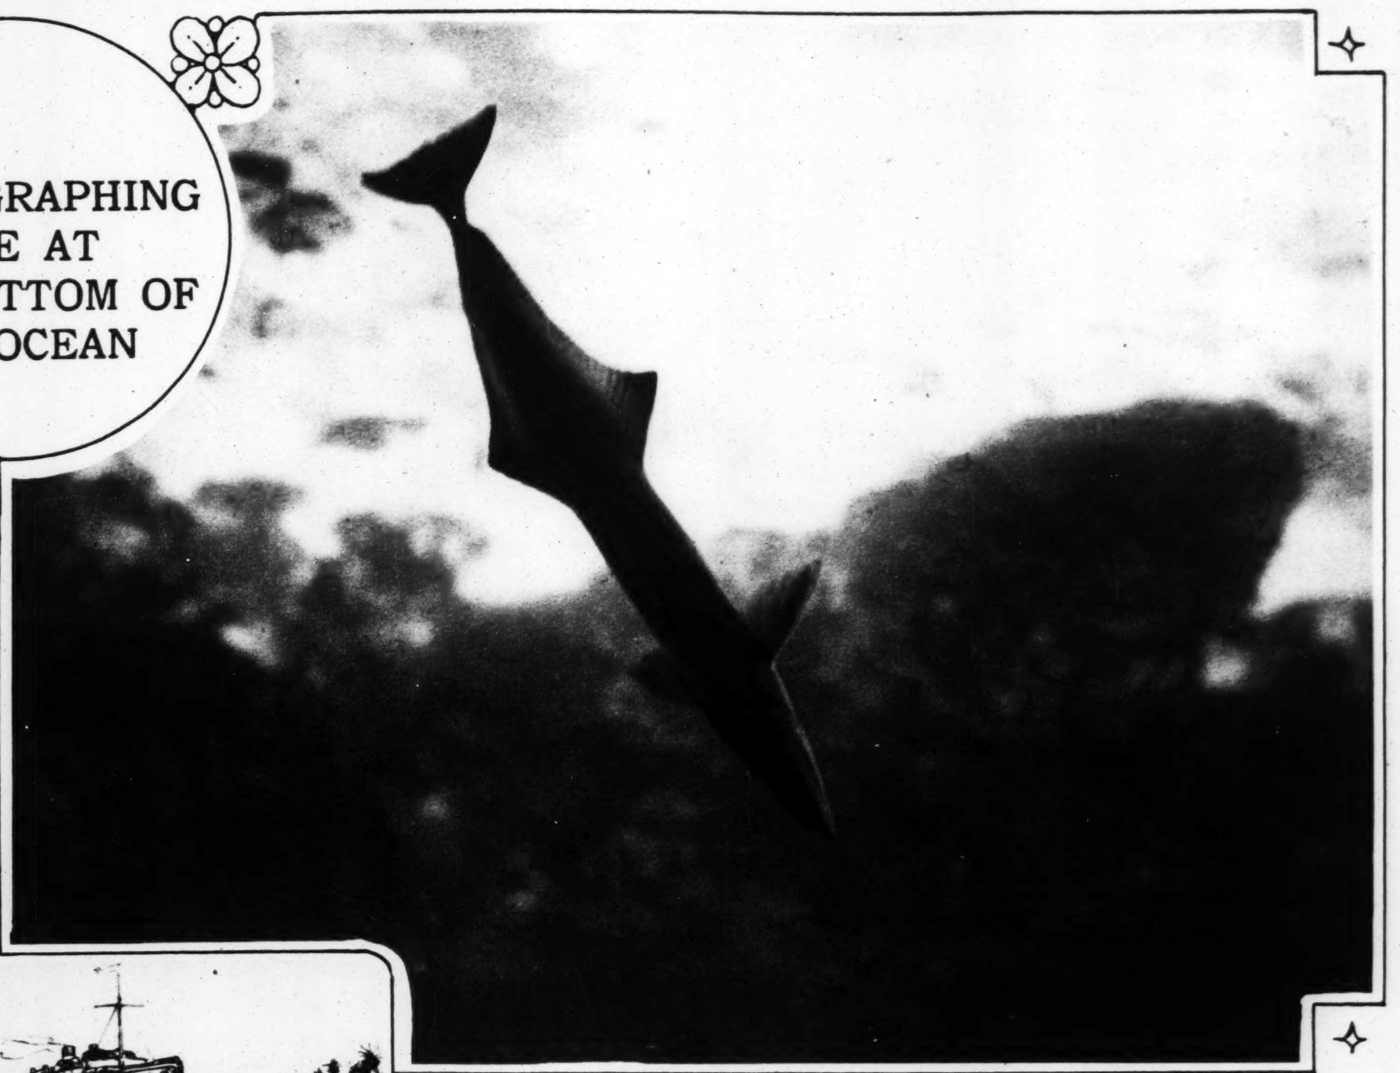
PHOTOGRAPHING LIFE AT THE BOTTOM OF THE OCEAN



The tiger of the deep. A huge shark photographed prowling around the undersea gardens of curious growth.



A parasite of the ocean. Known as the sucker fish, this lazy denizen of the water attaches himself to a shark and when that fish makes a kill he shares in the meal which follows.

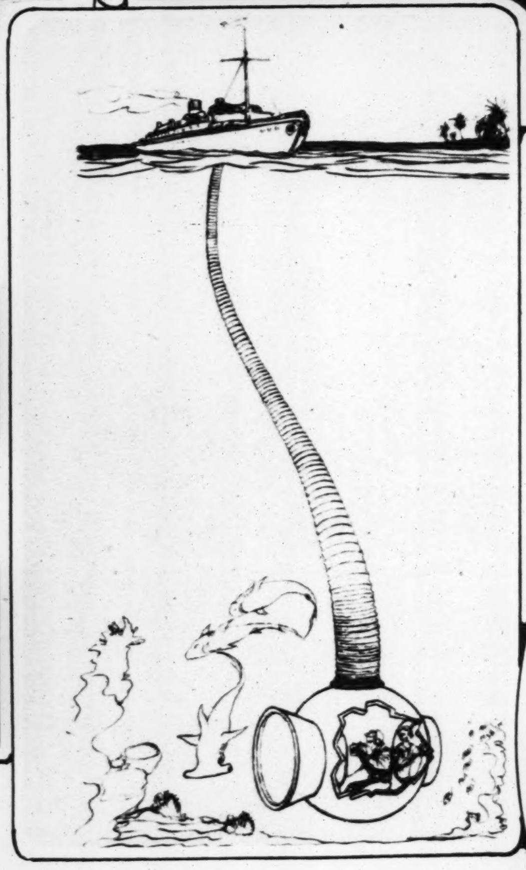


Diagram of the Williamson apparatus. The long tube, made of metal with flexible joints, ends in a large steel chamber with one great glass window. From the ship above powerful lights send their rays down the tube and out the window to illuminate the bottom of the ocean and make possible the taking of photographs.

Mrs. Williamson, in submarine apartment, watches the black and gold striped sergeant-majors frolic about on the other side of the glass window.

Probably the strangest honeymoon on record was that of J. E. Williamson, originator of undersea photography, and his bride, Miss Lilah Freelands of Hope, N. D., who recently returned to this country after spending several months making pictures in the waters around the Bermuda Islands. The diagram above shows the apparatus which made these photographs possible.

Fashion Demands the Lovely Ankle line

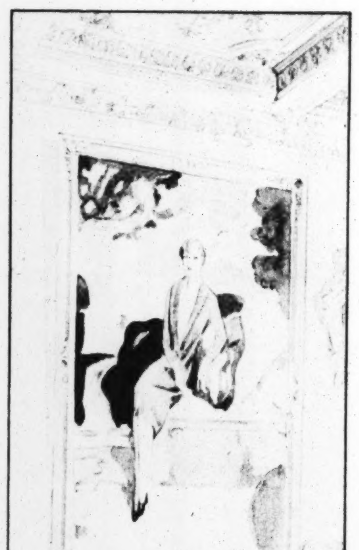
MRS. OGDEN H. HAMMOND'S GLOWING BEAUTY

creates new interest in the Smart International Set



This interesting interpretation of Mrs. Hammond's patrician blonde beauty and personal charm hangs in one of the salons of her home in Madrid.

MRS. OGDEN H. HAMMOND—whose glowing beauty and charm add grace to the smart international set—was born Margarita McClure, daughter of the late David McClure of the old New York family. Before joining the diplomatic set of Madrid, Mrs. Hammond's social activities centered around life in New York and Newport.

A picturesque Spanish renaissance doorway, typical of the romantic appeal of Madrid where Mrs. Hammond at present has her home.

THERE is perhaps no more distinguished or beautiful member of international society than our own Mrs. Ogden H. Hammond. Highly endowed by nature and background—she shares her husband's high diplomatic post with a graciousness and tact that have won her the affectionate title, "Ambassadress to Spain."

With bright fair hair, and skin as delicate as a pink lotus blossom—she is a perfect example of the true golden blonde. And of all the qualities that contribute to this perfection, she prizes most her lovely skin.

"A smooth, perfectly cared-for skin," she declares, "is one of the requisites which chic uncompromisingly demands. I believe tremendously in Pond's Creams. They are soothing, refreshing and more than superficially restorative.

"The Tissues, soft and yet firm, are perfect in texture. Just what one needs to remove the creams.

"The Skin Freshener is delicious! Fragrant and pleasant to use—its stimulating quality just right."

Daily use of Pond's four preparations—as follows, will bring fresh and enchanting beauty to your skin:—

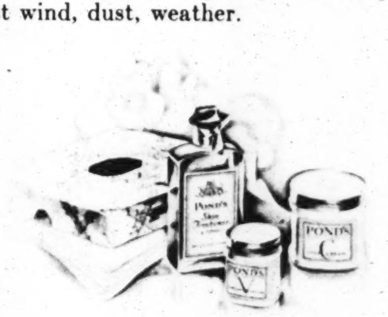
With Pond's Cold Cream cleanse your skin thoroughly twice a day and before retiring, patting the cream on generously.

Gently wipe away all dirt and cream with Pond's new Cleansing Tissues—ample, firm, absorbent. Repeat the treatment.

Follow each daytime cleansing with a dash of Pond's new and exhilarating Skin Freshener. It tones, firms, invigorates.

Last—Pond's Vanishing Cream before you powder—it imparts a pearly lustre, protects against wind, dust, weather.

In lovely jars of cool green glass, Mrs. Hammond keeps her Pond's preparations—Cold Cream, Skin Freshener, Vanishing Cream. For Mrs. Hammond, who believes in taking daily care of her skin, declares, "A naturally beautiful complexion can so easily lose its radiancy."



You can buy Pond's in these familiar containers at any drug or department store.

Beauty Authority Warns Against "WINTER SKIN"

From the first cool day of Fall until Spring is well established, every woman should guard rigidly against what I term 'winter skin,'" said a beauty culture authority recently, addressing a large group of women. "Winter skin," she explained, "is most unsightly—red, rough and cracked from chapping. Prevent it, by all means. Keep the skin of your hands, face and arms as smooth and soft in winter as it is naturally in summer. Aside from the actual discomfort of cracked lips or rough skin, there is nothing that so destroys one's good appearance."

With the use of Campana's Italian Balm you can follow this advice and escape winter-skin easily and inexpensively. Italian Balm is a skin-softener, originated by the internationally-famous Italian skin specialist, Dr. Campana. It combines for the first time, the most trustworthy and quick-acting skin healing and skin smoothing ingredients with certain valued, imported essential oils.

First introduced in Canada, Italian Balm has been Canada's favorite for years. It soothes, smooths and whitens the skin over night. Its quick-healing properties make it especially valuable for use on children's and infants' skins.

Generous bottle, 35c. Extra economy size, 60c. Every bottle carries the Good Housekeeping seal of approval. At drug and department stores. Free travel-size sample on request to anyone writing the Campana Corporation, 26 Lincoln Way, Batavia, Ill.

1928 Belles Are Not Fat

They end the excess in this easy way

Twenty years ago excess fat was common. Few people of 40 escaped it. Not so today. Slender figures are the rule. All ideas of style and beauty are opposed to fat.

This great change started when science discovered the chief cause of obesity. It lies in an under-active gland. A way was found to correct this deficiency, and multitudes employed it.

This factor was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for over 20 years—millions of boxes of them. That is one great reason for the slender figures you see everywhere today.

Marmola is not secret. Each box contains the formula and the reasons for results. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. Simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal.

Try this method if you over-weigh. Watch the new health and vigor which come when the excess fat departs. Then you will know why so many people, for many years, have urged friends to use Marmola. Go start at once.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Thousands never have clean teeth because their dentrifices try to "cure" and fail to clean

THE whole object of mouth care is cleanliness. You use a dentifrice on your tooth brush to cleanse more thoroughly and pleasantly than you can with the brush alone. Every practical claim that can be made for a dentifrice comes under the heading of cleaning. Clearly the best dentifrice is the one that cleans most effectively.

Colgate's is made as dentists recommend

"What kind of dentifrice would you like your patients to use?", we asked leading dentists. They answered, "A simple, non-medicated dentifrice that really cleans. Give us as much cleansing power as possible without harm to the teeth. Nothing protects and beautifies teeth like cleaning."

This cleansing foam keeps teeth glistening

When you brush with Colgate's you are really cleaning your teeth. Rapidly acting Colgate foam sweeps through your mouth—goes rushing, searching in and out and around teeth and gums—carrying away mucin deposits... polishing enamel glistening smooth . . . destroying acids that destroy teeth . . . sweetening all mouth surfaces.

Prove to yourself that Colgate's, the perfected dental cleanser, keeps teeth beautifully. Return the coupon for a trial tube.

A FACE OF TWENTY a throat of forty?

A YOUTHFUL face loses half its charm when the throat below it looks middle-aged. For no matter how fresh your color, how smooth your cheek, if tiny criss-cross lines have given your throat a crepe-like texture this tell-tale sign will age your entire appearance.

What folly it is to permit the crepy texture of your throat to belie the youthful loveliness of your face!

Dorothy Gray, through years of study, evolved a simple, scientific treatment which is remarkably successful both in preventing and correcting crêpy throats

You can readily follow these treatments in your own home, using the same method and preparations which have proved so tremendously successful in actual treatments in the Dorothy Gray salons in six cities. These authentic Dorothy Gray preparations are sold at leading shops of your city, while the simple, scientific Dorothy Gray method is clearly explained in a serviceable booklet which will be sent you on request.

The preparations used in the treatment for crêpy throat are:

Little Girl Gains 2 Pounds!

"I am writing you to show my thankfulness for Ovaltine. I am a little girl ten years old. One day my mother bought me a can of Ovaltine. I like the taste of it and drink it with my breakfast and before I go to bed. I have gained 2 pounds since I started to drink it and Ovaltine is the cause for I have a very small appetite. I like Ovaltine better than any drink I have ever tried."

The Most Delicious Food-Drink Known

Children drink it, not because they "must" but because they like to. A scientific food-concentrate — widely different in composition, flavor and result from the "chocolate" and "malt" drinks in this country—weight increases of 8 ounces to 1½ pounds weekly are commonly credited to this Swiss creation. "Nervousness" is often noticeably curbed in a few days.

It supplies highly concentrated food energy in itself. And—acts to digest the starches, from other foods the child eats, into strength and flesh. Thus results are often little short of amazing.

You give with milk as a hot beverage at meals; as a food-drink between meals; at bedtime to bring sound, health-building sleep. Soon you notice a change in weight, activity and b

What does your face reflect?

NOTE the faces of the men and women around you. Tired, worn, nervous! How few faces reflect perfect health.

Irregular meals—over-eating—bolting lunches—smoking excessively—these are a few everyday habits that leave the mark of irritability on tired faces—the indications of acid poisoning—so easy to correct.

Milnesia (milk of magnesia) Wafers Banish Acidity

Watch out for sick headache—indigestion—"sour stomach"—constipation—they are some of the warnings that acid poisoning is sapping your vitality!

Milnesia Wafers go right after acidity. Each pleasant tasting wafer you chew equals two teaspoons of milk of magnesia—giving you its acid-killing Alkalinity.

When you slowly chew these tasty wafers, your whole system, from gums and mouth to intestines, gets a gentle cleansing. That's important! Because gums and teeth, fertile sources of acid condition, share in the benefits of this chewing.

THE NEW WAY

THE OLD WAY

Milnesia Wafers Are a Family Remedy

Children who dislike liquid milk of magnesia are easily won over to these palatable wafers, which can be broken into halves or quarters for accurate dosage. In fact the whole family takes Milnesia as readily as a piece of candy. Keep a bottle of them handy—their daily use keeps you in shape to get the most out of life.

For a trial supply fill out the coupon and send to us with ten cents for a week's supply of Milnesia Wafers.

NEW REDUCING BEAUTY BATH

Scorns Diet and Exercise!

[Schlankheitsbad]

NO DIET
NO EXERCISE
GUARANTEED
HARMLESS

NOW the women and men of America may regain their slender figures! The famous Slim Figure Bath that is creating such a sensation abroad has been brought to this country by Herr LESSER, the discoverer. On the Continent, hundreds of thousands have lost their excess fat.

No Diet—No Exercise

You do not have to punish yourself by a starving diet. The mysterious action of LESSER takes place regardless of your diet. Exercise plays no part in the Slim Figure Bath. Live as you normally do. But you will find that the day following your night bath, you will experience a new thrill in living. Mentally and physically you will feel refreshed. German physicians pronounce it not only harmless, but actually beneficial. English doctors openly endorse it.

Not a Salt—But a Cosmetic Bath Powder

LESSER is new in principle—new in action—new in effect. By conserving the heat of the body and by encouraging the action of the whole inner system, it invigorates as it reduces. You can ascertain this reduction after each bath!

Nothing could be simpler or more pleasant. For 15 minutes you bathe in luxury. The delightfully fragrant water turns milky white and has the softness of cream. The bubbles released by the effervescing tablet indicate the chemical action taking place. It is the combination of this tablet and the powder that produces the results desired.

Among the first to enjoy loss of weight from this non-salt bath

Loses 4 lbs. after first bath

"I had been feeling very badly up to the time your method was recommended to me. After the first bath I lost 4 pounds and noticed a general improvement in circulation and energy. The second bath had the same effect, and my friends remarked the freshness of my appearance." Mr. S. C., The Sisson, Chicago.

A most delightful beauty bath

"After the very first Slim Figure Bath, I lost 3 pounds and the effect on the skin is so gratifying that I would almost use it for that alone. Now my weight is absolutely ideal." Mrs. G. S., 918 Tenth St., Wilmette, Ill.

Perfume lingers on body 24 hours

"My compliments for your invention. I lost 1⅛ pounds after the very first bath and 2 pounds after the second. My skin is like velvet. The perfume lasts 24 hours on my body, and I feel newly born. All my friends want to know where they can get it." Miss Gene K., Chicago.

Feels greatly refreshed afterward

"My bathroom scale showed 162 pounds before I took the bath. Just imagine my amazement to register only 159 pounds after the first bath! I felt greatly refreshed and alive after this bath. My skin felt softer and richer." Mrs. M. L. W., 5466 Cornell Ave., Chicago.

A Most Exquisite Beauty Bath

Thousands use LESSER for its beautifying qualities alone. Its dainty scent lingers on the body, giving a feeling of sweet cleanliness. As you dry yourself, you are thrilled with the suppleness, the youthful texture of your skin. It becomes velvety as a child's. Unsightly blemishes quickly disappear. Sallow skin is made clear and lovely. Slender women may use it once a week solely as a beauty bath without danger of reducing. LESSER works only on excess fat.

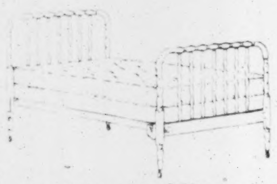
Beds of New Design chosen for the homes of three well-known women

Mrs. Charles R. Crane II
Miss Mabel Choate
Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey

Mrs. Charles R. Crane II

is a favorite member of Chicago's young married set. Interested in sports, she is a member of the exclusive Chicago Women's Athletic Club and a devotee of golf. Much of the year Mrs. Crane spends at the Crane estate on Lake Geneva, a paradise for her three sturdy little sons.



Detail drawing of Simmons Bed No. 1850

Guest Room in Mrs. Crane's Country House, Lake Geneva.

Old-fashioned wall paper, hooked rugs and twin Simmons "Spool" Beds Model No. 1850, finished in Colonial maple, make a charming room in the Early American tradition. Mrs. Crane says, "I have Simmons Beds in all the bedrooms of my Lake Geneva house. The 'Spool' beds are especially successful in a country house."

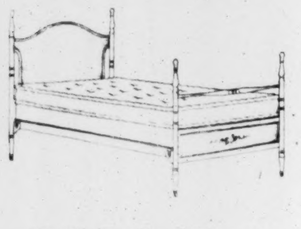
(At right) Bookcases, a charming desk, and occasional tables make this room in Miss Choate's New York home luxuriously livable. The furniture is old cherry and mahogany, and the Simmons Four Poster Bed No. 1025 is harmoniously finished in cherry maple to match. Miss Choate says: "I like this charming Simmons Bed in the authentic Early American style; it is in taste."



Detail drawing of Simmons Four Poster Bed No. 1025

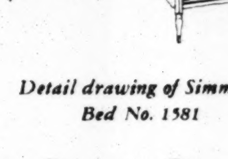
inherits the distinction and charm of her famous father, the late Joseph Choate, so long Ambassador to the Court of St. James. Widely traveled, a leader in social and philanthropic movements, Miss Choate's acquaintance includes most of the interesting people of our day.

A spacious bedroom in Miss Choate's New York home

The "Blue Room" in Mrs. Rumsey's Chat



Detail drawing of Simmons Bed No. 1581

Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey

born Mary Harriman, is the daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, the famous railway magnate. She is a great admirer of French architecture and has recently built on her Long Island estate an exquisite chateau which she has furnished with splendid old French furniture.

Above is the "Blue Room" in the Chateau. The walls are pale blue with bouffant taffeta curtains of a deeper blue. Doors and window trimmings are silver. Of the Simmons Beds, Model No. 1581, Mrs. Rumsey says, "They are modern in the French manner. The circular head-pieces are most appealing."

THE THREE CHARMING BEDROOMS shown here reflect the varied tastes and interesting personalities of the three well-known American women who have planned them.

The beds which are the center of the decorative scheme for the rooms are interesting new designs by Simmons.

Mrs. Charles R. Crane II has selected beds of quaint "Spool" design in keeping with the Early American treatment of this guest room in her Lake Geneva country house. Miss Mabel Choate has chosen another Simmons design in the American tradition for one of the spacious and livable rooms in her luxurious New York home. Mrs. Rumsey, who has just built a delightful French Château on Long Island, chose one of Simmons' interesting new models designed in the French manner. These charming models are but three of the wide variety of beds of fine design and authentic workmanship made by Simmons.

You will find a charming design for every type of room whether it is done in period, in the modern manner or with an interesting and harmonious combination of pieces. Made of metal these beds are enamelled in an attractive choice of smooth lustrous finishes either grained wood or chic new colors.

In furniture and department stores Simmons Beds are $10 to $60; No. 1850, $37.50; No. 1025, $35.00; No. 1581, $32.75. Simmons Beautyrest Mattress $39.50; Simmons Ace Spring $19.75. Look for the name "Simmons." The Simmons Company, New York, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco.
